BRITISH GOVERNMENT MARKS TIME OVER ULSTER TROUBLE

Controversy Over Deportation of African Labor Leaders Obscures for Now Home Rule Problem

London, Feb. 28.—Ulster is for the moment obscured by the controversy over the deportation of the South African labor leaders by the union Government. This, not so much because of questions regarding its legality, which will, it is understood, be tested both in the British and African courts but more on account of the belief that the affair will still separate the ministerial and labor parties. It has been apparent for some considerable time that the trades union and parliamentary leaders are losing their control of the mass of trade unionists and workers. These have shown increasing signs of taking their own course irrespective of the advice tendered to them. So strong has the pressure become that the leaders in and out of parliament have been compelled to appear to lead movements with which they are not wholly in sympathy.

Loss of Seats Due to Liberals.

Six seats have been lost to the government because of the intervention of Labor candidates. This has usually been the act of the local organization, both Liberal and Labor, and their determination to act independently. This local antagonism, generally throughout the country, is the main reason in the way of a satisfactory working arrangements and one difficulty to bet over.

More Embarrassment.

The South African trouble will certainly embarrass still further the relationship between the government and Labor party, whose demand for the veto of the act of indemnity, just passed by the South African Parliament, will be rejected. Gen. Botha has followed up his drastic action by introducing a measure conferring legal rights on the government little distinguishable from the extraordinary powers exercised under martial law. Logically, the Labor party should also refuse this bill, should it pass, also to be reserved for the pleasure of the imperial authoritities. There is no doubt, however, that South Africa will be left at liberty to work out its problem in its own way. Any attempt to fetter its responsible government would introduce questions of the deepest concern to the whole empire.

Mark Time Over Home Rule.

Over Home Rule the Government is just marking time, to the intense chagrin of everyone of the opposition, which expects to find in the premier's promised statement more material for improving its position. It is this effort to turn the Ulster situation into party capital which renders it almost impossible to effect a compromise. But for the internal troubles of the coalition the government would probably be strong enough to compel a compromise for, although seats have been lost, there is no evidence that the country has responded in any considerable degree to the Ulster appeal. Labor candidates and Liberal candidates have stood together on Home Rule, and the other leading features of the ministerialist policy. Where they differ is in the measure and tapacity of social and political reform.

ROSS VERY LOW

Ex-Premier Was Still Alive Late Last Night

Special to The Times.

Toronto, Mar. 1.—Sir George Ross, who suffered a relapse on Saturday, and who has been at the point of death ever since, was still alive late last night. His family was summoned to his bedside and are constantly with him, waiting for the end, which may come at any moment. His physicians hold out no hope for his recovery.

BECKER LOSES LEADING WITNESS

Sam Schepps Has Not Been Seen Since Decision of Court of Appeal.

New York, Feb. 28.—Doubt expressed by the lawyer for Sam Schepps that this important witness in the case against Charles Becker would be available at his second trial for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, caused a commotion to-day among those directly interested in Becker's case.

At noon to-day Bernard Sandler, attorney for Schepps, said that he had not seen his client since the recent decision by the court of appeals. He added that Schepps had promised to communicate with him immediately after the decision was handed down. The fact that he had not heard from Schepps made him believe that his client had "dusted," to use the lawyer's own expression, and that in all probability he was headed for South America.

THE CANADIAN NORTHERN LOAN

Is the Ottawa Government to Raise Money to Help Out the Situation

Ottawa, Feb. 28.—The Canadian Northern Railway's case for financial aid from parliament seems to have improved within the last few days. The Government is hearing from outside that the road must not be allowed to suspend completion of its line from Quebec to Vancouver, and the company say that not only is the completion of its line in sight some time this summer, but that, with the aid now asked, additional equipment will be secured, and that they will haul this coming season's crop to the two oceans. Sir Wm. Mackenzie has made it clear that what he asks is a loan, and that he will pay interest and principal, the latter quicker than some people predict. The C.P.R. paid its loan off some years ago in rapid fashion.

The Canadian Northern has never until lately, taken the public into its confidence. For instance, it is now said that the assistance got last year from the Borden Government was only when Sir William Mackenzie was asked: "What, if any, money has our company raised, independent of provincial or federal aid?" He got busy with his accountants and bankers, and he was able to show that, outside of land grants and public aid, he and the company had raised about one hundred and thirty millions of dollars, and put it into construction, in addition to the subsidies and guarantees. Already this session, he has been asked to say if it is true that any of the aid already voted the road by parliament or the legislatures had gone into outside propositions: Mexico, South America, etc. His published reply is: "Not a cent."

Construction Contracts.

Now, the Globe has properly asked him: "What, if any, profits have the Mackenzie-Mann Company made out of the construction contracts?" It is believed a statement in this respect will be given to the public shortly.

No decision can be expected from the Government for a month yet, though it is now believed that all the parties have been heard, including the protests of the Canadian Pacific. Sir Donald Mann and Sir William Mackenzie left for Toronto on Friday night. The session stands to be over May 1st.

THE WEATHER.

To-day—Mostly fair and cold.

FAKED "SUFFS" RAID ASQUITH'S HOUSE

American Motion Picture Company Arrange Natural Police Fight.

London, Feb. 28.—An enterprising attempt by a band of supposed militant suffragettes to raid Premier Asquith's official residence in Downing street to-day was frustrated by the police, who are always stationed in strong force in the vicinity.

Several automobiles, containing a dozen women, wearing the colors of the militant organization, dashed suddenly into the street from Whitehall and the occupants were about to start "hostilities" when the police surrounded them.

It transpired afterwards that "operations" had been promoted by an American moving picture concern which had hired a number of chorus girls to represent the militants.

MONTREAL GIRLS WILL NOT WORK NIGHTS

Lack of Police Protection Causes the Telephone Company Considerable Trouble.

Montreal, Feb. 28.—Proper police protection for girl operators in the districts where it has exchanges is a trouble that the Bell Telephone Co. is now being forced to add to its other worries. The first case in this district to be attended to has occurred in Outremont, where the company has plaining of this to the city council of found difficulty in getting operators for a new exchange owing to lack of light and police protection. For Outremont, the company says women have refused to work at night at the new exchange because they are afraid of being attacked on their way home.

PORTUGESE RAILWAY STRIKE SETTLED

Men are All Ordered to Return to Work After Several Days' Forced Rest.

Lisbon, Portugal, Feb. 28.—An announcement of the conclusion of the present revolutionary railway strike in Portugal was made to-day by the committee directing the movement. All the strikers have been ordered to return to work.

The action of the committee is regarded in official circles as certain to bring about tranquillity throughout the country where railroad, telephone and telegraphic communication has been interrupted for several days, in consequence of acts of violence by the strikers.

Cobourg's new $50,000 hospital was formally opened.

ROBBER BROKE HAMMER IN ASSAULT ON OWNER OF COAL YARD--DETECTIVES CAPTURE PLANNER OF BOLD THEFT

James McLennan Owner of Fuel Yard at Sackville Street and Eastern, Felled by Terrific Blow--Young Man Who Came Into Office to Give Order Unwittingly Warned Accomplice Away

Toronto, March 1.—With the arrest of Roland Hatch on Saturday afternoon by Detectives Mulholland and Elliott, the police have gathered in the perpetrator of one of the worst cases of murderous assault that have occurred in Toronto for some time. He is charged with assault and robbery with violence and admits the offence. James McLennan, proprietor of a fuel yard at Sackville street and Eastern avenue was the victim.

According to the man's own admission he and a companion, whose identity he refuses to disclose, deliberately planned to assault and rob the owner of the fuel yard.

The two men chose just before closing time Wednesday for the crime. They waited until the drivers had turned in the day's collections to McLennan in his office, and when the last of the drivers had gone for the day, Hatch entered the office and left his companion to keep watch outside.

Gave Bogus Order.

Hatch pretended he wanted fuel delivered the next morning to an address on Richmond street. As McLennan bent down to write the order Hatch drew a hammer which he had carried under his overcoat and struck the man so violent a blow over the head that it broke the handle of the hammer, the head of which flew against and made a dent in one of the walls. McLennan dropped to the floor insensible, but before Hatch had a chance to do anything further, a young man ran out of the office and shouted to the accomplice waiting outside that someone was murdering McLennan. The young man found a constable and the two returned to the scene to find McLennan lying on the floor unconscious, with the broken hammer, which was covered with blood, lying nearby. Hatch and his accomplice had disappeared, and owing to their crime having been discovered, had not stopped to take the several hundred dollars of the day's collections which McLennan had on him.

A doctor was summoned and the injured man removed to his home, 121 Sackville street, where he now lies in a very serious condition.

Hat Had Blood Stains.

When arrested on Saturday Hatch was wearing a hat with blood stains of the crime still on it. He admitted the offence, and, asked where he had obtained the hammer, said he had stolen it from the employment office at the Toronto Union Station.

He had been released from the Central Prison only last month, after serving a term of six months for robbery of a North Bay Hotel. He is 20 years of age and has been in this country from England less than one year.

THE LATE REV. MR. MANSELL

References Made to the Deceased Clergyman in Many Church Yesterday.

Yesterday morning Rev. Mr. Peever of the George street Methodist church, occupied the pulpit of the Charlotte street church in the morning, preaching an eloquent and impressive memorial sermon in connection with the demise of Rev. Mr. Mansell. Appropriate music was provided.

At St. Paul's, the sermon also took the form of a memorial character special prayers being offered for the family of the deceased clergyman and congregation to which he so ably ministered. In the other Protestant churches of the city reference was also made to the great loss which the city sustained by Mr. Mansell's death.

NEGRO WOMAN'S PRAYER FOR DEATH ANSWERED

Labgnoo, Mo., Feb. 28.—After praying for several days that she might die on her emancipator's birthday, Rachael Lansar, a negro woman, and former slave, died here last night at the age of 101 years. She said she had lived in Kentucky until emancipated, and that upon one occasion when Lincoln visited that State she darned his socks.

ANOTHER HONEYMOON FOR LILLIAN RUSSELL

Fair Lillian Sails With Her Latest Husband for Cruise to West Indies.

New York, Feb. 28.—"Our first real honeymoon," said Alexander Moore, husband of Lillian Russell, who sailed with the fair Lillian to-day for a cruise to the West Indies and Panama.

"It may be for you," replied Lillian "but not for me."

Miss Russell declared that she was looking forward to seeing Jamaica and other places in the West Indies. Strangely enough she said she had never spent a honeymoon in those placid climes.

Two detectives employed by the Dominion Alliance in Montreal were acquitted of a charge of attempting to extort money from cafe proprietors.

GIRL ATTACKED BY A NEGRO

Miss Catherine O'Connor Seized By Throat: Screams Frighten Assailant Away.

New Orleans, Feb. 28.—Miss Catherine O'Connor, 1304 Constance street, an employe of the Hippodrome Theater, was seized by the throat as she entered the dressing room of the theatre, but escaped unhurt when the negro frightened by her screams and the screams of her sister, Mamie, ran away.

The negro is said to be Edward Moncrife, who was employed at the theater until recently as a porter.

Moncrife is said to have secreted himself in the dressing room. As Miss O'Connor entered she was confronted by the negro. Her screams attracted the attention of her sister, who was a short distance away.

Miss Catharine was badly frightened but fought off the negro. With her sister she hurried from the rear of the theater to the sidewalk and informed the police.

Both young women are employed as housegirls at the theatre and arrive at the place early in the morning for the purpose of cleaning up. They latter searched the room, but nothing was missing.

Officers hurried to the theatre and made a search of the neighborhood but the negro could not be found. An affidavit charging him with assault and battery was preferred in the First City Criminal Court.

BOX WAS TAMPERED WITH; JUDGE SUSTAINS FIRST COUNT IN THE BRIDGEBURG POLL

Wet Majority in Welland Cut Down to Fourteen as Result --Conflicting Evidence at Hearing Before Judge

Welland, Feb. 28.—Judge Livingstone sustained the first count of Deputy Returning Officer Coulthurst at Bridgeburg in poll No. 2 to-day. The count was 20 for and 54 against the Scott Act, which according to the verdict of the judge, is the only count which can be taken, for the evidence given by many witnesses in this case was conflicting and showed that the ballots had been tampered with since the first count by the deputy returning officer. By this decision the wet majority is reduced to 34 votes in this poll, but there is still left a margin of 14 votes against the act in the county.

Coulthurst Did Not Testify.

Mr. Land, deputy returning officer, was called and gave evidence. Mr. Coulthurst, the deputy returning officer at Bridgeburg poll No. 2, was then called, but the objection of Mr. Haverson to his giving evidence was sustained by the court.

Mr. Raney then called Fred Thompson, Mrs. Burrows and W. Burrows, neighbours of Coulthurst, to give evidence as to having seen Coulthurst passing on his way home from the polling place. Mr. Campbell, outside scrutineer, was next called, and in reply to Mr. Haverson stated that the little girl of Coulthurst had brought two pencils to the poll which her father had taken inside. Mr. Pinner, questioned by Mr. Haverson, said that he had seen some man show a ballot to Mr. Malcom and this man had wanted to borrow a rubber.

Evidence Summed Up.

Mr. Raney, for the temperance interests, then summed up his evidence before the court, and was followed by Mr. Haverson for the liquor interests. In stating his case to the court, his honor said that he wished to be careful in making any comments one way or other, as he did not wish to know anything in anyway to prejudice the case of Mr. Coulthurst, who is now on trial. In considering the evidence as given by the different witnesses in the Bridgeburg case, his honor said he regarded the official count of 12 for and 63 against as being very suspicious, and in view of the circumstances allowed the first count of 20 for and 54 against as given by the deputy returning officer to the two scrutineers at the close of the count.

A SERIOUS PROBLEM

Canada Not the Only Place Where Men are Idle

(Special to The Times.)

Ottawa, Feb. 28.—Liberals who are complaining of conditions in Canada should, instead, be thankful that this country has stood the test of the world-wide depression so well.

In the United States so grave has become the problem of the unemployed that President Wilson has asked the recently appointed Industrial Commission to undertake an investigation and to seek to alleviate the distress. The Commission, in undertaking this work, has issued the following statement:—

"Stirred by reports of 350,000 men and women out of work in New York City alone, the Commission has undertaken an immediate investigation looking toward action by the Federal Government to relieve unemployment. During the next six weeks the activities of four of the Commission's investigators will be restricted to a rapid survey of unemployment in industrial centres from Boston to Kansas City."

A HARROWING PICTURE.

The Industrial Comission draws a harrowing picture of condition, but seeks to regard the problem as one more permanently confronting the country than one that has arisen recently.

All over that great country the unemployed are in armies; millions out of work and depending on charity. So serious is the problem that the Federal Government must act at once.

In Canada the depression has not been felt in any degree compared with the United States. In this country the unemployed have been a very small percentage. Liberals have been injuring this country with their pictures of gloom and disaster should be congratulating Canada on the splendid showing made in a difficult period. Canadian conditions present a bright picture when compared with the United States, where the problem of the unemployed has become so serious as to be a national peril.

PRES. HALTED BY THE WATCHMAN

Refused Entrance to Patent Office Until He Establishes Identity.

Washington, Feb. 28.—A man of medium height, dressed in a gray suit and wearing a gray hat, walked up the steps of the front entrance to the patent office. Evidently he had walked briskly, for his face was glowing with the cold. He failed to notice a sign at the entrance reading: "No visitors admitted after 3 o'clock.

The pedestrian had opened the door when a white-haired watchman stepped forward and barred his way.

"The office is closed for the day; you cannot enter," said the watchman. Then he added as if he was in doubt: "But who are you?"

"I am Mr. Woodrow Wilson, the president of the United States," he replied.

"Well, then," falteringly said the watchman, "I thought there was something familiar about your face. Come right in."

SMALL WHALE FOUND ON LONG BEACH SHORE

Long Beach, L.I., Feb. 28.—A big whale was found on the beach here this morning, driven high and dry by the winds, and prevented from getting back in deep water by the ice. The big leviathan died on the beach.

After the whale had been cut open a small whale was found inside weighing 52 pounds, and a dark gray substance, supposed to be ambergris a very valuable material, was discovered. The whale was found by two life-savers, who saw it 20 feet from the water. It weighed 1200 pounds, and was 20 feet long. Natural history authorities were notified and it is probable that the two whales will be taken by them.

Pat's Answer.

The son of Erin was digging post holes one day when the boss rambled along to size up the job.

"How are you making out, Pat?" asked the boss.

"Foine as silk," answered Pat, keeping right on with his work, "as yez will notice yersilf!"

"The work looks all right, Pat," jokefully responded the boss, "but do you think you will ever be able to get all that dirt back in the hole again?"

"No, sor, not as it is now, sor, but it's me intintion to dig the hole a little daper."

MOTHER OFFERED TO GIVE HER LIFE FOR HER CHILD

Would Die and Let Body Go to Dissecting Table.

St. Louis, Feb. 28.—The greatest depths of motherlove were sounded when Mrs. Edward Harte, a poverty-stricken mother, offered to end her own life that body might go to the dissecting table—to keep her little 3-year-old girl from starving.

But the mother herself did not regard her heart-breaking offer of the sale of her life as a sacrifice at all.

"I wouldn't have wanted to live," she said, "if my little Dottie had died of starvation, and so you see, it wouldn't have been a sacrifice. I knew if I didn't get the money, right away quick, that baby would die. I had no food in the house, no coal for the stove; not enough clothes to keep Dottie warm. She was ill, getting worse each day. I loved her too much to let her die. I worried over the problem until I was heartsick."

AIDS FAMILY IN WANT.

The college couldn't accept the mother's proposition, for that would have been aiding her to end her own life—clearly an offense against the law. So the mother was handed over to the people of St. Louis. They investigated and found Mrs. Harte, her baby and her husband in bitter want. Harte, himself was ignorant of the fact that his wife had offered to die.

Interesting facts about waves were given by Dr. Vaughan Cornish in one of his lectures. In the north Atlantic, he said, waves had been measured, the largest of which was somewhat more than forty feet high, with a length from crest to crest of 560 feet. It was in the southern Indian ocean that waves attained their fullest development, and they had been measured there with a length of 780 feet.

In the Atlantic it had been found that waves attained a speed of thirty-eight miles an hour in a wind of about forty-four miles an hour. Speaking of the swells in the waves that run freely on the surface of the sea after the wind has ceased, Dr. Cornish said that during a storm in December, 1898, he recorded breakers near Bournemouth which moved at sixty-seven miles an hour and had a length from crest to crest of 1,900 feet. In February, 1899, he observed breakers on the same shore which had a speed in deep water of not less than seventy-eight and a half miles an hour.—London Family Herald.

When Kissing Was Costly.

The case of the people against Murline, heard by the governor of New Haven colony in council on May day, 1660, indicates the attitude toward unlicensed kissing in those times. It appeared that Jacob Murline and Sarah Tuttle had been caught kissing each other. Jacob tried to throw the blame on Sarah, saying he thought she had "with intent let fall her gloves." Sarah denied the intent. Jacob then admitted that he "tooke her by the hand and they both sat down upon a chest, but whether he kyssed her or she kyssed him he knows not, for he never thought of it since until Mr. Raymond told him that he had not layde it to heart as he ought." The stern governor, after duly lecturing the guilty parties on the enormity of their offense, decreed that "the sentence therefore concerning them is that they shall pay either of them a fine of 20 shillings to the colony."

Pat's Retort.

A one-legged Welsh orator named Jones was pretty successful in bantering an Irishman, when the latter asked him:

"How did you come to lose your leg?"

"Well," said Jones, "on examining my pedigree and looking up my descent I found there was some Irish blood in me and, becoming convinced that it was settled in the left leg, I had it cut off at once."

"By the powers," said Pat, "it would have been a very good thing if it had only settled in your head."

Paper Belting.

Paper machine belting, protected on the edges by leather, is being tried out in England with a measure of success. One advantage claimed for it is that it does not stretch.

The Best Kiteflier in Town.

Some years ago there died in Nebraska a man named Walsh, who, as a boy, started a suspension bridge. When Walsh was about ten years old the first steps for the construction of the suspension bridge at Niagara were taken. The first thing necessary was the stretching of a single wire across the chasm. The engineer in charge had thought of a way to get it across.

"What boy is the best kiteflier in town?" he asked.

The Walsh boy was named as the best kiteflier in the town of Niagara Falls, and the engineer accordingly asked that he be brought to him. He was made to understand that he must fly his kite across the Niagara river. He flew it across and allowed it to come down on the other side. Men were there to seize it. Then the engineer attached a wire to the string on his side, and the men on the other side detached the kite and by means of the string drew the wire across. By this, in turn, a cable was drawn across, and the bridge was well begun.—Harper's Weekly.

Circus Bareback Riders.

The career of a bareback rider with a circus is limited to about ten years. It is short not so much because these men and women lose their agility, but because they lose their nerve. The tension and application are so strained and marked that it is only a few riders who are able to perform their startling feats more than a decade. Recklessness and daring die when youth ripens into age, and as all riders, as a rule, marry young added responsibilities, coupled with a lively sense of danger, cause them to retire or else seek some less strenuous life. These riders are well paid, the majority of them commanding from $150 to $250 a week.

Just Where She Was.

Mr. Oldboy walked into the library the other evening and beheld his only daughter comfortably ensconced on the knees of young Squire Beeswing. He looked his surprise, and the young couple blushed.

The older man was the first to recover his presence of mind and smiled sardonically.

"I see you've nearly finished your race for a husband, Marianne," he observed.

"I don't understand you, papa."

"Well, my dear, I notice you're on the last lap."

WINDMILL POINT ELEVATOR, MONTREAL.

While the Grand Trunk has been looking well to the matter of elevator construction in Western Canada to provide storage capacity for the ever-increasing grain crop, provision has also been made for shipping facilities at Montreal. In the spring of 1906 what is known as the Windmill Point Elevator, located in the busy harbor of Montreal, was completed and put into operation. Its capacity was 1,000,000 bushels. Its situation is so well planned that it is easily accessible to both lake or ocean vessels, with railway tracks alongside. To provide additional accommodation a large annex has just been completed, with a capacity of 1,070,000 bushels, making a net capacity of 2,150,000 bushels. There are in this new building 28 concrete tanks, 25 feet in diameter and 100 feet in height, arranged at right angles in four rows, with seven tanks in each row. The tanks are constructed of reinforced concrete, having their adjacent sides rigidly united, so that the four-pointed, star-shaped spaces between the circular tanks may be used for storage as well as the circular tanks themselves. The large tanks hold approximately 33,000 bushels apiece, and the star-shaped or interstice bins hold approximately 8,000 bushels each. It is the second largest grain bin on the Grand Trunk System, the largest being located at Fort William, with a capacity of 5,700,000 bushels.

English Gambling Schools.

Obtain an entry into some of the many gambling schools in the North of England, and you will probably find out how it is that men manage to live without work.

Hundreds of these men attend the gambling schools regularly two and three times a week and risk their all on the tossing of two coins.

Rings are formed. Copper is used at one, silver at another, gold at another. A man is paid to toss up two coins, and the "punters" wager their pounds, shillings, or pence, as the case may be, on the coins dropping heads or tails. "Crows" keep a look out for the approach of the police.

One week a man may be in the gold ring, the next in the silver, and the third in the copper circle. A gambler in the West Riding of Yorkshire was pointed out to The Answers' correspondent as having lost over £2,000 in these schools, whilst another makes a point of speculating the whole of his rent-money every week.

Some men, of course, do well, but there are hundreds of Northern wives and daughters who would delight in the abolition of these "schools."—Answers.

Warned.

Engaged Man—Love me? Why, she actually counts the kisses I give her: Cynical Friend—That's bad. She may keep it up after your marriage.—Boston Transcript.

One of These Crazy Questions.

"Well, great guns, Jones! I see you're wearing glasses. What for?"

"For a sprained knee, you darned fool! What do you suppose?"—Toledo Blade.

Another Trouble.

The trouble with most men is that they want to be at bat all the time and are never willing to do any fielding.—Chicago Record Herald.

Women will find more news of interest to them in The Times' magazine page every morning than in any other paper.

Gothic Architecture.

Gothic architecture began about the ninth century after Christ and soon began to spread all over Europe. Its great feature is the pointed arch, and it was at first called the "pointed style." Most of the glorious old world cathedrals are in the Gothic, and it is generally conceded that for religious purposes no other style of architecture is so perfectly suited. It has been said that the first idea of the Gothic was suggested by the interlacing boughs and trunks of the great woods in which German Christianity was formed; hence the name Gothic.—New York American.

History Made Palatable.

Joseph Salvador, the French historian, and Jules Sandeau, a novelist, made their meeting at a public reception the occasion for a dispute as to the respective places which they occupied in the world of letters.

"The reading of history is like a pill—it needs the sugar coating to make it palatable," argued the novelist.

"Ah, but it is the ingredient which cures, not the coating," remarked the historian.

"Then let us divide honors," said Sandeau, "for if it were not for my sugar coating your historical facts would dry on the shelves."

Egyptian Smokers and Madness.

An Egyptian smoker of hasheesh is even a more helpless slave than the Chinese opium fiend. He knows that in the end he will become a madman, yet he rushes toward the awful goal with unrelaxed speed. With the strange exaltation which first comes to the smoker he feels himself floating from cloud to cloud or alighting in the gardens of palaces all his own. Most of the hasheesh which Egypt consumes comes from Greece. From the husks of the hemp seeds and the tender hops of the hemp plant the Greeks manufacture a greenish powder whose fumes bring the ecstasy its victims desire.

FOR THE COMMON GOOD

It is the aim of The Times:

To exploit and advance the best interests of the people of the fair and fertile land wherein it is published, and to which it steadily devotes its efforts;

To stand for liberty and law, equal rights and good government, the greatest boon to a free people;

To foster and encourage private and public enterprise, and hold up the hands of every honest toiler, either with brawn or brain, in every field of activity;

To stand independently for the true interests of the city, the Dominion and the Empire, and for those policies only which make for the common good;

It aims to be excellent and not cheap.

A MEXICAN MAGNATE.

Don Luis Terrazas Owns the Largest Farm in the World.

The world probably contains nothing anywhere else that can compare with the splendid estate of Don Luis Terrazas, in the state of Chihuahua, Mexico. This fortunate magnate is said to own the greatest farm in the world. It includes 8,000,600 acres of fertile land and extends 150 miles east and west and 200 miles north and south. On its mountains and through its valleys roam over 1,000,000 cattle, 700,000 sheep and 100,000 horses, these being tended by an army of 2,000 horsemen, herdsmen, shepherds and hunters. Each year at least 180,000 head of cattle and 100,000 sheep are slaughtered, dressed and packed, this ranch being the only one in the world which maintains its own slaughtering and packing plant. And this means a very considerable additional profit to its august and fortunate owner.

On this gigantic estate are five reservoirs, which cost $500,000, and 300 wells, which cost over another $300,000. Don Luis Terrazas is a scientific farmer and raises every kind of grain in his great fields. His homestead is declared to be the finest farmhouse in existence in any country. It is capable of accommodating 500 guests at a time and was erected at an expense of $2,000,000. It is a veritable country palace, and the gardens are more carefully laid out and the stables are more costly than those of any emperor. On the homestead alone are employed over a hundred male servants.

A Proper Name.

"You have christened your baby Halley's Comet?"

"Yes. It's unusual, but appropriate. He's a bright spot in one existence that gets us up at all sorts of unearthly hours."—Washington Star.

The Real Job.

Couldn't Frighten Him.

An Indian maharajah once received Lord Clive, the famous soldier, in his palace court. Presently in sprang two whopping big Bengal tigers, as big as ever grew. They rolled and sprawled and romped all over the court, growled, spit and struck at each other. All the time the rajah slyly and snakily stole glances at Clive to see if it would scare him green white. After a little the tigers were driven out. Clive smoked his cheroot all the while.

Birds and Lightning.

Birds are sometimes struck by lightning. Darwin records the case of a wild duck that he saw struck by a bolt while flying. It was killed instantly and fell to the ground. But birds seem to know instinctively that lightning is to be feared. That perhaps is why they seek shelter in thunderstorms. The sudden disappearance of the birds is, indeed, in the country one of the surest signs of an approaching tempest.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

He Was in Charge.

"What did you do in the army?"

"Most of the time I was in charge of a squad of men."

"On special duty?"

"No; they were taking me to the guardhouse."—Cleveland Leader.

Doesn't Feel Put Out.

Tess—I broke my engagement with him because he wouldn't give up tobacco. Jess—Then he is an old flame of yours? Tess—Yes, and he's still smoking.—St. Louis Star.

EXTENDING HYDRO-ELECTRIC

The Hydro-Electric Power Commission for Ontario has a construction plan for this year which involves the expenditure of possibly $3,000,000. The trunk line between Niagara Falls and Dundas is to be duplicated, a 46,000 volt line is to be built from the Falls to Welland, and a group of municipalities in Bruce and Grey are to be supplied with power from Eugenia Falls. But another field is to be entered by the Hydro in the construction of electric railways in different parts of the province. There is a growing demand for electric railway connection all over the thickly settled part of the province, and many municipalities have already asked that lines be located in their vicinity. A few days ago two Hydro experts were at Ottawa explaining to the Agricultural Committee of the House of Commons the advantages of the Hydro, and a request is being made for a Federal subsidy of $6,400 a mile for all such railways. In regard to this we can only say that if the Dominion

Cured by Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Mr. Clemmons' experience is not unusual. Nowadays poor stomachs are more the rule than the exception. But the proper treatment is sure to make a quick cure. You can always depend on Dr. Hamilton's Pills, they reach the trouble at once, go right to business, work while you sleep and have you feeling better if not cured next morning.

"My food seemed to decompose in my stomach," writes Mr. Ralph Clemmons, of Newbridge P.O. "I had a stomach that failed in some way to perform its work. Digestion seemed more or less arrested and I grew thin, yellow, nervous. The stomach became distended and impeded apparently the action of the heart, for often at night it would do great stunts. At times I would vomit a mucous mass, and at these times my head ached most terribly. A friend who had been cured of a similar condition advised me to take Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly, which I did. The result in my case was simply marvelous. Dr. Hamilton's Pills removed the cause, strengthened the stomach, excited the liver to normal action, the kidneys were released of excessive work. Health soon grew within me. I can now eat, sleep and live like a live man.

Be advised—use Dr. Hamilton's Pills—they are sure to do you good. 25c. per box, five for $1.00, at all druggists and storekeepers or by mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y. and Kingston Canada.

THE EXECUTION OF BENTON

Now complications related to the Mexican situation are apparently having careful attention from the Washington government. The execution of William S. Benton at Juarez is a serious matter, indicating on the surface a failure of Gen. Villa to regard his promise of protection for all foreigners and disappointing expectation that the intervention of the American state department in the man's behalf, on the application of the British ambassador would procure his release. No step will likely be taken until the case is completely investigated, and the mystery attached to it cleared up. Benton, a Scotchman, was the owner of 100,000 acres in Mexico, and had spent many years in that country. He may have been implicated in political plotting, on which charge it is claimed he was tried by court marshall and sentenced under military law, but there are other reports that he upbraided Villa for plundering his estates, and was summarily ordered shot by that leader.

INDIA WITHOUT BRITISH RULE

When the Aga Khan declared quite recently that India self governed on the lines of the great Dominions was still a hopeless impossibility, he only stated what everyone who knows anything at all about the matter knows to be a fact. If the Hindu and the Mohammadan could combine to drive the English into the sea, there would remain the struggle between them for dominion, as well as the struggle with innumerable minor races and religions. The Indian Empire would be dissolved once more into the aggregate of factions it was composed of when Clive took his seat at the factory desk on the Coromandel, and the result would be, not by any means India for the Indians, but a new invasion through the passes by which Mughal and the Persian entered, which would carry the Dominions of the Czar of all the Russias from the Arctic ocean to Cape Camorin and from the Ural mountains to the China sea.

IMPROVEMENTS MADE AT THE GRAND HOTEL

Mr. Solunuck, new proprietor of the Grand Hotel, George Street, has inaugurated an extensive series of improvements that are about completed. Both dining room and bar have undergone extensive changes. Possibly one of the most radical changes in the bar is that the new owner de-"bars" all undesirable men from that portion of the hotel. Upstairs hundreds of dollars have been spent in papering and decorating this portion of the Grand. There are now rooms decorated and furnished in a manner that would do no discredit to similar apartments in a big metropolitan hotel. The new special exclusive telegraph wire bringing the latest news, as each incident happens from lacrosse, hockey or baseball matches, is greatly appreciated by the hotel patrons.

British Immigrants

Mr. A. W. Smithers, chairman of the board of directors of the Grand Trunk Railway, stated in a recent interview, that the British emigrants coming out here were at once a gain to the Dominion and the Empire at large. When they come to you, he said, they are ready-made citizens. They have been brought up to conserve the laws under which you live. They have sentiments identical with your own. They are merely enlarging their horizon a bit. That is all. And under the old flag they are ready at any moment to render necessary service to the Empire in the moment of need. Moreover, they will leaven, in any community, the other elements, and produce in time a wholesome citizenship. Therefore, concluded Mr. Smithers, encourage the British emigrant, who, although he leaves England, is not lost to the Empire.

HOME HEALTH CLUB

Written by
DR. DAVID H. REEDER.
Chicago, Ill.

FASTING—Last week I told you about fasting and the "fasting cure." It's a deep and interesting subject and to know it thoroughly is to know much, but I presume not many of you had thought of the fasting cure. We like the idea of feasting better than like the idea of feasting better than fasting. It appeals to our sense of gustatory enjoyment. We at once think of many good things to eat and of which we are particularly fond, but when you come to know by experience the true inwardness of fasting as a cure you will think of it differently.

Let me tell you of a case, not one case in which it was necessary to practically compel the patient to eat more. I will tell you of it later. The first case of which I spoke was the wife of a neighbor, she had been a very bright and usually attractive young woman, very fond of out-door sports. After an unusually hard day's riding in the sun she had a severe headache and the family physician was called. He gave her morphine. It was not long until another attack brought another dose and in a few months the doctor had a very profitable case, a confirmed morphine fiend.

The plump rosy cheeks grew thin and pallid and a happy wife and mother was changed into a fretful, nagging wreck. No rest night or day without the stupifying drug and when my advice was sought I advised a certain rest cure sanitarium where the craving for drugs was overcome through the stuffing cure, rather than fasting cure. She was put to bed and a reliable nurse kept her there. Raw eggs and milk was supplied in abundance and this patient that had been eating but little of anything except morphine was gradually forced to consume from ten to twelve eggs daily and also from three to four quarts of fresh, sweet milk. The organs of elimination were kept active, massage and passive exercise was employed and after three months of steady and watchful treatment she was apparently cured. After a brief stay at home, however, she was again as bad as ever and dispaired of ever making a complete recovery, but she was a good fighter and again took the stuffing cure for a long period and has now been free from the habit for several years, but she is almost as broad as she is tall. From a living skeleton to a champion fat woman with no disposition to relinquish the feasting. Far better than the drug habit, but still a condition not to be desired.

CLUB NOTES

I will gladly answer all inquiries for information on health subjects from readers of this publication if same are addressed to Home Health Club, 5039 Cottage Grove Ave., Chicago. Send full name and address with 4 cents postage.

Dear Doctor:—I am not getting along as well as usual and have now concluded I have dysentary; am much better of a pile trouble with which I suffered. The salt water enema previously suggested by you did good. I have been better for a day or two or three days at a time, and then would have a bad day. I cannot take a cold enema, but have taken several warm ones with vinegar added, which seems to do good, but it don't last. The cold enema seems to almost put me into cramps all over. Tell me what to do.—Mrs. J. H.

In the Home Health Club Volume 2 under the heading of Dysentary, you will find a home method of treatment described, which if followed by you would undoubtedly aid in overcoming the trouble. However, you did not mention any special symptoms that would lead me to think it is dysentary. In such cases the abdomen is, as a rule, swollen. There is considerable desire to evacuate the bowels, and a feeling as if some slid substance was in the rectum that should be expelled. The number of small evacuations from the bowels may be ten or fifteen or more every hour in acute cases. Such a conditions is very exhausting, and the patient loses flesh rapidly. In otherwise healthy persons, under favorable circumstances a simple case of dysentary may subside within a few days or week, especially if the proper treatment and care are given. The feces are often mingled with slimy mucus, usually streaked with blood. In most cases tongue is always coated. The general health suffers, as already stated, and lack of appetite, sleeplessness and there will be more or less fever. The restlessness at night will follow. In chronic cases there is very little pain or fever, but there is great weakness. The discharge causes irritation and finally ulceration in the rectum, and the least movement or exposure to cold may cause great distress.

In addition to the treatment mentioned in Volume 2 on the subject I would farther impress upon your mind the great necessity of adsolute quietude. Rest in a recumbent position is indispensable for recovery from even very mild cases. Flannels wrung out of hot water may be placed over the abdomen and frequently renewed or stimulating liniment may be applied. When the diarrhoea first starts with a straining sensation, milk of magnesia should be freely given. If there is feverishness take a weak infusion of Lady Slipper and Pleurisy Root. Always try to avoid many passages from the bowels. It may seem from the trainining sensation that going to stool is imperative but determination and a recumbent position may delay evacuations a long time. When there is a great distress at school, sitting on a bad vessel containing steaming hot water will afford relief. In more severe cases hot water bottles to the feet and frequent bathing of the limbs and body with stimulating liniment are required. Nourishment during dysentary must be very light, such as malted milk, chicken or mutton broth, oyster, etc. All alcoholic liquors are very dangerous, as well as ice drinks. Water containing a little gum arabic will keep the mouth moist, even when taken in teaspoonful doses.

For internal use I will not suggest anything more at present than a special preparation of tissue foods to be selected for such a condition. Later on when the trouble has subsided something else may also be needed, something which will aid in increasing your strength. Continue with the salt enemas, which seem to have done you good.

EDUCATE THE PEOPLE

Mr. Caskey Thinks Canada Should do More For the Immigrant

H. K. Caskey of the Layman's Missionary Movement, said that if the country could spend twelve million dollars annually on its military establishment of fifty thousand men to prepare for a possible armed defence, the Dominion should provide any sum necessary to properly equip mentally 400,000 immigrants who came here annually. Every armory in the country might well be a centre for supervised playgrounds and community work, with moving-pictures as an educational feature, musical events and pageants by the people themselves, addresses on sanitation, health, citizenship, laws and history.

"Canada," he said, "seeks immigration by advertising in the British Isles, the United States and at least ten continental countries, and has spent for that purpose in six years $6,849,598, and received fully 1,600,000 immigrants. Surely Canada should spend in special educational work for these honest people at least what she spent in educational work in getting them here. Chinese immigrants paid last year in head taxes $3,522,500, about $750,000 more than all the churches in Canada combined contributed to mission work at home and abroad. By a careful distribution of the work Canada is responsible for a population in the foreign field of forty millions."

Hints on Beauty

New Style Coiffures Show Ears

By MAGGIE TEYTE

MAGGIE TEYTE

EARS. They are coming into fashion again. The hair which has been drawn over them is to be drawn upward and away, and pretty soon every other woman will be wearing ears. Then we shall begin to notice whether they are the shell-like things the poets sing about or just ugly, stand-out protuberances.

While we massage our faces and our necks and our hands and arms we are prone to forget all about making our ears beautiful. The sooner the work is begun the better. For it is a sure fact that as soon as the hairless ear becomes fashionable there will arise talk of ear beauty.

The ear is not only important from a beauty standpoint, but it has a lot of significance in indicating character. Expert criminologists study the ear with as much interest as they do the nose and mouth and eyes. The perfect ear is the ear in exact proportion to the rest of the body. It is set on the head at the right angle. It has a lobe that is in ratio to the upper part. And the upper part, the rim of the ear, must be neither too close nor too full. The study of ears is as illuminating as it is complex and fascinating.

The beginning of the upper rim should be on a direct line from the corner of the eye, and the lobe should be in a straight line with the top of the ear.

It should be strictly in harmony with the face. That is, in such harmony that it melts into the whole without striking a false note. Perhaps that is not very plain, but I want to give the impression that the perfect ear is the ear that does not attract attention.

There is the saying that the small ear denotes stinginess and narrow-mindedness, and the big ear means generosity. It is beyond me to give information on this score. I am talking of the ear beautiful.

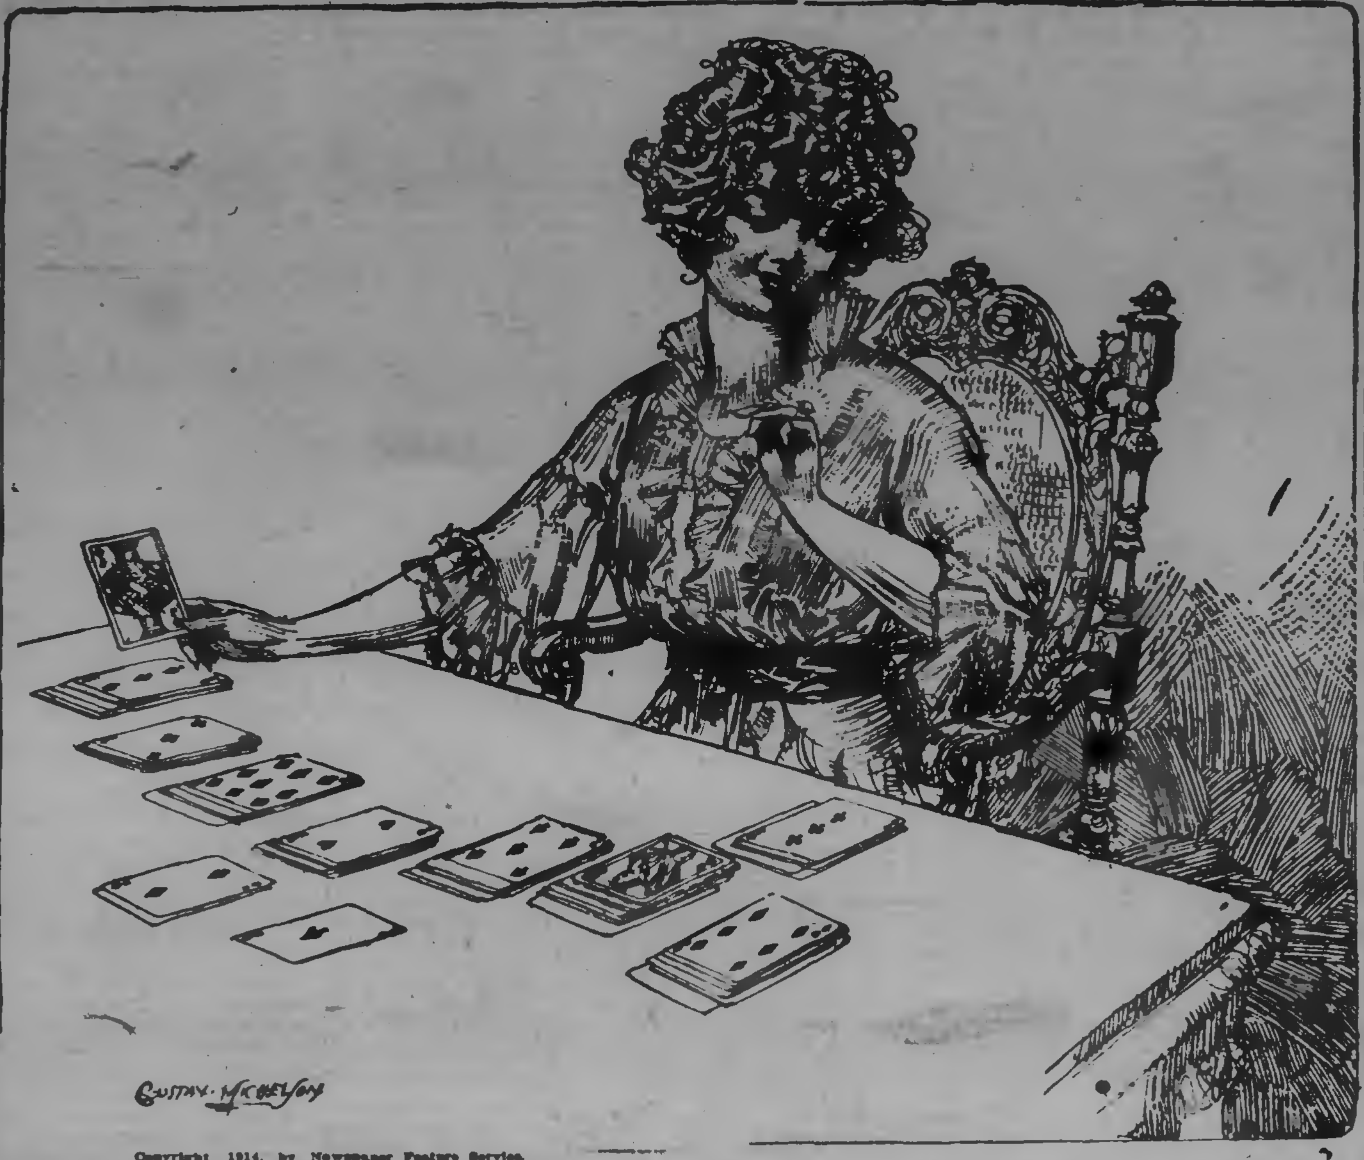
I think that the ugliest ear that we see is the one that protrudes—the big, flapping ear that makes even a good face ludicrous. I remember hearing an old lady say, when I was a child, that the reason so many boys had these ears was because they pulled their caps down and bent them. Well, they don't do it nowadays, and the modern parent has learned the importance of moulding the child ear into proper shape. If there is the least evidence of big ears the ear cap is adjusted whenever the child takes his nap or when he is in the house and the ear is early trained in the way it should go.

Wearing the hair over the ears has done the work of the ear cap. But it has not gone far enough. It has kept the ears in place during the day and at night we have lain with them all crumpled up. Also we have worn earrings, and they have pulled the lobe down slightly.

Let's begin the ear treatment. If your ears are not in correct position tie them in place at night. Then see that they are daintily pink. The pink ear is the sign of health as well as beauty. I am not going to tell you to massage the ear, for it will do damage instead of good unless done by an expert. But I would have you apply a dab of cold cream to the rim each night, removing it carefully with absorbent cotton.

Then if you use powder and a wee bit of rouge on your face don't neglect the ears. Touch the lobe, ever so lightly, with rouge. It should be daintily pink. And dust the rim of the ears with powder. It must be done carefully, for the perfect ear is the natural ear, and ears that evidence "make up" are a blemish to any face.

SOLITAIRE :: :: :: :: By MICHELSON



Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service.

THERE are many kinds of solitaire, but there are hearts in all of them—and diamonds. Hearts and diamonds. Yes, and Jacks. When a Queen picks up a Jack of Diamonds—oh, well! You can guess the rest. The mind quite naturally travels along certain lines until you can't help thinking about and looking at that other solitaire flashing and winking and promising on just the right left finger.

Every game halts in the presence of this THOUGHT that has been cut and polished and set into the golden crown of a ring.

If diamonds are really the old earth's tears, frozen by time, they surely are tears of joy. Even if the old earth didn't chuckle when it made them, and hid them so cleverly, the prismatic loveliness of their crystalline laughter flashes its answer to the question of a Queen's eyes.

The wonders of an opalescent sky, the elusive golden greens of the sea, the flush of the tenderest flowers, all play in the miniature mirror of this magic symbol of LOVE.

The Woman Who Flirts

By WINIFRED BLACK

Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service.

Winifred Black

I SAW her at the hotel the other day—the woman who flirts. She flirts with every man she sees, whether the man wants to flirt with her or not.

I saw her pursuing a perfectly decent old fellow into a corner of the dining room. She absolutely forced him into inviting her to breakfast with him, and then she made eyes and giggled and tossed her head and simpered till the poor man didn't know whether he was drinking tea or coffee, and how many cups he'd had of either.

He was quite an honest, simple, unaffected old fellow when he sat down at the table—by the time he got up his head was going round so fast with all the compliments the woman who flirts had paid him that he teetered out of the room trying his best to look like a lad of 20—made eyes at the hat check girl—leaned over the counter at the news-stand and acted as if he were going to hold hands with the girl at the desk whether she would or no—and an hour later I saw him walking past a pretty nursemaid with the funniest, most self-conscious air in the world.

It will take that poor old man a week or so to get back to earth and common sense again.

The woman who flirts will never do that. She will never get back to earth and common sense; she doesn't know where they are and hasn't, I should imagine, since she was 16 years old. She must be 40 if she's a day. How furious she'd be if she thought any one even suspected such a thing; and she can't get over the idea that she is the American Cleopatra and that every man she sees is another Antony.

Poor woman! What desperate qualms she must have—mornings when she looks in the glass—before the massage woman has had a chance to get in her fine work.

What bitter moments she must suffer—when the boy she's trying so hard to fascinate looks right at the girl at the next table, who may not be pretty at all, but who is at least young.

What a foolish, foolish woman she is—the woman who flirts.

She lives just the one life, doesn't she, over and over the same thing, over and over the old, old song—with the voice getting a little weaker and a little shriller every time the accompaniment begins.

She has a sister—the woman who flirts—a sister some two or three years younger than she is. Such a happy woman. I saw her the other day in the hotel dining room. She had two little girls with her and a gangling boy of some 16 or so. What a time she was having with that boy—teasing him, admiring him, encouraging him, loving him so hard that it fairly made your heart ache to look at her—just an awkward, rather ordinary boy—but the wonder of the world in her motherly eyes! And the little girls—one was 7—all feet and ankles and wrists, and the other about 5, all curls and dimples and roses and laughter. That woman's heart was so full when she looked at those children that you wondered how it could beat at all.

How old was she? Why, she was 15 one minute and 7 the next, and the next she was just exactly 5 years old. She was living life all over again, three times right there at that little table in the quiet corner of the great careless, worldly room, full of careless, worldly people.

What cared she whether the man at the next table thought she was pretty or admired her type or not? She didn't know there was a man at the next table. She was listening to the last account of the last football game. Dear me, how her clear, kind eyes sparkled to hear that Her Wonder of the World had led the scrimmage and come off victorious. She was explaining to 7-year-old what Peter Pan meant when he said that he didn't want to grow up—and telling 5-year-old what glorious fudge they were going to make as soon as they got the new house finished and started in really to living again.

You couldn't look at her without loving her and admiring her and envying her—the happy, happy sister of the woman who flirts. And you couldn't look at the woman who flirts without wondering at her and being sorry for her and wishing somebody would take her away somewhere and give her a chance to get something worth while into her poor, vain, empty little head.

The woman who flirts—what an imitation she is! And what a poor imitation of a life she leads—imitation joy, imitation sorrow, imitation love, imitation friendship, imitation complexion—just a poor imitation of pasteboard and paint, isn't she? Poor thing, let's all be sorry for her.

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE

Dear Annie Laurie:

When I was away from home this summer I got acquainted with a great big, splendid man.

He's my ideal in everything, but when he came to see me this winter in my home he stayed and had dinner with us, and, oh, I nearly died. He eats with his knife, and when he drank his coffee you could hear him across the room. What in the world shall I do? Do you think I could ever be happy married to him when he does such things as that?

DISILLUSIONED.

WELL, now, little sister, there are so many ways to look at at an affair like that. One way is this. A man of such frightful table manners must be either obtuse or eccentric.

No matter what his early surroundings were, it isn't possible that he has gone all this time without ever sitting at the table with people of breeding and decent manners.

Why didn't he learn by what he saw them do?

Why didn't he notice that he was different, and go to work and correct himself? Was he too conceited to notice what other people did, too absorbed in himself to care, too pleased with himself to dream of changing in any way? There's something wrong, there's no doubt of that, and this isn't the only way it's going to show.

Bad manners are not a disease. They are usually just a symptom of much deeper disease than themselves.

A man with bad manners is almost always a selfish man, a conceited man and an egotist. He never thinks of any one but himself; that's what makes his manners bad.

A table gobbler is almost always greedy, grasping and intensely selfish. His bad table manners are just one way in which he runs up a flag of warning to all close observers.

That's one way to look at the affair, Little Sister. The other is this.

The man is big and good and simple and kind and honest and true—what do I care whether he eats with a knife or with his toothpick?

The little things in life do not count—it's the big things that matter. I'm going to forget all about the man's manners and think about the man. Can you do that, Little Sister? It all depends upon you and what it is that is really important to you. Do you care what people are, or merely what other people say about them?

Nobody can decide a matter of this kind for you, unless she knows you—and the man.

Think it over, and decide for yourself.

Annie Laurie

Miss Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. They should be addressed to her care this office.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

"Bandy Legs" Result of Improper Early Diet

By Dr. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

Copyright, 1914, by L. K. Hirshberg.

DR. L. K. HIRSHBERG

HAVE you ever closely studied the spans and arches of a cantilever bridge? Observe the Brooklyn bridge or the one across the Niagara river. Some of the steel girders are concave, some convex and some are erect like the Pillars of Hercules. All who know their Old Testament recall how Samson killed himself and destroyed the Philistines by pushing down with his mighty strength the great pillars of the Temple.

The living bridge of bone and brawn which goes by the name of "man," in order to resist the force of gravity, must also be held aloft by pillars and blocks and the other fleshy replicas of bridge and building architecture.

To put it correctly, the shifting centre of gravity of the human figure is balanced and checked by the legs. The legs each consist of imitation steel construction with the veins, nerves, arteries, muscles and ligaments as rivets, chains, bolts and nuts, and the upper leg bone—the femur—and the two bones—the tibia—of the calf as imitation, but superior, steel.

Proper Food Necessary.

Just as there are structural iron workers to oversee that the steel was properly tempered and later correctly put together in the erected building, so hygienists and physicians solder the infantile marrow together by superintending the administration of the proper baby pabulum.

If infants are not provided with human milk many ills are the price of the maternal and medical dereliction.

The swarm of omissions upon the part of the mother, the midwife and the doctor in the matter of looking to a liberal provision of breast milk for the prospective baby results in these careless days of surfeited and luxurious times in feeding an unhappy lot of infants with cow's milk, artificial foods, condensed milk and other base makeshifts.

The result is soft bones, pale marrow and backwardness in the walking, teething and talking.

Bandy, or bow, legs, as well as knock knees, are not, as is popularly supposed—which is also "authoritatively" averred in a great encyclopedia open to public consultation—the consequence of the child walking "too soon." Not a bit of it.

When children are ready to walk, if they are sound in limb, they cannot be held back.

Delay Often Fatal.

If the bones are lacking in certain human attributes—just as the Quebec bridge bowed and collapsed because of defects in the pillars and stanchions—easily obtainable in mother's milk, but not present in any other baby dietary, the bends and curves and convexities result.

Now your child is bow-legged, knock-kneed or double-jointed. Nature builder tries to compensate for the shifting of the load and bends the leg bones.

"Rickets" is the name of one of these exaggerated banes of baby's bones. This and its related maladies attack the stiffening, limy shafts of the skeleton.

Once this appears in the child its bones appear softer than they should be. Instead of straight legs and strong little arms, the little one begins to show various deformities. "Bow legs" is the least of these and is an omen of the more deep-seated trouble. A change of diet upon the advice of your doctor, massage and correct treatment for the little tacker's legs are then the immediate order of the hour.

Answers to Health Questions

A Reader, Philadelphia.—Why do I not feel air entering my windpipe when I breathe deeply?

You pay too much attention to your breathing. This makes you self-conscious and short of breath without an organic cause. Well people can never feel air as it enters the lungs and windpipe. If you were aware of it you would be a freak. Therefore think of more important matters and try to forget that you breathe. You cannot stop breathing if you try.

• • •

H. E. N.—Can anything be done for catarrh of the head and indigestion?

"Catarrh" and "indigestion" are words that mean different varieties of human ailments. "Catarrh" of the head may be an inflammation in the nose, obstructions and swellings in the nose. You should have a nose surgeon remove the cause. Do not bundle up too much and become accustomed to the cold.

You must explain your symptoms of "indigestion." This useless name is not a disease.

The pearl hunters of Borneo and the adjacent islands have a peculiar superstition. When they open shells in search of pearls they take every ninth find, whether it be large or small, and put it into a bottle, which is kept corked with a dead man's finger. The pearls in the vial are known as "seed pearls" or "breeding pearls," and the native Barneose firmly believes that they will reproduce their kind. For every pearl put into the vial two grains of rice are thrown in for the pearls to "feed upon." Some whites in Borneo believe as firmly in the superstition as the natives do, and almost every hut along the coast has its "dead finger" bottle, with from nine to fifty seed pearls and twice that number of rice grains carefully and evenly stowed away among them. That no results follow does not dim the superstition.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS

THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at the office of any Local Agent of Dominion Lands (not sub-agent), on certain conditions.

Duties.—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required in every case, except when residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside of his homestead. Price $3 per acre. Duties.—Six months residence in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and 50 acres extra cultivation. The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land after report by Homestead Inspector on application for patent.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price, $3 per acre. Duties.—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

Parties tendering will be required to accept the fair wages schedule prepared or to be prepared by the Department of Labour, which schedule will form part of the contract.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and in the case of firms, unless there are attached the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm.

An accepted bank cheque on a chartered bank of Canada for the sum of $36,000.00 made payable to the order of the Minister of Railway and Canals, must accompany each tender, which sum will be forfeited if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work, at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective contractors whose tenders are not accepted.

The cheque of the successful tenderer will be held as security, or part security, for the due fulfilment of the contract to be entered into.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

Asst. Deputy Minister and Secretary.

TABLES AND DECORATION

Only Those Which Are Useful Truly Beautify a Room

The old-fashioned center table has given place to special tables, each useful for one thing and decorative because they are useful. The tea table or tea wagon is a pleasant addition to comfort, and the small tables are so pretty and fit into nooks and corners where they reign modestly and effectively. The old-fashioned candle and stand beside the bed, holding the water set, the favorite book, and other night comforts, is distinctly sensible and therefore decorative in the best sense.

Stevenson once said his ideal room should contain a lot of tables—empty. He evidently wanted freedom to use them as the mood suggested. Freedom is the thing the fussy housekeeper fights; certain things belong on tables and there they must be. If it is a vase or a photograph easily toppled over the danger zone around that table is a wide one.

The Japanese solve the clutter question as they do many house matters for us Canadians. One beautiful thing on which to concentrate one's attention is enough for them in a room. A vase perhaps, and after a time another takes its place, resting the eye, giving variety and eliminating confusion and much dusting. Massive tables belong only in large rooms; a few books and magazines, a reading lamp, and spaces left for convenience; what more do we want or need on them? When a table makes it difficult to pass through a room, separates people from the chance of intimate conversation, destroys the sense of freedom and space, it would better be moved or eliminated entirely.

SEWING SUGGESTIONS

A spool-board will be found a great convenience in the sewing room. Cover a light wooden board with cambric, cretonne, or any suitable material, or paint it. Drive into the board plenty of those long wire nails which are slender and have small heads. Hammer them only enough to hold firmly, leaving them protruding a good distance. Make holes with a gimlet through the upper two corners, to attach a cord or wire for hanging the board in the sewing room. Fill the spikes with spools of cotton and sewing silk. They will be out of the way, and at a glance you can tell which one you want.

To make strong buttonholes, place a fine piece of muslin or lawn underneath the buttonhole and work it the same as usual. When it is all finished cut away the muslin close to the stitch.

When putting hooks and eyes on a waist, try this quick way of doing it without measuring: Sew the eyes on the left front, the desired distance apart, with the loops cut far enough to make hooking easy; then baste the right front carefully over the left, lapping as much as may be desired; turn the waist just as it is, wrong side out, put a hook in every eye and sew them in position.

When stitching seams on the machine in a silk garment, use either fine cotton or one thread cotton and the other of silk. By so doing you will obviate any puckering of the seams, and if you should have to rip them you will have far less trouble.

Many women have not discovered this easy way to shirr. Gather everything—ruffles, tops of sleeves, etc.—on the machine, stitching in the ordinary way without the use of extra attachments. Simply set the screw for the longest possible stitch and loosen the tension, then stitch as usual. The lower thread can easily be pulled tight, with the result that the gathers are much more even than can be done by hand.

One woman has discovered that the following process makes velvet look like new: Let the fire in the range get very low, take a large cloth, wring in cold water, and spread over the top of the stove. Then spread the velvet over the cloth till the nap rises.

Bookmakers and Moneylenders

Dr. John Edward Brereton, of Ammanford, Wales, stated in his examination for bankruptcy that he owed $5,500 and had assets of $245. He owed bookmakers $1,800 and borrowed $500 from a Swansea firm of moneylenders, giving his note for $600. His failure was due to turf betting.

Pension for Policeman's Widow

A pension of $3.75 per week was granted by the London City Corporation to the widow of Constable Smith, who was killed by a motor 'bus while regulating traffic at Ludgate circus. An allowance of $2.50 per week is to be made for each of the two children until they are fifteen.

Silver at $35 an Ounce

A silver salver of the period of George I. sold at Christie's at the rate of $35 an ounce. It weighed 110 ounces 15 pennyweight and the price paid for it was $3,875. A pair of double sauce boats of the same period sold at $3[illegible] an ounce for $1,2[illegible]

Cardboard Box for Coffin

A cardboard box was found in a carriage of a train at Naas, Ireland, some months ago and was duly lodged in the lost property office at Kingsbridge. Recently the officials opened the box, which was found to contain the body of an infant in an advanced stage of decomposition.

A WOMAN CONTRACTOR

Miss Durkin Chose Building as Her Profession

As a school girl Miss Alice Durkin of New York had ambitions for the years that were to follow her graduation. After the solid education of a normal school, as she did not wish to teach she took the first offer of employment she had and that happened to be in a builder's office. Though her's was only routine office work the details of the business fascinated her. She liked responsibility and saw that she could not have it without technical knowledge, so in every spare minute she studied plans and specifications. After three years of hard study in this way her employer allowed her to tender with regular contractors. This was the point she had worked to attain. It meant hard work and long hours, but the harder the problem the more it pleased her.

After seven years spent thus she started out for herself. She had gained the confidence of business men, and so had the financial credit necessary to allow her to begin her business. Building contracts became plentiful with her.

"Building is just as suitable an occupation for women as for men," says Miss Durkin, "and there is no reason why they should not enter into the lists for its prizes, but just because they have always regarded it as a 'man's work' they have left it alone.

TEETH NEED EXERCISE

Foods Which Require Chewing Should be in Daily Diet

Do you take care of your teeth? Do you recognize the fact that good teeth are a valuable asset in maintaining the general health of your entire body? Do you know that the kind of food you eat has an effect upon the condition of your teeth?

Teeth, as any other organ of the body, need exercise! This exercise must not be too severe, of course, especially if the teeth are not used to it. You will remember that the savage, who is accustomed to chewing and biting tough fibrous foods, usually has very fine teeth. The tendency, as civilization increased, has been to eat softer foods. And the result is that foods which require real chewing have become disliked and often eliminated from the daily diet. Cooking, soaking, grinding and other means are resorted to nowadays to save the trouble of chewing when the food which needs chewing has been retained in the daily food list. This state of affairs has caused the teeth to forget their old cunning. Nature, finding there was little or no need for strong teeth, has failed to provide them.

Teeth are an attractive feature of the human face, as well as a useful member of the digestive apparatus of the body, therefore we should not give them a chance to disappear because of lack of use. Some foods which require chewing should always be found in our daily diet so that we may give our teeth some exercise and preserve these valuable aids to good health.

Giving Linen a Polish

Various substances are used to give linen a polish. A bit of white wax or gum arabic added to the starch when boiling makes a reliable foundation for a good polish. A laundry polish can scarcely be obtained without the use of a polishing iron, which may be purchased of any ironmonger. The articles to be polished are first ironed in the ordinary way, then damped by laying on them a wet cloth, then placed on a board and rubbed quickly with the polishing iron until they shine.

A BLOCK OF MAGNESIA

A small square block of magnesia, costing but a few cents, may prove most useful. Fine lace that cannot or ought not to be washed may be cleaned by rubbing a good quantity of magnesia on it, then laying it away for a while in blue tissue paper. If it is much soiled, keep it in the paper for a week or more, then shake out the magnesia and the lace will be soft and clean, and none of its beauty marred.

After each wearing of white silk gloves, which soon lose their silkiness by washing, rub them with the block of magnesia, and they will not need washing for a long time.

White canvas shoes can be kept clean in the same way. Whenever the shoes are worn, wipe them off with a clean cloth, then apply the magnesia before putting them away. The next time they are to be worn, dust off the magnesia, and they will be fresh and clean. Little white crochet collar pins can be kept clean the same way.

The soiled collar of an unwashable silk waist may be much freshened by applying magnesia overnight, and the longer it remains on it the better the result.

After a trial, the practice of using magnesia on all unwashable neck furnishings, lace yokes, etc., recommends itself, but it is better not to let the article get too soiled; rather keep it clean by frequent applications. As there is nothing about magnesia to injure an fabric it may be used freely to [illegible]

FLOOR PRIVILEGE

Congress Guards It Jealously In Both Houses.

RARELY USED IN THE SENATE

Former Members of That Body, While Free to Attend Its Sessions, Prefer to Shun the Scene of Their Solonic Efforts—A Story of Evarts.

What is known as "the privilege of the floor" in congress is the right to go upon the floor of the senate or house when either body is in session.

Although the right to go upon the floor of a legislative body is not so exclusive a privilege in some of the state legislatures, it is a great privilege and an exclusive one in congress. The doors are carefully guarded while congress is in session, and it is sometimes exceedingly difficult to have access to senators or representatives when public business is being done.

Senators and representatives have no regular or rigid rule on the subject, but it is known in Washington that the statesmen feel that their constituents or others who desire to see them privately should endeavor to do so in their offices, their committee rooms or at their residences.

To former members of the senate and house "the privilege of the floor" is given, but they do not often avail themselves of that right. This, however, is in strong contrast to the customs of twenty years ago and longer, when it was not uncommon to see former members moving about on the floor of the house when it was notoriously known that they were lobbying for some private claim or public graft.

Speaker Reed found this condition so obnoxious that he issued orders that no ex-members should be permitted to pass the doorkeepers without written authority from the speaker. Subsequent speakers have not found it necessary to draw the lines so rigidly, because the abuse has almost entirely ceased.

There is an unwritten law, however, governing the privilege of the floor of the senate, and it is the unwritten law of good breeding, good manners and common sense. Every ex-senator has the privilege of the floor, but it is so seldom exercised that its abuse has never occurred, nor is it ever likely to occur.

Former members of the senate are never seen there unless it is well known that they have proper business calling them to Washington, such as appearing before the supreme court as attorneys for clients in great cases, and even then it seldom happens that an ex-senator thus engaged ever enters upon the senate floor, although in going to and from the [illegible] of the supreme court they are [illegible] pass by its doors.

After James G. Blaine ceased to be a senator he avoided the senate chamber forever. After resigning from that body Senator Roscoe Conkling of New York never entered the senate chamber, although he was often in the capitol on business before the supreme court. There was an exception, however, in one instance. By invitation he was one of the pallbearers of Senator Logan of Illinois, who was buried with obsequies from the senate chamber, and on that occasion Senator Conkling was present. Senator Benjamin Harrison upon leaving the senate never crossed its threshold until he went there to be inaugurated as president. Senator Dawes of Massachusetts, Senator Blair of New Hampshire, Senator Don Cameron of Pennsylvania, Senator Thurman of Ohio and Senator McDonald of Indiana are examples of distinguished senators who remained away from the senate after their terms expired. During the period of four years when he was in retirement Senator Gorman of Maryland never availed himself of the privilege of the floor, and during the two years he was without election Senator Quay of Pennsylvania absented himself from the senate chamber.

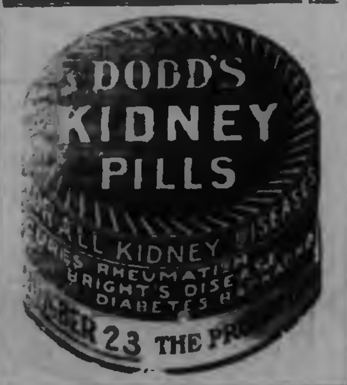
From a veteran employee of the senate there is gleaned an unusually interesting story concerning the late Senator Evarts of New York. This senator was one of the greatest intellects in public life for many years, but he was absentminded in small things. On one occasion he overlooked the rule about the privilege of the floor. He was entertaining Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes at his Washington home and invited his guest to accompany him to the capitol. Together they walked along the capitol corridor and when they came to the door of the senate they entered together.

There was a copy of the senate rules on each side of the doors, but Senator Evarts did not look at them, nor, of course, did his guest. The doorkeepers did not interfere or ask any questions.

Well, Senator Evarts gave Dr. Holmes a seat in the rear of the desks of the members and proceeded to bring Senators Hoar, Quay, Hawley and others to introduce to him. Quite a levee was [illegible] there, and Dr. Holmes was gratified with his reception.

After awhile Senator Hoar went to Senator Evarts and, calling his attention to the rule concerning the privilege of the floor, asked, "How did you get him in?"

"He is my private secretary," said Senator Evarts quickly, with a boyish twinkle in his serious eyes. At that time private secretaries of members were allowed the floor privilege.—Smith D. Fry in Washington Star.



Up to Henry.

"You talked in your sleep last night, Henry."

"Did I, my dear? Wh-what did I say?"

"Henry, you are leading a double life!"

"No, dear; don't—don't say that. I think I must have been having a bad dream if I said anything that seemed to indicate"—

"A bad dream! I should think you were having a bad dream. You kept yelling 'Robber!' 'Rotten!' 'Kill him!' 'Run it out, you lobster!' and a lot of other things that were just as absurd. I want you to confess now—fully and freely—and I promise you that if it is anything a good woman should forgive I will forgive you."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Made Napoleon Wait.

On the day when the courier brought news of the signature of the peace of Amiens, Talleyrand thrust the impatiently awaited document in his pocket, went to the emperor and engaged him in current affairs. When these were all disposed of he said: "Now, I have good news for you. Read!"

"And you could not tell me this immediately?" exclaimed the astonished Napoleon.

"Certainly not, for then you would listen to nothing else."

Pumice Stone.

Pumice is an acid volcanic rock, which may be in either massive or finely comminuted form. It owes its peculiar porous, vesicular or pumiceous condition to the rapid expansion of included moisture or gases, due to sudden release of pressure at the time of its ejection from the volcano. This expansion may be carried to such an extent that the rock is completely shattered, and the resultant finely powdered material may be carried to unknown distances by wind and air currents and then deposited in beds several feet thick.

Who Wins?

"Dear philosopher," writes a correspondent, "will you please settle a dispute for us? A and B make a wager as to which can 'shoot' the most rabbits. The contestants take different territories and hunt all day. At the time appointed they meet. A has no rabbits at all, but B has an animal which proves to be A's pet cat. Who wins?"

It is hard to decide this bet. In view of the fact that B gets not only A's cat, but his boat, we should say that A should buy the cove oysters.

Alive Under an Avalanche.

Human beings occasionally live through incredibly long imprisonments after their dwellings have been overwhelmed by avalanches. On March 19, 1755, avalanches buried the village of Bergemoletto, in the Italian Alps, and on April 25 three women were dug out alive from a stable in which they had been immured for thirty-seven days in the dark beneath the mass of snow which lay forty-two feet higher than the roof. With them had been buried a little boy, six goats, a donkey and some hens.

The child, the donkey and the fowls soon died, but the goats helped the women to survive, their milk supplementing the thirty or forty cakes and the pocketful of chestnuts upon which they depended for food. Hope of finding the women alive had been abandoned when far in April the brother of one had a dream in which she appealed to him for rescue.

The weather then at last made excavation possible, and the women were restored to the world and presently to health.—Chicago News.

Dew as Drinking Water.

The English administration at Gibraltar, where water is very scarce, collects dew by the following very simple method: A large pit is dug in the earth and covered with dry wood or straw, which in turn is covered either with earth or with sheet iron. The straw or wood serves as a heat insulator and effectually prevents the conduction of heat from the ground to the layer of earth or the sheet iron above. Consequently this earth or iron cools after sunset much more rapidly than the ground, so that its temperature soon falls below the dew point of the surrounding air; hence dew is formed upon the iron or the layer of earth in very large quantities. The water thus obtained is drained off into reservoirs and after clarification is used for drinking.—Scientific American.

Sheep as Land Cleaners.

In discussing the value of sheep on a country place their service as land cleaners should not be ignored. They like pasture grasses, but they seem to like weeds and bushes even better for browse. They will often clean up an old field in a year or two, so that what was a tangle of unsightly weeds and shrubs will appear a smooth shaven lawn. Angoras are simply wonders at this sort of thing, but the common, everyday sheep of the ordinary breed will do mighty good work if you confine her to her job and put in enough of her. Five years ago one small pasture of mine was a veritable chaparral of thorn-bushes and solidago. I set the ewes in it, and today it's as pretty a bit of award as there is on the ranch—bushless and weedless and thick turfed.—Country Life in America.

SOFT VELVETY FABRICS AND CLINGING SILKS STILL LEAD

The soft, supple qualities of the new materials have influenced our styles to a marked degree the past season and doubtless will continue to tempt designers into quaint graceful drapings and folds the coming season. Skirts are full at the top and narrow around the ankles; shoulders are drooping and hips are wide. This sums up the new silhouette. Whereas the suit or gown of one color with hat and accessories matching is still smart and elegant, many of the newest gowns and suits show a decided leaning toward contrasts. A plain silk or cloth is combined with a figured material or a plaid with excellent results.

In number 8115-8117 is shown a three-tiered skirt and a novel bodice. The bodice is draped on the shoulder in bournous effect, has a full length sleeve and an effective vest. One of those odd little details that do so much for a frock is the wired frill around the throat and at the wrist. This of course follows the idea of the lamp-shade tunic. Dull green duvetyn edged with fur fashions the blouse and double tunic; the revers and foundation skirt are of embossed velvet, green with a dull coppery figure.

This costume may be made in size 36 with 2⅝ yards of 36-inch material for the blouse (8115) and 3⅝ yards of 36-inch material for the skirt (8117).

Here again in 8150 we note the contrasting blouse and skirt. A figured crêpe de Chine is combined with a plain silk poplin. The surplice vest is of chiffon and the girdle is of faille ribbon.

For size 36 this design requires 6¼ yards of 36-inch material.

Number 8150—sizes 32 to 42.
Number 8115—sizes 32 to 42.

IN THE FEMININE DEMAND FOR SMARTNESS HIP DRAPERIES HOLD FIRST PLACE

At a recent fashionable wedding it was remarked that there was scarcely a gown that did not show some form of hip drapery. From the wired minaret they ranged to the narrow puffed ruffle, but the effect was nearly the same in all cases.

These ruffles, panniers and flaring tunics made up gracefully in these new soft taffetas, stand out to just the graceful degree without wire or bones. Taffetas has been nearly perfected both in texture and wearing qualities. It is as soft and pliable as the old time surah and does not crack as formerly.

Aside from the taffetas there are many other effective silks and numerous cotton fabrics that will be favored for the South and later for spring in the North. In choosing gowns and suits for the southern resorts one should always keep in mind the fact that spring is close upon us and have the garments suited to that season as well.

No. 8202 is developed in a hair-line taffetas, a soft green with the line of white; the tucker is of cream colored net, and the crush velvet girdle has a Roman stripe.

This costume may be copied in size 36 with 6⅛ yards of 36-inch taffetas, averaging in price $1.25 a yard.

The costume shown in 8187-8190 shows the effectiveness of a plain cotton duvetyn combined with one of the new checked novelty cottons. The coat (8187) is terra cotta color and the skirt shows a plaid of the same color in darker tones.

Cotton duvetyn averages 42 inches in width and comes from $1.25 a yard up. The checked cottons range in width from 27 to 45 inches and in price from 45 cents up.

This costume may be copied in size 36 with 3 yards of 36 inch material for the coat (8187) and 3⅞ yards of the same width for the skirt (8190).

No. 8202—sizes 34 to 42.

Every Weak Throat Quickly Strengthened And Bronchitis Cured

Grand Results Follow the Direct Breathing Remedy, Which Cures Without Drugging

The country is fairly wild over the wonderful recovery that throat sufferers are making ever day with Catarrhozone. From ocean to ocean comes letters telling of rapid cures—and cures when the complaint was chronic and long standing. It's a brand new principle upon which Catarrhozone works—not a single dose of medicine to take—nothing to upset the stomach or spoil digestion.

You can breathe through the Catarrhozone Inhaler medicated air that is full of healing, soothing, balsams, full of piney, antiseptic essences that resemble the air of the pine woods in the Adirondacks. The piney vapor has a truly marvelous action on weak throats. It brings strength and health to the bronchitic, stops that hacking, irritating cough, prevents hoarseness and difficult breathing. You can't find anything for weak-throated people on earth more beneficial than Catarrhozone. It means heaven on earth to the man that has had bronchitis, catarrh or throat irritation. You will realize this the first time you use Catarrhozone, which is a scientific preparation designed for diseases of the nose, throat and bronchial tubes. Get the large size, it lasts two months, costs $1.00 medium size, 50c.; sample size, 25c. All storekeepers and druggists, or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Smith's Largest Funeral

Possibly the most largely attended funeral ever held in the township of Smith, was that of Friday, when the last mortal remains of the late Mrs. Robert Deyell, of the 4th line, were laid to rest. There were 132 conveyances in the long and solemn cortege.

House Burned Saturday.

The frame dwelling at the corner of Water and Langton avenue, occupied by Mr. Wm. Gilmour, was destroyed by fire on Saturday afternoon. The loss is about $3,000. Chief Howard noticed the fire as he was driving to the waterworks dam. He sent in the alarm, but as it was a two mile run for the horses, the fire gained headway and little could be done.

New Hotel For Millbrook.

Mr. J C. Kells, of Millbrook, is authority for saying that a new hotel is being fitted up in Millbrook, to be first-class in every respect. The premises secured is the large brick building formerly occupied by J. W. Gillett, King street, and is to be fitted up with modern heating, plumbing and and lighting systems. 3

McClay Again Remanded.

The young local tailor, McClay, after some weeks residence in Castle Nesbitt, since being found guilty of administering drugs to a girl he got into trouble, was up before Judge Huycke Saturday morning for sentence. The extreme penalty for this offense is two year in prison. His Honor again remanded McClay, this time until Friday next.

Horse Than a Porcupine.

Norwood Register: A few weeks ago it was a porcupine that was discovered in a hollow log at W. C. Harrison's saw mill. On Saturday something considerably more vexing was found embedded in the centre of a large elm log, viz., an iron wedge, which was responsible for forty two broken teeth on the big saw. Apparently the wedge had been placed in the log some forty or fifty years ago.

"CASCARETS" RELIEVE SICK, SOUR STOMACH

Move acids, gases and clogged-up waste from Stomach, Liver, Bowels—Cure Indigestion.

Get a 10-cent box now.

That awful sourness, belching of acid and foul gases; that pain in the pit of the stomach, the heartburn, nervousness, nausea, bloating after eating, dizziness and sick headache, means a disordered stomach, which cannot be regulated until you remove the cause. It isn't your stomach's fault. Your stomach is as good as any.

Try Cascarets; they immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested the fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the bowels. Then your stomach trouble is ended. A Cascaret to-night will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box from any drug store will keep your stomach sweet; liver and bowels regular for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

SPEED FIENDS IN LONG GRIND FOR THE GRAND PRIX OVER SANTA MONICA COURSE

Crack American Automobile Drivers Cover Early Laps in Fast Time—Employe Killed on Way to Starting Mark—Tire Trouble Stops Several

Santa Monica, Cal., Feb. 28.—Fighteen racing drivers faced the starter when he sent away the first car, driven by Teddy Tetzlaff, on the first lap of the fifth 403.24 mile international Grand Prix over the Santa Monica course at 10 o'clock to-day. A cheering throng lined the 8.4 mile course as Tetzlaff tore away. The crowd was variously estimated at from 120,000 to 150,000, many of whom had been encamped at the course thruout the night.

Before the start De Palma, winner of the Vanderbilt cup race on Thursday, Barney Oldfield and Tetzlaff were favorites, with Earle Cooper and Edwin Fullen second choices. After Tetzlaff the cars left at 15-second intervals in the fillowing order: 2, Spencer Wishart; 3 Gill Anderson; 4 Edward Fullen; 5 William Carlson; 6 B. Kyler; 7 Barney Oldfield; 8 Earnie Cooper; 9 Huntley Gordon; 10, Frank Goode; 11, Ralph De Palma; 12, J. B Marquis; 13, Charles Muth; 14, Dave Lewis; 15, Guy Ball; 16, Frank Verbeek; 17, Tony Jeanette; 18, B. Richenbacher.

Carlson who won third money in the Vanderbilt cup contest, broke a crank shaft on the way to the course to-day and was forced to give up all thought of racing. This left seventeen starters.

Paul Frederick Stanal, employe of a Los Angeles automobile firm, was killed to-day when his car on the way to Santa Monica Grand Prix race struck a curb and turned over.

Teddy Tetzlaff, who set the Santa Monica course record of 78.72 miles an hour, made the first lap to-day at 81 miles an hour, but in the first three laps had to stop twice to change flat tires. Wishart going 84 miles an hour led at the end of 15 laps. Verbeek, driving No. 18, was officially declared out on account of engine trouble.

Positions at the end of eleven laps were Wishart, Fullen, Anderson and Tetzlaff.

WORMS! YES, THAT'S IT WORMS IS THE TROUBLE—

Many Suffer From Them and Do Not Know It.

Many go to an early grave on account of them and have been pronounced to have had brain fever or some other complaint.

Prof. Mulvaney Comes to the Rescue

His Wonderful Remedies are saving thousands of lives.

Why not try his remedies, they are sure, certain and harmless.

Stomach worms are round like earth worms, and measure from 8 to 16 inches in length, the large ones being about the size of a lead pencil in thickness. They are white and sometimes pink in color; they infest the stomach and small intestines, and sometimes great numbers are found to exist. One of my customers claim one of his children passed thirty from the use of my remedy. It does not require much thought to come to the conclusion that these worms are very dangerous, as they cause fever, convulsions, fits, etc. Many persons have died from worms and they have been known to crawl out of their mouth and nose after death. Just imagine the suffering and terrible agony a child or adult must experience with these disgusting and loathsome creatures crawling about in the stomach and bowels. There is no doubt that they are constantly taking the nourishment that should go to make a strong, healthy person. Is it any wonder that your child is cross, irritable and sickly? Adults are also restless, melancholy and miserable from the same cause, and are sometimes treated for dyspepsia, nervous prostration and other complaints. My remedy is in liquid form and is an excellent remedy for build up the system, and can be taken for some time after the worms have been expelled to build up the system, which generally requires it, as the stomach and bowels are generally in a weak and debilitated condition, caused by the [illegible] these undesirable pests. My remedy, known as Mother's Friend, is pleasant and agreeable to take and is a life-saver for children, and not only destroys worms but [illegible] and builds up the child [illegible] the bed, convulsions and [illegible] destroys pin worms. NO APPLICATION FOR GOVERNMENT AID BY CANADIAN NORTHERN

Hon. Mr. White, in Statement, Clears the Air of "Persistent" Rumors

Ottawa, Mar. 2.—An important statement made by Hon. W. T. White to-day completely clears the air in regard to the financial situation. There has been no application for a loan from the Canadian Northern Railway and in addition none is expected. Mr. White's words were as follows:

"No application for aid by way of loan has been or is expected to be received by the Government from any company."

This statement is taken to mean that if any aid is given the C.N.R. it will not be by way of a loan. A cash subsidy is still more unlikely so that in that case the best Mackenzie and Mann apparently can possibly expect would be the guarantee of bonds.

No Loan to Corporation.

Mr. White also gave a most emphatic denial to the rumor in a number of papers that there was to be a further issue later on for the purpose of making aloan to a railway corporation.

The Finance Minister said that the revenues of the Dominion would be sufficient to meet all current and capital expenditure for the present fiscal year ending March 31st next. The borrowing of the Dominion in London during the last six months and including the present issue had been necessary for the following special purposes:

(1)—To meet sterling and currency last year amounting to ten million maturities in October and November dollars.

(2)—To pay the special subsidies to the Canadian Northern Railway Companies under last year's legislation.

To Finish Mountain Section.

(3)—To purchase 3 per cent bonds of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company guaranteed by the Dominion Government which otherwise would from time to time have been issued by the Railway Company on the London market. The proceeds of these bonds had been and were being devoted to the construction of the Mountain section of the railway.

(4)—To make the loan to the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company under the guarantee of the Grand Trunk Company authorized by the legislation of last session. The guaranteed bonds of the Grand Trunk Pacific referred to became assets in the Dominion Treasury.

Mr. White added that the proceeds of the new issue being made in London at the present time would after redemption give a million pounds treasury bills maturing in March, which would be ample to meet all balances payable under the above mentioned heads.

MONTREAL HARD HIT BY STORM SERVICES GO OUT OF BUSINESS

March, People in Metropolis Admitted, Came in a Lion-Like Fashion

Montreal, Mar. 2.—March made its debut in Montreal and the country to the south in a lion-like fashion, the fifty mile an hour gale and snow storm playing havoc with the wires of the telegraph and telephone companies. Communication between Montreal and points south to New York was suspended at an early hour, reports reaching here that the wire systems had been broken in half a dozen places. In the city the poles and wires of the electric light companies were torn up and sections of the city's streets were in darkness for hours. All over Montreal plate glass windows were blown in, while the streets were strewn with overhead signs which the wind had wrenched from buildings.

The snow was of the "rubber" variety and soon hampered the street railway cars and interruptions in the service were frequent. The Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific Railways also had difficulty in keeping their lines open. The loss to telegraph, telephone and railway companies is estimated up in the hundreds in this district alone.

Two planks were blown from the second storey of the Dandurand building at the corner of St. Denis and St. Catherine streets. In falling they crashed down on two women who stood waiting for a car at the corner, knocking them both to the street. An ambulance was called from the Notre Dame Hospital, but neither women was injured seriously. They went home instead.

STARTLING EVIDENCE IN THE RECENT CANAL DISCLOSURES

Referring to a report in yesterday's Times to the effect that Engineer Killaly of Cornwall had arrived in the city to take charge of the Trent Canal offices. This, as is generally known is due to recent disclosures of alleged "mal-faisance" on the part of some of the former officials now under suspension. Yesterday Mr. Killaly began the work of reorganization.

In the recent developments unearthed by Mr. Ferguson, in the alleged pay-rolls in which the word "laborer" appears.

A sample of the evidence shown is as follows: "Witness, sworn, examined by Mr. Ferguson, K.C.; Question "Referring to the time sheet?" Answer, "Time pay sheet." Question, referring to April, 1910, "Who is ——, down as laborer?" Answer, "I don't know. He lives out in the north there"

Question, "What was that $4.85 paid for?" Answer, "For working on the 1st, 2nd, 4th and part of the 5th day of April, 1910 on boom slides and dams."

Question, "Now turn me up May, 1910?"

Answer, "I know who —— is now. He is the man who has the (well known business in the city) He is in business here in the city.

Question, "Was he working on the Canal works?"

Answer, "No, he was not."

Question, "How is he down as laborer?"

Answer, "Well, there is an account. I don't know. That was put in by the old bookkeeper and certified by the overseer and that is Clarry's figures. He was not a laborer."

Question, "Do you find —— in May on this time sheet for May (same man) 12?"

Answer, "Yes,"

Question "Laborer?"

Answer, "Well, that is the same man," and so on.

* * * *

Question, "Who are these slips supposed to come from?"

Answer, "They are supposed to be made out by the foreman on the work and certified by him and checked by the overseer and the overseer signs the pay sheet."

THE SHORTAGE OF EXPLOSIVES.

J. H. McClellan, sworn, "Why did you not have it (the 1,000 pounds) transferred to your own magazine?"

Answer, "I don't know, that is one thing I cannot understand."

Cinnamon, sworn, said he was billed for the full amount. He demanded of Kingan & Co. that shortage be made up. It was.

In two lots a shortage of 1743 pounds.

The purchases were made by Mr. McClellan from Kingan & Co., and the stuffed bill went through to Cinnamon without Cinnamon's order. Kingan practically admits this.

Joseph Yelland, sworn, said he was ordered by McClellan and Clarry to do canvassing for Mr. Stratton before the election and that he was paid in pay sheet of government.

GOVERNMENT AID IN FARMERS BANK CASE

Ottawa, Mar. 2.—Legislation will be brought down at an early date by the Minister of Finance having for its purpose the reimbursement of the depositors of the defunct Farmers Bank. This legislation has been pending since the end of last session. The amount which the depositors are estimated to have lost is in the neighborhood of a million and a quarter, and it is believed that the government will reimburse the greater part of that amount. It is not expected that the shareholders will be considered in the matter, since the reimbursement of the depositors will relieve the shareholders to a large extent on the double liability.

EVANTUREL STILL UNDICIDED

Toronto, Mar. 2.—Mr. Gustave Evanturel, Opposition member from Prescott, was the first M.P.P. to put in an appearance in the Legislative Assembly this forenoon, but he is still undecided as to what action he will take with regard to the statement which has been asked of him by the Government, touching upon the suggested $10,000 deal with the Hotel-keepers' Association.

The member has not yet been back to Prescott to call the mass meeting which he announced, but is still confident that they will back him up in any action he has taken. He states that to-day or to-morrow will doubtless see whatever announcement he chooses to make.

MURDEROUS YOUTH IS SENT TO PRISON

Roland Hatch Wounded James McLennan With Intent to Kill Him.

Toronto, Mar. 2.—Roland Hatch, 20 years of age, was to-day sentenced by Magistrate Denison to two years in Kingston Penitentiary for wounding James McLennan, with intent to kill. The prisoner in company with a man whose identity is not disclosed, entered Mr. McLennan's coal office, 121 Sackville street, last Wednesday night and while the proprietor was writing an order for some coal, struck him over the head with a hammer.

The injured man in the police to-day identified Hatch as his assailant, and the latter pleaded guilty to the charge of wounding. He admitted stealing the hammer from an employment agency on Front street, and said he intended to rob the merchant.

Hatch, who is an Englishman, has been in Canada only a year and served a six months' term in the Central Prison for robbing a North Bay Hotel.

THIEVES FAIL TO GET GRAFT PAPERS

New York, March 2.—Discovery was made to-day of an attempt to break into a steel file cabinet in the district attorney's office containing all the evidence recently gathered here by the John Doe and grand jury investigations of state highway graft.

Someone gained entrance to the office of John K. Clark, one of District Attorney Whitman's assistants, and tried to unlock the cabinet. The key that was used broke off in the lock where it remained as evidence of the attempted robbery.

Mr. Clark and his chief clerk James Barry, were in Albany yesterday and the office was closed. Although the office was carefully guarded entrance was gained apparently through a window opening into a corridor. The only clue was the broken key.

Mr. Clark said he believed there was a plot to steal some important papers. As a result of the incident, the office will be equipped with a burglar alarm system.

GALE WAS RECORD BREAKER, BLOWING 84 MILES AN HOUR

Fiercest Storm in Record of the Local Observatory Brings in March

Toronto, Mar. 2.—Surpassing the velocity of all gales previously recorded in Toronto by 27 miles an hour, a fierce hurricane ushered in March, with the wildest, though not perhaps, the most destructive, weather the city has known. For 12 hours at a stretch the wind blew at a rate exceeding 50 miles an hour, and for five minutes it touched the hitherto unprecedented figure of 84 miles an hour. It was the nearest approach to a tornado that Toronto citizens have ever experienced. By 11 o'clock this morning, the gale had subsided to a mere 40 miles an hour zepher and by noon, it had sunk to a barely perceptible puff of air travelling at only half a mile a minute, a mere nothing compared with the mile and a half a minute breeze of yesterday afternoon. By to-morrow, the air will be quite calm.

TESTIFIES BUFFUM ONCE TALKED OF AS KILLING FAMILY

Little Valey, N.Y., Mar. 2.—Swearing of four witnesses in rebuttal, the defence at 5 o'clock to-day rested its case against the charge of murder on which Mrs. Cynthia Buffum is being tried. Justice Charles H. Brown will charge the jury to-morrow afternoon before adjournment.

Patrick S. Collins, Mrs. Buffum's attorney, closed his proof early this afternoon calling but four witnesses. From them he elicited further statements that Willis Buffum, the alleged poison victim, before his death had threatened the life of his wife and himself.

Would Kill Whole Family.

Dr. William Leslie, of Phoenix, N. Y., testified that twelve years ago Willis Buffum came to him for treatment and on leaving said:

"I guess I will get rid of the whole family."

Mrs. Buffum went through a final grilling to-day by Special Prosecutor Cole and her life story was intimately detailed in the questions put to her by Lawyer Collins. In her direct examination she said that she had been married when 15 years old.

Less than three months after the wedding she said her husband accused her of infidelity and continued to repeat the charges all during their married life, particularly when Buffum was under the influence of liquor. She denied that she had any infatuation for Ernest Frahm, her alleged accomplice, or that he had ever suggested they live together after getting rid of the husband.

Mr. Collins went over every statement in the confession of December 10 and the woman firmly denied the truth of each paragraph.

Loved Husband, She Says.

Under cross-examination Mrs. Buffum never wavered in her general denial of the confession. At times she gave indignant answers, apparently guarding herself against possible traps. She said the confession had been forced by the private detectives.

"When your husband made those vile charges against you," Mr. Cole asked her, "did you love him?"

"I did. I did not like them. I hated to have the children hear them. I intended to leave him several times with my babies. But there was the children. We would get mad, of course, but then it would blow over."

EARL MINTO, FORMER GOVERNOR-GENERAL, DIES AT FAMILY HOME

After Several Weeks Illness Distinguished Pro-Consul of Empire Called to Rest.

London, Mar. 2.—Gilbert John Murray Kynynmond Elliott, the fourth Earl of Minto, is dead at the home of his ancestors, Hawick, Roxburgshire, Scotland, after several weeks' illness. He was 68. Viscount Melgund succeeds to the title and large estates.

Lord Minto will be remembered as a man of infinite tact. His tenure of office in Canada as Governor-General from 1898 to 1904 was uneventful, but that was the result of his fine sense of the proprieties; he always knew what to do and say at the proper moment.

And he had an awkward post in India. As Viceroy of India, Lord Minto was forced to set himself against native malice and treachery and a distinct doctrine of sedition. Bombay troubles added to his cares. He survived the crisis with his reputation enhanced.

Lord Minto was essentially a country gentleman and a sportsman rather than a statesman or a diplomat, yet he twice filled high offices as the Crown's representative with conspicuous success.

BOSTON ELOPERS ARE ARRESTED AT GIBRALTAR

Boston, Mar. 2.—The elopement of Gaetano Razetto, the 51-year-old superintendent of the Hunnewell estate in Wellesley, and Theresa M. Galiano, of South Boston, aged 20 years, was checked yesterday when the pair were taken off the White Star Liner Canopic at Gibraltar, Spain, and the police authorities of Boston were notified.

Arrangements were begun at once to secure extradition papers and to send officers to bring them back. Razetto will be charged with abduction and Miss Galiano will be held as a witness, the man is married, and his wife, who lives with a brother in Natick, is ignorant of her husband's situation.

Razetto and Miss Galiano, who sailed under the names of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Russo, were captured through clever detective work by the girl's sister, Mrs. Victoria Oransellano, who traced them through a sailing list of the White Star line and notified the authorities. Inspector Silas. Waite was put on the case.

LICENSE AND BYLAW NIGHT WITH THE CITY FATHERS

$40 License for Sale of Cigarettes---Milk, Laundry and Eating House Bylaw Pass Council--Branch Post Office is Suggested

The City Fathers met in regular monthly session last night, Mayor Buller presiding. There were also present Aldermen McIntyre, Anderson, Langford, Johnston, Green, Duffus, Gordon, Stratton, Duncan and Saunders.

The Police Commissioners made a demand for $13,095.85 with which to meet their requirements for the current year.

Dr. McPherson's resignation as Medical Health Officer was to hand. He could not see his way clear to continue in office at $800 a year.

The Medical Health Association sent in a resolution seeking the retention of Dr. McPherson as Medical Health Officer.

Drs. Young, Amys and Brown applied for the position of Medical Health Officer at the salary heretofore paid—$800 ayear.

$600 FOR EXHIBITION.

A deputation from the Peterborough Agricultural Association was present and asked for the same grant as last year—$600.—This was granted.

County auctioneers asked for a reduction of their license fee of $50 to $25 for the right to sell within the city limits. The county fee is $25. On motion of Ald. Gordon and Green the Legal Committee will have a bylaw prepared reducing the fee to $25 as petitioned.

EXTENSION OF GARBAGE COLLECTION.

This matter was sent back to the Property Committee for further consideration. Ald. McIntyre wants the whole of East City eliminated from the collection area; Ald Anderson suggested the elimination of a portion of East City. Ald. Green objected to the cost of such collection being assessed against properties. He could not for instance, understand why foundries should be assessed for this service, nor why he, with one house on ten acres of land, should be assessed in proportion to the value of his property. He did not mind the 15c per month charge of last year against such householder, but argued that charging for collection against all properties within the defined area would prove an injustice in some cases. Incidentally, Ald. Green remarked that he did not object to paying on his Park street frontage, but took exception to being assessed also for his frontage away back to the boundary.

The question of fowl being drawn, cleaned and sold by weight on the market also went back to the Property Committee for reconsideration. Exception was taken to the drawing and cleaning of fowl before offered for sale, but not to their being sold by weight.

MEMBER OF CITY TRUST.

Ex-Mayor Bradburn having refused the appointment as a member of the City Trust Commission, Ald. Johnston moved that the office go to Mr. Jas. Kendry, seconded by Ald. Langford.

Ald. Green nominated ex-Mayor Harry Rush, with no seconder.

Ald. Stratton nominated Mr. E. F. Mason, seconded by Ald. Anderson.

The appointment subsequently went to Mr. Jas. Kendry on an unanimous vote, and a by-law governing the same passed council.

BY-LAWS.

A by-law to license and regulate eating houses passed council, as read in committee. The by-law goes into effect April 1. The fee is $5.

A by-law to license and regulate laundries passed as previously read in committee. The fee is $1 per year. The by-law goes into force April 1.

The milk by-law passed muster as read in committee and previously reported.

A by-law to license and restrain the running at large of dogs passed its three readings. The fees and provisions are the same as heretofore. The police, however, will now issue the licenses instead of the City Clerk.

A by-law authorizing a grant of $500 to the 57th Regiment Band passed its several readings.

A by-law to authorize the licensing and regulating of billiard rooms, bowling alleys and shooting galleries passed council.

CIGARETTE BY-LAW.

Ald. Anderson fathered a by-law to license and regulate the sale by retail of cigarettes. The Chief Constable shall report on all applications for these licenses as to character, etc. The fee had been fixed at $40 a year which Ald. Gordon thought prohibitive in favor of the few licensed hotels and large dealers; it would be said, shut out the corner stores and barber shops; the profit on a ten cent box, is but one cent. He suggested a nominal fee of $1.

Ald. Anderson replied that with a nominal fee of $1 the by-law might as well be shelved. The idea of the by-law is to segregate the sale of cigarettes amongst the few responsible dealers, so that the police can watch their sale; and to eliminate their use by juveniles.

The fee was left at $40 a year. Any violator of the by-law will be subject to suspension or forfeiture of license at the discretion of the Mayor, City Clerk, Chairman of the Finance Committee, or Chief of Police. The by-law carried.

Ald. McIntyre and Ald. Gordon moved that the attention of Mr Burnham, M.P., be drawn to the need of a branch post office in the neighborhood of the present office when the central post office is established at Sherbrooke street.

BRANCH POST OFFICE WANTED.

This resolution was withdrawn on the understanding that when representatives from the Government visit this city in connection with the new post office scheme, they be pressed to provide for a branch post office.

DELAVAL DRAIN

On motion of Ald. Gordon the question of opening up the drain from the DeLaval property, south, will be taken up with the reeve of North Monaghan by Ald. Duncan, chairman of the Board of Works. The object is to start this work as early as possible.

RINKS AND BATHING HOUSES.

On motion of Ald. Johnston and Gordon the School Boards and Secretary of the Y.M.C.A. will be conferred with by a committee named by the Mayor to go into the question of providing skating rinks on school grounds, and public bathing places. The committee are Aldermen Johnston, Gordon, Stratton and Duffus.

DR. McPHERSON'S RESIGNATION GOES TO A SPECIAL COMMITTEE

Also Applications For His Position of Medical Health Officer--Three Local Doctors Apply for Job at Same Salary

At last night's meeting of the City Council, Medical Health Officer Dr. McPherson's resignation was read. He could not see his way clear to continue in office without an increase of $200 above the $800 a year he has been receiving.

A letter from the Medical Association, urging his retention in office, was also to hand.

Ald. Duncan thought this matter should go to a special committee to be named by His Worship.

Ald. Duffus concurred in this, and said Dr. McPherson was a splendid official, who could not readily be replaced.

The Mayor said a committee could do as they liked, but he would not go on his knees to Dr. McPherson and ask him to withdraw his resignation. The doctor had asked for $200 increase, and although Council had not definitely acted on the request, he had stated that he must have the $200, and subsequently sent in his written resignation. Dr. McPherson seems to take the stand that he won't withdraw his resignation unless council crawls to him. His worship did not think the ratepayers endorsed the doctor's attitude.

Ald. Duncan—"You misunderstand me, Mr. Mayor. I don't think any committee is going to kneel or crawl to Dr. McPherson. What I want is a committee to consider his resignation together with applications for the position, and if the doctor wishes to withdraw his resignation he can do so. The committee to report to the council. Some of the very men who attended that meeting of the local Medical Health Association have applied for Dr. McPherson's position at the old salary."

Ald. Duncan here moved, seconded by Ald. Duffus, that the doctor's resignation and applications for the position of Medical Health Officer, go to a committee to report back to council.

The Mayor—"I have no objection to that, and if Dr. McPherson wishes to withdraw his resignation he can do so." The resolution here carried.

The Mayor named Aldermen Duncan, Gordon, Duffus, and Johnston the committee.

GERMANY'S LATEST MOVE

Germany proposes a sort of permanent get-acquainted naval policy for the Atlantic and Pacific. Flying cruiser squadrons of that nation are to patrol the two oceans, impressing upon all and sundry that the German flag amounts to something more than a mere rag.

This latest move by the Germans is not likely to increase the peace of mind of either Japan or the United States, to say nothing of its effect in Great Britain. It would not be surprising of as a result of it the [illegible] the British Admiralty is able to get from parliament all the money it needs to offset the estimate reductions recently insisted upon by Lloyd George, with possibly some further increases.

GRAFT IN JAPAN

Japan has at last become entirely civilized. The recent charges of graft against the Admiralty put the Japanese on a plane with other people, yet there is little doubt that graft or centuries has flourished in the empire, but the great power of the Mikado as well as bureaucratic discipline, kept it all well under cover

In the Japan of today the voice of the people has finally been heard, and governmental information that was formerly the property of a few officials has become the possession of the people, and the fact that naval officers were charged with receiving bribes from a German firm dealing in naval supplies revealed achange from the old order. But the popular demonoustration that followed was even more surprising, as fifteen thousand people assembled to join in condemnation of the government. While the Premier Yamamoto was invited to resign, the invitation to Rear Admiral Fujii was more earnest and drastic. He was requested to commit hari-kari.

A few years ago mere suspicion that he was dishonest would have caused a Japanese official to commit hari-kari, but another generation has risen and Rear Admiral Fujii will probably adopt our method of nemanding an investigating committee. Whether or not the art of political white-washing has reached Japan, we do not know, but it probably has.

Any Headache Cured, Tired Systems Re-Toned

When You're Dull, Tired, Restless Day and Night Something is Wrong in the Stomach

A Prominent Publishing Man Says the Quickest Cure is Dr. Hamilton's Pills

Headaches never come to those who use Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and this fact is vouched for by the Assistant Manager of the Poultry Success Magazine, of Springfield, O., Mr. J. H. Callander, who writes: "No better medicine than Dr. Hamilton's Pills. We use them regularly and know of marvelous cures that resisted everything else. They cleanse the whole system, act as tonic on the blood, enliven digestion, help the stomach, and make you feel strong and well. For headaches, indigestion and stomach disorders I am confident that the one prescription is Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

Being composed of natural vegetable remedies, Dr. Hamilton's Pills possess great power, yet they are harmless. They aid all organs connected with the stomach, liver, and bowels. In consequence, food is properly digested, the blood is pure and nourishing, the body is kept strong and resists disease. HOME HEALTH CLUB

DR. DAVID H. REEDER,

FASTING.—The great majority of physicians and perhaps 95 per cent of this country have a very vague and indefinite idea of what is called "the fasting cure." That's the reason I am going to tell you something about it. Practical everyday happenings are the most forceful and impressive and, therefore, I will tell you of three Home Health Club cases, and what fastings did for three women.

The first was a maiden of forty. In health she weighed 160 pounds and did all of the housework for a family of six on a farm. I do not recall the details of her first illness, but I do remember that within six months she was reduced to a lot of flabby skin and bones that weighed 98 pounds. She had a good appetite and ate as much as ever but gained neither flesh nor strength. I ordered a change of diet and as the tongue was heavily coated told her to fast for 3 or 4 days, until the tongue cleared. She paid attention only to the later part of the suggestion and fasted 21 days before the tongue was clear. I had given careful instruction to the method of of breaking the fast and she obeyed religiously. During the 3 weeks fast she lost but little weight, felt well, was bright, active and cheerful. Of course, her family all thought she would die sure, but [illegible] days after breaking the fast she weighed 128 pounds and was doing the house work as of old. I hear from her frequently and always the same story of how she keeps well by an occasional fast of a few days and a return to the specific diet which I had recommended.

The second case was that of a farmer's wife of Iowa. She was only 5 feet 3 inches tall and weighed 206 pounds. She had not been up stairs in her own house for over two years and could not walk farther than 2 or 3 city blocks. After a few days fast—about 5 if I remember correctly—I changed her diet completely. [illegible] told her she would surely die if she ate only what I allowed, but at the end of three months she was not only sleeping up stairs, doing her own housework, (which before she was unable to do,) but walked 1½ miles daily to a place where she secured a portion of her special diet and then walked back home. During the three months she lost just 67 pounds in weight and was then and has since, been in perfect health, althought as a measure of protections she fasts a few days occasionally.

The third case is more recent. A city flat dweller, aged 50, weight 217½ pounds. She climbed one flight of stairs to the Home Health Club offices and had to sit for 5 minutes before she could talk, meantime her breath coming in little gasps. How well I remember her next visit at the end of her first fast of 7 days. First, however, bear in mind that she had for several years been an invalid with three trips to the hospital and each time an operation. She had been so badly cut up that the only reason that could be found for another operation was the fact that her husband had several hundred dollars in the bank. The plans had already been laid to make another trip to the hospital where they would amputate, let me see what was it they were to amputate; oh yes, the bank balance. Her husband still has it however, and when she came in after the 7 days fast she climbed the stairs with the utmost ease and told me that in spite of her husband's and neighbors' predictions that she would be bedfast, she had not felt so well and strong for several years. Her friends hardly know the woman now, she is well, strong and happy.

Yes, there is danger in fasting when it is done intelligently. There are no two cases exactly alike and unless one knows just what the sensible regime is and just how to break the fast, be it short or long, more harm than good may possibly be done, but if good practical common-sense is used and the breaking of the fast is properly arranged, nothing but the very best of results will follow.

I will gladly go into details for the benefit of any specific case if you wish to know how to treat yourself through the fasting cure.

Dear Doctor—The following which I cut from a newspaper regarding the cure of bed wetting I thought would be appreciated by many a mother: My little girl, five years old, has been bothered a great deal in the daytime as well as nights. A friend of mine told me that her son was affected the same until he was 17 years old, and tried all kinds of medicine [illegible] relief. The one who [illegible] her a very good [illegible] cure him. It is this: When [illegible] he child's bed put one or two [illegible] under his hips. Lay it so that the patient is not [illegible]. The head should be a trifle [illegible] the hips [illegible] the bed [illegible] made [illegible] is quite [illegible] child is [illegible] although I still make her bed that way. I have made it that way for three months. My friend said she did it [illegible] M. [illegible]

This is a timely suggestion [illegible] inquiries [illegible] have been received [illegible] the cure certainly seems [illegible] do no harm, though further [illegible] may be necessary in some cases.

Dear Doctor: Please [illegible] what to do for mumps? There is quite an epidemic around us [illegible] prevent taking the disease [illegible]

In the Home Health Club [illegible] quite [illegible] for the treatment of that trouble. The diet must be light and easily digested and the bowels must be kept free. The patient should be kept indoors unless the weather is unusually warm and [illegible] Place a bandage around the swollen glands and bind after having applied a liniment of equal quantities of extract of lobelia and [illegible]. Both of these you can get of your druggist. It is also [illegible] and night, followed with [illegible]. Take also internally ginger tea [illegible] hot drinks. [illegible] generally get quite nervous after an attack of mumps, and need something to build them up. An infusion of [illegible] would be most excellent for the purpose.

WORMS! YES, THAT'S IT WORMS IS THE TROUBLE

Many Suffer From [illegible] and Do Not Know It.

Many go to an early grave on account of them and have been pronounced to have had brain fever or some other complaint.

Prof. Mulvenny Comes to the Rescue

His Wonderful Remedies are [illegible] by thousands of users.

Why not try his remedies, they are sure, certain and harmless.

Stomach worms are round like earth worms, and measure from 8 to 16 inches in length, the large one being about the size of a lead pencil in thickness. They are white and sometimes pink in color; they infest the stomach and small intestines and sometimes great numbers are found to exist. One of my customers claim one of his children passed thirty from the use of my remedy. It does not require much thought to come to the conclusion that these worms are very dangerous, as they cause fever, [illegible], fits, etc. Many persons have died from worms and they have been known to crawl out of their mouth and nose after death. Just imagine the suffering and terrible agony a child or adult must experience with these disgusting and loathsome creatures crawling about in the stomach and bowels. There is no doubt that they are constantly taking the nourishment that should go to make a strong, healthy person. Is it any wonder that your child is cross, irritable and sickly. Adults are also restless, melancholy and miserable from the same cause and are sometimes treated for dyspepsia, nervous prostration and other complaints. My remedy is in liquid form and is an excellent remedy to build up the system, and can be taken for some time after the worms have been expelled to build up the system, which generally requires it as the stomach and bowels are generally in a weak and debilitated condition, caused by the ravages of these undesirable pests. My remedy known as Mother's Friend, is pleasant and agreeable to take and is a life-saver for children, as it not only destroys worms but strengthens and builds up the child, cures wetting of the bed, convulsions and fits; destroys pin worms. The price is $1.00. My remedy known as B'Well is much better for adults, and is the greatest nerve remedy on earth. Cures all nerve troubles, cleanses the system, restores lost energy and is a life saver. B'Well is a microbe killer, also a worm killer; microbes and worms cause all kinds of disease. B'Well kills the cause, also kills blood poison. Sold only by Prof. Mulvenny. Write for further information free.

GREAT SALT LAKE

Puzzling Aspects of Utah's Wonderful Saline Sea.

ONE OF NATURE'S MYSTERIES

Science Unable to Solve the Problem of Its Escaping Waters and Diminishing Area—The Maelstrom Near Antelope Island.

The Great Salt lake of Utah continues to be one of the greatest mysteries of nature. For sixty years its rise and fall have been studied by scientists in an effort to account for the changes, but as yet they have reached no satisfactory solution of the problem as to what is the principal cause of the decrease in its depth.

Those familiar with its depth and the shrinking in its size each year assert that at the end of twenty years or so the bed of the lake will be nearly all exposed, with the possible exception of a few shallow pools of water. Then perhaps the mystery connected with it will be solved.

In its dimensions the lake is really a sea, it being above seventy-five miles in length and fifty miles across at its greatest width, containing, therefore, over 2,000 square miles of surface. Near the shores the water is so shallow that there are places where one may wade out from the beach for a distance of a mile, yet will not be immersed up to his shoulders.

The buoyancy of the water is such that it is almost impossible for one to remain on his feet at a greater depth, his body being lifted up as a strip of wood thrown into the water in a vertical or oblique direction like a dart is returned to the surface in a horizontal position.

Indeed, it is believed the Great Salt lake will support more weight to a given volume of water than even the Dead sea, to which in many respects it bears a striking similarity.

The large quantity of salt in solution is the principal reason for the buoyancy. As the lake recedes its bottom is shown to be composed of a heavy crust of salt, which is almost pure, lying upon a stratum that consists chiefly of sand. In this respect the bed of the lake is similar to some of the deserts in the southwest which once contained bodies of water equal in size to that in Utah or even larger.

It is known that the Great Salt lake loses a large quantity of water yearly by evaporation, but estimates of this quantity indicate that it is far less than that annually poured into the lake from the rivers and creeks entering it.

So far as is known no natural outlet exists, but the lake supplies an irrigating system in the country adjacent that requires a quantity of water yearly equal to a depth of four inches of the present area. This is a very small proportion of the volume of water that enters it through its feeders, so the scientists know the water escapes in some other manner than by the irrigation canal or by evaporation.

This is proved by the fact that the increase in the quantity that enters the lake at a rainy season at times does not increase its depth, and the records show that actually it has fallen immediately after the Jordan and other streams have contributed a larger volume than usual.

Near what is called Antelope island is an indication that a subterranean opening exists. Frequently the waters near the island are so violently disturbed that people in the vicinity call this place the "maelstrom" and carefully avoid it when on the lake in boats.

A number of years ago, it is said, a sailing vessel loaded with sheep chanced to approach too near the "maelstrom," and despite the strong breeze that was blowing the force of the water was greater than the power of the sails, the vessel being drawn into the middle of the disturbance and capsized. Although sheep are naturally strong swimmers and land was but a few hundred feet away, not one of the animals escaped and most of the carcasses went under never to appear again.

While the buoyancy of the water is so great that it will support a person without aid, the boats designed for use upon the lake must be constructed especially to counteract this feature. The ordinary wooden vessel when empty is actually too light to be navigated with safety upon it, since such a small portion of it would be immersed. Care must therefore be taken, especially in the building of sailboats, lest they be top heavy. For this reason navigation is dangerous on the lake even when there is only a moderate wind, unless the sailing vessel is loaded heavily so that it sits deep enough in the water to counteract the buoyant tendency.—New York Press.

EGYPTIAN GRAVES.

Bodies Were Carefully Kept For Their Returning Souls.

The great pyramids of Egypt are merely the tombs of Kings. Although they are larger and much more imposing than any built in former ages, these tombs are constructed on the principle of all Egyptian graves. There is a chamber underground in which the body is walled up and protected against decay and spoliation, while above ground a mound of masonry or brick marks the grave and presents a place where the living may meet the dead with offerings and magic words which will secure to the spirit of the dead its daily bread and protection from evil.

An essential part of the Egyptian religion was the belief in another life after death and in some unseen way the personality of the dead man continued after death with the same necessities, the same fear of evil demons, the same work and the same pleasures as on earth.

On the graves of all classes food and drink were placed, and it was the duty of the relatives of the dead to renew these supplies. The Kings and great men founded endowments to provide for their wants after death. For these endowments farms and estates were granted to certain men, who thus became funerary priests and were enjoined to bring offerings of food and drink to the graves of the founders every day.

Thus it is that each pyramid not only contained the burial place of a King, but also presented on the side nearest the valley a chapel for the presentation of offerings and the performance of certain rites. The pyramids, with their temples, stand high up on the rocky plateau, and for convenience or some other reason which we do not know, a second chapel was built below on the edge of the valley. In each case the valley temple was connected with the upper temple by a causeway.

Why Spiders Fight.

When two spiders fight there is generally a good reason for the attack and the vigorous defense that follows. It is not generally known that after a certain time spiders become incapable of spinning a web from lack of material. The glutinous excretion from which the slender threads are spun is limited; therefore spiders cannot keep on constructing new snares when the old ones are destroyed. But they can avail themselves of the web producing powers of their younger neighbors, and this they do without scruple. As soon as a spider's web constructing material has become exhausted and its last web destroyed it sets out in search of another home, and unless it should chance to find one that is tenantless a battle usually ensues, which ends only with the retreat or death of the invader or defender.

A Pretty Compliment.

His incessant work, his avoidance of all rest and recreation and his rigorous self denial made Joseph Pulitzer in his days in harness the despair of his family.

In this connection a pretty story is told about the famous journalist's son Ralph. Mr. Pulitzer had refused to take a holiday, and Mrs. Pulitzer exclaimed:

"Did you ever know your father to do anything because it was pleasant?"

"Yes, once—when he married you," the young man gracefully replied.—Washington Post.

FREEDOM OF THE CITY.

An Honor Which Had Its Birth In the Middle Ages.

The ceremony of presenting the freedom of the city as an honor arose in the middle ages, when such right was not acquired by mere domicile. No stranger could move into a medieval town and go into business, his own gainful occupation or the civic activities. First he must become enrolled in the guild of his trade, then he had to undergo an apprenticeship of full seven years before he could be admitted to its livery. Then only and thus only could he arrive at the freedom of his city.

As a reward for high deeds these medieval city republics sometimes conferred on such strangers as had served them well the freedom of the city by solemn act of the burgesses and liveries without the apprenticeship of servitude. Every such recipient of a city's freedom became at once a burgess, free to dwell, free to engage in trade, free to vote for the civic rulers and to aspire to the civic chair. The key was the visible sign of this freedom—the city gates, closed at sunset against the stranger and the foe, opened to the burgess' key at all hours, as the door of his own home.—Argonaut.

Wit "In Extremis."

Of the men of letters who lost their lives on the scaffold two at least died debonairly.

There was Montrose, poet and king's man in Scotland's king versus kirk business. On the morning of his execution Warristown, the covenanter, went to his cell, doubtless to make himself unpleasant. Montrose was combing out his curls.

"Why is James Graham so careful of his locks?"

Montrose smiled and made answer: "So long as my head is my own I mean to see to it. When Warristown gets it he may deal with it as he likes."

At the scaffold Sir Thomas More asked the lieutenant of the tower to see him safe up the steps.

"I'll shift for myself coming down," the poet promised.—Youth's Companion.

THE TRAINED GOWN FAVORED WHEN DANCING IS NOT INDULGED IN

In selecting the afternoon and evening gown the first thing to be considered nowadays is its adaptability to dancing; the train, especially in these days of narrow skirts, hampers a dancer considerably, so the chic little frock in round length has become a favorite. There are times, however, when such a frock lacks dignity and a trained gown must be worn; there are some women, too, who prefer a bit of discomfort rather than forego the grace of a long skirt, so they catch the train over the wrist by a loop arranged on the skirt when dancing.

No. 8215 developed in crepe de Chine, and chiffon in soft shades of green is an ideal dinner design and would be suitable for almost any occasion where a dressy gown is demanded.

This gown may be made in size 36 with 5¾ yards of 36 inch material.

Crepe de Chine may be purchased from $1.50 up.

Small boys' clothing is unusually quaint and pleasing this season. The knickerbocker and sailor blouse have given way somewhat to trousers with straight lines and short coats, that remind one strongly of the old-fashioned round-a-bouts.

No. 8188 shows such a suit consisting of short coat, blouse and straight trousers.

For a child of 4 this suit requires 2¾ yards of 36 inch linen.

No. 8215—sizes 34 to 44.

No. 8188—sizes 2, 4 and 6.

Each pattern 15 cents.

To obtain either pattern illustrated fill out this coupon and enclose 15 cents in stamps or coin. Be sure to state number of pattern and size, measuring over the fullest part of the bust. Address Pattern Department, care of this paper.

UNUSUALLY DAINTY IS THE UNDERBODICE OF LACE WITH THE ONE-PIECE FROCK

There are any number of dainty, attractive touches which will render the one-piece frock or dark suit attractive this season. The practice of wearing the underbodice of net, lace or chiffon under a blouse of dark silk, cloth or velvet is [illegible] the most pleasing. It is economical [illegible] time saving as well for these may be removed and replaced by fresh guimpes in contrast to the old fashioned yokes which were soiled quickly and could not be removed without considerable work.

In number 8196-8197 a charming little frock is developed in a flowered silk crepe with an underblouse of dotted net, in cream color; a pointed, shaped girdle of black velvet brings out an effective bit of contrast.

These silk crepes average 42 inches in width and range in price from $1.50.

To copy this costume in size 36 it requires for the blouse (8196) 1⅝ yards of 36 inch material; for the skirt 3¼ yards of 42 inch material.

A simple, pretty little frock is shown in 7750, the striped linen of which it is fashioned is smartly relieved by shaped collar, cuffs and belt of white.

For a child of ten this pattern requires 2¾ yards of 36 inch material.

Number 8196—sizes 34 to 42.

Number 8197—sizes 22 to 30.

Number 7750—sizes 4 to 12.

Each pattern 15 cents.

Both Stung.

Some time ago an eminent London physician requested an equally eminent surgeon to accompany him to see a distinguished but slippery patient. The patient was exceedingly polite to both the medical gentlemen, shaking hands with them and bowing them out of the room in the most affable manner. Soon after this professional visit the same physician called again on the surgeon, requesting him to accompany him to see another patient. On their way thither the surgeon observed, "I hope this patient will behave more liberally than the last did."

"Why?" said the M. D. "Did he not give you a fee?"

"Not a shilling," was the reply.

"Indeed!" said the eminent physician, with a toss of the head. "Why, he borrowed 2 guineas from me to give to you!"—Tit-Bits.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS

THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at the office of any Local Agent of Dominion Lands (not sub-agent), on certain conditions.

Duties.—Six months resident upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required in every case, except when residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside of his homestead. Price $3 per acre. Duties.—Six months residence in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and 50 acres extra cultivation. The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land after report by Homestead Inspector on application for patent.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price, $3 per acre. Duties.—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Centre Pier at Cobourg, Ont.," will be received at this office until 4.00 P.M., on Wednesday, March 11, 1914, for the construction of the Centre Pier at Cobourg, Northumberland County, Ontario

Plans, specification and form of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department and at the offices of the District Engineers, Confederation Life Building, Toronto, Ont.; Windsor, Ont., and on application to the Postmaster at Cobourg, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering declines to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fails to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
R. C. DESROCHERS,
Secretary.

SECTION 2, SEVERN DIVISION
NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned and marked "Tender for Section No. 2, Severn Division, Trent Canal," will be received at this office until 12 o'clock noon on Monday, March 23rd, 1914.

Plans, specifications and form of contract to be entered into can be seen on or after this date at the office of the Chief Engineer of the Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa; at the office of the Superintending Engineer, Trent Canal, Peterborough, Ont.; and at the office of the District Engineer, Public Works Department, Midland, Ont.

Parties tendering will be required to accept the fair wages schedule prepared or to be prepared by the Department of Labour, which schedule will form part of the contract.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and in the case of firms, unless there are attached the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm.

An accepted bank cheque on a chartered bank of Canada for the sum of $36,000.00 made payable to the order of the Minister of Railway and Canals, must accompany each tender, which sum will be forfeited if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective contractors whose tenders are not accepted.

The cheque of the successful tenderers will be held as security, or part security, for the due fulfilment of the contract to be entered into.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

By order,
L. K. JONES,
Asst. Deputy Minister and Secretary.
Department of Railways and Canals.

CANADA'S BEST ASSET

Satisfied Settlers Like This Briton Who Writes Home

In a letter to the Birmingham Weekly Post, Mr. W. A. Sturch, formerly of Binton, Warwickshire, praises Canada as a land of opportunity for the man willing to work. Mr. Sturch, his son and two daughters secured positions all together in the Niagara fruit district. Here is what he says about it:

"We are getting $10.30 per week and the girls $5.00 each per week; therefore you will see the difference between England and Canada. My weekly wage in England was $4.00 per week of six days, and from 12 to 15 hours per day. Here we work ten hours per day and six days per week, and I must say that I have worked a lot harder and longer in England for my $4.00, with 8 cents stopped for insurance, than I do out here for $10.30 and nothing stopped. I must also say that there is plenty of work out here for anybody who will work, and good pay. We could have had five or six places at the offices in less than an hour, but we would take only what we wanted—that was to be all together. We like it and are doing well.

"Some people say that you have to work a lot harder than they do in England, but let me tell you they are wrong altogether. All that is wanted out here is steady men who will keep on working steadily for their ten hours. During the time I have been here I have not had a solitary word of complaint made to me; therefore, you see the difference between Canada and England again.

"It is a splendid country, far more so than England. We are close to Lake Ontario, the largest lake in Canada, and I must say it is grand. You think you hve a large fruit country in England, but you only want to see it round here, between Lake Ontario and Lake Erie, to know what a fruit country is like.

"No man need fear coming out to Canada, for he can have work in less than two hours after he lands if he likes."

AN OLD INDUSTRY

Gold Beating an Import Work in Old Birmingham

Gold beating is one of the oldest trades in Birmingham. While to a large extent this trade has gone to Germany, the best gold-leaf is still made in England. The work is done entirely by hand. The leaf is hammered out in small home workshops from 24-carat gold, but is first sent to the rolling mills, whence it is returned in long thin ribbons 1¼ inches wide and one-thousandth part of an inch in thickness. Then it is ready for the beater. The ribbon is generally cut off into small 1¼ inch squares, weighing about six grains.

The thin square is placed in the centre of a vegetable parchment pad, consisting of 100 sheets on top and the same number beneath. This is beaten with a 14-pound hammer, and the gold, when considerably reduced in thickness, is placed between leaves of goldbeater's skin—skin prepared from a thin but tough membrane found in the large intestine of the ox. Eight hundred pieces of the hammered leaf are arranged over each other, between leaves of the skin—the whole being placed between parchment bands and beaten for a couple of hours with a 7-pound hammer. Then the 800 pieces are cut up into 3,200 pieces and again beaten. When the work is done the leaf is one fifty-thousandth part of an inch in thickness, and almost as light as air.

DIVER'S BOTTLED AIR

New Outfit Does Away With the Pump and Tube

An important improvement has been made by a German inventor which makes it possible for the diver to remain several hours under water without any connection with the upper world. The innovation is a self-contained diving suit in which a supply of fresh air is generated and supplied to the diver as wanted, the supply being entirely under his own control. The expired air is purified automatically by passing over cartridges of chemical which absorb the impurities. In the place of the usual lead ballast, the diver carries on his chest a weight constituted by steel bottles where compressed air or highly compressed oxygen is accumulated. Whenever the diver wishes to reach the surface without any outside help, he simply opens the valve of these bottles, thus causing air to flow into his outfit and to impart to the latter the required buoyancy. This is how, in cases of emergency, he will from any normal depth reach, in a few moments, the surface of the water. A safety valve actuated with any excess pressure prevents the diving outfit from bursting with any accidental rise from considerable depths. The apparatus worked satisfactorily under the most severe tests.

Distillery Thief Imbibed Freely

At Bo'ness, Scotland, Thomas Allan, a wandering youth was sent to prison for thirty days for theft of brass from the distillery. He had imbibed so freely from the casks that he collapsed on the road and was picked up by the police with the brass in his possession.

Nonagenarian Mother and Her Son

Alexander Lermont, of Airdrie, Scotland, was fined $10 or twenty days' imprisonment for assaulting his mother 99 years old. He had been drinking heavily, and said the old woman had been chastising him, and he was sixty-six years old.

Getting After the Dust

For use with a vacuum cleaner a woman has invented a glove, dust being drawn through tubes inserted in its palm, while small brushes are provided between the fingers to smooth down the nap of any fabric which the suction raises.

Scientific Fire-fighting

The fire department of Manchester, England, has equipped a steam fire engine with an air pump, dynamo and telephone switchboard to enable firemen to enter burning buildings with smoke helmets, telephones and electric torches.

Lots of Artificial Silk

Artificial silk is being made by 30 companies in various parts of the world and in all cases profitably.

NATURE STORIES FOR CHILDREN

A Wise Way of Satisfying a Child's Craving For Romance

The normal child is a realist. He craves to know, to understand the why of things. So why cannot we see that what children learn from books is really so. This does not mean that you must starve the romantic side of every child. But there is plenty of real romance. Nature study is so deservedly popular, it is so many-sided and every side is so interesting and makes so good a story that the books on the subject are legion. The first appeal of these nature stories is to the imagination. Many of the old myths and fairy tales are full of the poetry, the mystery, the truth and the beauty of nature.

Perhaps the best myths are the Norse tales: Thor, the thunderer, with his cloud chariot and his mighty hammer; Balder, the sungod, who brings the spring; the grim Frost Giants who would overthrow the gods could they pass the rainbow bridge that leads to Valhalla; light and dark, storm and sunshine, summer and winter, good and evil and all the great forces of nature personified.

Nature fairy stories should be told freely. They may be full of vision, but slowly the vision fades into reality and the truth and poetry remain.

The Built-in Ironing Board

The ironing board cabinet is one of the most popular built-in fads of the of the day, and deservedly, being a simple convenience not difficult even for the amateur craftsman to make. In its simplest form it consists of a wall cabinet within which the board stands when not in use. The board is hinged at its base and a leg which is hinged to the under side and near the other end of the board swings to a vertical position as the board is lowered, forming a solid support from the floor. As a variation the leg may be built as a brace to the wall or it may in fact be so placed as to be used in either position, depending upon the nature of the work to be done. Standing on the floor it might interfere when skirts, for instance, are being ironed. When folded up, the board is concealed behind a paneled door.

FARMERS' DIVISION OF LABOR

How Six Women Managed a Farm in the West

A farm of 80 acres in the Northwest was for some time managed by six energetic young women. One, a college-trained girl, had charge of the greenhouses. Another did the housework, and one looked after the poultry and outside work. A Scotch girl opened a supply store in the nearest town, where the fifth, an English typist, did all the clerical work. The sixth member of the colony attended to the cows, bees and rabbits. All went well until Dan Cupid joined the company, when four of the women became wives of farmers, the weddings taking place within a fortnight. The remaining two held on a month longer, doing all the work, then they, too, succumbed. The farm was sold and the proceeds divided equally among the six companions.

Old Fashioned Slit Skirt

The slit skirt is only 1,300 years old, and Chu Fi Chu invented it for the ladies of Japan. Also, Carlton in 1603 described the costume of the British Queen thus quaintly:

"Her clothes were not so much below the knee but what we might see a woman hath both fute and legs, which I never knew before. She had a pair of buskins set with rich stones, a helmet full of jewels, and her whole attire embossed with jewels of several fashions."

The outfit partially described embodied the Queen's idea of Pallas Athene, and was worn at a court masque.

When Rinsing Chamois Gloves

If a few drops of olive oil be added to the rinsing water your chamois or doeskin gloves will be much softer and more pliable than when rinsed in clear water. The fingers may be shaped with an ordinary curling iron if a glove stretcher is not at hand.

Use Hot Vinegar

When making mint sauce if hot vinegar is used instead of cold it will greatly improve the flavor and give the sauce better color.

Freshening Green Vegetables

To freshen green vegetables, cut off the ends of the stalk and all untidy, decayed bits and leave in cold, salted water for three or four hours.

A Simple Precaution

To prevent custard dishes or cups from cracking when pouring boiled custard into them, place the dish or cup on a cloth rung out of hot water.

Death Before Prison

Rather than go to prison, Charles Porter, a pensioner from the Northampton Regiment, living at Enfield, committed suicide.

Porter had been summoned for failing to maintain his wife, and had pleaded with the magistrates to allow him time to pay, but had been sentenced to a month's imprisonment.

Whilst being conveyed from Colchester to Ipswich he escaped from the constable who had charge of him and threw himself in front of a train

WINDMILL POINT ELEVATOR, MONTREAL.

While the Grand Trunk has been looking well to the matter of elevator construction in Western Canada to provide storage capacity for the ever-increasing grain crop, provision has also been made for shipping facilities at Montreal. In the spring of 1906 what is known as the Windmill Point Elevator, located in the busy harbor of Montreal, was completed and put into operation. Its capacity was 1,080,000 bushels. Its situation is so well planned that it is easily accessible to both lake or ocean vessels, with railway tracks alongside. To provide additional accommodation a large annex has just been completed, with a capacity of 1,070,000 bushels, making a net capacity of 2,150,000 bushels. There are in this new building 28 concrete tanks, 25 feet in diameter and 100 feet in height, arranged at right angles in four rows, with seven tanks in each row. The tanks are constructed of reinforced concrete, having their adjacent sides rigidly united, so that the four-pointed, star-shaped spaces between the circular tanks may be used for storage as well as the circular tanks themselves. The large tanks hold approximately 33,000 bushels apiece, and the star-shaped or interstice bins hold approximately 8,000 bushels each. It is the second largest grain bin on the Grand Trunk System, the largest being located at Fort William, with a capacity of 5,700,000 bushels.

Cecil Rhodes' Grave.

Cecil Rhodes, the "diamond king" and famous South African statesman, is buried in Africa, in obedience to his own wish, as expressed in the following words left in his will: "I admire the grandeur and loneliness of the Matoppas, in Rhodesia, and therefore I desire to be buried in the Matoppas on the hill which I used to call the 'View of the World,' in a square to be cut in the rock on the top of the hill, covered with a plain brass plate with these words thereon: 'Here lie the remains of Cecil John Rhodes.'" Rhodes died March 26, 1902, at the age of forty-seven.

Windows of the Soul.

Eyes are bold as lions, roving, running, leaping, here and there, far and near. They speak all languages; they wait for no introduction; they are no Englishmen; ask no leave of age or rank; they respect neither poverty nor riches, neither learning nor power, nor virtue, nor sex, but intrude, and come again, and go through and through you in a moment of time. What inundation of life and thought is discharged from one soul into another through them!—Emerson.

Domestic Science.

"Reginald, dear," said the young wife, who was trying to do her own cooking, "this recipe says 'first draw the fowl carefully.' How do you draw a chicken?"

"With a drawing knife, of course," said the young husband, yawning. "Didn't the grocer send one along with the bird?"—Exchange.

Reckless.

Madge—I hear that Charlie is an awful spendthrift. Marjorie—I should say he was. He's trying to make two wild oats grow where only one grew before.—Puck.

A Battle of Languages.

Three or four languages strove for mastery in ancient Gaul, which is now France. German was spoken by the 12,000 Frank invaders. Popular Latin was spoken by 6,000,000 Gallo-Romans. Literary Latin was the language of the church and of literature. Low Latin was afterward the language of the administration. German was the first to succumb. In four centuries it ceased to be understood by the soldiers, and in seventy years more it had become an object of ridicule. But it survives in more than 900 words, expressing the things of government, law and war, and thus forms no insignificant part of the French language.

Corpse Rings.

The sailor of the old fashioned, shellback class always wears a corpse ring. This is a plain band of silver or gold, inscribed within with the sailor's name and port. Corpse rings are worn for the purpose of identification in case of death by drowning through shipwreck, etc. The shellback sailor can never swim, and he looks forward calmly to dying suddenly beneath the sea. Indeed, he usually prefers such a death to a lingering one in hospital.—Buffalo Express.

How He Got Out.

"No," said Woodby, "I don't see Wiseman at all any more. He has dropped out of our social set."

"He tells a different story," remarked Sinnickson.

"Indeed!"

"Yes; he claims he has climbed out."—Catholic Standard.

The Optimist.

"You're looking blue, doc. What's the matter?"

"Well, I'll tell you. A patient I began to treat died this morning."

"Ah, cheer up. He might have died even if you hadn't been called."—Toledo Blade.

FOR THE COMMON GOOD

It is the aim of The Times:

To exploit and advance the best interests of the people of the fair and fertile land wherein it is published, and to which it steadily devotes its efforts;

To stand for liberty and law, equal rights and good government, the greatest boon to a free people;

To foster and encourage private and public enterprise, and hold up the hands of every honest toiler, either with brawn or brain, in every field of activity;

To stand independently for the true interests of the city, the Dominion and the Empire, and for those policies only which make for the common good;

It aims to be excellent and not cheap.

Second Sportsman—Oh, fairly well. But I wish I had bought a horse. She is always stopping to look at herself in the puddles.

Beat the Bank's System.

The boy entered the Cleveland bank and laid a half dollar with his bank book on the receiving teller's window. "We don't receive deposits of less than a dollar," said the teller. The boy yielded reluctantly to the system and drew back. But he did not leave the bank. He crossed the corridor and seated himself on a settee. The teller noticed him sitting there and also noticed the reflective look on his face. The boy waited for some time, thinking it over. Finally he arose and went to the paying teller's window. A moment later he confronted the receiving teller. "I want to deposit this dollar and a half," he said. The teller grinned. The boy had just drawn a dollar from his little balance and was using it as an entering wedge for the rejected half dollar. And so the system was beaten by the boy, and a considerable accession of bookkeeping labor was the price of defeat.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Her Drawing Powers.

Pat and his little brown mare were familiar sights to the people of the town of Garry. The mare was lean, blind and lame, but by dint of much coaxing Pat kept her to the harness. One day while leading her to water he had to pass a corner where a crowd of would be sports had congregated. Thinking to have some amusement at Pat's expense, one called out:

"Hello there, Pat! I'm looking for the real goods. How much is that mare of yours able to draw?"

"Begorra," said Pat, "I can't say exactly, but she seems to be able to drawh the attenshun of ivery fool in town."—Housekeeper.

The Tiny Shoes She Wanted.

"Now, madam, what size shoe will you have?" asked the salesman as soon as he was at liberty.

"The smallest and shiniest you have," she said.

The other women buying shoes sniffed.

And when the clerk returned with a pair of the tiniest imaginable the woman accepted them with the remark, "I guess baby's eyes will open when she sees these on her feet."—Buffalo Express.

THEY LIKE SHARP FOOD.

Lions Gobble Up Porcupines, and Camels Eat Spiny Cactus.

A note in the London Field draws attention to lions that eat porcupines. It would appear that an animal protected by such powerful spines should be quite secure from attack. Yet, if we may trust the account given, it appears to be a habit on the part of the lion and not an isolated occurrence. Captain Dumbell had been told by a native hunter that the lion was in the habit of eating porcupines. And this has been confirmed by two English sportsmen. V. Kirby, for example, has taken a porcupine's head from the stomach of a lioness. Others relate that it is not uncommon to find lions with porcupine quills sticking all over their noses, faces and paws. It seems to argue some indifference to pain on the part of the lion, as well as a fancy for porcupine's flesh.

Compare this with the case of the camel, which a distinguished traveler describes as calmly chewing up a very spiny plant with the blood dripping from its mouth! The cattle in some of the arid parts of America, again, browse on that spiny cactus. And in some parts of the English coast the horses browse on the prickly sea holly, while the donkey's partiality for thistles is well known. Incidentally such cases seem to show that spines in nature are not such efficient protectors as some have supposed.

Sleight of Hand Poisoning.

A very curious item in toxicological lore I chanced to light upon, wrote George Augustus Sala in one of his letters, may be called the feat of poisoning by sleight of hand. You were jealous of a lady, and you wished to kill her. Well, you asked her to lunch, and you caused a very nice peach to be served at dessert. You cut the fruit with a golden knife, one side of the blade of which was endued with a deadly poison. You presented the poisoned half of the peach to the lady, who ate it with much relish and then dropped down dead. The wholesome half you ate yourself and laughed in your sleeve and went on slicing more peaches for the ladies of whom you were jealous till you were found out and broken on the wheel. Aye, there's the rub! What high old times we might have, to be sure, but for that plaguy contingency of being found out!

MY AEROPLANE.

I would not be a butterfly;
I envy not the bird.
The wings that lift him to the sky—
I hope to have some by and by,
But that may be deferred.

More wings, for all the poets say,
Would be more toil than gain,
But when the thing has "come to stay,"
When it's quite safe, I hope I may Possess an aeroplane.

The stranger beating at my door
Whom I have cause to shun
Would not annoy me as before,
I should not shiver at the bore
Or tremble at the dun.

But lightly to my rooftree spring
And on mine airy craft
Serenely from his presence wing,
Leaving him there to knock and ring
Till he were dead or daft.

And then to sally far and wide,
To see as from a cloud
The haunts of privacy or pride,
Places one wants to see inside
Because it's not allowed;

The grounds about the ducal hall,
The parvenu's abode,
The park, the palace, most of all
The nunnery behind the wall,
So baffling from the road—

In truth, 'twould be a dear delight
These hidden realms to see;
But, oh, it is the secret night
When the advantages of flight
Mostly appeal to me!

There is a certain man I hate.
With divers plot and plan
I have schemed early and schemed late,
Seeking a just and adequate
Revenge upon that man.

Yet one by one they came to naught.
Some were too gentle; some
Involved the risk of being caught,
Which wouldn't do at all. I thought
My chance would never come.

But now—some night I hope to go
In one of these machines,
Armed with a good stout bomb, and, oh,
Rapture! With any luck I'll blow
That man to smithereens!

A Treasure of a Cook.

Mr. Newedd—What! No cook stove in the house? I gave you money to buy one. Mrs. Newedd—Yes, my love, but I found I hadn't enough to buy a stove and hire a cook, too, so I let the stove go. But the cook is here, and she's a treasure. She has just gone out to get us some crackers and cheese.

Hints on Beauty Culture

Overdoing "Make-up" An Unfashionable Offence

By MAGGIE TEYTE

Prima Donna Chicago-Philadelphia Opera Company.

MAGGIE TEYTE

"MAKE-UP is going out of fashion," remarked the [illegible], as she carefully pinned the [illegible] in my hair after a shampoo in which soap jelly and warm water combined with massage had cleansed my scalp and hair and set my head growing with fresh life.

"It was simply done to death. Really, we have been positively ashamed to look at our patrons after we have followed their advice about the amount of white and mauve and yellow and pink and red to put on their faces. They said they knew how they looked best, and they all wanted to look young. It is the craze for youth which has set the women to painting with such extravagance. They have looked like caricatures all winter. And the nicest of women have used the most make-up, it seems to me. It is all so foolish to try to cheat time with a rouge stick. Nothing makes a young woman look older than too much rouge. As for the older woman, it makes her hideous.

"I don't know what woke them up. Perhaps some big beauty leader has decided to wear her own face for awhile. It's funny how women copy each other. I believe we are going to have a reaction from too much white and violet and red. None of our exclusive women are wearing liquid whitening on the street. And the few who ever used mauve powder for day time wear have returned to flesh color or white cream."

The Ideal Face.

Fashions in faces—sounds funny to one with a well defined sense of humor. When you think of it, why should there be any face fashion but cleanliness and wholesomeness and pleasantness and the reflection of an intelligent mind and a cheerful spirit?

I am just optimist enough to believe the day will come when such faces will be generally worn. There is such an [illegible] have visible [illegible] reflect their [illegible].

One who is on the lookout for beauty [illegible] places. I was talking with the brave little woman who sells me papers, and who has just sent her second son through college, and has her third boy in the high school.

"You look like a young girl," I said to her. "You have kept your figure so well."

"Yes," she laughed. "It is standing does it. American women ought to stand more. You won't grow fat if you are standing up a great deal."

I called on a dear woman who has a family of growing children. She makes a small income go a long way and do a lot of good. She does the housework for a suburban house, takes care of four children, makes most of their clothes, and has only the aid of one maid-of-all-work, which means she is relieved only of the heaviest work.

Her Simple Rules.

This woman has a supple and well rounded figure, as young as her daughter's.

"I have never been careless about myself," she said. "I knew I should never want my children to be ashamed of me. So I have always had my housework stays well fitted and my housework gowns becoming, even if I made them of [illegible] gingham. And I have made it a habit to make my daily tasks do the work of a gymnasium. I have never bent the knee to pick up anything. That has kept my waist supple. And when I have climbed the stairs I have kept the poise of my body and made the leg muscles do the work. And when I have had to reach up for anything on the top shelves I have done it as if I were taking the stretching exercises. That has kept my figure from setting.

"And I have always sat when I have been [illegible] a chair and lounged by [illegible], relaxed on my couch for 15 minutes and made it a real rest. As for my complexion, I have tried to keep the lines out by not fretting them in, [illegible] soap and water, and cold cream [illegible] done the rest."

So you see one can pick up helps by the wayside if she has her eyes and ears open.

WAR-TIME FASHIONS REVIVING

Styles of '60 Reflected in Newest Modes

DO you catch an intangible but persistent sense of relationship between the quaint wrap worn by Molly McIntyre and the new taffeta dolmans which are coming to us for spring wear as the very newest [illegible]?

There is the same looseness of sleeves, the same semi-fitted back and the same quaint charm. To be sure the wrap of former days has seams where the wrap of today has none, but there is a certain similarity of effect, which sets women who understand the cycles of fashions thinking.

This wrap, in which pretty, blonde Miss McIntyre makes so fascinating a picture in "Kitty MacKay," is of the vintage of 1860. It is typical of the "war-time" modes. With it she wears a style of hair dressing which is more like the newest coiffure than even the new wrap is like the latest hint from Paris.

There are the funny little "corkscrew" curls which are already dangling over the ears of our French sisters, and the display of the ears is quite the newest fancy in hair dressing. But the thing which should rouse greatest interest is the realization that these attractive little sacques and these adorable little bobbing curls topped genuine hoopskirts.

Nobody really believes we are going to wear hoops again, but there is not only talk of bustles—the real bustles themselves are here, and those who make a study of fashions say there is a decided return to the modes of the early eighties.

And is it logical to expect a modern version of hoops after the modern understanding of bustles? Whatever is on the way in the waves of style, there is no denying the attractiveness of this wrap nor its resemblance to the modes of spring, 1914.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

Drafts Seldom Harm Those Free From Fears

By Dr. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

Copyright, 1914, by L. K. Hirshberg.

DR. HIRSHBERG

WHAT would a furnace or cook stove be without a draft? What would your house be without a chimney?

Even a tree with green leaves and blossoms needs a draft, which, by the way, is no longer spelled "draught." Tennyson put it correctly: "The topmost elm tree gathered green from drafts of balmy air."

A draft is air that is drawn or moved from one place to another. When a confined current of air, as in a room, in a pipe or in the flue of a chimney, passes into another place, it is called a draft.

A draft of air depends upon a difference in the purity, or "density," or temperature of two different "bunches" of atmosphere.

Every breath you take, each inhalation and exhalation is a draft. When you blow your cold fingers to keep warm, you create a draft. When you squeeze a bellows, a rubber ball, a pump, a "squirter," or an atomizer, you make drafts.

Yet you have been not improperly brought up on nurses' tales and superstitions to "keep out of drafts." There is a "wee, sma'" modicum of truth in the idea that teaches you to shun a draft.

But this gossamer filament of truth is outdone by the ninety-nine and nine-tenths per cent. of underlying nonsense, which makes most men and women shiver and shake and shut the shutters at the first sign of a draft.

Remember, my children, a draft is usually a lot of fresh air rushing in to replace a lot of foul, overheated, poisonous air.

When any one shouts, "Shut the door, close the windows, I feel a draft," you may be sure that such a one has coddled his skin and his tissues with too much clothing, as well as a superabundance of stale, overcharged indoor air.

Fear of "drafts" is not inherited. It is acquired in childhood and youth, very much in the way you learn to believe that every blackberry bush harbors a snake. That is to say, "Somebody told you so."

Any one whose physical cowardice makes him shun fresh, outdoor air and open bedroom windows may fall ill from a "draft." But he whose skin is like the Sioux's, who said: "Injun not afraid of drafts; Injun face all over," should welcome drafts as they do the trailing arbutus in March.

Except wind blows as it never could, it is an ill wind turns none to good. Ill indeed blows the draft which profits nobody.

Drafts, like straws, show which way the wind blows. The air that thus bites shrewdly is a nipping, eager air, which freshens up the red and golden fabric of your soul.

Answers to Health Questions

MRS. A. N. B., W. Philadelphia, Pa.—Does it pay well to make honest breads and food free of sugar for diabetic patients?

The secret of making such food is to use no wheat, rye or other starchy flour. "Diabetics" may have no sweets, no sugars, no starches and none of the "carbohydrate" breads.

If you do not invest any money and can obtain customers such as all the hospitals, dispensaries and distinguished consulting physicians, you may eke out a small living. I can hardly see how it would "pay well."

* * *

[illegible], Logan, Pa.—Do noises in the ear, due to a ruptured drum from a childhood illness, ever stop spontaneously?

Yes; as often this way as from the aid of an ear surgeon. Do not neglect other measures, however, while waiting for it.

Queer Creatures on Land and Sea

By Anita von Hartmann

The Rainbow Monkey

YOU have all seen black monkeys and gray monkeys and brown monkeys, but how many of you have seen a rainbow monkey?

The rainbow monkey's name is the mandril and he lives in the hilly parts of Africa. He is indeed a weird looking creature. His snout is a bright scarlet, and on either side of his long, hideous face are deep grooves of purple and scarlet and blue. His eyes are tiny and glow like ugly sparks of fire.

The mandril has funny, stubby ears and a tail that is only a sawed-off stump. His hind legs are a deep violet color.

In fact, if you ever see a rainbow monkey you probably will exclaim, "There ain't no such animal!"

Fish That Climb

THERE is a funny little fish that uses his fins for elbows. His name is Mud Skipper and he is quite as much at home on land as he is in the water. He has a body that looks something like a huge, fat cigar and eyes that pop like a frog's. He can climb trees with his fins quite as well as any small boy can with his arms.

When Mr. Mud Skipper is hungry he hops out of his home in the ocean or river and skips about in the mud, devouring flies and other insects in large quantities. When his repast is over, he shinnies up a tree and leans on his elbows, while he watches the world around him with a knowing and languid air. A shoal of mud skippers sitting in a tree are as comical a sight as any one could wish to see.

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DO I believe that women are much vainer that men? You don't, you say, and you and your sweetheart are always arguing about it, and he's so stubborn he makes you furious, and why can't he see—and why won't he admit—and isn't he showing a very strange spirit to be so quarrelsome about a thing like that? Oh, well, honey, I wouldn't take sweetheart's arguments so seriously if I were you.

Probably he thinks you look pretty when you're what he calls "mad," and as his main object in life just now is to see you look pretty, why you really can't blame him such a lot after all, can you?

Now as to the subject under discussion. No, I don't believe women are much vainer than men.

I don't believe they're half as vain as men—in fact, I know they aren't.

A girl of 16 may be as vain as a boy of 18. But she gets over it sometime—and the boy never does.

The older he gets the vainer he gets.

How many women of 40 or 50 do you know who fondly imagine that they can fascinate the best looking, cleverest, most successful, most run after young fellow of 25 in the world—if they only set their minds to the task?

Did you ever see a man of any age, size, complexion, looks or ability who would be in the least surprised if a queen stepped down from her throne and begged him to let her go and live in a little two by four flat with him and be blissfully happy darning his socks the livelong day?

A man doesn't take quite as much pains with his looks as a woman. That's because he doesn't have to—he's so beautiful anyway, don't you know, and so altogether fascinating. Why gild refined gold or paint the lily?

And then, his hair is short and doesn't need so much combing; his clothes are rough and ready to stay put—and then, most of all, women do not fall in love with a man on account of the way he brushes his hair.

Men think a great deal of appearances. That's why women have to try to look pretty all the time.

Women like a man for what he is, or for what they think he is. And there you are.

Ponder all these things in your heart, honey, but don't say anything about them to your sweetheart or any other man. He'll think you're a suffragette and run away and fall in love with some one who can't look after him half as well as you can, after all.

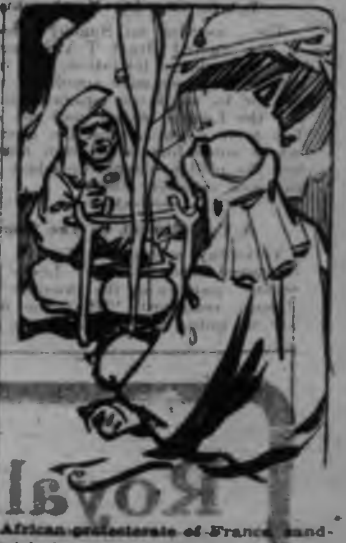
Annie Laurie

Miss Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. They should be addressed to her care this office.

Three Minute Journeys

Modern Cave Men

By Jonathan MacFarland



ARE there any people who live in caves nowadays? Well, rather! Real holes in the ground, too; caves in the truest sense of the word. New York, Chicago and other large cities have their cliff-dwellers, but Tunis, that little North African protectorate of France, sandwiched in between Algeria and Tripoli, has its cave-dwellers.

In the inaccessible southern part of the country, in the rolling land of the [illegible] hills, lives a Berber tribe that [illegible] under ground. The journey to their village is an arduous one, and consequently there are few white visitors.

The cave-dwellings are of different sorts. Some are cut out of the steep sides of mounds and others are formed by sinking a shaft into the top of a hill and carving out recesses from the sides of this opening. The shaft serves as a kind of court into which the various apartments open.

Now you would expect to find these human moles a dirty, ill-favored and somewhat anaemic lot of people. On my visit there I had an idea that I should have to put up with all sorts of unattractive conditions. But compared with many of the more civilized dwellers in houses I have seen they were positively immaculate. That is a comparison, of course, but it conveys the right idea. The people are healthy, too.

These home-burrowers are farmers for the most part. They raise olives and dates and a little corn which they cultivate with a plough drawn by a camel. Their every-day dress is composed of cotton trousers, a shirt and a kind of shawl; but on gala occasions they don finery similar to that seen in other parts of the country.

The nearest approach we have in America to the troglodyte homes of [illegible] cyclone cellar.

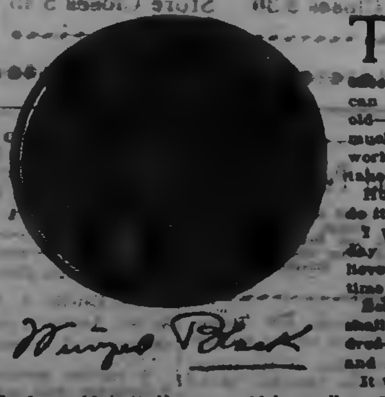
Watching the World and His Wife Go By

By WINIFRED BLACK

Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service.



Winifred Black

THE National Conference on Race Betterment has just met at Battle Creek, and from that conference come the glad tidings that we can all live to be a hundred years old—if we eat enough and not too much, sleep enough and not too much, work enough and not too hard, and take plenty of time for play.

Hurrah for us. Let's go ahead and do it.

I used to think I'd hate to live a day over forty; then I began to believe that fifty was about the right time to die.

Before I get through I suppose I shall be setting the mark at a hundred—like all the rest of the old ladies and gentlemen.

It would be fun to live to be a hundred, wouldn't it, if you could keep all your faculties all the time?

Up to fifty you're so busy being busy that you don't have time to live much of any life but your own.

And any one life is a pretty narrow boat to ride into the waters of eternity on, isn't it?

There are so many lives that interest me. I should love to see what's going to happen in them.

The world is just a great story book, isn't it? What a nuisance it will be when somebody calls you to come and help set the table or to call the younger children to supper—just when you're in the midst of the most interesting chapter of all.

There is a girl I know who's marrying a rich old man for his money.

She's rich herself and handsome and supposed to be clever. What on earth is the matter with her that she should do such a thing?

The man she's marrying is ignorant, crabbed, miserly and absolutely impossible in every way. What on earth is she marrying him for? What will she gain by such a sacrifice?

There's something [illegible]. What is it, and how will it manifest itself as she grows older?

The yellow streak—how will it show and when? And what will become of the old man and of the beautiful young woman who was making such an impossible fool of herself by marrying him.

There's the clever woman of thirty-five, brilliant, distinguished, successful, with money enough to live in comfortable widowhood the rest of her life.

She's going to marry a handsome child of thirty—a dreamer, a man who plays on the guitar and wears love locks and fancies himself a Romeo.

What's going to come of that marriage? Oh, no, it isn't so [illegible]. There's good in the man, too; and if the [illegible] he's a bit of a genius.

She will be unhappy, of course. But he—what's he going to do about it? Will he fall in love with some [illegible] of a girl and break the heart of the woman who is giving up everything to marry him now? Or will the woman get tired of his childish ways and be so absolutely bored to death that she will make any excuse on earth to get away from him?

Or will they come together somehow? Will the strange magic of the old, old sorcerer we call love make a success of it after all?

There's the woman with the only son. She thinks he's going to be a great man, and she's spending every penny she has to give him the right "advantages." She has left the city where she was born and brought up and has gone to live in the little university town to be near him; has given up everything, everybody, almost every beat of her heart, for that boy.

Is he going to turn out to be worth it? Or will the very sacrifices that mother has made turn the son, who might have been something if he'd had to fight his own way, into a selfish parasite?

There are the two sisters, one of them brilliant, talkative, erratic, the other slow, conscientious, studious—both of them ambitious to a degree.

Which of them is going to make what life calls a "success," and which of them will really "succeed" after all?

There's the man of genius with the narrow-minded, envious wife. He's trying so hard to be patient with her, to remember how he loved her—once.

Will he be able to keep on—remembering—or will she drive him to do something which will cloud his name forever?

Which is going to be stronger in that puzzle of human lives, the small nature of the woman or the big nature of the man?

The pretty, selfish little girl has half a dozen beaux and not a thought beyond dress and admiration in her empty little head. She has a good [illegible] mother and a fine intelligent father. Will she begin to show the stock she sprang from—when she gets past the silly season of life?

I'd like to see that girl ten years from now, or maybe twenty—when the soft color is gone from her rounded cheek. Will there be something written on the brow then that is so smooth now? What will the something be?

Will it be unselfishness and poise and a noble devotion to others? Or will she just cut lines into her face that mean "somebody has better clothes and more of them than I have and I'm mad about it."

A hundred years old? Wouldn't it be fun to sit in the shade for thirty years after you were seventy and watch all the world and his wife go [illegible] by, and hear what Mr. World was saying and see how Mrs. World [illegible] down the road?

[illegible] ought to be the Happy Time—The Peace Time—of life. Hurrah for Battle Creek and the conference! Let's all go to work and live to be a hundred.

Old Folks' Coughs Permanently Cured

The Public is Loud in Its Praise of the Modern Direct Breathing Cure.

Elderly people take cold easily. Unlike young folks, they recover slowly, if ever. That is why so many people past middle life die of pneumonia. Even though pneumonia does not develop and kill, coughs certainly weak en all elderly people.

Cough Syrups seldom do much good because they upset digestion. Any druggist or doctor knows that a much more effective treatment is "CATARRHOZONE," which heals and soothes the irritated surfaces of the throat.

In using Catarrhozone you do not take medicine into the stomach—you simply breathe into the throat, nose and lungs rich piney balsamic vapor, so full of healing power that colds, catarrh and bronchitis disappear almost instantly.

"At sixty-eight years of age I can testify that I am never troubled with coughs or colds," writes J. E. Pilgrim, of Kingston. "They used to be the bain of my life, and that was before I used Catarrhozone, which was recommended to me by C. L. Prouse, druggist. To use Catarrhozone is just like being in an immense pine woods. The balsamic vapor of Catarrhozone is like a tonic, it is so stimulating to the breathing organs, so soothing to sore spots, so full of power to drive out colds and congestion. I will always use and recommend Catarrhozone as a preventive and cure for coughs, colds, bronchitis, throat irritation and catarrh.

(Signed) "J. E. PILGRIM."

A Catarrhozone Inhaler in your pocket or purse enables you to stop a cold with the first sneeze. Large size costs $1.00 and supplies treatment for two months; small size, 50c.; trial size 25c.; all storekeepers and druggists, or the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

CITY AND DISTRICT

DASHES HERE AND THERE BY TIMES REPORTERS.

Local Man Won Suit.

Judgment was delivered yesterday by His Honor Judge Huycke, in the case of Pappas vs. Revollos. The case concerned the renting of a shoe shine parlour in Toronto, which Revollos agreed to sell and Pappas agreed to buy. Judgment was rendered for plaintiff for $406.

Former Local Man to Speak.

Mr. R. F. Green, M.P., for West Kootney, B.C., an old Peterborough boy, will address the members of the Canadian Club at Coleman's, Thursday evening, March 5, 1914, at 6.30 o'clock. His subject will be "The Pacific Province and its Resources." It is hoped that there will be a large attendance of the members to welcome a native son of the city.

T.A.S. Growing Membership.

The meeting on Sunday afternoon of the Sacred Heart T.A.S. included another large initiation. A month ago committees were appointed to endeavor to swell the membership during the Lenten season and the result has been that during the past four weeks some forty-seven men have taken the pledge, twenty-nine last meeting and eighteen since.

A Compliment to The Times

Yesterday morning a Times' scribe happened into "Jimmy" Lewis' tonsorial parlors in the Oriental Hotel. Jimmy remarked, "What the dickens are we going to do about your paper. About three days a week I never get a chance to read The Times. Some early customer comes in and steals the paper!"

Is This a Local White Slave Case?

Joseph O'Toole faced Magistrate Dumble yesterday morning on the charge of vagrancy and was remanded until Thursday on his plea of not guilty. Another charge of a most serious nature may be preferred against O'Toole as a result of the investigation of the department. Mr. G. N. Gordon is acting for the prisoner. This may, it is said, develop into a "white slave" case. The young woman in the case was too ill to appear.

Successful St. Andrew's Concert

Last night a large and well pleased audience gathered in St. Andrew's church. The function was a recital on the grand organ of that sacred edifice Mr. Howlett, one of Canada's leading organists, demonstrated that not only his national reputation as a musician was supreme, but that St. Andrew's has one of the best instruments in Canada. Miss Estelle J. Carey's clear and bell-like vocal notes also contributed to the general enjoyment.

"Battle of Waterloo."

Yesterday afternoon one of the most picturesque, historically correct, thrilling and correct to conditions then existing, was shown at the Royal Theatre. This picture, entitled "The Battle of Waterloo," fought on June 15th, 1815, between Napoleon's army and those of Wellington was graphically displayed. One sees the big guns belch forth death, one sees the cavalry riding into the jaws of hell, one sees the "Thin Red Line" of England repulse the chivalry of France, one sees the skirmishers wading through morasses on the outskirts of both armies. For a staged picture it is one of the cleverest and most natural ever shown in this city.

Mr. C. M. Lowry Talks

Talking of the recent Trent Canal exposures, a Times' representative yesterday morning had a chat with Mr. C. M. Lowry, who has been a resident of this city for the past 20 years. Mr. Lowry gave our representative an interesting account of the initial history of the local and the Kirkfield lift-locks. When these great utilities on the canal were constructed, Mr. Lowry was foreman of the Dominion Bridge Co., who had contracts for the steel work on these locks. Mr Lowry not only placed the first portion of the steel work on both of these locks but was the first to open the upper gates of these locks for navigation work.

Tin Tag in Cow's Liver.

Bobcaygeon Independent: A strange thing happened the other day in Fenelon Falls. John Cupp, killed a cow and when the liver was taken to the butcher shop and cut, a sheep's tag was found embedded in it. The tag was bright and Balsam Grove was plainly stamped upon it. How did the tag get there is what is bothering many people. Had the cow been sucking the sheep's ear and suck the tag out, or had it picked it up from the grass. Then how did it get out of the cow's stomach and into the liver and how did the liver grow around the tag. It is a puzzler.

St. Paul's Choir Concert

Last night the Sunday School of St. Paul's Church was well filled with a delighted audience. The occasion was the annual Concert of that church An interesting musical program was presented. Amongst those contributing to this function were the choir, Miss Allan, Mrs. Allan, Messrs. McKeown, Dickson, Gordon Wright, Miss Laura Logan, Mrs. F. E. Ellis, Mr. Robt. Dickson and Mr. W. F. Skitch This was one of the best concerts of the season.

Some More Dress Goods "Mill Ends" - - Splendid Value at $1.25 an End

ANOTHER LOT HAS ARRIVED FROM THE MILL, and we are combining with them a few Ends that were left over from last week's Annex. And as is usual with these Ends, the same splendid value pertains in Dress Fabrics, Tweeds, and Suitings; the pieces being of various lengths, and in many instances afford ample material for the making of a smart tailored skirt. In the selection there is a host of different colors and color combinations, also a number of pieces in black; while the textures differ as greatly as do the colors. So that the home dressmaker has placed before her, in these "Mill Ends," an excellent means of solving the clothing question at a comparatively small cost. We would like you to take note of the window display on Monday evening and Tuesday, which will convey a good idea of the value there is in these Ends at $1.25

Cruelty to Animals

A marked case of cruelty to a horse was exhibited yesterday morning. As a Times scribe was passing Moore's Marble works on Charlotte street, he was hailed by a man standing in that vicinity. The latter said, "There's a case that the police should be notified about. That horse standing in this blizzard has been there for over an hour." The horse was attached to a local milk delivery cart. Our informant said to The Times: "I once drove that horse and rig. If I only knew the milkman's route, I would drive the horse on and keep it from freezing." As the animal's back, covered by a thin blanket, through which snow was blown by the severe west wind, as the horse faced eastwards, the scribe called up the police station.

IF CHILD IS CROSS, FEVERISH AND SICK

Look Mother! If tongue is coated, cleanse little bowels with "California Syrup of Figs."

Children love this "fruit laxative," and nothing else cleanses the tender stomach, liver and bowels so nicely.

A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels, and the result is, they become tightly clogged with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sours, then your little one becomes cross, half-sick, feverish, don't eat, sleep or act naturally, breath is bad, system full of cold, has sore throat, stomach-ache, or diarrhoea. Listen, Mother! See if tongue is coated, then give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the system, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers give "California Syrup of Figs," because it is perfectly harmless; children love it, and it never fails to act on the stomach, liver and bowels.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

GREAT BRITAIN MADE HELPLESS IN MEXICO UNITED STATES WAITS

Any More by British Fleet or Army Would Simply Help "Other Side"

London, Mar. 2.—The British Government's view that no immediate action could be taken by it in connection with the deadlock over the investigation into the death at Juarez of William S. Benton, the British ranchman, was made quite plain to-day in the House of Commons by Sir Edward Grey, the British Foreign Secretary. Sir Edward was, however, equally explicit in pointing out that if Great Britain failed to secure satisfaction through the United States the British Government reserved itself the right to secure reparation whenever it was able to do so.

The promised pronouncement on the Mexican situation from the Foreign Secretary had been anxiously awaited. It was delivered before a keenly interested gathering of the members of the House of Commons while the entire nation looked forward to a declaration of the Government's policy in regard to Mexico

"I must ask leave of the House to make somewhat more extended statement than can properly be compressed within the limits of an answer to a question.

"All the efforts that have been made hitherto have failed to secure an investigation into the facts respecting the death of William S. Benton.

"The persistent difficulties put in the way of such an investigation create the strongest presumption of a desire and an intention to conceal the truth on the part of those in Mexico who are responsible for what has happened.

"Communications with the Government of the United States are still proceeding, but I would repeat what I said last week—that these communications do not imply that the Government of the United States has any responsibility for what has taken place—by which I mean, of course, the death of Benton.

A USELESS REQUEST

Another agitation amongst people of Otonabee is being planned for a bridge across the Otonabee farther down the river than the one asked for by some Otonabee people, near the Locks. The rival bridge-promoters are stoutly opposed to each other's projects. It is useless to make claim for public aid with high pressure for more necessary things.

The legacy left by the late Government in the way of wild projects has left Canada in a financial hole that will take years to get out of

BOARD OF EDUCATION MET IN REGULAR MONTHLY SESSION

Ventilation in Collegiate Institute Will Be Improved This Summer—Usual Grants to Library and Science Department

The Board of Education met in regular monthly session last night, Chairman Dr. Morrison in the chair. There were also present Messrs. John Crane, J. J. Turner, Jr., W. H. Hill, V. Eastwood, B. F. Ackerman, L. M. Hayes, J. Smith, Dr. Burnham.

The students of Forms III and IV petitioned for improved ventilation in the Collegiate Institute—This went to the Property Committee to report.

The Peterborough Light & Power Co. asked for a settlement of their claim of $33 for a burnt out transformer in the East City school building. The company claims that the school wires from the motor to the outside wall of the building were crossed, thus burning out the transformer. Messrs. Alexander & Miller contend that they notified the Peterborough Light & Power Co. of the condition in which they had left their wires for attachment with the power wires, to thus avoid any burn out, but Mr. Munro says he heard nothing of this. Mr. Miller, who was present, asserted that he did the wiring himself and after bringing the wires to the outside of the walls, he notified the foreman of the Peterborough Light & Power Co. of the relation of the wires for connection, and marked the wires. This was news to Mr. Munro, who will further look into the matter as regards his staff. The question went to the Property Committee.

Principal Kenner asked for the usual grants of $50 for the Collegiate Institute Library and $150 for the Science department.—Granted.

Principal Kenner also drew attention to the fact that a few weather strips would make two lavatories and one or two class rooms in the Collegiate Institute more habitable than at present.—This went to the Property Committee with power to act.

Janitor Northcott was granted leave of absence to visit the old country in May, he to furnish a substitute.

Report of Committee on Appointments.

W. H. Hill submitted the following report:

Gentlemen,—Your Committee on Appointments beg to report and recommend as follows:

1. That Mr. Arthur D. Hone, of Toronto, be appointed on the Collegiate Institute staff to succeed Mr. J. W. Firth who has resigned. Salary to be according to schedule and duties to start 20th April next.

2. That Miss Mabel Hurlburt, of Hamilton, be appointed on the Public school staff to succeed Miss Fannie King who has resigned. Salary to be according to schedule and duties to start 20th April next.

Your committee also recommend that Mr. Hone be granted leave of absence during the month of May, for a sufficient length of time to enable him to write on final examinations.

The report was adopted as read.

Always Gave Something.

At a recent banquet in Toronto, the late Senator Cox, the following story was told:

After they had been speaking for some time, the Senator said, a man in the corner remarked:

"Your philanthropists are all right, but I think it is only just my next-door neighbor should be included."

"Is he generous?" asked one.

"I should just say he is," was the emphatic reply. "No matter how many tramps go to his door, he never seems to send one away empty handed."

"You don't mean it!" exclaimed one of his hearers.

"I do," replied the other man. "He always gives them something; he gives them a letter of introduction to me."

START RACIAL CRY TO AID EVANTURAL

Friends in Riding Say the Would Be Liquor Member is Persecuted.

Vankleek Hill, Ont., Mar. 3.—The Executive of the County of Prescott Liberal Association has been summoned by President J. N. Lapointe to meet at Vankleek Hill on Saturday March 7, to consider the question of Gustave Evanturel, M.P.P., and his expulsion from the party. From opinions freely expressed it looks as though the association will almost unanimously demand Mr. Evanturel's retirement from public life.

Some of his friends have started the race-religion cry in his favor, declaring he is being persecuted by Messrs. Pyne, Ferguson and Hanna and the Orangemen of Ontario. This was freely discussed in various parishes after church on Sunday. Mr. Evanturel's personal friends in Alfred are outspoken in these declarations.

Mr. Evanturel, it is understood, will be asked to attend the meeting on Saturday.

WANAMAKER'S BOAT NEVER CROSS OCEAN

New York, March 2.—"Rodman Wanamaker's flying boat which is being built by Glenn Curtiss will never cross the Atlantic," said Orville Wright, premier airman, here to-day in discussing the proposed ocean flight.

Wright, who is here on business, continued: "One reason the boat will never make the trip is that I believe the builder has no idea it will. In the last seven years practically no improvements have been made in aeroplanes. I do not mean in motors. I refer to planes and controls. The necessity of carrying fuel for a cross-ocean flight, the decreasing weight as it was consumed, would make it impossible for any aviator to adjust himself and his machine to the changing conditions."

Wright said he had not the slightest idea his company could build a machine capable of crossing the ocean at this time.

C. N. R. WILL JOIN LAKES ERIE & HURON

Ottawa, Mar. 3.—The Commons Railway Commission to-day reported the bill to incorporate the Sudbury, Kepawa and Bell river Railway. The proposed line will run from Sudbury to the foot of Lake Tomiskaming and from Kepawa Junction in Quebec, with connection with the N.T.R. at the point where it crosses Bell River.

Gerald Ruel, counsel for the Canadian Northern, explained the bill asking for an extension of the time for the construction of a C.N.R. line from a point between Port Arthur and Sudbury near the head of Long Lake north-westerly to a junction on the N.T.R. east of Lake Nipigon. He further asked leave to change the route of a line from a point on Lake Erie between Dunnville and Port Dover, through Brantford and Berlin to a point at or near Owen Sound or Meaford on Georgian Bay and to permit it to be routed to go through Kincardine.

NO HOPE EXTENDED FOR SIR GEORGE ROSS' RECOVERY

Former Premier is Losing--Brave Battle at the Toronto General Hospital

Toronto, Mar. 3.—The life of Sir George Ross still hangs by a slender thread, which may snap at any moment, or may remain unbroken for a week. For the past 24 hours his condition has been unchanged, as far as the watchers in the quiet room at the General Hospital can determine. Sir George is lying passive, apparently completely exhausted. Most of the time he seems scarcely conscious of what goes on around him. Hope has been abandoned by his physicians. It is, indeed, somewhat of a source of astonishment to them that he has not died before this. They know that the end will come soon, but not how soon. "There was no sign of change one way or the other," said one of the bedside attendants at noon. "Sir George may drop off to-night, or he may linger on for days."

Italian Deputies Fought a Duel with Swords.

Rome, Mar. 3.—Two Deputies, Signor Balsano and Signor Dravo, fought a duel with swords here to-day. Both were wounded in the face, after which they declared their honor had been satisfied and embraced each other. The duel was the outcome of the uproar in the Chamber on Saturday.

AGITATOR FOR AFRICA TO STIR UP TROUBLE

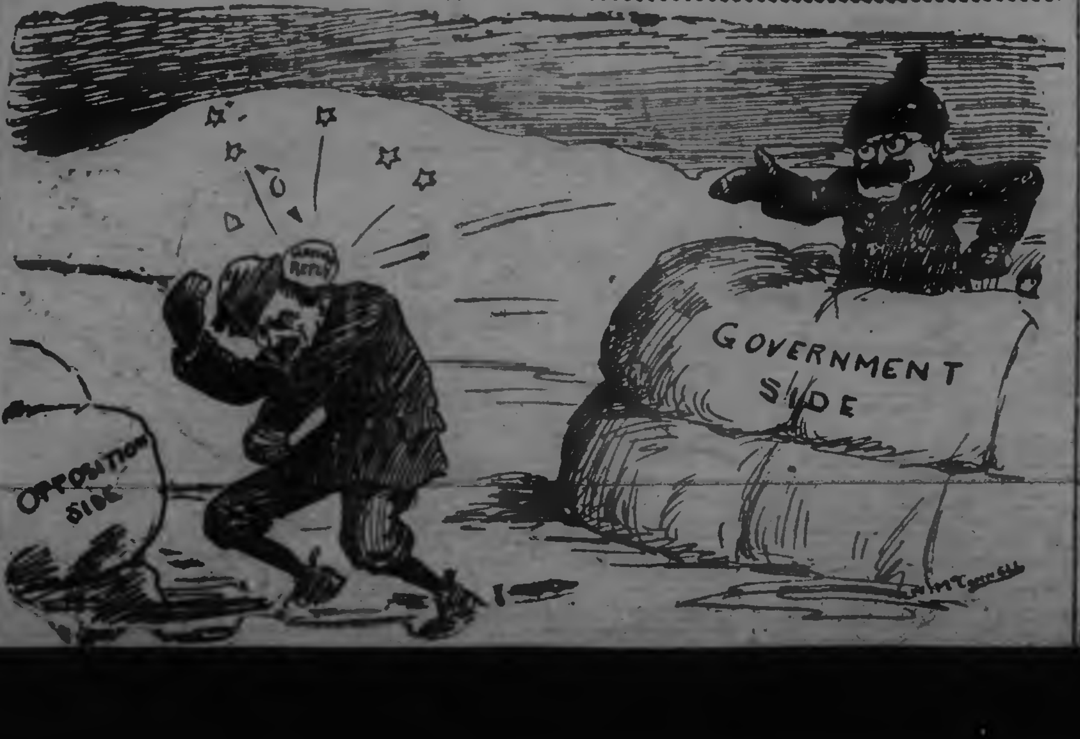
Tom Mann Will Go Out to Replace the Deported Strikers.

London, Mar. 3.—Tom Mann, English labor leader, who has been at the head of many strike movements, will sail for South Africa on Saturday to organize a labor agitation in retaliation for the expulsion of the South African labor leaders after the recent general strike.

GIRL FINDS BODY OF FATHER IN POOL OF BLOOD

New Orleans, March 2.—Charles Schmitt, 53 years old, of No. 1857 Genesee street, ended his life by cutting his throat with a razor in the bedroom of his home this afternoon where he was found lying in a pool of blood by his daughter, but was beyond medical aid. Schmitt's wife died a few months ago and he had been brooding over her death.

Deputy Medical Examiner Cook sent the body to the morgue.



REFUSED HEARING IN COURT CONFINED IN THE JAIL CELLS FRIENDS CAME TO THE RESCUE

Mr. C. C. Farr, of Haileybury, Posing as an "Out-of-Work" Arrested on the Street and Lodged in Court Street Police Station

Toronto, Mar. 3.—That it is quite possible, in these day of rapid fire Police Court methods, for a reputable citizen to be incarcerated in Toronto Jail and subjected to the indignities of a Police Court trial, commitment, to the common jail and other indignities, is shown by the case of Mr. C. C. Farr, of Haileybury, one of the oldest and best known citizens of New Ontario.

Mr. Farr is proprietor and editor of The Haileyburyian, the first paper published north of North Bay, and from one end of the northern district to the other the name of Farr is a household word.

He was one of the first residents of Haileybury, which is situated five miles north of Cobalt, and in the early days was a trader among the Indians for the Hudson Bay Co. He is the owner of large stretches of real estate, and a couple of years ago for his own pleasure, built a race track on his estate just outside the town, where his handsome residence overlooks the picturesque settlement on the banks of the Temiskaming.

He has been prominent in politics ever since the district was opened, being there long before the Cobalt camp was discovered, and has taken a leading part in many elections in the interests of the Conservative party.

By a strange irony of fate, his son-in-law is magistrate for the Cobalt district, and both he and Mr. Farr are well known in many Toronto circles. Mr. Farr usually makes his home at the Albany Club when in Toronto.

A wire from Haileyqury to-day, says:

Two Days in Jail.

"Mr. C. C. Farr, editor and owner of The Haileyburyian, who was arrested as a vagrant and spent two days in the Toronto jail last week, will make an endeavor to have Magistrate Ellis removed from the bench."

Mr. Farr was arrested on the street on Wednesday evening as he was proceeding to the British Welcome League to spend the night and get a story of his treatment there for his paper, and was lodged in the cells.

At the time of his arrest he endeavored to get in touch with the Albany Club, where he was staying, but the police refused to allow him to communicate with anyone. On Thursday morning Mr. Farr started to tell who he was before Magistrate Ellis, but his worship remanded him for a week to have him examined as to his sanity, and the prisoner was hustled across the Don, without giving the northern editor an opportunity to state his business.

WOES OF PEOPLE ON PACIFIC COAST, ORIENTAL INFLUX

Great Increase in Number of Chinese, Japanese, and Hindoos Coming In

Ottawa, Mar. 3.—The deportation of Baghwan Singh, the Sikh "priest" of the reform cult of Buddha, from the shores of British Columbia, where he signified his protest after a writ of habeas corpus had failed by biting a piece out of one immigration officer's ear and a piece out of another immigration officer's hand, together with the whole problem of the Oriental immigration formed the subject of interest to Japanese Imperial Consul-General and Sir Thomas Shaughnessy president of the C.P.R. Company, last night, in the galleries of the Canadian House of Commons. Both these gentlemen were distinguished visitors.

Hon. Frank Oliver of Edmonton, moved for a return of correspondence and documents relating to the immigration of Asiatics and bearing upon the Order-in-Council passed by the Government in regard to this matter in December last.

Mr. Oliver said that the effect of the order restricting the entry of laborers at British Columbia ports, skilled or unskilled, for a stated limited period, had resulted in the barring out of white men, but allowed the entry of Chinese. The late Government, he said, had succeeded in practically barring out Asiatics. More Chinese had come in the last year than ever under the late Administration, and five times as many Hindus had entered in 1913 as in 1911.

BATTLED WITH THE GALE IN ICE AND WATER IN LAKE ERIE

Four Men in Rowboat Covered Eighteen Miles Coming From Pelee Island to the Mainland During the Great March Wind

Leamington, Ont., March 2.—Pelee Island intended to send one hundred and twenty-five delegates to Ottawa with a Leamington party to-day, but as a result of the terrific wind storms of to-day only four went, and they nearly perished in their attempt to get there. It is eighteen miles across the lake to the island, and the four who got across started in a small rowboat. They had not gone far before they struck ice, and had to get out and carry their boat across the until water was reached again. This occurred several times and the wind blowing forty miles an hour made it so rough that the waves broke over their small craft, and they were covered with spray, which froze quickly.

The trip was the most hazardous the men ever made, and when they finally reached Leamington, after a five hours' battle with the elements, they were exhausted and nearly perished with the cold.

MANY FARM HOUSES LOST IN THE GALE

Fires Due to Sparks Fanned by the Gale—Rural Phone Lines Suffered Also.

London, Ont., March 3.—Reports coming from all over Western Ontario indicate that the losses in the fifty-mile gale which swept this district for the past twenty-four hours are much more serious than were at first thought. Many fine farm homes were completely destroyed by fires starting in the roofs from sparks. In the majority of cases the flames made such headway that only a few articles of furniture could be saved. Insurance men say the losses will run into many thousands.

Scores of barns were either unroofed or partially blown in. At the home of William Seldon in North Oxford, the whole upper part of a brick wall crashed on and he and his wife and three small children barely missed being buried.

It will cost thousands to repair the damage to rural telephone lines. In some places the firemen have been ordered to stay on duty all the time

MINED THE ROAD.

The Volunteers Wiped Out the Foe, but It Was a Sad Story.

"I can tell you the saddest thing that happened during the whole war," said an old negro to a group of listeners. The story was this. One night it was reported that the town was in peril of attack from the enemy, and the fighting forces were quickly mustered. One of the volunteers conceived the idea of mining the road and touching the fuse in time to annihilate the foe. There was plenty of powder, and the scheme was adopted. The rest of the defenders stood some on one side of the road, some on the other, ready to discharge their rifles into what might be left of the assailants.

The day passed without incident, but as the night wore on the strain of the situation began to tell on the nerves of the defenders. Presently, however, there was the sound of hoofs on the highway, approaching rapidly. Such was the state of mind of the defenders that the sounds appeared to indicate the coming of a mighty cavalry force. It was a terrifying moment. A vivid flash lighting up the scene as the first horseman reached the spot told that the mine had been exploded and it had done its work. There was not a vestige of an army to be seen when the smoke cleared away excepting the scattered fragments of a big black mule.

The party laughed as the old man concluded his tale. "That's a good enough story," said one of them, "but what was there so sad about it?"

"It was my mule, sah!" was the old negro's pathetic reply.

Greatly Overrated.

"Mrs. Gaswell, while you were in Venice did you see the Bridge of Sighs?"

"Oh, yes; I saw what they called that; but, my land, I've seen bridges ten times its size without ever going out of Pennsylvania!"—Chicago Tribune.

A Silent Man.

Jorkins—There's Perkins—you know Perkins—entered into an agreement with his wife soon after their marriage, twenty years ago, that whenever either lost temper or stormed the other was to keep silence. Bob—And the scheme worked? Jorkins—Admirably. Perkins has kept silence for twenty years.

Take Your Choice.

From Sir John Lubbock we take this ennobling thought: "You may see in a shallow pool either the mud lying at the bottom or the image of the blue sky above."

Feed Him.

If you want to win the gratitude of a dog, feed him. As to men, the material difference is the quality of the food.—Baltimore News.

THE KING CAN DO NO WRONG.

Neither Can He Ever Die, According to British Law.

It is a curious point of British law that the king never dies, or, to put it in another way, it would be useless for any barrister to argue that the ruler's predecessors have really died, since the utmost the law will admit is that there may be a "demise of the crown," meaning, of course, simply that there has been a transfer of the royal authority from one person to another.

It is a maxim that "the king can do no wrong," and under the law he would not be held personally responsible for any crime or "tort" that he chose to commit at any time. At any rate, we are assured by high constitutional authorities that the law should actually and literally be so construed and that the statutes hold that any injury his majesty might inflict upon a subject must be ascribed to the king's advisers. One thing seems to be certain, and that is that his majesty can under no circumstances whatsoever be arrested. Nor, moreover, could his goods be distrained or taken in execution should he fail to meet his liabilities.

A quaint feature of British law is that in theory the king is present at the law court at every sitting, though he might in point of fact actually be on the continent or elsewhere. It follows, therefore, that it is impossible to nonsuit him as plaintiff should he not put in an appearance when his case is called, since the law specifically states that the king is there. In a similar sense the king is always constructively present in parliament, though he be in fact thousands of miles from his shores.

His majesty is under the law the nominal guardian of all infants, idiots and lunatics, and to him is granted the sole right to print the Bible, the Book of Common Prayer and all acts of parliament in the United Kingdom. It has been stated, furthermore, that should he so desire the king could forbid the printing of any or all of them anywhere within his dominions.—Harper's.

Remarkable Case.

"How much your little boy resembles your husband!" said the cunning politician.

"I've always heard," she replied, "that people grow to look like those they are much with, but this is quite a remarkable case. We only adopted the little fellow last week."

In His Interest.

Jack—You know when Mabel rejected me last week I told you my troubles, and you promised to help me. Well, she accepted me last night. Am I to thank you for interceding for me? Cousin Nellie—Not exactly, dear boy. I simply intimated to Mabel that I was after you myself.

WINDMILL POINT ELEVATOR, MONTREAL.

While the Grand Trunk has been looking well to the matter of elevator construction in Western Canada to provide storage capacity for the ever-increasing grain crop, provision has also been made for shipping facilities at Montreal. In the spring of 1906 what is known as the Windmill Point Elevator, located in the busy harbor of Montreal, was completed and put into operation. Its capacity was 1,080,000 bushels. Its situation is so well planned that it is easily accessible to both lake or ocean vessels, with railway tracks alongside. To provide additional accommodation a large annex has just been completed, with a capacity of 1,070,000 bushels, making a net capacity of 2,150,000 bushels. There are in this new building 28 concrete tanks, 25 feet in diameter and 100 feet in height, arranged at right angles in four rows, with seven tanks in each row. The tanks are constructed of reinforced concrete, having their adjacent sides rigidly united, so that the four-pointed, star-shaped spaces between the circular tanks may be used for storage as well as the circular tanks themselves. The large tanks hold approximately 23,000 bushels apiece, and the star-shaped or interstice bins hold approximately 8,000 bushels each. It is the second largest grain bin on the Grand Trunk System, the largest being located at Fort William, with a capacity of 5,700,000 bushels.

INCURABLE.

Some Interference Wireless Operators Cannot Overcome.

Few are the steamer passengers who fail to visit the wireless office aboard ship to watch the operation of the instruments and to question the operator. Needless to say, the technical understanding of the well meaning visitors is a variable quantity. The operator must listen to wondering exclamations, original suggestions for the improvement of the service, discussions on the relations between wireless telegraphy and spiritualism and other doubtful topics with uniform courtesy. At times, however, the strain is too great. It was a lady passenger with an eye for details who came to the wireless room and looked wonderingly in.

"Oh, here's the wireless! May I come in? Isn't it wonderful to think of sending these—these waves—you call them waves, don't you? How fascinating to work at this! Are those jars filled with water?"

"Those are condenser jars, madam, quite empty."

"Really? I don't believe I could ever understand it. That coil of wire looks like a birdcage."

"That is the inductance helix."

"What are those things over your ears?"

"The receiving telephones."

"Then you have telephone connection too. One can hardly keep up with the times these days. What does that coil do?"

"That is the receiving tuner and interference preventer."

"Wonderful! Does it keep out all interference?"

"Not all," replied the operator wearily. "Some kinds of interference can't be tuned out; we just have to stand it."—Youth's Companion.

SHE WANTED LIGHT.

And She Had the Windows Fixed Exactly to Her Taste.

The architectural feature of the new house that caused a decided domestic rupture was the windows. The man was in favor of medium sized windows, with small panes to match the rest of the house, but his wife insisted upon enormous sheets of plate glass.

"You are away all day and do not know whether I can see my hand before me at noontime or not," she said, "but I am in the house most of the time and must have plenty of light and sunshine."

So they had big windows. Before the carpenter left she ordered inside shutters put up. The family's first night in their new home was celebrated by adjusting two sets of window shades, one white, the other dark green, which served as a background for two pairs of curtains, one of silk, the other of lace. On the third day the man helped his wife to hang additional sash curtains, and on the fourth day he found a man tinkering with the outside of the window ledge.

"He is just getting ready to put up the awnings," she explained.

Her husband looked at the shutters, the two shades, the two curtains and the sash curtains and the arrangements for the awnings at each window, and then he laughed, but she could not understand why.—New York Times.

Skyscrapers.

The second generation of skyscrapers in lower Manhattan has appeared. The twenty story building at the corner of Wall and Nassau streets is now being torn down as obsolete in order to make way for a new and much higher thirty-two story structure. New York skyscrapers may soon be classified like battleships—at the end of ten years "obsolescent," at the end of twenty "obsolete" and then the scrap heap.—Springfield Republican.

It is the aim of The Times:

To exploit and advance the best interests of the people of the fair and fertile land wherein it is published, and to which it steadily devotes its efforts;

To stand for liberty and law, equal rights and good government, the greatest boon to a free people;

To foster and encourage private and public enterprise, and hold up the hands of every honest toiler, either with brawn or brain, in every field of activity;

To stand independently for the true interests of the city, the Dominion and the Empire, and for those policies only which make for the common good;

It aims to be excellent and not cheap.

ESKIMO WIDOWERS.

Six Weeks is the Limit They Will Wait Before Remarrying.

In civilization it is said that a wife does not always add to her husband's ease or render his life more supportable, but up on the barren grounds the worst of wives would be better than none.

There, among the heathen tribes, if a man's wife dies—provided he is not a polygamist, in which case, says the Wide World, there is less need for hurry—he often marries again within the week.

Even the Christian Eskimo widowers are with difficulty persuaded by the Moravian missionaries to allow six weeks to elapse between the death and remarriage. On the very day after the six weeks have lapsed the hunter presents himself with a new bride and asks that the marriage service may be speedily read.

The reason is not far to seek. It is said in civilization that "a woman's work is never done," and far more is that true of the helpmeets of the savage and the semi-savage, the women of the barren grounds or of the ice edge. She makes and breaks camp, cooks, cuts up and carries to camp her husband's kill. She dresses the skins of deer and seal.

She is responsible for the fashioning of footgear and clothes. On a journey she often paddles the canoe, and on portage she carries a heavy load. In fact, it is easier to write down the duties not expected of a squaw than those which by immemorial custom she must perform.

"Touch Not the Queen."

Under this title a Paris journal professes to give an account of the tragic death of the queen of Siam, who was as greatly loved as her consort. Some years ago her majesty was boating with ladies of the court in a lake in the gardens of the palace at Bangkok. The boat overturned, and the queen could not swim. She was surrounded by numerous personages who could have saved her life, but no one has the right to extend the hand upon the queen. The king alone could have held her up and prevented her from sinking, and he was nowhere at hand. Respectfully the court allowed the queen to drown.

"Absolutely, sir."

"Done by Chippendale himself, sir, in a fit of rage when he heard the union had called the men out."—London Punch.

Right Back at Her.

"Does your husband allow you to have things charged at the stores?"

"Oh, I think he would, but"—

"But the stores wouldn't. Is that what you were going to add?"

"Oh, no. I was going to say that he gives me plenty of money with which to pay cash. Does yours?"—Buffalo Express.

An Unbiased Champion.

"Queer world, isn't it? See that chap over there, the one who is putting up the big holler for individual drinking cups for public use?"

"Yes."

"He hasn't drunk a drop of water for seven years."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

HE WOULD NOT DOFF HIS HAT

The man who thinks that the spirit of the Roman hierarchy has changed from the time when it revelled in persucution has some strange facts to face. The Christian World tells of a recent case which reminds one of the times we would gladly forget. About a year ago a Protestant named Otto Boruska was walking through a small village in Lower Austria when he met the village priest carrying the host in his hands and accompanied by acolvtes swinging censers. The men in the street removed their hats and knelt in the snow as the priest passed. But Boruska neither knelt nor removed his hat. The priest stopped and rebusked him, and seeing that he would not remove his hat, he summoned him before the district court. The court sentenced him to a week's imprisonment for his impiety, but Bourska appealed and the court of appeals at Vienna has acquitted the man. It agreed with the inferior court that the accused showed want of respect to the rites of the Roman Catholic Church, but it held that Austrian law does not compel a man to any religious observance against his will. It is said that the Roman Catholic party in Austria regards the decision as the end of all things and the triumph of the Antichrist. But to us the incident is of value only as showing what Rome would still do if it could, and also that even in the most papal of countries Rome is losing, or has already lost, the power to compel men to do her bidding. Italy, Spain, Peru, and now Austria have all in turn notified the "prisoner of the Vatican" that his control of the state is at end end. Well for the world that it is so!

Headache Over the Eyes? Look for Nasal Catarrh

Catarrh Never Stops in One Place—Often Ruins Health Completely

In this changeable climate it is the little colds that drift into Catarrh. Unless the inflammation is checked it passes rapidly from the throat or nose to the bronchial tubes and then to the lungs. You can't make new lungs any more than you can make new fingers or toes, but you can cure Catarrh.

The surest cure consists of breathing in the healing balsamic essences of CATARRHOZONE, which is simply a medicated vapor, so full of rich curative properties that every trace of Catarrh vanishes before it.

"The soothing piney vapor of Catarrhozone is the most powerful medicine I ever used," writes Mrs. Edmond J. Christine, of Saskatoon. "Every breath drawn through the inhaler sends a grateful feeling through the air passages of the nose and throat. Catarrhozone cured me of frightful headaches over the eyes, relieved me of a stuffy feeling in the nose, and an irritable hacking cough that had been the bane of my life for a year. My general health is greatly improved, my appetite and digestion are considerably better than before. Catarrhozone has been the means of giving me such health as I always desired, but never possessed."

Even though catarrh has a firm hold on you, and affects your throat, nose or ears, you can thoroughly cure it with Catarrhozone. Large size guaranteed, costs $1.00; smaller size 50c.; sample size 25c. All storekeepers and druggists, or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

EXTENDING RURAL MAIL GENERALLY

Hon. L. P. Pelletier has set himself as energetically at the ask of extending free rural mail delivery as he has at the task of establishing parcels post in Canada. Under the late Liberal regime rural mail delivery was a joke. It was a paper policy for election purposes. Outide of buying thousands of mail boxes at high prices, no serious attempt was ever made to extend or popularize the system.

Already many parts of rural Ontario are comuletely served by free mail delivery, while the ame is true of Prince Edward Island. Since September, 1911, there have been established in Ontario no less than 920 rural routes, supplying 46,667 families, and in Prince Gdward Island there have been established 83 new routes, serving 3,914. In the other provinces the following number of routes have been established: Quebec, 125; Nova Scotia, 42; New Brunswick, 96; British Columbia, 21; Alberta, 5; Manitoba, 9, and Saskatchewan, 5.

SHE REPUDIATED THE CHARGE

At the men's service in a Yorkshire parish the vicar tried to convey the lesson that the truest heroes and heroines are those who do noble deeds in the secret corner of the home, where none can see or applaud.

"Few of you seem to think," he concluded, "that your wives staying at home uncomplainingly to mind the children and prepare the meals are heroines, and yet their touching devotion to duty proves them to be so."

It certainly hadn't struck one old farmer in this way before, and as soon as he got home he promptly told his wife that the vicar had called her a heroine.

"Whatever does that mean?" asked the good lady.

"Oh, it means a woman who stays in t' house instead of goin' art to show hersen," explained the farmer vaguely.

"Then I'm not a heroine, an' I'll thang t' vicar to mind what he's sayin'," snapped the wife. "I go to his church as much as t' other women do, an' he must be blind if he can't see me. Why, I'd five different colors in t' bonnet I wore last Sunday!"—London Spectator.

Beat the Bank's System.

The boy entered the Cleveland bank and laid a half dollar with his bank book on the receiving teller's window. "We don't receive deposits of less than a dollar," said the teller. The boy yielded reluctantly to the system and drew back. But he did not leave the bank. He crossed the corridor and seated himself on a settee. The teller noticed him sitting there and also noticed the reflective look on his face. The boy waited for some time, thinking it over. Finally he arose and went to the paying teller's window. A moment later he confronted the receiving teller. "I want to deposit this dollar and a half," he said. The teller grinned. The boy had just drawn a dollar from his little balance and was using it as an entering wedge for the rejected half dollar. And so the system was beaten by the boy, and a considerable accession of bookkeeping labor was the price of defeat.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

His Error.

The young man who loved the daughter of the widow had called to get the mother's consent to lead the fair girl to the altar, but he blundered at the very outset.

"I have come, madam," he began in a voice that was agitated and beseeching, "to ask you for the blessed privilege of working for your dear daughter, taking care of her, giving her a home and"—

He got no further. The widow, with indescribable eagerness, threw herself into his arms. "I gladly give you the privilege," she cried. "You don't know how I have hoped and longed for a model man like you to be my darling daughter's father!"—Chicago News.

KING WINTER.

(Written for The Times by A. F. Calder.)

King Winter comes stealthy with hoar-frowning face,
And clasps the fair earth in an icy embrace,
At the touch of his hand all her charms disappear,
And she lies, in white, winding shroud cold on her bier.

Grim tyrant despotic, beneath whose stern sway
The blue skies of summer have turned to dull grey,
Around him wild storm-cloud and whirling snows blend
Bare, bleak, desolation, his footsteps attend.

At the breath of his frost winds, the flowers lie dead,
The birds to the southlands, for shelter have fled;
Low hushed in the meadows, the streamlets glad song,
That now creeps dark and ice bound in silence along.

But tho' blustering and harsh, is the voice of this king,
Yet his heart melts like wax, at the warm smile of spring,
Tears may flow like rain, for decreed has just fate,
That in favor of spring he must soon abdicate.

Who will force him to quickly all captives release
Surrender the scepre, and make terms of peace;
Then afar in the north, he must banished remain,
While his gentle successor, benignly will reign.

TESTING AN EGG

Many Ways to Detect Staleness Besides Smell and Taste.

It does not require a very discriminating palate to detect an old egg from a new one, says a correspondent of the New York Sun. The former has a musty flavor that the latter never has, and the mustiness may range from a slight taint to a very pronounced one. It is always noticeable in storage eggs.

If any one wishes to verify the judgment of his palate, the following tests may be used:

1.—It is almost impossible to peel the shell from a fresh hard boiled egg without having some of the white come away with it.

2.—A stale egg cannot be beaten to a froth.

3.—When a fresh egg is broken into a dish the yolk stands up and the white does not spread, whereas in a stale egg the yolk lies flat and the white seems watery.

4.—The shell of an egg after a certain length of time loses its chalky appearance and becomes shiny.

5.—The air space in the large end of a newly laid egg is about half an inch in diameter, and as the egg ages this space grows larger. In storage eggs it sometimes extends to one-fourth the length. An expert can very closely approximate the age of an egg by examining this space. This is known as candling and is done by holding the egg in a beam of light. A simpler test is to hard boil the egg and notice the relative size of the space.

What America Has Proved.

America has proved that it is practicable to elevate the mass of mankind—that portion which in Europe is called the laboring or lower class—to raise them to self respect, to make them competent to act a part in the great right and great duty of self government, and she has proved that this may be done by education and the diffusion of knowledge. She holds out an example a thousand times more encouraging than ever was presented before to those nine-tenths of the human race who are born without hereditary fortune or hereditary rank.—Daniel Webster.

WORMS! YES. THAT'S IT WORMS IS THE TROUBLE—

Many Suffer From Them and Do Not Know It.

Many go to an early grave on account of them and have been pronounced to have had brain fever or some other complaint.

Prof. Mulveney Comes to the Rescue

His Wonderful Remedies are saving thousands of lives.

Why not try his remedies, they are sure, certain and harmless.

Stomach worms are round like earth worms, and measure from 8 to 16 inches in length, the large ones being about the size of a lead pencil in thickness. They are white and sometimes pink in color; they infest the stomach and small intestines and sometimes great numbers are found to exist. One of my customers claim one of his children passed thirty from the use of my remedy. It does not require much thought to come to the conclusion that these worms are very dangerous, as they cause fever, convulsions, fits, etc. Many persons have died from worms and they have been known to craw out of their mouth and nose after death. Just imagine the suffering and terrible agony a child or adult must experience with these disgusting and loathsome creatures crawling about in the stomach and bowels. There is no doubt that they are constantly taking the nourishment that should go to make a strong, healthy person. Is it any wonder that your child is cross, irritable and sickly? Adults are also restless, melancholy and miserable from the same cause and are sometimes treated for dyspepsia, nervous prostration and other complaints. My remedy is in liquid form and is an excellent remedy to build up the system, and can be taken for some time after the worms have been expelled to build up the system, which generally requires it as the stomach and bowels are generally in a weak and debilitated condition, caused by the ravages of these undesirable pests. My remedy known as Mother's Friend, is pleasant and agreeable to take and is a life-saver for children, as it not only destroys worms but strengthens and builds up the child, cures wetting of the bed, convulsions and fits; destroys pin worms. The price is $1.00. My remedy known as B'Well is much better for adults, and is the greatest nerve remedy on earth. Cures all nerve troubles, cleanses the system, restores lost energy and is a life saver. B'Well is a microbe killer, also a worm killer; microbes and worms cause all kinds of disease. B'Well kills the cause, also kills blood poison. Sold only by Prof. Mulveney. Write for further information free.

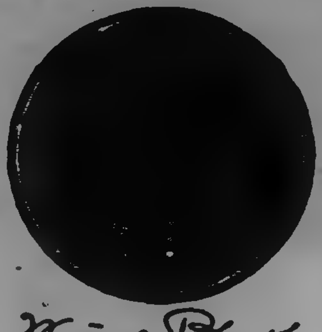
DAILY MAGAZINE PAGE FOR EVERYBODY

Are You a Modern "Ailment Faddist?"

By WINIFRED BLACK

Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service.



Winifred Black

MISS JULIA MARLOWE started to New York from the West recently to have an operation for appendicitis.

When she got to Chicago she found that she didn't have appendicitis at all—only indigestion.

Here's looking at you, Miss Marlowe. We're all glad of it—you beautiful, buoyant, wonderful creature, you. Besides, it really wouldn't have done for a woman of your exalted position to have appendicitis.

Appendicitis has gone out; it isn't done any more, as they say in England.

It is hopelessly out of date, as far behind the times almost as old-fashioned influenza—and who has thought of having even a touch of that since the grippe came in. Appendicitis stayed in fashion for quite a while didn't it?

There was a time when nobody who pretended to be anybody at all would dream of admitting that he had such a thing as an appendix.

I knew a woman who had a little gold corkscrew which she wore as a single dangle on her vanity chain.

She said that corkscrew fitted the cork of the nice little cut glass bottle which held her appendix.

The fashion went out soon after that. But it was the rage while it lasted.

People had appendix parties—as they have alimony dinners now—and everybody sat around and told about the ether and what they dreamt when they were under the influence of it.

Some seemed rather to fancy ether. It was so stimulating to the imagination, they said.

Others couldn't bear it; they found it irritating to the nerves.

It was all very interesting and "smart!"

It was really rather a bore when appendicitis went out. But Pekin Pugs came in soon after that and we managed to live through it.

The next fad the doctors introduced to us was the uric acid idea.

Now It is "Blood Pressure"

Everybody had uric acid. Did you have the headache after a big dinner?

It wasn't what you ate or what you drank that was the matter with you—it was the uric acid.

Pneumonia, scarlet fever, measles, whooping cough, gout, rheumatism—they all came from our brand new and highly interesting friend, uric acid.

It was uric acid that made you lose out in the market; it was uric acid that drove your husband to making love to another woman.

It was uric acid that turned a perfectly good wife and mother into a heartless and brainless flirt.

It was uric acid that made you stupid when you should be brilliant, and old when you should be young.

Just as we had all worked ourselves up into a perfect fury of hatred of the whole uric acid family, we found out that it was all a mistake.

Uric acid wasn't anything new at all; it has always been and always will be. A good thing it is, too—so some of the doctors say—for if we didn't have it we might all be toothless dotards at eighteen, or some such unhallowed thing.

Now it's blood-pressure.

Everybody has "blood-pressure."

They won't insure you, because you have blood-pressure.

They won't sell you a home on the instalment plan, until some doctor has found out about your blood-pressure, to be sure you're going to live long enough to pay the instalments.

You can't have anything the matter with you, mentally, morally, physically or financially, that the doctors won't tell you that there is just one thing at the bottom of all your troubles—blood-pressure.

You have blood-pressure; your sister has it; your brother is struggling with it; your father would have been twice the man he is if it hadn't been for blood-pressure, and that is the reason your mother died after she'd been thrown out of the automobile.

The accident had nothing to do with her death; if her blood-pressure had been all right, she'd have lived with every bone in her body broken. You may not know you have it; you may think you're all right, but you're all wrong, every way, all the time, and it's blood-pressure that's doing it.

What Will Be Next?

I can't find out what there seems to be to do about it. If your blood-pressure is bad, it's bad. That seems to be all there is to it.

It's too high and you mustn't get excited; or it's too low and you mustn't mope; or it's just in between and you've got to be careful to keep it so. But nobody seems to know just what to do about it anyway.

There it is, registered, with the queer instrument that is its special phophet—and that's all there is to it.

Go and get blood-pressure, if you want to be in the fashion.

I suppose in a month or so—these things move rapidly these days—we shall find that there isn't any such thing after all, or, if there is, it is the only thing that is keeping the race alive.

Like sterilized milk. I've a friend who almost drove her family to madness with the sterilization fad.

She boiled everything, even the front door bell, and once, when there was an epidemic in town, she sent her children to school with cotton batting in their ears and nostrils to keep out the germs.

One day one of her children, the littlest one, was ill and a real doctor came to see my friend, and he told her that she had sterilized all the nourishment out of the child's food.

I don't think the world has ever stood on the same firm foundation to that woman since that fateful day.

Remember the old story, don't you, about the woman who went to the World's Fair somewhere, and on one amazing day she attended a congress of religions, a dress reform lecture and a Christian Science meeting.

She went home dazed and all night long she lay and muttered, so they say: "No hell, no quinine and no corset! What shall we cling to now?"

Appendicitis, uric acid—how soon will blood-pressure disappear from view, and what shall we "ailment faddists" have to cling to then?

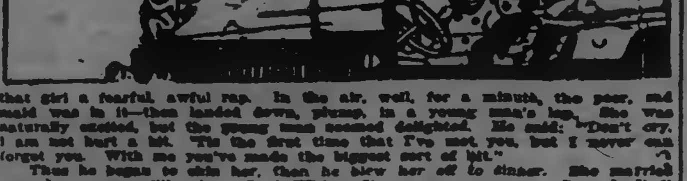
An Up-to-Date Romance

By Tom Jackson

IN a city full of brewers, trolley cars and evil-doers, a young girl wandered at the close of day. She would have walked much faster, but she'd worn out her own pinster, for many, many miles she'd walked that day. She was tired, wan and weary, sad hearted, pale and dreary. She felt all in and also very blue. She had blown in her last nickel for a cruller and dill pickle; that evening, too, her room rent it was due.

She was having no enjoyment; she was looking for employment—she'd lost her job the very day before. While waiting on some tinkers, she had dropped a plate of "sinkers," and the dairy lunch man said: "Work here no more."

As she hoofed along, sad hearted, down the street an auto started. It hit that girl a fearful, awful rap. In the air, well, for a minute, the poor, sad maid was in it—then landed down, plump, in a young man's lap. She was naturally excited, but the young man seemed delighted. He said: "Don't cry. I am not hurt a bit. 'Tis the first time that I've met you, but I never can forget you. With me you've made the biggest sort of hit."

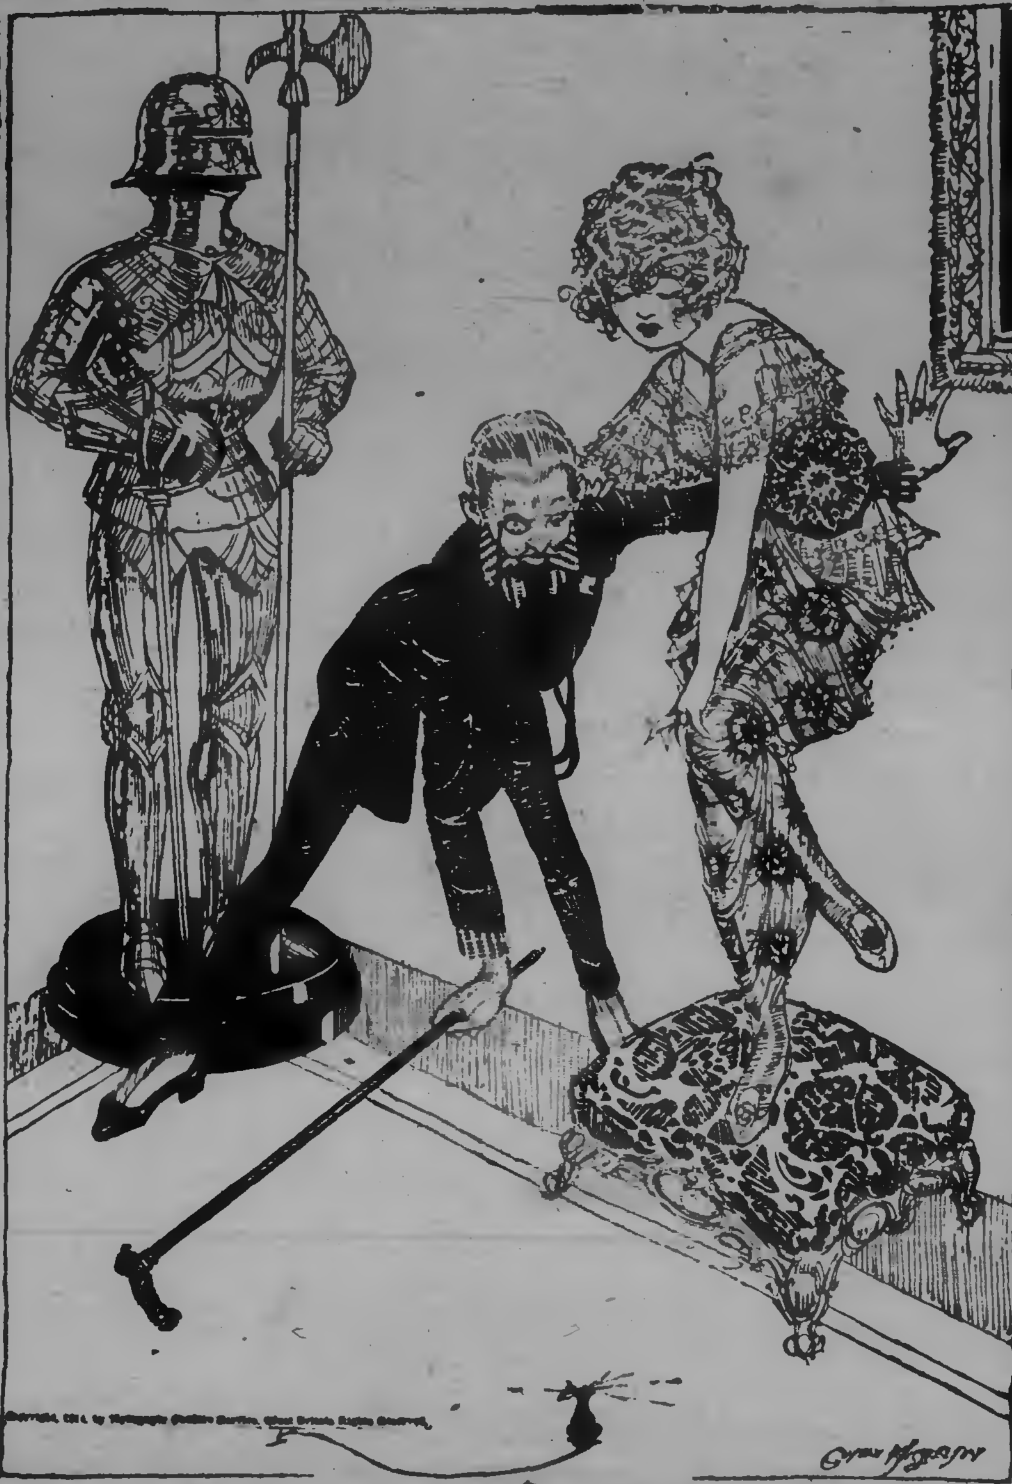


Thus he began to chin her, then he blew her off to dinner. She married him—he was a millionaire. Gee! Whiz! It was some marry. Say, don't it eat Old Harry, how some fair maids succeed in getting there!

This once sad-hearted maiden with diamonds now is laden; about her she is no more perplexed. In society she's prancing and the tango she is [illegible], and goodness knows what she'll be doing next.

HER HERO

By Michelson



Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service. Great Britain Rights Reserved.

YOU never can tell about heroes until a great crisis comes. Your heroes on canvas, or the heroes of the imagination which you fit into the machine-made armor papa bought in Belgium, never have a chance. When something really happens it is different.

Of course, there's always an excuse for heroines. Even the mighty elephant is afraid of a MOUSE. And if you didn't leave the field clear what opportunity would a hero have to prove that he WAS a hero?

Don't criticise your hero's gestures in a crisis. Valor is not always graceful. Nerves of steel often express themselves grotesquely. Just murmur to yourself what a wonderful thing it is to be a MAN. Be grateful that SOME ONE is near to face the awful peril, to shield you from a menacing danger. Such moments remind you how essential it is to have a HERO handy.

Newest Smart Smoking Suits Follow Demure, Girlish Lines

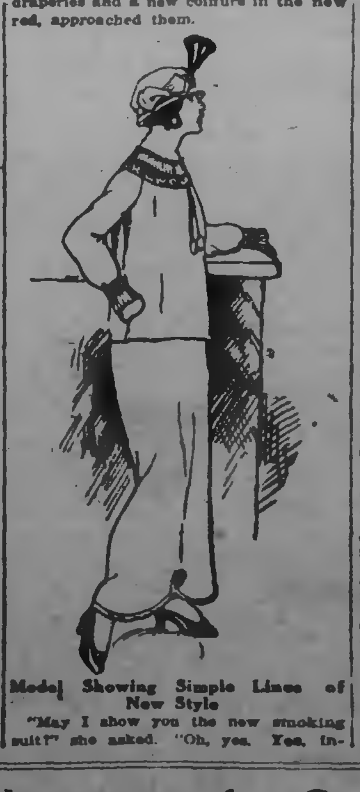
By MADGE MARVEL

TWO sedate, middle-aged women walked slowly through the costume salon of one of the most exclusive big shops in New York. Their attention was arrested by an unlined skirt of dull blue charmeuse fashioned with the high front draping and having the slight curving slash directly over the instep.

It was topped by a straight blouse of cerise crepe meteor with the lines of the middy blouse. There was a pocket at the side, no collar, a V-shaped opening at the neck and buttons of the material which fastened it straight up the centre front. It was caught low on the hips into a band of blue and dull gold and red Oriental embroidery done on black net. The sleeves plain and three-quarter length were banded with cuffs of the same.

The ladies admired it. They said it seemed so sane after all the minarets and tunics. It might be developed in different and more sedate colorings and would be charming for any one. In different color, such as a darker red with a blue skirt in a deeper shade, it would be just the thing for Mary who was in boarding school. It impressed them as being altogether girlish and unassuming and smart.

A tall, elegant blonde, with trailing draperies and a new coiffure in the new red, approached them.



Model Showing Simple Lines of New Style

"May I show you the new smoking suit?" she asked. "Oh, yes. Yes, indeed. We have had wonderful success with it. It is charming, is it not? We have made it in several combinations. You see it is so perfect for the uncorseted figure. May I show you one in black with the blouse in jonquil yellow?"

But the two ladies were gone. The saleswoman shrugged her shoulders and touched the carefully dangled curls over her left ear.

"Are they really bought—by people?" I asked.

"They are," she replied. "Why else would we show them?"

Well, whatever you call them, the design is good. I agree with the lady who liked it for Mary. It does look girlish and demure.

In this same shop I saw the nearest approach to the bustle I have yet noticed. It was on an evening frock of white silk shadow lace. There was a very short tunic of pale blue taffeta which was tucked up around the hips with very bouffant effect in the back, for all the world like the bustles none of us are foolish enough to admit remembering—except "in pictures and old gowns in the attics when we were wee children."

Below the fluff of silk the lace was draped in a series of loops which all made for fulness.

I saw something like the same style displayed in a coat costume of green moire poplin. There was a deep pleated fan arrangement on each hip and a full drapery in the back of the skirt which reached half to the knees and joined the pleatings on the sides. The coat had a very full back skirt portion which stood well away from the figure below the waist line. The front of the skirt was slightly draped and the coat was scarcely more than an Eton.

There were sleeve frills of charmeuse in the same color, and where the skirt of the coat joined the body there was a twisted rope of taffeta.

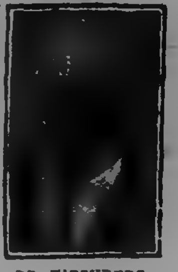
Secrets of Health and Happiness

Why Your Muscles Betray Your Character

By Dr. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

Copyright, 1914, by L. K. Hirshberg.



DR. HIRSHBERG

"DO YOU believe in fairies?" asks Peter Pan. Of course you do. To believe in fairies is not so bad as to believe in fortune-telling, star-reading, astrology, ghosts and other "credulogenous" nonsense.

Santa Claus, Easter Rabbits and fairies are like religious-legitimate objects of belief. All of the other potpourri of superstitions are observations misinterpreted.

Most of these fallacious "pseudo-sciences" and supposedly supernormal phenomena are facts that you explained by false premises. In fine, when you are predisposed beforehand, or even "dead sot agin" a phenomena beforehand, your explanations lean toward the very point of view you most like or dislike.

This may not be clear to you for a moment. Yet the moment you think about or against "spirits" your thoughts give these, absurdly, an undue prominence.

When, therefore, you sit in a semi-darkened, silent room with a woman in black bombazine called a "spiritualist," you are, no matter how sceptical you may be, half-way in her power.

Every Thought Betrayed.

When the table cracks, bells ring, banjos play, tamborines jingle, tables walk or "manifestations" appear, you observe certain results and succumb, hook, line and sinker, to the interpretation which fits your educated ignorance of the true state of affairs.

When savants such as William James, Sir Oliver Lodge, Alfred Russel Wallace, Cesare Lombroso, Camille Flammarion, Sir William Crookes, Hamlin Garland and others indorse Eusapia Palladino, it is because, in their laboratory experiments and philosophy the peculiar ways and tricks of "spiritualists" are not dreamed of. Hence, lacking a correct explanation, they accept some one else's.

Comes now the real point, physiologically speaking. Prof. John B. Watson of the Johns Hopkins laboratory of psychology, says that if the man in the moon came tumbling to the earth and could not speak one sub-lunary language, a good "mind-reader," "magician," "conjurer," "psychic" or "psychologist" would know his every thought.

This is true, not because there would be anything occult or mysterious about it, but because these people recognise the value of each muscular twitch, the movements voluntary and involuntary of every muscle in your anatomy.

Trained horses and dogs do not need the words of their trainers to perform their stunts. From the corners of their eyes they spot the every muscular quiver, even those which the masters wot not of.

Process Really Simple.

Every activity of your muscles is stamped indelibly upon your brain. Every thought, on the other hand, reshapes your muscles, and, of course, the flesh attached to them.

It is plain then, that all behavior—this is only the aggregate action of several muscles—alters your thoughts. Similarly all thoughts change the outward appearance of your face and form, plus the motion of your muscles, at any given moment.

See how simple all this is for the alert fortune-teller, not to speak of the skilful superintendent who reads character for future efficiency, and the psychologist—or, as these scientists now prefer to be called, behaviorist—to increase the knowledge of human nature.

When a Martian visits this sphere all that will be necessary is to watch his feet to see if he is truthful. He may "keep a straight face," but if he twiddles his toes he is a prevaricator.

If he idly gazes at the sky with his head back he is not a well-balanced thinker.

If he laughs with his eyes open he is an honest, deep, straight-forward thinker. If he guffaws with closed eyes he is as bland and innocent as a child, a Chinaman or a Simple Simon.

If he bows and smiles, capers and grimaces he is an insincere prude who prizes his ancestors and his blood beyond ability, efficiency and dashing originality.

If he doubles up his thumb inside his fist he is submissive. If his lower jaw sinks loosely he is a disappointed fellow.

So it goes. Every little movement, indeed, has a meaning all its own.

Answers to Health Questions

W. M.—My father has "disappeared into a shadow" almost. He and I came here from Ireland only a few months ago. Do you think we should return to the old country?

No. Stay where you are. Take your father to the university clinic at once. Great loss of weight often presages the same serious ailments in Ireland as they do here. He will, no doubt, be well and strong within a few months.

• • •

R. H. K.—How can I cure warts?

Ordinary warts are easily removed by means of a plaster of salicylic acid, or 60 grains of this acid to an ounce of collodion. If this fails, use acid nitrate of mercury with precautions to limit the range of its destructive action.

If warts are moistened with vinegar or strong acetic acid, a stick of alum afterward may destroy them.

Daddy's Good Night Story

By GEORGE ELBERT SMITH

"WHAT are you doing?" asked Jack Rabbit of Billy Bunny one morning.

"I am looking for Mister Sunshiny Man," said Billy.

"You are always calling the sun 'Mister Sunshiny Man,'" answered Jack.

"Yes," replied Billy, "I have a great imagination. I am writing a story."

"What is imagination?" asked Jack.

"It is making images out of things that are not real. All great writers have imagination," replied Billy. "You see, when I call the sun by his pet name I am using my imagination."

"Is your story about Mister Sunshiny Man?" asked Jack.

"No," replied Billy. "It is about a good Little Rabbit."

"Read it to me," said Jack, sitting up in bed. Then Billy read:

THE GOOD LITTLE RABBIT.

by

BILLY BUNNY.

"Once upon a time there was a Little Rabbit and he loved to slide down the bannisters.

"One afternoon he slid down so fast he went off the end and killed himself. He got up and as he went across the front porch he stumbled over the root of a tree, and——"

"Wait a minute!—Wait a minute!" said Jack Rabbit. "How could he stumble over the root of a tree if he was dead?"

"I didn't say he was dead," answered Billy. "I said he was killed. Now keep still or I won't read you any more."

"Hey there! you boys come down to breakfast and stop your noise!" shouted Brer Rabbit from down stairs.

"Let's hurry up and dress," said Jack, "and you can tell me the story while we are dressing."

So Billy begun again: "After the Good Little Rabbit had gone off the porch he went down to the river and poor little thing was drowned!"

"That's twice you killed him," said Jack, laughing.

"I didn't say he was killed, I said he was drowned," replied Billy angrily.

"Well, what happened next?" asked Jack.

"I won't tell you," said Billy. "you can get the rest yourself."

"I'll use my imagination!" laughed Jack, as they started down stairs.

A Blazing Fire.

On a cold, frosty night every one likes to see a blazing fire, but this generally means heavy coal bills. A good plan is to place a quantity of chalk at the back of each grate, in equal proportion to the coals. This throws out a [illegible] heat and lasts quite a long time. It always pays in the end to buy [illegible] [illegible] it makes [illegible] it saves fewer [illegible]. A handful of common salt thrown into the fire occasionally makes a cheerful blaze and lessens the consumption of coal.

A Sober Motive.

"Yes, he played the last two acts with a broken wrist."

"Heroism, eh?"

"Not at all. He was afraid to give his understudy a chance."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS

THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at the office of any Local Agent of Dominion Lands (not sub-agent), on certain conditions.

Duties.—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required in every case, except when residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside of his homestead. Price $3 per acre. Duties.—Six months residence in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and 50 acres extra cultivation. The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land after report by Homestead Inspector on application for patent.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price, $3 per acre. Duties.—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

SECTION 2, SEVERN DIVISION NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned and marked "Tender for Section No. 2, Severn Division, Trent Canal," will be received at this office until 12 o'clock noon on Monday, March 23rd, 1914.

Plans, specifications and form of contract to be entered into can be seen on or after this date at the office of the Chief Engineer of the Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa; at the office of the Superintending Engineer, Trent Canal, Peterborough, Ont.; and at the office of the District Engineer, Public Works Department, Midland, Ont.

Parties tendering will be required to accept the fair wages schedule prepared or to be prepared by the Department of Labour, which schedule will form part of the contract.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and in the case of firms, unless there are attached the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm.

An accepted bank cheque on a chartered bank of Canada for the sum of $36,000.00 made payable to the order of the Minister of Railway and Canals, must accompany each tender, which sum will be forfeited if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work, at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective contractors whose tenders are not accepted.

The cheque of the successful tenderers will be held as security, or part security, for the due fulfilment of the contract to be entered into.

WOMEN LEARNING TO BE GARDENERS

At Her Agricultural School Lady Wolseley Gives Her Students a Thorough Course

Lord Wolseley's daughter, Viscountess Wolseley, has devoted herself to an agricultural school for women, which she established at Glynde in Sussex. Her work attracted so much attention that the ancient London Guild of Gardeners bestowed upon her an honorary membership in their "worshipful company," the first ever given to a woman.

Viscountess Wolseley's school at Glynde covers about five acres. There are buildings for the school and her own little home is in the midst. She has christened the place "Ragged Lands," saying that it contains a little of everything in its natural state.

There are models laid out of the different styles of gardens, the formal Italian and the French, the old Dutch and the ancient English. There is a model of a sunken garden such as exists upon many of the English estates. There is also a terrace garden, a wall garden, a water garden, a rose garden and a rock garden. Every modern and ancient idea in gardening is illustrated even to "kitchen" gardens and several small orchards as well.

Lady Wolseley's own garden is full of roses, in which a tall, latticed wooden pillar is covered with them and surmounted by a carved wooden beast, the dog star of Wolseley.

The school was founded in 1906, upon the site of a corn field, which had been long unproductive because infested with a species of worms. The land was reclaimed by Lady Wolseley and her pupils, but it lies in such an unprotected situation upon the downs that their success is all the more remarkable, as heavy winds can reach it from all directions. There are only twelve students and each has her set of garden tools and has to work actively in keeping the land in proper condition. The pupils are often ignorant of the first principles of gardening and sometimes begin without knowing the difference between a strawberry plant and a potato sprout. The sum of $500 is regularly set aside for the crops which are ruined by the beginners.

During the winter months the students take lessons indoors in garden carpentry and the work of keeping the green house furnaces going day and night occupies a good deal of their time. The students are also taught the commercial side of their business and how to market the fruit, flowers and vegetables to the best advantage.

HINTS ON HOUSEBUILDING

The living-room ought to face the south or west, that it may have the benefit of the afternoon sun. The dining-room may well face the east, to secure the good cheer of the morning sunlight, that the day's beginning may be auspicious. It is therefore best, or, at least, most convenient, to plan for these things, if the house faces the south.

Cement cellar walls cost no more than stone set in cement, and are rat and moisture proof, besides offering a more agreeable wall in the cellar. There is no reason why cellars should be dark and disagreeable. Allow for considerable window space in the cellar wall, and group the windows in pairs. Thus sunlight enters, which aids in keeping the cellar dry.

The safe colors for a house, besides red, are white, grey, yellow, and brown. Yellow or grey with white trimmings suits many a plain pitch-roofed or square colonial house. Greys and browns are good for ugly, nondescript ones, the greys always being pleasanter on the yellow shades than on cold, blue tones. White suggests the formal type again. It is a very good color for a country house, showing it up from a distance in fascinating glimpses; for it needs trees about it, and flowers to sparkle against its walls. Such a house will be attractive when the leaves are gone from the trees, for the bare boughs will serve to soften the effect.

SOME BRIDAL SUPERSTITIONS

Bride Should Take Thought as to Stepping Into the Carriage

Superstitions regarding marriage are common in all parts of the world. One is that a bride on leaving her home for the wedding trip must step into the carriage right foot first. She should do the same when she first enters the home prepared for her after the bridal trip. A pretty custom which is tinged with superstition is that of the bride, as she is about to leave her home after the ceremony, tossing her bouquet among her female friends. The one who catches it, it is said, will be the next bride. A favorite wedding-day in Scotland is December 31st, so that the young couple can leave their old life with the old year and begin their married life with the new one. In Italy no sharp-pointed wedding gifts are permitted.

Good Fruit Cake

Dissolve a level teaspoon of soda in 3 tablespoons warm water. Add ½ pint thick, sour cream, stir, turn into a bowl, and add ½ cup New Orleans molasses. Mix well, then add ½ pint brown sugar, 1 tablespoon allspice, 1 of cinnamon, and 3½ cups pastry flour. Add nuts if liked. The batter should be very thick. Stir in 1 lb. stoned raisins, each cut in two, and all floured to keep them from sinking. Turn into a pan lined with greased paper, and bake in a very moderate oven 1½ hours, or steam for 1 hour and bake the other half hour. This cake grows better with age.

CZAR OF HIS SHIP

The Captain of an Ocean Liner Is a Real Autocrat.

HIS WORD IS ABSOLUTE LAW.

He May, If He Deems It Necessary, Put a Passenger In Irons or Clap Him in a Cell, and In Cases of Emergency Is Empowered to Take Life.

Imagine a mayor or a judge of a circuit court or a county sheriff or a town marshal of a village of 3,800 population stepping out into the street and on general and self imposed authority picking up a citizen, ordering him to a cell and clapping irons on him for safe keeping!

Wouldn't the bird of American liberty set up a scream? Wouldn't the old and badly cracked Liberty bell resonate in discord?

After one of the great transatlantic passenger steamships leaves the three mile limit of New York the passenger is in foreign territory on the high seas. English, French, German—whatever the flag at the masthead—the ship is a section of its fatherland, floating in the high seas, where only maritime laws regarding its transit in times of peace may hold check upon the czardom of the ship's commander, on or off the bridge.

No czar has more power within his territory than has the captain of the great Atlantic liner on the high seas. He is on an island of his country's ownership—a floating island, having a population of 800 employees and looking after the welfare and safety of perhaps 2,000 passengers. He is practically the administrative, executive and judicial single individual, such as exists rarely on the map of present day civilization. Aside from his authority over mankind, he may have $7,000,000 of vessel under him, to say nothing of the international mails and millions in gold in transshipment.

"There's the captain," is a whispered bit of comment made a million times a year in the beginning of the passages of great ocean steamships. And generally the captain looks the part.

It is not so much his uniform either. Ordinarily the captain is not young. There is gray in his hair, mustache or beard. That young man in his twenties, no matter what his schooling for beginning the work, isn't called at a moment's notice to the captain's bridge. He must have his maximum of training for six or seven numbers below before he is called to the "foot of the ladder.

On the British passenger vessels most of the beginners at navigating an ocean vessel of the first class will have had a lieutenant's commission from the navy. It is from the royal navy reserves that the lowest officer's vacancy is filled. Filling it, he has his chance to rise to the position of captain.

As to the captain's authority: One midnight, when in a fog the White Star Baltic struck the German oil steamship Standard, the Baltic needed its captain, and he was there. His ship carpenters were rushed to the bow of the vessel and began the work of patching up the hole in the Baltic's steel sheathing.

Suppose that in a stampede of the Baltic's crew its employees had rushed up to fill its boats? It was within the captain's power to have shot down the leader—to have brought about war to the knife, revolver and rifle in the interests of his vessel and its passengers. Or had some passenger or passengers become panic stricken and against orders menaced the welfare of the majority on the ship death would have been dealt with the same rigid discipline which requires of the captain that he be the autocrat at his post.

There are no forms of writs or warrants necessary. There is no court at which the passenger or the seaman may give bond. In that instant of sudden great emergency which arises the captain's word is more than written law; it is the unwritten common law of the high seas, in the spirit of which the vigilance committee of the wild west of the United States rose, lawlessly lawful.

Today the captain of the great liner may step into the palatial cabin and command order. He may go into the smoking cabin and stop the game of cards at which the sharper is playing for his stakes. In case of refusal that ancient land right of "no deprivation of liberty without due process of law" becomes a farce. The cell room or even the iron manacles of the captain's authority may be used upon the individual who has paid $500 or $1,000 for his suit of rooms and his passage. On the high seas the captain's ship becomes an autocratic democracy. The individual in the first cabin and at the captain's table must share with the immigrant far below those equities that are granted to each in his place.

"Don't buck the captain," said an official in the offices of a great steamship line. "He is all there is of authority. He is the supreme entity of his ship. He is dressed for it; but, more than that, he is trained to it. He is empowered to take life if he must, and on land this is the most serious of all things in the statute books."

"Commodore of the fleet" is one of the offices toward which the old sea captain looks, not enviously, not with disdain. It is a naval number in the passenger service which marks the age of retirement. There is honor in the title It does not descend to his children. He gives half his life to the gaining of it, and it means that his activities and powers are at an end.—Chicago Tribune.

EIGHT CENTS A DAY.

Workers' Pay In England When Board Was a Shilling a Week.

There was a time when a workman in England received 8 cents a day as an ordinary wage, when skilled artisans commanded 12 cents a day and when women worked in the field at such tasks as reaping straw, hoeing, planting beans and washing sheep for 2 cents a day, and a wise student of the subject has expressed the opinion that the British workman of that day was better off than he has ever been since then.

That sounds paradoxical. But the explanation is this: The workman who sold his services for 8 cents a day could buy good beef or mutton for 1½ cents a pound. Wheat cost him on the average only 18 cents a bushel. He could get board for 12 to 16 cents a week. The pay he would receive for fifteen weeks' services would suffice to purchase a supply of suitable foodstuffs, according to the standard of his time (consisting of wheat, malt and oatmeal), to maintain his family for an entire year.

Under these circumstances 8 cents a day—increased to 12 cents in harvest time—was a fair wage, and "times were good" for the average workman. —McClure's Magazine.

Lovers of Sports.

The Anglo-Saxons love sport. No matter in what part of the world they are found the spirit is strong among them. Wherever the restless Anglo-Saxon dominates the love of sport is dominant. The Americans are—at least the most of them—descendants of this virile race, and nowhere is the love of sport so much exhibited as in this country. Our people are patrons of horse racing, of baseball, of golf, of football, of all out of door sports as no other people. The English are great sportsmen, but not to the extent that Americans are, for the reason that the opportunities are greater here.—Nashville American.

Bad Advice.

Friend—What's worrying you? Manager—The prima donna of my company refuses to sing oftener than twice a week. I am making only hundreds where I ought to be making thousands. Friend—I'd settle that. If I were you I'd marry her. (A year passes.) Friend—My gracious, you look seedy! What's happened? Manager—I took your advice and married the prima donna, and now she won't sing at all.

PHYSICIANS AND FEES.

A Medical View of the Doctor's Charge For His Services.

Those who discuss the physicians' fee frequently miss the essence of it. As a matter of fact, under present social conditions the charge made to the wealthy and well to do is the normal and proper fee; the lowered charges made to those less fortunate are concessions. The tremendous field of the physician's charity is therefore usually underestimated, for it extends to a great majority of his patients.

In olden times, when medicine was nearly all art and but little science, the fee was unknown. Like other artists, the leech received an honorarium, the weight of which depended naturally upon the resources of the patient.

The popular impression that physicians make the rich pay for the poor is incorrect. They extend their services to all alike, and all are supposed to pay as much as they can afford for services really priceless and impossible to represent adequately in money values.

Any attempt made to establish standard fees by law is sure to work injustice to the physician. The "standard" fee would have to be much higher than the average fee at present and there would have to be some method of enforcing its sure payment. Only with the standard fixed, as now, by the ability of the wealthy is it possible for the poor to receive the benefits of the highest professional skill without losing their self respect.—New York Medical Journal.

The Mexican Mosquero.

The finest fly traps are not in it with a little Mexican spider named mosquero. Natives gather from oak trees a branch covered with this spider's nests and hang it up in the house. The spiders begin on the flies by wholesale. Mosquero nests are very tidy, pretty and old maidish. A lot of tiny beetles make their home therein with the spiders. The beetles live on fly legs, the crumbs and scraps from the mosquero's table, and pay for their bed and board by keeping the web house perfectly clean and refined, eating everything and dropping no litter in the Mexican professional gentleman's house. Mrs. Mosquero is a very quiet, orderly lady who never wanders from her own fireside or strays from her own back yard, but when a fly calls round she gets very busy with her spider knives and saws.—New York Press.

Dicing for Legacy.

In accordance with a custom 278 years old, two maidservants threw dice at Guildford, England, recently for the "maid's money," $60, bequeathed by a former burgess. They tied twice before one threw nine to her opponent's six.

THE SUPPLE NEW TAFFETAS ESPECIALLY SUITED TO DANCING AND AFTERNOON FROCKS

Among the new imported gowns are many of taffetas. Not the stiff, ugly taffetas of some seasons ago, but a supple, soft quality that lends itself to all sorts of manipulation. It seems especially suited to the quaint, pretty dancing frocks that have come into vogue with the new dances. Most of these dance frocks are extremely simple, trimmed sparingly with shadow lace or net. On some the tunic is corded to make it stand away from the figure somewhat. The plaited tunic is also popular and attractive.

No. 8165 is made of taffetas in a light, very pale green. The guimpe is of cream colored shadow lace. The blouse is kimono. The tunic is slighty fulled into the belt. A straight, narrow little skirt completes a very youthful, dainty frock.

It may be copied for a girl of 16 with 4⅛ yards of 36 inch material and 1⅝ yards of 36 inch material for the guimpe.

No. 8094 shows a frock in which velveteen and taffetas are combined with excellent results. The blouse and plaited tunic are of black taffetas; the skirt and panel down the front of the blouse are of velveteen.

It requires 3¼ yards of material for the skirt and 3¼ yards of 36 inch goods for the blouse for size 36.

No. 8165—sizes 14 to 18.
No. 8094—sizes 34 to 44.
Each pattern 15 cents.

WISE IS THE WOMAN WHO KNOWS HOW TO CHOOSE HER COLOR THIS SEASON

Color and material are the two strong features of the modes this season. It is a temptation to select a gown or wrap in one of the wonderful new blues, greens or reds that attract us on every side. But we must curb this desire and be content with just a touch for contrast, else disillusion and disaster will follow. Among the new greens are delicate, cold shades found in the water of the ocean; hard, brilliant colors in the peacock's feathers, each of them charming in themselves, but not to be worn next the face unless one possess an unusual complexion. Several shades of brown are known under the class name of "Chocolat;" "Petroska" is the suggestive name for a charming Russian green; various shades of yellow are known as "Soleil" (the rays of the sun) and there are numberless others with names quite as appealing as the colors themselves.

In the costume shown in 8088-8081 crepe meteor is used in a dark, dull shade of blue called "Corneille" or "Jackdaw" blue. It is similar to the "crow-blue" of last season. Plaited chiffon in a dull cream fashions the petticoat, and a smart contrast is given by the velvet buttons and the bow that holds the drapery. They are bright purple.

This costume may be copied in size 36 with 1⅝ yards of 42 inch material for the blouse; 3⅝ yards of 42 inch material for the skirt. Tobacco brown eponge is used for 8092, with the vest in a tan cloth.

This frock may be made in size 36 with 4⅝ yards of 42 inch material.

No. 8088—sizes 32 to 44.
No. 8081—sizes 22 to 30.
No. 8092—sizes 34 to 44.
Each pattern 15 cents.

Fishing Was Poor.

Lindsay Post: Overseer A. Bradshaw of Lindsay, reports that the catch of bass and maskinonge in the district was not so large as that of last year. He is of the opinion that the low water during the summer caused this, as the fish were in marshes, and weedy places where trolling could not be done.

Back to the Land.

Lindsay Warder: Mr. John Jackson who for many years has been a resident of Lindsay, and during which time he served for several terms on the municipal council board, also filling the office of tax collector, is returning to his home on the farm in North Ops, where he will in future reside.

Salt Better Than Sand.

Commissioner Harry Evans is having rock salt instead of sand. This seems a good idea. The sand formerly used, blows off our ice covered pavements, or, after a thaw, sinks in, leaving the walking as treacherous as ever. The salt, however, seems to gain in merit, by preventing slippiness, as the days go by.

Sergeant-Major Under General French

Veteran of Boer War Who Lost Health on the Veldt Tells Experience.

Good Advice for All Who Have Indigestion or Stomach Disorders.

In his home at Waldergrove, N.S., no one is better known than Sergt. Major Cross, late of the 4th Queen's Own Hussars. Speaking of the ill-effects of a campaign upon a man's constitution, the Sergt.-Major writes "I served under General French during the late Boer war, in the capacity of Sergt.-Major. It was perhaps owing to a continued diet of bully beef, hard tack and bad water, but at any rate my stomach entirely gave out. I was in such a stage that I could eat nothing without the greatest suffering. The army doctors did not help me much, and since leaving the service I have been very miserable. Some few months ago a friend told me he had been a great sufferer from indigestion until he tried Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they cured him. I confess it was without much faith I bought a box, but the first dose made me feel better than I had been for a long time. Dr. Hamilton's Pills completely cured, and now I can eat everything and anything. I have recommended them to others and in every case the result has been similar to mine."

Quick, sure results attend the use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They cure disorders of the stomach, correct indigestion, make you feel uplifted and strengthened. To renew or maintain health, Dr. Hamilton's Pills always prove a good prescription. 25c. per box, five boxes for $1.00, all dealers, or the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Ont.

Illustrated Lecture on Central Africa

A lecture of great interest will be delivered in St. Paul's Sunday school this evening by the Rev. A. H. Bowan, of Central Africa. Mr. Bowan labored as a missionary for years among some of the cannibal tribes of the "Dark Continent." He will profusely illustrate his address by pictures taken by himself. The public are invited. A free will offering will be taken for his work.

A Fall in Coal.

Yesterday morning there was a fall in coal. Gentle reader, do not get excited—this does not refer to a fall in price, but in coal itself. As the driver of a local coal company was ascending Murray street, the sleigh on which he sat contained 4000 of black diamonds. The sleigh skidded on the ice and upset. The coal in bag previously was strewd over the hill side. Did that driver lambaste his horses and swear. Not on your life. He simply stopped his team, said "Goldarn such luck," and got busy with his shovel.

"Did the Woman Tempt?"

It would seem that Joseph O'Toole has a whole bouquet of trouble to handle in the near future. At Monday's court, O'Toole was up on a possibly nominal charge of vagrancy. However, as first intimated in yesterday's issue, there seems to be something more serious pending. It would seem, if she is to be believed, that a 17 year old girl, named Olive Fife arrived in the city last Saturday. She met the prisoner. She went driving with him. They met Raymond Walsh who bought a bottle of booze. And then, after a trip to Jackson Park, she suffered indignities. She then returned with the two young men to Jones' livery stable, where further indignities were permitted by her.

IF HEADACHY, DIZZY, BILIOUS, "CASCARETS"

Your Liver is Full of Bile; Bowels Clogged, Stomach Sour, Tongue Coated, Breath Bad.

Get a 10-cent box now.

You're bilious! You have a throbbing sensation in your head, a bad taste in your mouth, your eyes burn, your skin is yellow, with dark rings under your eyes, your lips are parched. No wonder you feel ugly, mean and ill-tempered. Your system is full of bile not properly passed off, and what you need is a cleaning up inside. Don't continue being a bilious nuisance to yourself and those who love you, and don't resort to harsh physics that irritate and injure. Remember that most disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels are cured by morning with gentle, thorough Cascarets—they work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your druggist will keep your liver and bowels clean; stomach sweet and your head clear for months. Children love to take Cascarets, because they taste good and never gripe or sicken.

CLEANSES YOUR HAIR, MAKES IT BEAUTIFUL

It becomes thick, wavy, lustrous and all dandruff disappears—Hair stops coming out.

Surely try a "Danderine Hair Cleanse" if you wish to immediately double the beauty of your hair. Just moisten a cloth with Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; this will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or any excessive oil — in a few minutes you will be amazed. Your hair will be wavy, fluffy and abundant and possess an incomparable softness, lustre and luxuriance.

Besides beautifying the hair, one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; invigorates the scalp, stopping itching and falling hair.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

You can surely have pretty soft, lustrous hair and lots of it if you will just get a 25 cent bottle Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it as directed.

WEALTH IN FOX-FARMING

If the fox-raising fever continues much longer, accompanied with the same success as during the past three years in Prince Edward Island, Dr. Leo Frank, of Charlottetown, P.E.I., timates that there will be no more who is at the Windsor, Montreal, inlegislators on the Island. The judiciary will also go out of business; in fact, every man, from the prime minister and the bank managers down, will have gone into fox-farming instead. It will make little difference whether the new redistribution bill cuts down the islands representation at Ottawa to three or two, as even that small number of men will not be easily found to serve the island in Parliament at $2,500 per annum, when they can get one hundred per cent dividend from a Silver-Black fox ranch. The islanders are rejoicing over the prosperity that has come to the province. There are $12,000,000 invested in the fox ranches, numbering about 220 and of this amount at least $8,000,000 represents P.E.I. holders. Bank clerks have become wealthy and conservative farmers are millionaires. Ninety per cent of all the silver foxes in the world are now located in the islandof Prince Edward.

The Russian government has had a delegate on the island, and would like to buy up the whole industry, but the islanders are after bigger game, for Mr. C. M. Lampson, of London, the biggest dealer in the world, says that until Prince Edward Island can send over five thousand pelts at one consignment, the present high prices can never be affected. Dr. Leo Frank states that they will not be able to do this for twenty-five years to come. Dr. Frank, is interested in one of the largest ranches on the Island, having 10 pairs of foxes with a 211 acre ranch. He is a Director of the R. J. McNeill Black and Silver Fox Company, Limited, and has taken charge of the Financial Department at Montreal, New Birks Building. He seems to be an authority on the subject and he further stated that at present there are probably 600 pairs on the different ranches. This number may be increased to 1500 pairs in ten years, but there will be no glut in the market before a quarter of a century at least. The Dominion Government thinking that the public that the people were going crazy over the business, and having heard that the public offices were deserted by the officials to go into fox raising, sent down a commission to study the question. To-day the Ottawa government are encouraging the industry, which has made 90,000 people of Prince Edward Island the richest in the Dominion.

Dr. Leo Frank has caused to be published on the black fox industry a booklet which he will glad mail to the readers of The Times, by addressing the R. J. McNEILL BLACK AND SILVER FOX COMPANY, LIMITED NEW BIRKS BUILDING, MONTREAL, CANADA.

SOME IMPORTANT FACTS ABOUT THE SILVER BLACK FOX INDUSTRY

The first Island ranch was started with two pairs of Anticosti Silvers, bought from a trapper for experimental purposes solely, and same proved so successful that the fox industry started to be developed.

In the year 1910 a pair of breeders could be bought for $4,000.00; in 1911 the price went up to $6,000 a pair, during 1912 a pair at $10,000 was considered high but not unusual, and at the time of writing (January 20th, 1914), live breeders can bring any price from $15,000 to $35,000, according to fecundity, and options on the unborn of next year are selling for $12,000 a pair.

About $10,000,000 is said to be invested in the fox industry on Prince Edward Island, showing a gain of over $3,000,000 inside a year.

Official returns for the present year show that the 277 fox ranches on the island contain 899 silver breeding foxes, (441 males and 458 females.) The total number of silver offsprings for 1913 was 703, and the average assessed value was $4,892.53 per fox.

The total valuation of the young silver black foxes for the current year is $3,349,449. The total number of silver foxes in the ranches for 1913 is 1602.

Pelts from ranch-bred Prince Edward Island silver black foxes have sold at the London auction sales as high as $2,628.00.

ASSETS OF THE COMPANY

The Company have TEN PAIRS of high-grade PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND Silver Black Foxes, EIGHT PAIRS are now on the ranch and two pairs of breeders under option are all eligible for registration under the select class "A" of the FOX BREEDERS' ASSOCIATION. These Foxes have been selected with special regard to parentage, and consist of the following well known strains:

Gordon, Dalton, Tuplin, Oulton, Raynor, and Champion. These names are conspicuously prominent in the Fox Industry ranches which, in 1913, paid from 45 p.c. to 900 p.c.

FUTURE POLICY

The Company expects to earn large profits from the sale of these rare black and silver foxes for breeding purposes, while each year a per centage of the production will be retained, placing the Company in a position to pay large dividends from the sale of furs alone. The object of this policy is to place the fur farming industry on a substantial commercial basis.

THE COMPANY'S RANCH

The Company owns outright a fine 211 acre farm with complete farm buildings—one of the most up-to-date ranches on the Island. It has an experienced and highly skilled keeper whose services have largely contributed to the present satisfactory condition of the business.

ONLY ONE CLASS OF STOCK

There is only one class of stock fully paid and non-assessable. Every shareholder participates pro rata in all dividends paid by the Company, and the latter has no authority to issue either Preferred Stock or Bonds.

NOTICE.—Should the shares of stock not be allotted, the money paid by you will be refunded by return mail.

SOME PRESS COMMENTS

"Widows" Fox Company Declares a 900 Per Cent. Dividend.

Clerks in the employ of Sinclair & Stewart, a big dry goods house at Summerside, formed a silver fox company in 1912. This Company is popularly referred to as the "Widows" Fox Company, as nearly all the stockholders are women, a dividend of 900 per cent. was their reward.

Three sisters of Alberton, P.E.I., who were employed in the States, sent their spare earnings home two years ago to be invested in the fur farming business and their profits have averaged $15,000 yearly since.

A bookkeeper in the employ of Mr. Fred L. Rogers, the Governor's son, of Alberton, invested $300 three years ago, and is now worth $45,000 directly from this source.

The Rosemount Live Stock Co., Limited, of Alberton, P. W. Turner, treasurer, has paid a dividend of 1000 per cent. this year.

Mr. Frank Hall, clerk at Holman's Limited, received $25,000 from an investment of $500 made in this business three years ago.

Seven clerks and managers in Summerside pooled $500 each in 1910 and purchased a pair of silver foxes for $3,500. The seller, feeling that he had driven a splendid bargain, cared for the pair a year. The first litter consisted seven pups. The seven owners have received $36,000 cash dividends since and the pair bought for $3,500 could be sold for $35,000 to-day. FILIBUSTER LIKELY BY LIBERALS WHEN NAVY ESTIMATES ARE BROUGHT DOWN

Liberals Will Demand Permanent Policy---If Opposition Leaders Carry Out Their Present Plans Parliament Will See Repetition of Stormy Scenes Which Resulted Last Spring

Ottawa, Mar. 4.—There may yet be a big fight on the navy question this session. It is understood to-day that the Liberals are planning to try to compel the Government to reveal its permanent policy when the estimates of the naval service department are reached. They will refuse to pass these estimates until an official announcement is made. If the reply of the Government is not satisfactory to present plans it will mean Parliament will see a repetition on a similar or blockade, and compel the Conservatives to invoke the closure rules passed last session, and which so far have not been made use of this year. If the Liberal leaders carry out their them, they intend to institute anoth- scale of the stormy scenes of last year. It is not expected the Government will be prepared to announce its permanent naval policy at the present time but will submit it to Parliament next session or at least before the next election.

DEATH MAY COME AT ANY MOMENT

Sir George Ross Is Sinking and End Is Not Far Distant.

Toronto, Mar. 4.—It is doubtful whether Sir George Ross will live until morning. At a late hour this afternoon his condition was little changed and it was said that the patient was in a very low condition.

Dr. Goldie would only say that there was very little change, but those at the General Hospital stated that Sir George was much weaker and the end might come at any moment.

BRITISH PRESS SAYS UNITED STATES HAS LEFT THINGS MIXED

Mexican Situation Subject of Much Comment in Afternoon Papers

London, Mar. 4.—The Mexican situation and Sir Edward Grey's pronouncement of the views of the British Government in regard to the deadlock in the investigation into the circumstances of the death of Wm. S. Benton, the British ranchman, killed at Juarez, are the subject of much comment in to-day's evening newspapers. The Pall Mall Gazette says:

> "The temperate and restrained language in which Sir Edward Grey referred to the Mexican murder will have the approval of all Englishmen. Its moderation, however, will not disguise the depth of their feeling."

Element of Disadvantage.

The matter is dealt with in a long editorial article in the same newspaper which continues:

> "Patience makes every concession to Sir Edward Grey's difficulties, but if there is any danger of that patience being mistaken for indifference, it would introduce an element of grave disadvantage into international politics."

In conclusion the Pall Mall Gazette says:

> "Every reason of moral international right requires of the United States that the punishment of Benton's murderers shall be undertaken without avoidable delay. At the present moment civilization stands flouted and Great Britain outraged. The application of the Monroe Doctrine is paralyzed and mocked."

No Relief From Speech.

The Globe says: "Sir Edward Grey said much to emphasize the gravity of recent events and very little to relieve the disquietude which those events have inevitably provoked. The public opinion of this country, however, sympathetic to the United States, will not make considerations for the embarrassments of President Wilson an adequate excuse for acquiescing in such deeds as those of which Pancho Villa, with the approval of Venustiano Carranza, has been guilty of. If President Wilson cannot be held responsible for the behavior of the Mexican insurrectionists, his policy is directly responsible for the state of things which has led to intolerable excesses. What the United States has done is not merely to allow civil war to persist but to foment it by allowing arms and ammunition to be supplied to the belligerents.

"The United States is bound to exert that predominant and exclusive influence which it claims for putting an end to things which have become a danger, not merely to the United States itself, but to the civilized world."

LIFTING FOG SHOWS HOW NEAR DEATH WAS

Empress of Ireland Passenger Says Another Boat Was Almost Touching Them.

Toronto, Mar. 4.—The Titanic disaster would have been outdone, but for the care displayed recently by the commander of the Empress of Ireland on her last trip Canada-wards.

Daniel Halpin is again at work today for the Johnston Lumber Company after a trip to England, during which he took to himself a wife and more particularly after the worst crossing, westbound, that he has known, and he has made several. He and Mrs. Halpin were passengers on the Empress of Ireland and reached Toronto yesterday. The sea was running mountains high all the way across. Nearing the Grand Banks a dense fog came up. The Ireland slowed down and finally stopped. When the fog lifted they found they were within twenty feet or almost jumping distance of another huge ocean liner which had also stopped in the fog and noiselessly had slipped upon their port side.

Hundreds of passengers were unfeignedly seasick all the way across; it was one continual battle against the elements. The sight of men and women on their knees praying was common. Few people got their meals with anything like regularity. He thought they were extremely fortunate to make port unharmed.

PANAMA TOLLS STRUGGLE NEAR

President Wilson to Make His "No Exemption" Appeal to Congress To-morrow

Washington, Mar. 4.—President Wilson will personally address a joint session of congress Thursday, advocating the repeal of the clause in the Panama Canal Act, which exempts American coastwise shipping from the payment of tolls.

White House officials to-night arranged with the majority leaders in both houses for a joint session at 12.30 p.m. Thursday. The President has prepared a brief address in which he sets forth his opinion that congress should reverse itself and keep the obligations of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty which he believes were violated by the Panama Canal Act. The President holds that the national honor of the American people is at stake and the European nations should not be allowed to get the impression that treaties made by the American Government are not adhered to both in letter and in spirit.

The President believes that there should be no debatable ground on treaties once made, and believes the United States is in honor bound to keep the spirit of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty.

TWO MEN IN TORONTO HELD FOR HIS CRIME

London, Ont., Mar 4.—Professing Christianity at the City Mission, George Oxtoby, alias George Osborne, confessed to Supt. Matteson that he had stolen a diamond ring and stick-pin at Toronto a few days ago, and to-day in company with Mr. Matteson, he gave himself up to the police

Oxtoby in his confession stated that two innocent men had been arrested in Toronto for the crime, and he had made his escape as the police were about to make the arrest.

TORONTO FORGER AND PAL ESCAPE

David Grant and George Grant (No Relation) Just Climbed Over the Fence.

Chatham, Ont., Mar. 4.—David Grant, who last week was sentenced to seven years in Kingston for highway robbery, and Henry Dart, alias, George Grant, sentenced to two years less two days in the Central Prison for issuing bad cheques, escaped from the county jail here early to-day. George Grant is wanted in Toronto for a bad cheque deal. The men are no relation. Searchers shortly before noon had traced the men to a Pere Marquette freight train going south.

Gained Help From Outside.

The prisoners were in the jail yard while the turnkey was opening the gates to the yard. Dart and Grant secured a ladder and climbed over the sixteen foot wall. Persons on the outside were evidently connected with the plot as the men went directly to Terry's ice house, where Dart changed his clothes to a suit of civilian clothes which apparently were left there. The last seen of them they were hurrying towards a westbound freight train of the C.P.R. and it is believed they caught it. Dart at the time of his arrest a few weeks ago was wanted by Toronto police for jumping bail and also by the London authorities on several charges of passing forged cheques.

ADJT. MCILHENEY IN A BIG BOOM FOR THIS CITY

Adjt. McElheney, that big hearted and strong handed head of the local Salvation Army, whilst principally engaged in saving the souls and bodies of our human derelicts, is doing good work in booming the City of Peterborough abroad. The man, and we use the word "MAN" advisedly, is getting out a big pamphlet showing the attractions both from a manufacturing, industrial and mercantile standpoint of our city. This pamphlet will have a circulation of some 14,000. Of this issue, some 4000 will be distributed locally and about 10,000 spread throughout Great Britain. The pamphlet contains pictures of the Lift Lock, the various factories of Peterborough, some of our leading stores, etc., with a full description of the possibilities open here to coming immigrants. The Adjutant is to be congratulated on this pamphlet which will undoubtedly result in a material increase in the population of Peterborough.

The Baker Advertising Agency, Toronto, with the idea of giving still greater service to their clients, have enlisted the services of Mr. Vernon S. Smith of Chicago.

Mr. Smith is recognized in the United States as one of the three greatest advertising campaigners, and his long and varied experience will, no doubt, be of material benefit to the clients of the Baker Agency in particular, and Canadian advertisers generally.

Mr. Smith's scene of activity has been Chicago, which is the recognized centre of all that is advanced in the science of advertising and selling.

NAVAL BATTLE IS IMPENDING

Two Federal Gunboats in Position to Attack Rebel Boat in the Harbor

Nogales, Sonora, Mex., Mar. 4.—The first naval battle in the history of the Mexican revolutions was expected to-day at Topolobampo, Sinaloa. Reports received by Gen. Carranza were that the federal gunboats Morelos and Guerrera had arrived off the harbor, where lay the gunboat Tampico, which recently went over to the Constitutionalists.

It was asserted the Tampico had plenty of ammunition, and that from the interior of the land-locked harbor it would be easy to fight off the two federal vessels, which must enter through a narrow channel.

FOUND CHARRED BONES BURIED UNDER ASHES

Uxbridge Farmer Perished In Fire Which Destroyed His Home.

Toronto, Mar. 4.—Charred bones, buried under the ashes and smouldering embers of what had once been his home, yesterday confirmed the neighbors' fears that Mr. Wm. Beverly, a farmer of Glen Major, near Uxbridge, had perished in the fire which consumed his little farm house.

The opinion has been freely expressed by neighbors that he was a victim of assault and robbery, and that the house was fired to hide the crime, but as the authorities have decided not to hold an inquest, this is not probable.

HON. T. W. CROTHERS REPULSES ATTACK ON HIS DEPARTMENT

Mr. Verville He Described as "Dyed-in-the-Wool Grit" and That's All

Ottawa, Mar. 4. This session the Liberals have concentrated their attacks on Hon. T. W. Crothers, Minister of Labor. Ever since the House opened he has been under fire. The attack came to a climax Tuesday, when a resolution condemning the Minister of Labor for his action in the Vancouver Island coal strike was introduced by Mr. Alphonse Verville. There was a series of bitter speeches, the debate burning on until the early hours this morning. It was well on to two o'clock when the vote was taken, the Government defeating the motion by a majority of 37, the vote being 80 to 43, a straight party vote.

Under fire Mr. Crothers showed to splendid advantage. With his back against the wall, he made one of the best speeches of his career. Not only did he vindicate completely his action in the Vancouver Island strike, but he hit back and there was the weight of a heavy punch in the blow. He put the Liberals on the defensive. He showed that in 1988 when there was a very similar strike in Nova Scotia, Mr. E. M. Macdonald urged again and again upon Hon. Mr. Mackenzie King that he should proceed against the striking miners. Amidst Conservative cheers and to the very apparent discomforture of the member for Pictou, Mr. Crothers read no less than four letters Mr. Macdonald had written to the then Minister of Labor.

Macdonald to Mackenzie King.

Here is one quotation the Government benches particularly enjoyed:

> "It is the general feeling in Nova Scotia of all classes outside of Conservative politicians who are backing the United Mine workers, that legislation should be enacted to prevent American agitators coming into Canada and precipitating strikes. I can arrange to give you any information you may desire and trust you can see your way clear to take action."

Mr. Crothers brought out the fact the strike was precipitated originally through the efforts of Frank Farrington of the United Mine workers. The Minister read an interesting article by Mr. Farrington in the journal of the organization which shows that the whole trouble was deliberately planned in the interests of American miners.

EIGHT MEN WERE HURT AT FIRE AND EXPLOSION

Assistant Chief of Niagara Falls Brigade Receives Perhaps Fatal Injury.

Niagara Falls, Ont., March 3.—As a result of a fire in Thornburn's drug store at the "Centre" followed by a natural gas explosion at 4 o'clock this morning, Assistant Fire Chief Didemus, Firemen F. Shaughnessy, A. Baldry, A. Betlor, F. Fox, R. Douglas, manager of the hrug store, William Gyson, drug clerk, and J. Nichols, teller of the Centre street branch of the Royal Bank are in the hospital suffering from severe burns and cuts.

Little hope is entertained of the recovery of Didemus, his scalp being laid open by the plate glass which was blown out from the force of the explosion.

The fire originated in the basement and melted the gas connection.

William Gyson went into the basement with a lantern in an endeavor to shut off the gas and the explosion followed. Windows for a block around were shattered.

"Well," said his employer, "did you give the note to Mr. Smith?"

"Yes, sir," said the boy, "but I don't think it will do much good, because he's blind."

"Blind?" exclaimed the proprietor, in shocked surprise. "Why, I saw him yesterday and he wasn't blind then."

"Well, he's blind now," persisted the youth. "While I was in there he asked me three times where my hat was, and it was on my head all the time."

THE CITY BOARD OF WORKS IN REGULAR WEEKLY SESSION

Scheme for Re-Organizing the Engineering Department Not Yet Worked Out in Detail--The Mayor and Chairman Ald. Duncan Will Report Again on This Question in One Week

The City's Board of Works met in regular weekly session last night, Chairman Ald. Duncan presiding. There were also present Mayor Wm Buller, Aldermen Duffus, Stratton, Anderson, McIntyre, Saunders, Johnston, Green and City Engineer Parsons.

A letter from the Water Commission department stated that $5 a day would be charged for use of this department's steam boiler, exclusive of fuel and attendance; also asking for the adjustment of an outstanding account against the city, of eighty odd dollars for use of the boiler in question, attendance and fuel the past year. This boiler is used for thawing out pipes.

The charge for use of this boiler was considered excessive. In fact Ald. Green stated that he positively would not vote the payment of the account for this service.

Ald. Green and Stratton moved that the city procure its own boiler outfit, the matter to be left in the hands of the Chairman, Mayor and City Engineer.—Carried.

On motion of Ald. Green and Stratton, the accounts from the Water Works department were referred to the Chairman, Mayor and City Engineer with a view to getting amore reasonable adjustment of same.

New Outfall Sewer.

City Engineer Parsons reported that generally speaking, Provincial Sanitary Engineer, F. A. Dallyn approves of his plans for the new outfall sewer and sewage disposal scheme, and asks for detail plans of the whole sewerage system of the city and topographical conditions.

The city engineer was authorised to procure whatever assistance is necessary to comply with Mr. Dallyn's request.

The Engineering Dept.

In regard to the proposed re-organization of the city's engineering department, the committee entrusted with this embarrassing duty—the Mayor, Chairman Ald. Duncan and City Engineer Parsons—recommended that the city's best interests would be conserved by the elimination of Mr. Hay, Mr. Quartermaine, Plumbing Inspector Thompson and the lady stenographer, substituting therefore a young man or young lady capable of acting as both bookkeeper and stenographer, together with, perhaps, an engineering student during the busy summer months. Also a new plumbing inspector.

This question was left in the hands of the Mayor and Chairman to report in detail on contemplated changes next week, especially considering the position of Mr. Hay, whose long and faithful services are recognized by the board in question.

The name of "Carson" is allowed because Sir Edward is an Irishman.

EVANTUREL SAYS THAT HE REALIZES HE MADE MISTAKE

Offers an Apology for Injuring the Dignity of the Provincial Legislature

Toronto, Mar. 4.—Gustave Evanturel, local member for Prescott, made his promised statement when the Legislature opened this afternoon. He read it, and the House followed with tense interest the long explanation of the Evanturel letter read last week by G. A. Ferguson, of Grenville.

In this letter, Mr. Evanturel offered his services to the Hotelmen's Association for a consideration of $10,000. The statement follows:

"Here is my statement to the House and to the whole Province of Ontario in regard to the charges brought against me before this Legislature on the 25th day of February last, by the honorable member for Grenville, Mr. Howard Ferguson, when he produced a letter dated at Alfred on the 4th day of September, 1913, and signed by myself and addressed to one of the directors or officers of the Allied and Licensed Trade Associations of Ontario.

Drew Attention to Abuses.

"On the very afternoon I drew the attention of the House, with the intention to lay before the House, some abuses which have been committed in my county, and particularly in the town of Kawkesbury, by the granting of a shop license under the bad administration of the license board, and I have then attacked the Government for the bad administration of the license system, which is in bad operation in my county.

"My intention then was not to support the amendment in discussion before the House, but merely to mention the abuses committed in Prescott county.

Misconception of "Alliance."

"The misconception of the word "alliance": on my part, was unfortunately used then against the Government, this being due to my lack of knowledge of the English language. When the honorable member for Grenville took the floor after me it was his right to reply to me, having mentioned that there was an alliance between the liquor interest and the Conservative party, and in his parliamentary remarks he asked me if I had had any relation, or words to that effect, with the liquor men, that is, with the Allied and Licensed Trade Association in my county.

"My intention then was not to support the amendment in discussion before the House, but merely to mention the abuses committed in Prescott county.

"I admit that I did not understand what he meant at the time nor did I remember then that I had communicated with the Allied and Licensed Trade Association, and I am sorry that I denied this fact, and for this I wish to apologize to the honorable member for Grenville personally."

LIFE IN ICELAND.

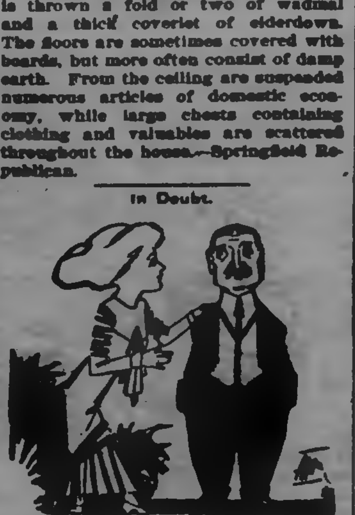
Farmhouses Are Built of Turf and Often Have Earthen Floors.

The guest room in the Iceland farmhouse contained a narrow bed, a big round table and an organ made in Brattleboro, Vt. Our host produced the usual box of snuff and with it a box of good cigars.

The host and hostess then showed us all over the house. It is a turf structure and is typical of the older farmhouses, with narrow, dark, windowless corridors winding in labyrinthian maze from room to room. One passageway leads to a large open mound where a fire is made to smoke meat and fish and incidentally the whole house and everything in it. Another passage leads to another kitchen with a modern stove. The walls are all of turf, as is the roof, with just enough driftwood in the roof to make a framework to hold it in place. Very steep stairs lead up to the badstofa, or sleeping apartment. The badstofa frequently forms the sitting and common workroom of the family, especially in winter, as well as the sleeping room of the entire household.

Bunks built into the wall extend around the room and are often filled with seaweed or feathers, over which is thrown a fold or two of wadmal and a thick coverlet of eiderdown. The floors are sometimes covered with boards, but more often consist of damp earth. From the ceiling are suspended numerous articles of domestic economy, while large chests containing clothing and valuables are scattered throughout the house.—Springfield Republican.

In Doubt.



"Charles, you would better walk down to papa's office and see him about our engagement."

"Clara, I can walk to your papa's office, but I may need some help to get back."

Way It Goes.

"Give 'em what they want, my boy," said the old physician.

"For instance?" inquired the young medico.

"Well, many a woman will take oxygen treatment at $5 a throw who wouldn't spend car fare for fresh air." —Washington Herald.

POET OF MANY VERSES.

An Anecdote of Pellegrin, an Eighteenth Century Bard.

The impecunious French poets of the middle eighteenth century used to consort at the cafes, where sometimes they would pick up customers. One of the worst and at the same time the most facile of the bards was Pellegrin, of whom a characteristic story is told in "An Eighteenth Century Marquise." One day a newcomer entered the cafe and began complaining that he was going to be married and had no epithalamium for his wedding. Pellegrin hastened to offer one of his own compositions. A deal was soon arranged, and the price agreed upon was 20 sous a verse. The poet disappeared. The bridegroom was presently accosted by a stranger, who began a conversation on various subjects and suddenly said:

"By the by, my friend, what price are you paying Pellegrin?"

"Twenty sous a verse."

"H'm."

"Is that too dear?"

"No"—doubtfully—"not if you fixed the length of the poem."

"I never thought of doing that."

"When is he to bring your epithalamium?"

"Tomorrow morning."

"Tomorrow morning!" cried the stranger. "Why, you must be rolling in money!"

"What do you mean?"

"That you will have to pay for at least a thousand verses."

"Oh, what a fraud!" exclaimed the bridegroom and rushed off to find Pellegrin in his attic. The versifier had just completed his hundredth verse.

Sleep and Dreams.

The brain is more active while engaged in dreaming than when not thus engaged. The only perfect sleep is that which is dreamless. The moment the sleeper begins to dream he begins to work, and the more vivid and protracted the dream the more intense, naturally, becomes the work. It is possible that at no time during the waking hours of life is the brain so active as it is in the strange business of dreaming.

Iceland.

Iceland is perhaps the only country in the world with a strongly developed literary history which remains in the same unchanged state of nature today as it did 1,000 years ago, when the characters of the great sagas roamed the rocky slopes of the picturesque island or when Leif Ericson and his hardy oarsmen sailed the seas, even to America, several centuries before Columbus was born. Professor W. H. Schofield of Harvard university will head an expedition to Iceland this year and hopes to find much of interest connected with the ancient myths and legends.

WINDMILL POINT ELEVATOR, MONTREAL.

While the Grand Trunk has been looking well to the matter of elevator construction in Western Canada to provide storage capacity for the ever-increasing grain crop, provision has also been made for shipping facilities at Montreal. In the spring of 1906 what is known as the Windmill Point Elevator, located in the busy harbor of Montreal, was completed and put into operation. Its capacity was 1,080,000 bushels. Its situation is so, well planned that it is easily accessible to both lake or ocean vessels, with railway tracks alongside. To provide additional accommodation a large annex has just been completed, with a capacity of 1,070,000 bushels, making a net capacity of 2,150,000 bushels. There are in this new building 28 concrete tanks, 25 feet in diameter and 100 feet in height, arranged at right angles in four rows, with seven tanks in each row. The tanks are constructed of reinforced concrete, having their adjacent sides rigidly united, so that the four-pointed, star-shaped spaces between the circular tanks may be used for storage as well as the circular tanks themselves. The large tanks hold approximately 33.000 bushels apiece, and the star-shaped or interstice bins hold approximately 8.000 bushels each. It is the second largest grain bin on the Grand Trunk System, the largest being located at Fort William, with a capacity of 5.700.000 bushels.

HOW TO BECOME INVISIBLE.

A Sample of the Mummery Used In Ancient Witchcraft.

Some curious formulas of ancient witchcraft are given in Mr. A. E. Waite's "Book of Ceremonial Magic." Here is a recipe for becoming invisible:

"Begin this operation on a Wednesday before the sun rises, being furnished with seven black beans. Take next the head of a dead man. Place one of the beans in his mouth, two in his eyes and two in his ears. Then make upon the head the character of the figure which here follows. (Omitted.) This done, inter the head with the face toward heaven, and every day before sunrise for the space of nine days water it with excellent brandy.

"On the eighth day you will find the cited spirit, who will say unto you: 'What doest thou?' You shall reply: 'I am watering my plant.' He will then say: 'Give me that bottle; I will water it myself.' You will answer by refusing, and he will again ask you, but you will persist in declining until he shall stretch forth his hand and show you the same figure which you have traced upon the head suspended from the tips of his fingers. In this case you may be assured that it is really the spirit of the head, because another might take you unawares, which would bring you evil, and, further, your operation would be unfruitful. When you have given him your vial he will water the head and depart. On the morrow, which is the ninth day, you shall return and shall find your beans ripe. Take them, place one in your mouth and then look at yourself in a glass. If you cannot see yourself it is good. Do the same with the rest or they may be tested in the mouth of a child."

Women will find more news of interest to them in The Times' magazine page every morning than in any other paper.

John Dalton, the famous English chemist and natural philosopher, without whose discovery of the laws of chemical combination chemistry as an exact science could hardly exist, was wholly color blind. His knowledge of the fact came about by a happening of the sort which we call chance. On his mother's birthday, when he was a man of twenty-six, he took her a pair of stockings which he had seen in a shop window, labeled "Silk, the newest fashion."

"Thee has bought me a pair of grand hose, John," said the mother, "but what made thee fancy such a bright color? Why, I can never show myself at meeting in them."

John was much disconcerted, but he told her that he considered the stockings to be of a very proper go to meeting color, as they were a dark bluish drab.

"Why, they're as red as a cherry, John," was her astonished reply.

Neither he nor his brother Jonathan could see anything but drab in the stockings, and they rested in the belief that the good wife's eyes were out of order until she, having consulted various neighbors, returned with the verdict, "Varra fine stuff, but uncommon scarlety."

The consequence was that John Dalton became the first to direct the attention of the scientific world to the subject of color blindness.

A Machine to Measure Love

Science is slowly killing romance. The latest invention is an instrument called a plethysmograph for scientifically testing the warmth of lovers' affections. The person whose feelings are to be weighed in the balance puts his or her arm into a rubber bag, which is then drawn tight and filled with water. Names of young men or young women, as the case may be, are introduced, and if the name stirs the heart the pulse rises and the indicator mounts up. If the name leaves the subject unmoved the pulse remains stationary.—London Gentlewoman.

FOR THE COMMON GOOD

It is the aim of The Times:

To exploit and advance the best interests of the people of the fair and fertile land wherein it is published, and to which it steadily devotes its efforts;

To stand for liberty and law, equal rights and good government, the greatest boon to a free people;

To foster and encourage private and public enterprise, and hold up the hands of every honest toiler, either with brawn or brain, in every field of activity;

To stand independently for the true interests of the city, the Dominion and the Empire, and for those policies only which make for the common good;

It aims to be excellent and not cheap.

SMILE WHEN YOU LOSE.

Then Brace Up and Start Right In to Become a Winner.

Be as good a loser as you are a winner—a hard task to set a man, but not an impossible one. Many have met it. Those who have are those who win more than they lose, for nothing inspires success or victory like calmness in defeat or coolness under stress. It is true in business, in politics, in sports, in any sphere of competitive endeavor.

Not only that, but nothing is quite as disconcerting to one's opponent in one of life's contests as the ability to lose with a smile and well directed effort to regain the lost. Any man who has run a foot race or boxed or wrestled or played ball knows that.

But nobody has any time for the man who is forever lamenting his own loss or defeat. The world simply credits him with being what it terms a "grouch," which means a poor loser, and passes him by for a more agreeable man. Any one can be a good winner, but it takes a man to be a good loser.

The philosophy of life itself teaches that in all of its precepts. Some one has to lose. It may as well be you, perhaps, so far as the good of the world goes, as your neighbor. It makes for unselfishness to keep that in mind.—Omaha Bee.

Defended a Little Boy.

Nine-year-old Robert came home from school one day with a dirty face and a torn stocking and a generally disheveled appearance. There was a bump on his forehead which he was manfully trying to conceal by pulling his cap down over his face.

"Why, Robert, what have you been doing? How did you get so dirty? And what has happened to your face?" asked his mother.

Robert looked mysterious.

"Oh, I've been tryin' to keep a little boy from bein' licked," he replied, with an offhand air of accustomed virtue.

His mother was delighted.

"How fine and brave of you, dear," she cried. "That is what you must always do. You must always stand up for the little boys. I am sure you are going to grow up to be a hero. You are a splendid little man, and mother is proud of you. Who was the little boy?"

"Me," replied Robert. "I broke Jimmy Andrews' pencil box, and he tried to wollop me. It was an awful fight. He won."—Philadelphia Times.

Fighting the Hatpin.

Another step has been taken b Prussia against the use of long ha pins, according to the Berlin cor spondent of The London Daily Te graph. The railway administration of Saarbrucken has given orders to its officials that women whose head dresses are transfixed by these wea pons are to be requested to remo them, and if they decline they sha be prevented from traveling by tra and be called upon to leave the sta tions. If they refuse acquiescence the will render themselves liable to a fine "Possibly the Prussian official is the only one in the world who could carr out these instructions without fe ings of embarrassment," says Pa Mall Gazette.

A Complicated Case.

"Of course, doctor, German measles are seldom serious?"

"I never met but one fatal case."

"Fatal?"

"Yes. It was a Frenchman, and when he discovered it was German measles that he had mortification set in."

Philosophy is nothing but discretion.—Selden.

OUR POINT OF VIEW

The Western murderer who wished to hear popular songs sung before being hanged doubted doubtless desired to be in a mood to depart from this life without any regret.

◆

We judge from the violent agitation of the political waters that flow through the Trent Canal that more big fish have been struck by the Ferguson harpoon.

◆

Perhaps it has never occurred to the purser of a White Star liner who has just completed his six hundredth voyage across the Atlantic the great hanger he is in every time he goes ashore in New York.

◆

Something should be done to cheer up a few of the wicked opponents of Mayor Buller. F time they hear him addressed as "Mr. Mayor," they evidently experience a genial thrill of one who has had a piece of ice slipped down his back

◆

Hon. Mr. Cochrane, Minister of Railways and Canals, now that he is enjoying a much-needed rest, will no doubt rapidly recover from his recent illness. But a great many other people are still from the effects of his recent work in connection with the Trent Canal.

◆

A news item in the Toronto World says: "The horse which Gapoleon rode at Waterloo, now mounted in a Paris museum, has had a fourth tail fitted." This reminds us of the showman who said: "Ladies and gentlemen, this is the sling with which the youthful David slew the mighty giant Goliath. Of course, the insatiate tooth of time has made it necessary to supply new strings and new leather, but the hole is just the same as it was the day that David used the sling with such deadly effect."

WHY FIRE RATES ARE HIGH

J. Grove Smith, analysing the insurance situation for the Monetary Times, points out that Canada is paying an insurance bill five times greater in proportion than it should.

The average rate of premium for the last ten years in Canada has been $1,46 and in the United $1.11, per $100 of insured value. Compare this rate with a similar average for the following European countries, and note the striking difference:

Norway, 45 cents; Sweden, 40 cents; Austria, 30 cents; England, 23 cents; Germany, 22 cents; France, 21 cents (estimated); Spain, 19 cents (estimated) Italy, 19 cents (estimated).

In other words, the average rate in the United States and Canada (1.29) is almost five times greater than the average rate in the countries of Europe mentioned (27 cents). Evidently, then, there is good ground for the statement that rates on his continent are high.

After showing what the proportion between expenditures and returns from premiums is, being approximately the same in all countries, he sums up as follows:

Two centuries of underwriting in the civilized countries of the world has demonstrated the fact that for every $100 of premium paid, between 50 and 60 per cent goes to pay losses, from 30 to 40 per cent to pay expenses, and if anything remains adter these two items have been cancelled it goes into the accumulated emergency funds of the companies or for peofits.

Insurance exists as a business solely to indemnify oRners of property for loss by fire, and that is—per. se—the prime factor that determines insurance charges. The people of Sweden pay 40 cents for insurance because they want 21 cents worth of loss; the people of England pay 23 cents for insurance because they want 10 cents worth of loss; and so the people of Canada pay $1.29 for each $100 of property insured because they want 52 cents worth of fire loss.

In other words, Canadians want five times the loss upon insured property that they wish for in Europe; they can have it by paying the price.

Many Reasons Why Liquid Cough Mixtures Can't Cure Bronchitis

But the Healing Fumes of Catarrhozone, Which are Breathed to the Furthest Recesses of the Bronchial Tubes, Bring Quick Relief and Sure Cure.

Every sufferer from coughs, colds, bronchitis and all throat and chest ailments needs a soothing, healing medicine which goes direct to the breathing organs in the chest and lungs attacks the trouble at the source, disperses the germs of disease, and cures the ailment thoroughly. And this medicine is "Catarrhozone."

The germ-killing balsamic vapor mixes with the breath, descends through the throat, down the bronchial tubes, and finally reaches the deepest air cells in the lungs. All parts are soothed with rich, pure, medicinal essences, whereas with a syrup the affected parts could not be reached, and harm would result through benumbing the stomach with drugs.

"I have been a chronic sufferer from catarrh in the nose and throat for over eight years. I think I have spent four hundred dollars trying to get relief. I have spent but six dollars on Catarrhozone, and have been completely cured, and, in fact, have been well for some time. Catarrhozone is the only medicine I have been able to find that would not only give temporary but will always cure permanently.

Yours sincerely, (Signed) WILLIAM RAGAN, Brockville, Ont.

For absolute, permanent cure, use Catarrhozone. Two months' outfit costs $1.00; smaller size, 50c., at all storekeepers and druggists, or The Catarrhozone Company, Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Canada.

ABOLISHING TITLES

Editor Morning Times.

Dear Sir,—The letter of J. A. S. in Monday's Times was certainly most amusing, if not interesting. He should know that by addressing any in any walk in life "Mr." he is using a term that all members of well regulated society use, and apply to all men in all station in life. There is nothing distinctive about ot. On the other hand it is only the very few in our democracy who have the prefix "Honourable," and other prefixes to their name. Unfortunately many of the names that bear these titles are men most unworthy of the distinction, and certainly not an ornament to the positions they fill. I am in full accord with Mr. Burnham's measure to do away with all such indications of class distinction. Of course, we would not care to be addressed by every one we meet by our Christian names.

When we meet old friends it is very different. When they address us by the names given us by our parents, there is a warmth and friendship in their salutation which we all appreciate.

William.

WEALTH IN FOX-FARMING

INDUSTRY PARAMOUNT IN PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND

If the fox-raising fever continues much longer, accompanied with the same success as during the past three years in Prince Edward Island, Dr. Leo Frank, of Charlottetown, P.E.I., who is at the Windsor, Montreal, intimates that there will be no more legislators on the Island. The judiciary will also go out of business; in fact, every man, from the prime minister and the bank managers down, will have gone into fox-farming instead. It will make little difference whether the new redistribution bill cuts down the islands representation at Ottawa to three or two, as even that small number of men will not be easily found to serve the island in Parliament at $2,500 per annum, when they can get one hundred per cent dividend from a Silver-Black fox ranch. The islanders are rejoicing over the prosperity that has come to the province. There are $12,000,000 invested in the fox ranches, numbering about 220 and of this amount at least $8,000,000 represents P.E.I. holders. Bank clerks have become wealthy and conservative farmers ate millionaires. Ninety per cent of all the silver foxes in the world are now located in the islandof Prince Edward.

The Russian government has had a delegate on the island, and would like to buy up the whole industry, but the islanders are after bigger game, for Mr. C. M. Lampson, of London, the biggest dealer in the world, says that until Prince Edward Island can send over five thousand pelts at one consignment, the present high prices can never be affected. Dr. Leo Frank states that they will not be able to do this for twenty years to come. Dr. Frank, is interested in one of the largest ranches on the Island, having 10 pairs of foxes with a 211 acre ranch. He is a Director of the R. J. McNeill Black and Silver Fox Company, Limited, and has taken charge of the Financial Department at Montreal, New Birks Building. He seems to be an authority on the subject and he further stated that at present there are probably 600 pairs on the different ranches. This number may be increased to 1500 pairs in ten years, but there will be no glut in the market before a quarter of a century at least. The Dominion Government thinking that the people were going crazy over the business, and having heard that the public offices were deserted by the officials to go into fox raising, sent down a commission to study the question. To-day the Ottawa government are encouraging the industry, which has made 90,000 people of Prince Edward Island the richest in the Dominion.

Dr. Leo Frank has caused to be published on the black fox industry a booklet which he will gladly mail to the readers of The Times, by addressing the R. J. McNEILL BLACK AND SILVER FOX COMPANY, LIMITED NEW BIRKS BUILDING, MONTREAL, CANADA.

Didn't Wait for Question.

One of the best of the quietly humorous situations not yet on record concerns a painter and several young men of a Toronto life insurance office.

Squatted on the floor, the painter was doing a little graining on a partition at the rear of the office. "Is that varnish you're putting on?" asked a clerk who had strolled away from work for a while. "No," said the painter, "this is a special preparation we use for this kind of work."

A couple more clerks happened along and, strange to say, one of them asked just the same question. The painter smiled and repeated his answer.

Soon there came along the office "junior," a bright lad who still wore short trousers. The youngster looked on with deep interest but made no remark. The painter, however, caused quite a laugh by looking up into the boy's face and saying: "This isn't varnish I'm putting on here; it's a special preparation we use for this kind of work."

Tired Enough.

Conductor—Move forward, there, please.

Casey (who has moved along twice)—Divil a bit farder! Oi paid me nickel t' ride, not t' kape on walkin'.

WORMS! YES. THAT'S IT WORMS IS THE TROUBLE—

Many Suffer From Them and Do Not Know It.

Many go to an early grave on account of them and have been pronounced to have had brain fever or some other complaint.

Prof. Mulveney Comes to the Rescue

His Wonderful Remedies are saving thousands of lives.

Why not try his remedies, they are sure, certain and harmless.

Stomach worms are round like earth worms, and measure from 8 to 16 inches in length, the large ones being about the size of a lead pencil in thickness. They are white and sometimes pink in color; they infest the stomach and small intestines and sometimes great numbers are found to exist. One of my customers claim one of his children passed thirty from the use of my remedy. It does not require much thought to come to the conclusion that the worms are very dangerous, as they cause fever, convulsions, fits, etc. Many persons have died from worms and they have been known to crawl out of their mouth and nose after death. Just imagine the suffering and terrible agony a child or adult must experience with these disgusting and loathsome creatures crawling about in the stomach and bowels. There is no doubt that they are constantly taking the nourishment that should go to make a strong, healthy person. Is it any wonder that your child is cross, irritable and sickly? Adults are also restless, melancholy and miserable from the same cause and are sometimes treated for dyspepsia, nervous prostration and other complaints. My remedy is in liquid form and is an excellent remedy to build up the system, and can be taken for some time after the worms have been expelled to build up the system, which generally requires it as the stomach and bowels are generally in a weak and debilitated condition, caused by the ravages of these undesirable pests. My remedy known as Mother's Friend, is pleasant and agreeable to take and is a life-saver for children, as it not only destroys worms but strengthens and builds up the child, cures wetting of the bed, convulsions and fits; destroys pin worms. The price is $1.00. The remedy known as B'Well is much better for adults, and is the greatest nerve remedy on earth. Cures all nerve troubles, cleanses the system, restores lost energy and is a life saver. B'Well is a microbe killer also a worm killer; microbes and worms cause all kinds of disease. B'Well kills the cause, also kills blood poison. Sold only by Prof. Mulveney. Write for further information free.

Ankle-Length Bloomers Replacing Petticoats

By MADGE MARVEL

WHETHER women shall wear petticoats or bloomers is still a somewhat mooted question. For street wear, under the tight fitting skirts, the silk bloomers reaching to the knees or just below have been popular for a couple of seasons, but I am talking about the bloomer that the shops are showing which reaches to the ankles. The saleswoman in one shop told me she had sold a great many, and women told her they liked them. There are also the lingerie bloomer shown, and only time will determine whether it will be able to oust the petticoat from feminine favor.

The new stockings are most ornate affairs with lace and drop stitch and embroidery combined. Also they come in the most bewildering array of colors. The black and white are the most attractive, the white lace being used on the black hose, or the reverse, and the embroidery being in contrast.

Gaiters, or spats, whichever one chooses to call them, are used extensively by fastidious women, and the shoe with the light upper applied in gaiter effect is tremendously smart for street wear.

I think the spring will bring out so many shoes with light uppers that the plain black boot will be conspicuous.

The very newest thing in blouses is the colored one of fine handkerchief linen. It is the most charming little garment. The colors are rose pale pink, blue in several shades, yellow and green. The smartness of the blouse depends on its plainness, but it must be exquisitely made.

With skirts of the new wash corduroy in white these blouses have been much worn at the southern resorts.

The woman who has to count pennies will welcome the little lace bolero which may be found ready made in some of the shops, and which will freshen an old frock or add new life to an old blouse.

I noticed one on a tangoing guest in one of the popular restaurants one afternoon. It was of filet lace, and fitted quite smoothly in front from the neck to the waist line at the sides, but was cut up in front to yoke depth a width of about four inches, while straps of white taffeta held it together. The back of the bolero curved up between the shoulders where the straps were again used for fasteners. It was worn over a deep violet chiffon cloth blouse, which was part of a three-piece suit of duvetyne in the same color.

The three-piece gown will be the popular and wise choice in taffeta this season. Sometimes the blouse will be of taffeta and sometimes of a combination of taffeta and lace. The woman who wants to wear the suit for many occasions will have two or three waists made to wear with the coat and skirt, being most careful to have each one look as if it, and only it, was the one which made the suit complete.

Silken cords and tassels have lost none of their favor as trimming, and are used on some of the newest gowns to catch the drapery.

Each day sees this same drapery moving toward the back of the gown and bunching up quite like the bustle. And women who have said they would never wear that monstrosity even if the whole world did are the ones who are most enthusiastic over the bouffant effect which is the modern version of the bustle. There is talk of the possibility of this becoming more prominent as the season advances. If the bustle really arrives it will be by such gradual stages we will be wearing it before we realise it.

PETER'S ADVENTURES IN MATRIMONY

By Leona Dalrymple

Author of the new novel, "Diane of the Green Van," awarded a prize of $10,000 by Ida M. Tarbell and S. S. McClure as judges.

The truth, plain and unvarnished, about "the girl in the case" distinguishes this new series by Miss Dalrymple. Her character studies will not appear unfamiliar to the majority of readers, who will follow the fortunes of "Peter" with growing interest.

Wash Day

XXXVII.

LEONA DALRYMPLE

I HATE wash day. Most men do. Usually all the women in the house look harassed and fuss about the weather. Mary does at any rate.

I was late this particular morning, and Mary was already downstairs with a wrinkle of worriment between her brows.

"It's raining, Peter," she exclaimed petulantly. "And I do hate a rainy wash day."

"Why not hang the clothes in the attic?" I suggested, staring out into the leaden mist outside the window. Incidentally I wondered why Mary didn't think of my rainy tramp into town instead of an inanimate string of flannels immune to discomfort.

"Why," said Mary, helplessly, "I could do that I suppose. To tell you the truth, Peter, I didn't think of it. Would it be all right, Mrs. Martin?"

"Sure," said Mrs. Martin. "I wonder ye didn't think of it before. Would you make the starch, Mrs. Hunt? I'm a bit behind this morning."

I watched Mary while I was eating my breakfast. I eat, by the way, in the kitchen, and I have a peculiarly ignominious feeling about it when the washer lady's cynical gaze rests upon me. Man professes to be the lord of creation, but I defy any woman to match the terrible feeling of insecurity he has in the presence of the robust, working type of female. A trained nurse, a skilled laundress or any of the women who know how to work reduces him in short order to an apologetic nonentity.

I saw that Mary was a little fussed about the starch. She glanced dubiously at Mrs. Martin and then at me. Finally, with a pretty air of decision, she marched bravely to the closet and produced the starch. I saw her busy herself with a bottle of steaming water and the starch, and then her face began to look flushed and troubled.

"Peter," she whispered stealthily, "do come and look at the starch. It's the queerest looking starch I ever saw in my life. Don't attract Mrs. Martin's attention. She always acts as if I don't know anything at all, and I don't want her to know."

I sidled furtively to the range under the pretence of getting a match to light my pipe, and stared into the mass of starch Mary had just made. It was dotted with swollen, transparent lumps, and every lump had a white heart. Between the lumps the fluid was thin and [illegible].

"Mary," I whispered with fearful suspicion, "did you mix the starch with cold water before you dumped it in?"

"Do you have to?" begged Mary.

"Gracious, yes!" I sighed.

"I just dumped it into the boiling water," confessed Mary, "and right away it began to act queer."

We had been discreet, I thought, but Mrs. Martin's suspicious eye was already upon us.

"What would be the matter with the starch, Mr. Hunt?" she demanded. "Has it gone bad?"

"It's a little peculiar," I admitted hastily. "I'll just throw it out."

I wanted to protect Mary from the ironic, patronizing glance of Mrs. Martin—for the woman who knows how to work rarely understands the woman who doesn't. But it was too late. Mrs. Martin peered frowningly into the steaming mass and laughed. I could see by her face that Mary had fallen several points in her estimation, and I was right. Mary has never since attained quite the dignity in Mrs. Martin's eyes that she had before the making of the starch.

How can women bear to have subordinates know more about their work than they know themselves? No wonder servants are arrogant.

"WOMEN TODAY WASTE ENERGIES"

FRIEDA HEMPEL, Who Says Conservation Means Efficiency.

By ELEANOR AMES

ELEANOR AMES

HAVING so meaningless superfluities in one's life is the secret of efficiency, according to the theory advanced by Frieda Hempel. She says the reason so many women break down and have to go to rest cures and sanatoriums is not because they really work so hard, but because they live in a mental clutter.

"We are all apt to think we need too much of everything," declares the prima donna. "We fail to reduce life to a problem and then seek the simplest solution. There is so much of luxury and possibility of possession and accomplishment in the world that, unless we keep ourselves well in hand, we are apt to get swamped in the morass of what I call 'too much-ness.' Women today waste their energies.

"I think we ought to be busy all the time and accomplish all we can and have all the things that are necessary to our comfort and happiness. But in order to do this and no more we ought to have an understanding of ourselves. One person can only do so much work. One mind can only compass so many subjects. Trying to do a lot of things spells failure more often than success. Too many irons in the fire is a proverbially bad thing.

"Women think faster than men. They are more intuitive than men. They have wonderful enthusiasms and ambition. But they need to save themselves from scattering their mental forces. They want to learn what men have learned—that there is only so much accomplishment possible for one human being.

"Particularly is this something the business girl must learn. The business man works downtown. Then he is through with his work. He goes home to rest, or he goes to the club, or to the theatre, or somewhere for recreation. What of the business woman? She has a dozen things to do when her wage-earning day is over. She may have a house to keep. She may try to make her own clothes. Perhaps she has others dependent on her. She joins this class or that club and takes on herself a lot of cares which makes her life away from her work quite as strenuous as that existence in which she earns her livelihood.

"Then, in addition to too many lines of endeavor, women are apt to surround themselves with much that confuses. If they have a house they have too much room to care for and too many things in the room. They have too many clothes to keep in order. It is better to have fewer gowns and have them oftener. It saves a lot of wear and tear.

"Women are such splendid factors in the world for all that is big and fine in the way of accomplishments. I wish they might learn conservation, which means riddance of the superfluities."

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

Dear Annie Laurie:

I have a friend who writes me such beautiful letters, and I have been very happy over them, but the other day I found out that he writes just the same sort to different girls.

He seemed to feel bad when I spoke to him about it, and said he didn't mean what he wrote to the other girls. Would you believe him?

HOPEFUL.

WOULD you believe him? Indeed I would not believe him about that or about anything else on earth. He is either a weak fool or a conceited fellow who wants to believe himself a heart-breaker, and who doesn't care how many hearts he really does break—at all.

What reason have you for believing a man whom you yourself have trapped in a deliberate falsehood?

Oh, yes, honest people sometimes tell fibs. But they do not persist in a regular scheme of deception.

Fall in love with a fool; fall in love with a failure.

Fall in love with a poor man, or with a stupid man, or with an ugly man, or with a cold-hearted man—but never, never allow yourself to care the paring of a finger nail for a liar.

He will wring your heart in his naked hands and hold it up for all the world to see it bleed.

If he has lied to you he has lied to all the other girls. He comes of the breed that lies to women and is proud of it. The breed that will tell the truth to a man because he's afraid to do anything else, and that will lie to a woman every time he gets a chance, just because she is utterly helpless and cannot protect herself against him.

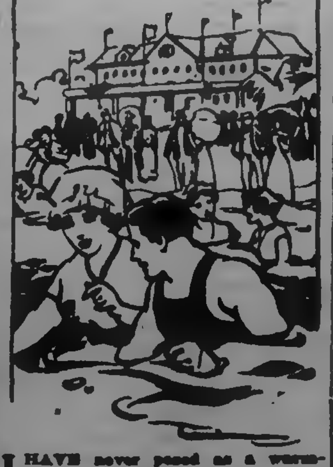
Annie Laurie

Miss Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. They should be addressed to her care this office.

Three Minute Journeys

Where Bathing Is Best on Christmas Day

By Jonathan MacFarland



I HAVE never posed as a warm-blooded individual, but not so very long ago I went swimming in an open stream on Christmas day, and, what is more, I took a sun-bath afterward. It was a hot day in December, and the air was sultry and oppressive. Yes, you're right—it was in Australia. There in that great island beneath the equator the whole scheme of the seasons is the reverse of what it is in these latitudes. It is a curious experience to be sweltering there in January and chilled in August.

It was a favorite joke of some friends of mine in Sydney to discuss Edgar Allan Poe with visitors from northern countries who had literary leanings. They would speak of Poe as a great genius in the handling of words, but add that he seemed to have no idea of what they meant. The average visitor would rise to this bait and ask for an example, whereupon my friends would point to the second stanza of "The Raven" and point out the lines:

"Ah, distinctly I remember, it was in the bleak December."

"Anybody knows," they would say, "that December is one of the pleasantest months in the year. Now, if it had been July or August, he would not have offended the intelligence of his readers."

Australia is one of the most interesting countries in the world. It is big in everything but population—area, resources, and beauty—but, although hardly smaller in the number of square miles than the United States, it holds fewer people than the city of New York. It is the most thinly populated country on earth, outside the polar regions.

There is a desolate desert region in the interior where travellers seldom penetrate, but one may go into the mountains without much trouble, and there you find dizzy cliffs, thundering cataracts and such other scenery as makes a boisterous man reverent. There is nothing else that quite compares with it—maybe on account of the loneliness, the thought that there are only one and one-half people to the square mile in the whole land, and most of them in the few large cities.

And it's always a safe bet that it will be a green Christmas in Australia.

Chippendale and Chintz

In my lady's room about
Ninety years ago
Chairs with arms and chairs without
Then stood in a row;
While on curtain and on wall,
In old-fashioned tints,
Roses rambled—and 'twas all
Chippendale and chintz

Fashions wax and wane, and when
Fifty years are spent,
What my lady loved is then
To an attic sent.
Crinolines, alack! are worn
(See the fashion prints),
Crinolines whose wearers scorn
Chippendale and chintz.

Now my lady from her frame
Sees her room once more
As 'twas when a bride she came
Gayly through the door;
Sees the chairs stand by the wall
Where, in old-world tints,
Roses ramble—and 'tis all
Chippendale and chintz

Daddy's Good Night Story

By GEORGE HENRY SMITH

"WAIT!" shouted Mrs. Cackle to her son, Charlie Chick, as he started out of the henhouse.

"What is it you want?" asked her son.

"The snow has melted and you should put your rubbers on," said his mother.

"The Duck children haven't their rubbers on," replied Charlie.

"That is different," said Mrs. Cackle. "They are used to water; besides, it doesn't matter what other children do. I want you to do as I tell you."

"All right," answered Charlie, as he put his rubbers on.

He went out to where the Duck children were splashing around in the water which the melted snow had made.

"Oh! Look!" shouted Danny Duck. "There's Charlie Chick with his rubbers on."

Then Danny took an extra splash just to attract Charlie's attention.

"Why have you these things on your feet?" asked Ducky Duck, as he came splashing toward Charlie.

"My mother told me to put my rubbers on," said Charlie Chick.

"How are you going to scratch with those ugly things on?" asked Danny Duck.

"I don't need to scratch," answered his companion. "When I want to eat I just eat and don't have to scratch."

"Where can you get anything to eat without scratching?" asked Danny Duck.

"There is a box in the henhouse filled with corn and all I have to do is to help myself," said Charlie.

"Show us the place," said Danny.

Away they went to the henhouse and, sure enough, there was a box with corn in it, but the corn was covered with fine wires. Charlie reached in and helped himself. Danny Duck and Dicky Duck tried to get the corn, but their beaks were so broad they would not go in.

"You make fun of my rubbers, so now I ought to make fun of your beaks," said Charlie.

"Never mind about us," said Danny. "Just pick out a few kernels of corn for us."

Charlie Chick got the corn for the Duck children and they never made fun of his rubbers again.

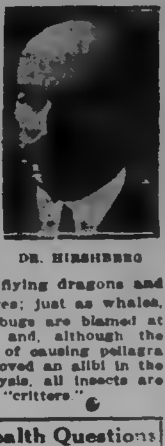
Secrets of Health and Happiness

We Must Fight Insects or Be Destroyed by Them

By Dr. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

Copyright, 1914, by L. K. Hirshberg.



DR. HIRSHBERG

WHY do you shrink when an ant crawls over you? Are ants dirty? Do they sting you? You answer promptly, no, to both queries.

When you hear the buzz of the female mosquito you are more nervous and excited than when it stings you. Why?

A fly in the house of a civilised person, whose natural abhorrence of this insect has not been dulled and aborted by the familiarity that breeds contempt, is a worrisome abomination.

Have you thought of an explanation? It all lies in the normal, unsuppressed instinct of human kind that mosquitoes, flies, ants and cockroaches are enemies of mankind.

Just as those huge, Gargantuan creatures of old, the pterodactyls, the dinosaurs, mastodons, mammoths, real flying dragons and similar behemoths, were exterminated by smaller creatures; just as whales, elephants, elks, buffalos, kangaroos and giraffes are today disappearing from the face of the earth, you are destined to die at the hands of smaller living things.

Mankind instinctively knows that there is a battle on to the death. This war has been carried to the frontiers of life itself.

If you do not aid in the extermination of flies, mosquitoes, ants, fleas, roaches, lice and other such vermin, the human race will be outstripped in a survival of the fittest even sooner than I expect.

Danger Is Unappreciated.

Curious to tell, man is the only animal that shuns his own racial instincts.

Civilisation, hitherto, has neglected the death struggle between the insect races and the intelligent races. Rome, the seat of a mighty civilisation, died, not by the Goth and Hun, not by its internal vice, but from the pernicious marsh fevers of the Roman Campagna.

How? By the anopheles mosquito, whose females are indeed the most deadly of the species, for they breed, bear, nourish, incubate and convey the vicious virus of malignant malaria.

Shaking ague destroyed Greece and Rome, carried hither upon the wings and in the sting of the mosquito. The tsetse fly is doing the same thing with even more venomous and fatal affliction in Africa. The house mosquito is doing the same in South America.

Last year Dr. L. B. Bates and Dr. Samuel Darling, at the Ancon Hospital of the Panama Canal zone, discovered that the little red and black ants, so long disregarded by children and grown-ups, carry cholera, dysentery and typhoid fever to innocent and strong people.

Warring Insect Leaders.

The single house fly, which begins to spin its web of disease in February and to have a centillion trillion of progeny by June, causes tens of thousands of baby deaths and all sorts of adult diseases.

The mosquito causes yellow fever, "filaria," or worms in the blood, and several other maladies of the tropics. Fleas carry the black plague; cockroaches carry "amobae," an animal parasite; lice cause boils, carbuncles and other troubles; bedbugs are blamed at times for leprosy, and, although the sandfly is innocent of causing pellagra and the horsefly proved an alibi in the case of baby paralysis, all insects are hostile anti-human "critters."

Answers to Health Questions

A READER—Tell me a cure for catarrh. No doctor or medicine has ever helped me.

What do you mean by "catarrh"? Whatever you mean, you fail to state where you have it, what your symptoms are, or how it shows itself to eye, touch or sense.

Queer Creatures on Land and Sea

By Anita von Hartmann

Little Snow Baby

YOU would never think that a little baby could be born quite safe and sound under a deep pile of snow, would you? But that is just the way Little Baby Polar Bear is born.

Each winter Mrs. Polar Bear says good-by to her husband and trots inland for a long way. When she has gone far enough she digs a nice bed for herself deep down in the snow and covers herself all up with a warm snow blanket.

Mrs. Bear sleeps soundly all winter in her cosey bed, and when she wakes up there is Little Baby Bear! And it is spring! Mother Bear is so pleased she licks Little Baby Bear all over and over. Then she gets up and shakes herself good.

"Come, Little Baby Bear," she says, "hurry and we shall go and find father and get something to eat."

And away they trot as fast as they can, Mother Bear and Little Baby Bear.

"See what a nice Baby Bear I have brought you," Mother Bear proudly tells Mr. Polar Bear.

And Mr. Polar Bear is so tickled with his little snow baby that he hurries away to kill a plump seal or a juicy walrus for Mrs. Bear's spring dinner.

The Sea Hedgehog

ONE of the ugliest little creatures of the sea is the hedgehog of the ocean called the Globe Fish. The Globe Fish has fins and a tail speckled with tiny spots like a polka dot shirt, and he is all armored with prickly spines, quite as unpleasant as any land hedgehog you have ever seen.

Master Globe Fish is one of the few creatures of the deep that is quite safe from enemies. He fills himself with air, Poof! And, protected by his deadly spines, floats like an ugly little balloon wherever he will, quite unmolested.

And Master Globe Fish is quite as deadly as he looks. He gathers his food from the corals, which, though wholesome for him, are poisonous for men, and this makes his flesh very dangerous for us to eat.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS

THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at the office of any Local Agent of Dominion Lands (not sub-agent), on certain conditions.

Duties.—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required in every case, except when residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside of his homestead. Price $3 per acre. Duties.—Six months residence in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and 50 acres extra cultivation. The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land after report by Homestead Inspector on application for patent.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price, $3 per acre. Duties.—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

SHOULD BE COMRADES OF THEIR CHILDREN

Parents and Children Should be Loving Friends, For Life—Some Observations on Subject

Friendship between children and parents at all ages is the relation that should always exist between them. Unfortunately it is too seldom found in Canadian families after the children have passed a certain age, and often not even before. The want is due partly t. circumstances beyond the control of either party and partly to the fault of Canadian parents. Time wipes away from the parents' mind the recollection of how they thought and felt and acted when children, thus removing a bond of natural sympathy. In addition, parents then fail in reverence for the rights of children as human beings of independent individuality, fail in self-control and self-respect, and fail in wisdom of family government.

All of us who are blessed with children want their trust, respect and companionship, not only when they are little, but still more when they are grown and capable. Something can be done by parents to bring this about, so that an ideal relation shall be enjoyed so long as child and parent live.

Parents need as much as possible to put themselves in the child's place and try to become as children again. Fathers and mothers who best remember their own childhood as a rule are those who meet with least failure in rearing the child.

Germans insist on respect from children, and this discipline helps to hold the German family together all its life in friendship between parents and children. The Japanese and the French work on their children through love and comradeship, and among both peoples grown sons and daughters stand more closely beside fathers and mothers than among Canadians. Parents and children are not all their lives bound together in this country with such lasting bonds of family affection as in France, Germany and Japan.

What has here been laid down does not mean that there should be no parental authority nor family government. Children must learn lessons of obedience if they are to be qualified to become members of society and the State. This article simply advocates such a union of the head and the heart between parents and children, such a blending of authority and love, sympathy and wisdom, as shall make parents and children loving friends for life.

FEET HEAVIER WHEN ASLEEP

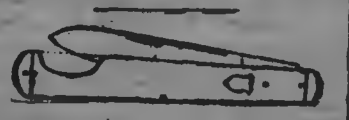
Head is Lighter and Feet Much Heavier on Awakening

You often hear a person complain of his head feeling "heavy" after a long sleep. As a matter of fact, his head is considerably lighter and his legs and feet just that much heavier when he gets up than when he went to bed.

Experiments have shown that if a man goes to sleep on a bed suspended exactly at middle point of his weight his head begins to tip slowly up and his feet go down. This is due to the fact that when we sleep the blood in the brain goes off to the other parts of the body. The moment the brain wakes to life again it draws the blood back.

Another of the curious facts brought to light by the scientists who are fond of trying to solve the mystery of sleep is that when one is fast asleep some part of his brain or several parts of it may at the same time be awake. A man may walk, talk, sing or solve mathematical problems, and yet at the same time be safely in the land of Nod.

It seems hard or impossible to decide what part of the brain really does sleep. Our sense of time, for instance, is stronger when we sleep than when we are awake. Experiments conducted some years ago on a number of men and women between the ages of twenty and thirty showed that 60 per cent. of them were able to wake up in the morning at any time they had decided upon the night before. As some one has aptly expressed it, the resolve seems to wind up something in the subconscious brain, and when the hour has arrived this something gives in some mysterious way the alarm and the eyelids open. Another curious fact about sleep is that the further the part of the body is away from the brain the less soundly it sleeps. A touch of the toe will awaken one much more readily than a touch on the shoulder.



It's easy to prevent breaking your finger nails opening a pocket knife if you apply this bit of ingenuity. File a notch in the handle of your knife like that shown in the sketch. You want to be careful not to file it too near the end so that the point of the blade will be uncovered, else you might tear holes in your pocket.

To prevent mould from forming on top of the liquid in which pickles are kept, put in a few pieces of horse radish root.

To remove fruit stains from the hands rub them with the juice of a tomato.

SUBSTITUTES FOR MEAT

A Subject Connected With the Cost of Living

There are many persons, perhaps an increasing proportion of thoughtful people, who eat no flesh meat when they can get a vegetable diet that comes up to their ideal of life-sustaining capacity. Under ordinary economic conditions the number of out-and-out vegetarians has always increased slowly, and a long time must elapse before human beings cease to be more or less carnivorous. But the present economic conditions, so far as food products are concerned, are very extraordinary, and it is a matter of the most profound practical importance to know what other substances may safely be used as substitutes for or supplementary to flesh meat as part of the dietary of adolescent or adult human beings.

Assuming that the use of meat in good condition and in moderation is defensible in theory as well as satisfactory in practice, it is necessary to know which of its essential elements are assimilated by the body when taken into it as food, in order to ascertain what vegetables contain the same elements to be in like manner assimilated. The elements are proteids, fats, and carbo-hydrates. The fats and carbo-hydrates are easily disposed of in this connection, because vegetable oils may readily be made to serve the same purpose as animal fats, that of fuel to keep up the animal heat of the body. Sugar may be freely used with the same object in view, perhaps all the more effectively if it is left flavored by the taste of the maple tree or the sugar cane. Many fruits in their natural condition contain sugar, and very many of them are best preserved by being cooked with sugar before being put up in vessels impenetrable by atmospheric air. Starch is abundant in such vegetable products as rice, Indian corn, and potatoes.

The most interesting, if not the most essential elements in food products are the "proteids," which, besides the oxygen, carbon, and hydrogen of the fats and carbo-hydrates, contain nitrogen, which is indispensable to the formation of blood, muscles, tendons, and nerves, and to the production of energy. Fortunately proteids occur in great abundance in both animal and the vegetable kingdom, and as animals derive their proteids from vegetable sources it is fair to ask why human beings should not obtain them directly from vegetables instead of getting them at second-hand from animals slaughtered for food consumption. The vegetables containing the largest percentage of nitrogenous matter are the leguminous plants, the most important of which are peas and beans, but wheat contains it in the form of gluten, which serves more than one useful purpose besides the making good the waste of muscular tissue. The presence of gluten in oats adds value to oatmeal as a food.

The importance of these proteid substitutes for meat is so great in relation to the high cost of living that it is well worth the while of the housekeeper to make herself acquainted with their nature and the various ways in which they may be utilized without resorting to baker's bread for a supply of gluten. The value of peas and beans is well known to the habitants of Quebec, and to the men who work during the winter in the lumber camps of Canada. It is quite safe to say that meat would be comparatively little missed if these, with whole wheat and oatmeal, were allowed a more ample place in the dietary of Canadian households.—Toronto Globe.

Similarity of Wood

In Southern Russia and Transcaucasia, the forests are very similar in composition to those of southern Canada and the United States. Of the hardwoods, beech and oak are the most important species, the former forming vast forests on the slopes of the Caucasus Mountains. Scotch pine, Oriental spruce and Nordmann fir rank first among the conifers. The latter sometimes attains a height of 150 feet and a diameter of eight feet, being much superior in size and quality of wood to the balsam fir, or "balsam," of eastern Canada.

Leap Into the Clyde

An exciting incident took place at Jamaica Bridge, Glasgow, when a man, supposed to be a sailor, attempted to enter the Clyde from the Broomielaw. He was prevented from doing so, but afterwards ran across the bridge to the Customs quayside where he jumped into the river. He was soon fished out, and arrested.

Boy Falls From Train

As a little boy, three-and-a-half years of age, son of William Prentice, a hatter and hosier, of Venvue street, Glasgow, was travelling with his mother on the railway to Clarkston, he fell from the train. According to his mother he just touched the handle when the door flew open. He sustained concussion of the brain.

Insured on Day of Death

Chief Constable Macnaughton, Inverness, received a communication from Merritt, British Columbia, inquiring for the relatives of a young Inverness man named D. J. MacLeod, who was killed on the railway in British Columbia. On the day of his death the young man took out an accident insurance policy, of which he made his mother, whose address he gave as Inverness, Scotland, his beneficiary.

A QUAINT OLD TAVERN

The Old Cheshire Cheese, In the Heart of London.

SERVES A FAMOUS PUDDING.

A Noble Pastry It Is, and It Was Sampled by Such Men as Gladstone, Dickens, Thackeray, Tennyson, Trollope and Whistler.

Nearly all Americans when they go to London make it a point to visit that quaint old tavern in the heart of the newspaper and printing business, the Old Cheshire Cheese, to partake of its famous pudding.

It is the Londoner's delight when he gets back to Fleet street to make a rush for the pudding, and it is almost the last thing he eats before leaving it. Travelers in the Sahara have seen mirages of that pudding, and during the Boer war the men shut up in Ladysmith and Mafeking dreamed of it at regular intervals.

Precisely at 1 o'clock p. m. Tom conveys the pudding from the first to the main floor. It is a big pudding, and the price of it is just 2 shillings—that is to say, a feed of it is 2 shillings, as much as you please, as many shares as you ask for, cut and come again, all for 48 cents of American coin. Cheap, aye, and, oh, how good it is! It is worth crossing the Atlantic to get a sniff of it, and the aroma lingers in the memory for many a day.

Big? The dimensions are Falstaffian. It is a round earthen vessel something more than two dozen inches deep, with a diameter of about eighteen inches. A noble pastry, my masters!

When it is placed upon the service table an elliptical white crust meets the hungry gaze. Tom and his myrmidons take their places in front facing the host, who, knife and spoon in hand, poses with gentle dignity and benignant mien. It is a moment of solemn thought when every man hopes that his portion will be larger than his friend's and that he will be blessed with an abundance of gravy. But they ought from years of acquaintance with the host to understand that his hand is as steady as his judgment is impartial. No more and nothing better for one than for another. He waves his weapons, and the first onslaught is made. The room is full of a delicious steam bearing with it the concentrated essences of ambrosial substances. The guests sniff it up and murmur choice blessings on the cook, the original inventor, the house and the host. It is a time when men feel good, one toward the other.

One smell of that pudding makes the whole world kin. This famous pudding, which has tickled the palates of thousands, is thus compounded:

A crust of flour, water and suet.
Beefsteak.
Sheep's kidneys.
Larks.
Mushrooms (freshly gathered).
Oysters.
Stock.
Pepper and salt.

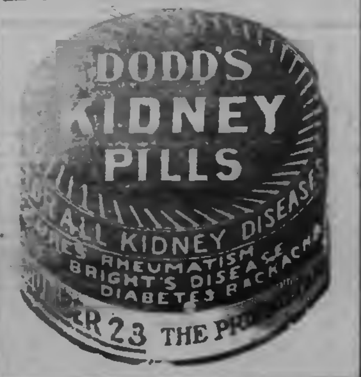
But it is the boiling that does it. For at least twelve hours this heaven sent pudding is kept slowly simmering in an immense copper specially constructed for the purpose. It must not boil quickly, but the same temperature be kept up the whole period. The steak assumes a juicy tenderness; the larks—not sparrows, as some malignant spirit has suggested, although sparrow pudding is not to be despised—are seethed to the bone, and you can chew up each little songster without an effort; the kidneys are soft and mushy and offer no resistance to the digestive organs, and the oysters, despite their lengthened cooking, are not leathery. The amalgamation and assimilation of the variety of constituents are perfect; the result is bliss.

There is a story told of one eminent litterateur who had seven helpings of the pudding and still yearned for more, and there is another remarkable narrative of four men who ordered a pudding of the regulation size and finished it among them.

J. Pierpont Morgan praised the pudding, and Theodore Roosevelt was delighted with it. Lord Beaconsfield bestowed his approbation thereon, and Gladstone thought it far superior to his famous "three courses." Dickens, Thackeray, Meredith, Swinburne, Tennyson, Trollope, Whistler, Leighton, Sala, Phil May—all sorts of the best of men of their day have fed upon the pudding, and it no doubt helped to inspire their work.

Apparently any cook can fashion it, mix it, fix it, boil it. Let any cook try it. Lots of cooks have tried it, but the results have not been satisfactory. There was a man who once ran the Old Cheshire Cheese, and in his day the pudding first achieved its great fame. When he sold the old hostelry and took a house in the financial district he announced that the same pudding—the same in every respect—would be served every Saturday.

Many of the Cheese's old patrons came around to celebrate. There was the size, but the aroma was wanting; there were the identical materials, but the flavor was not in them. It was not the same, not a bit of it. There was something missing. It may have been the shades of the departed great ones of a bygone time. And so it is that today the famous dish of the Old Cheshire Cheese tastes as of old, and its devotees cannot be seduced by any designing invitation based upon "just as good" simply because there is nothing just as good.—Philadelphia Ledger.



There is a popular belief among some people that the Hessian mercenaries brought here by the British government to fight the Americans remained here after the war was over and that their descendants constitute a considerable element of the Pennsylvania Germans of today. Comparatively few remained here after the war, because the British government was under contract to return such as escaped the casualties of the war after it was over. The few that remained made good citizens, as they made the very best soldiers against the Americans, and whenever it was practical to do so they were put in the most responsible places by the British commanders.

The intense hatred at one time against the so called Hessian soldiers, some of which still lingers with the present generation, is very unjust, because they did not volunteer to fight against the Americans, but they were forced into the British service by the impecunious German princes who sold them to the British like so many slaves. The Hessian soldiers would sometimes take a notion to desert, and they invariably found refuge among some of the German colonists. A considerable number of them were left behind from time to time on marches, on account of sickness or wounds. These always found a ready welcome among German settlers; few of them ever found the way back to their native land.—"Pennsylvania Germans," by William Beidelman.

He Didn't Know Her.

The telephone call of a suit of apartments in a ladies' boarding house is 190.

One young lady, a recent comer, answered the call and was astonished to hear a man's voice inquire hurriedly, "Is this one nine o?"

When she could catch her breath the lady, who was a very proper young lady indeed, replied: "I think not. Were we ever introduced?"—Brooklyn Life.

Two Is Company.

"Have you ever loved before?" asked the coy maid.

"Yes," yawned the worldly young man, "but—never before a chaperon, two small brothers and a pet bulldog."

And then she suggested a trip down the old road to see the stars.—Chicago News.

A Sugar Coated Pill.

"How did you persuade your daughter to learn kitchen work?"

"By calling it domestic science."—Pittsburg Post.

The way of the world is to make laws, but follow customs.—Montaigne.

The expression "sending to Coventry" had a military origin, according to The London Chronicle. It arose, so it is said, in the days of Charles I., when the inhabitants of Coventry strongly objected to any intercourse with the military quartered in their town, and a woman known to speak to a man in a scarlet coat was at once the subject of scandal. So rigid were the natives that the soldier was confined to the mess room for conversation. Thus the term "sending a man to Coventry" if you wished to shut him from society took root on the English language.

A Historic House.

The Countess of Warwick, who is about to sell off part of her Easton Lodge estate in Essex, is the lineal representative of the Maynards, whose seat it has been for well over 300 years. The manor of Little Easton, in which the venerable and picturesque lodge is situated, was granted by Queen Elizabeth to Henry Maynard, secretary of the great Lord Burleigh, her famous treasurer. His grandson was advanced to the peerage in 1627 as Baron Maynard, and the seventh baron was raised to a viscountcy.

The Liberals' Chief Agent.

Cordial congratulations from members of both parties reached Sir Robert Hudson, chief agent of the Liberal party, when he was knighted in 1906, for he has earned the respect and goodwill of political opponents as well as political friends. The knighthood came to him as a complete surprise, being carefully planned by the late Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman; and it was an honor richly deserved, for, thanks to Sir Robert, the Liberal party was never better equipped for fighting than it is to-day. To the man in the street Sir Robert is little known, but he has long worked behind the scenes. He has been connected with the fortunes of the Liberals for almost thirty years, and has been chief agent for the Liberals since 1893. He is, as a man in his position must be, conspicuous for business ability and decision of character.

A Curious Will.

Countess Anna Maria Helena de Noailles, a member of one of the historic families of France, has made a curious will which has just been proved. She left her estate at Meads, Eastbourne, England, to found "St Mary's orphanage," laying down the following rules for the education of the girls: No competitive examinations, no study before breakfast, no study after 6 p. m., all lessons to be learned in the morning, no girl to work more than four and a half hours daily. No arithmetic, except the multiplication tables for children under ten. No child with curvature of the spine to write more than five minutes a day until thirteen. Each girl must be certified by two phrenologists as not deficient in conscientiousness and firmness. No child to be vaccinated.

THE SUPPLE NEW TAFFETAS ESPECIALLY SUITED TO DANCING AND AFTERNOON FROCKS

Among the new imported gowns are many of taffetas. Not the stiff, ugly taffetas of some seasons ago, but a supple, soft quality that lends itself to all sorts of manipulation. It seems especially suited to the quaint, pretty dancing-frocks that have come into vogue with the new dances. Most of these dance frocks are extremely simple, trimmed sparingly with shadow lace or net. On some the tunic is corded to make it stand away from the figure somewhat. The plaited tunic is also popular and attractive.

No. 8165 is made of taffetas in a light, very pale green. The guimpe is of cream colored shadow lace. The blouse is kimono. The tunic is slightly fulled into the belt. A straight, narrow little skirt completes a very youthful, dainty frock.

It may be copied for a girl of 16 with 4¼ yards of 36 inch material and 1⅝ yards of 36 inch material for the guimpe.

No. 8094 shows a frock in which velveteen and taffetas are combined with excellent results. The blouse and plaited tunic are of black taffetas; the skirt and panel down the front of the blouse are of velveteen.

It requires 3¼ yards of material for the skirt and 2¼ yards of 36 inch goods for the blouse for size 36.

No. 8165—sizes 14 to 18.
No. 8094—sizes 34 to 44.
Each pattern 15 cents.

WISE IS THE WOMAN WHO KNOWS HOW TO CHOOSE HER COLOR THIS SEASON

Color and material are the two strong features of the modes this season. It is a temptation to select a gown or wrap in one of the wonderful new blues, greens or reds that attract us on every side. But we must curb this desire and be content with just a touch for contrast, else disillusion and disaster will follow. Among the new greens are delicate, cold shades found in the water of the ocean; hard, brilliant colors in the peacock's feathers, each of them charming in themselves, but not to be worn next the face unless one possess an unusual complexion. Several shades of brown are known under the class name of "Chocolat;" "Petroska" is the suggestive name for a charming Russian green; various shades of yellow are known as "Soleil" (the rays of the sun) and there are numberless others with names quite as appealing as the colors themselves.

In the costume shown in 8088-8061 crepe meteor is used in a dark, dull shade of blue called "Corneille" or "Jackdaw" blue. It is similar to the "crow-blue" of last season. Plaited chiffon in a dull cream fashions the petticoat, and a smart contrast is given by the velvet buttons and the bow that holds the drapery. They are bright purple.

This costume may be copied in size 36 with 1⅝ yards of 42 inch material for the blouse; 3¾ yards of 42 inch material for the skirt. Tobacco brown sponge is used for 8092, with the vest in a tan cloth.

This frock may be made in size 36 with 4⅜ yards of 42 inch material.

No. 8088—sizes 32 to 44.
No. 8061—sizes 22 to 30.
No. 8092—sizes 34 to 46.
Each pattern 15 cents.

To obtain either pattern illustrated fill out this coupon and enclose 15 cents in stamps or coin. Be sure to state number of pattern and size, measuring over the fullest part of the bust. Address Pattern Department, care of this paper.	No. .... Size .... Name .... Address ....

A Bad Heart, Its Cause and Cure

Many, Firmly Convinced They Are Dying of Heart Trouble, Have Often the Strongest Hearts.

Sometimes you wake up at night, heart throbbing like a steam engine. Your breathing is short and irregular; pains shoot through the chest and abdomen, and cause horrible anxiety.

Your trouble isn't with the heart at all. These sensations are the outcome of indigestion, which has caused gas to form on the stomach and press against the heart.

Just read what happened to Isaac Malloux, of Belle River, Ont.:

"Three months ago I was a weak, sickly man. My appetite was poor, food fermented in my stomach, I had sour risings and indigestion. At night I would often weaken with gas in the stomach and heart palpitation.

"I consulted my doctor and used remedies that my friends advised. Nothing helped.

"One day I received a sample of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and my cure commenced. To-day I have a vigorous appetite, strong heart action, and no sign of indigestion. I feel younger and healthier than ever before."

Your druggist or storekeeper sells Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box or five boxes for $1.00. By mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Local Military News.

The school of musketry that has been held at the armouries during the past six weeks, under Sergt.-Major Instructor Edwards, has been brought to a close. On Monday evening, with Lt. McCullough in charge, the class had their written examinations. Last evening, Col. Helmer, director of musketry, Ottawa, took the class for the practical part of the work. He expressed himself as being well pleased with the class.

Five Years for Lindsay Men

Lindsay Post: Five years in Kingston Penitentiary was the sentence meted out to Charles Burke and John Burkholder, the alleged counterfeiters, in the police court this afternoon by Police Magistrate Jackson. Chas. Burke pleaded guilty to the charge preferred against him, but in the three charges preferred against Burkholder the accused, on the advice of his lawyer, elected to be tried by a jury.

A Lindsay Dog Fight

Lindsay Post: A dog fight which proved a thriller and which attracted a big crowd of spectators took place in front of the Post Office last evening. It was the aftermath of an encounter which took place last week when County Police Magistrate Moore's terrier met Charles Squier's bull pup in mortal combat. The terrier emerged triumphant, but the bull dog nursed its revenge. Mr. Moore, in an effort to stave off its onslaught, lost his footing and fell to the pavement, breaking his eye glasses.

Fish Plentiful, But Shy.

Overseer John Watt reports that bass and maskinonge have not been so plentiful in this territory, at least they have not been biting so well as usual. This, he claims, is due to the quantity of natural feed, as all the fish caught are in fine condition. He has never seen so many large fat 'lunge as has been taken in the past. The muskrat catch was fairly good, but the mink are becoming scarce and he suggests that their season should not open until December 31st. Partridges are very plentiful round the district and there is the usual good supply of ducks.

A Hard Worked Civic Official

Yesterday morning Mr. Finch Miller City Relief Officer, was engaged in making a report as a result of a series of long drawn personal calls he has made in all parts of the city. It seems that 17 cases of patients ill in the local hospitals, whose expenses were charged to the city were investigated by Mr. Miller. This work involved a large amount of time and wear on show leather by Mr. Miller. In almost every case, such patients, as referred to above, were in destitute circumstances and unable to pay their "shot."

Where Is Local Turf Club?

A local horseman yesterday asked The Times, "What is the matter with this town as regards racing?" He showed us a copy of the Canadian Horseman in which 8 towns, which are nearly all smaller than Peterborough, which in June and July next give $130,000 in race prizes. The following, with their respective dates are the places mentioned: Toronto, June 3, 4, 5; St. Thomas, June 9, 10, 11, 12; Chatham, June 16, 17, 18, 19; Aylmer, June 23, 24, 25, 26; London, June 30, July 1, 2, 3; Listowel, July 7, 8, 9; Seaforth, July 14, 15, 16; Welland, July 21, 22, 23.

HOW DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS CURED MRS. LANCE

Pembroke Woman Suffered for Fifteen Years Before She Found Quick Relief and a Complete Cure.

Pembroke, Ont., Mar. 4.—(Special). —Of peculiar interest to women is the story of the cure of Mrs. Morile Lance, well known and highly respected here. Let Mrs. Lance tell that story in her own words.

"For about fifteen years I was a very sick woman," she says. "My sleep was broken and unrefreshing and I had a bitter taste in my mouth in the morning. I was often dizzy and flashes of light floated before my eyes. My limbs were heavy and I had a dragging across the loins.

"At last Rheumatism was added to my troubles and I also suffered from lumbago, dropsy and gravel. I felt that my kidneys were the cause of all my troubles and decided to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. From almost the first they did me good, and after taking twelve boxes I am again a well woman."

Women who suffer should learn that the cause of their troubles is bad kidneys. Having learned that, the rest is easy. Thousands of Canadians will tell you out of their own experience that Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure bad kidneys.

Mr. Frank Montgomery is authority for saying that Mr. "Flamer" Elmhurst of Keene, is having some little difficulty in working out his grand team of trotters. These colts are "Adrain Painters."

SULZER NOW AIMS AT UNITED STATES SENATE

Albany, March 4.—The sixth assembly district of Manhattan will to find a new man to represent it in the Legislature next year. William Sulzer is tired of the job—tired in the sense that he believes he can render more valuable service to the people by going up a rung or two in the political ladder.

"I'm not sorry I came up here," the ex-Governor said to a friend. "My election was a vindication. A nomination for the Assembly was the only instrument at hand last fall to demonstrate to Murphy and his chorts that the people were with me. But the good I can do as a an Assemblyman is very circumscribed. I must seek other fields, and I intend to do so after my present term ends."

Sulzer's purpose to quit the lower House has the approval of the little coterie of advisers who surround him here, and they are predicting that step by step he will regain prestige.

To date, Mr. Sulzer's activities as a legislator have been marked by the utmost modesty. He has made comparatively few speeches and at no time has held the floor for more than ten minutes.

Though treated with more than ordinary deference at the capital by the average Assemblymen, Sulzer, when he goes to the Ten Eyck Hotel finds few companions with whom to mingle in a social way. He doesn't encourage friendships with the Tammany men and isn't over cordial with the Republicans.

A half dozen Progressive Assemblymen and three or four men who are of no particular prominence, but who encourage him during the trying days of his impeachment, gather about Mr. Sulzer every night and discuss plans for his political future.

FINDS ALBANY "TAME"

Altogether, the former Governor has found Albany rather tame during the last two months and seems secretly pining to return to Washington, either as United States Senate or Representative in Congress from his old district.

Legislators have been looking forward in vain to a debate between Mr. Sulzer and former speaker Al Smith. When the session began it was predicted that Smith would take advantage of the first oppottunity to flay the ex-Governor. But Mr. Sulzer has never provided the opening. He has not, however, deliberately toned down his oratory.

The modest plan upon which he lives in one room at the Ten Eyck Hotel provokes the prediction that when his term expires he will have saved something out of his yearly salary of $1,500.

MOTHER! IF CHILD'S TONGUE IS COATED

If Cross, Feverish, Constipated, Billous, Stomach Sour, Give "California Syrup of Figs."

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish; stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold, or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is oftimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Don't be fooled!

"McFADDEN'S FLATS" COMING TO THE GRAND OPERA HOUSE

"McFadden's Flats" which comes to the Grand Opera House on Saturday next, March 7th, matinee and night, has been entirely reconstructed and much new material incorporated. Of course, it is understood that "McFadden's Flats" is one of the best musical comedy attractions on the road and that each season it is entirely new and up-to-date. An excellent company has been engaged for this season and includes such well known artists as Arthur Connolly, Joe Mason, Linton De Wolf, Speck Brothers, Jack Lampe Annie Hart, Maybelle Mahlum, Norine Dunham, Olive De Wolf, Kittie Morgan and a large chorus of attractive young ladies who know how to sing and dance, as well as wear stunning gowns. All in all, it is bound to please the most fastidious theatre-goer.

SOME IMPORTANT FACTS ABOUT THE SILVER BLACK FOX INDUSTRY

The first Island ranch was started with two pairs of Anticosti Silvers, bought from a trapper for experimental purposes solely, and same proved so successful that the fox industry started to be developed.

In the year 1910 a pair of breeders could be bought for $4,000.00; in 1911 the price went up to $6,000 a pair, during 1912 a pair at $10,000 was considered high but not unusual, and at the time of writing (January 20th, 1914), live breeders can bring any price from $15,000 to $35,000, according to fecundity, and options on the unborn of next year are selling for $12,000 a pair.

About $10,000,000 is said to be invested in the fox industry on Prince Edward Island, showing a gain of over $3,000,000 inside a year.

Official returns for the present year show that the 277 fox ranches on the island contain 899 silver breeding foxes, (441 males and 458 females.) The total number of silver offsprings for 1913 was 703, and the average assessed value was $4,892.53 per fox.

The total valuation of the young silver black foxes for the current year is $3,349,419. The total number of silver foxes in the ranches for 1913 is 1602.

Pelts from ranch-bred Prince Edward Island silver black foxes have sold at the London auction sales as high as $2,628.00.

ASSETS OF THE COMPANY

The Company have TEN PAIRS of high-grade PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND Silver Black Foxes, EIGHT PAIRS are now on the ranch and two pairs of breeders under option are all eligible for registration under the select class "A" of the FOX BREEDERS' ASSOCIATION. These Foxes have been selected with special regard to parentage, and consist of the following well known strains:

Gordon, Dalton, Tuplin, Oulton, Raynor, and Champion. These names are conspicuously prominent in the Fox Industry ranches which, in 1913, paid from 45 p.c. to 900 p.c.

FUTURE POLICY

The Company expects to earn large profits from the sale of these rare black and silver foxes for breeding purposes, while each year a per centage of the production will be retained, placing the Company in a position to pay large dividends from the sale of furs alone. The object of this policy is to place the fur farming industry on a substantial commercial basis.

THE COMPANY'S RANCH

The Company owns outright a fine 211 acre farm with complete farm buildings—one of the most up-to-date ranches on the Island. It has an experienced and highly skilled keeper whose services have largely contributed to the present satisfactory condition of the business.

ONLY ONE CLASS OF STOCK

There is only one class of stock fully paid and non-assessable. Every shareholder participates pro rata in all dividends paid by the Company, and the latter has no authority to issue either Preferred Stock or Bonds.

DIVIDENDS DECLARED TO DATE AND STOCK BONUS

From the above it will surely be seen that the R. J. McNEILL BLACK AND SILVER FOX COMPANY, LIMITED, are engaged in business at a most opportune time and under most favorable circumstances. Take into serious consideration that our company is established and that we have the FOXES AND RANCH, and not prospective. YOU ARE ENTITLED TO SEPTEMBER, 1914, DIVIDENDS; you don't have to wait for the dividends until 1915. In 1915 another dividend will be awaiting you

REMEMBER the average cash dividend of the above companies is 175 per cent, and there is absolutely no excuse why we cannot repeat the same.

We offered for public subscription the remaining allotment of $70,000. $30,000 has already been subscribed. $40,000 remains to be sold.

NOTICE.—Should the shares of stock not be allotted, the money paid by you will be refunded by return mail.

SOME PRESS COMMENTS

"Widows" Fox Company Declares a 900 Per Cent. Dividend.

Clerks in the employ of Sinclair & Stewart, a big dry goods house at Summerside, formed a silver fox company in 1912. This Company is popularly referred to as the "Widows" Fox Company, as nearly all the stockholders are women, a dividend of 900 per cent. was their reward.

Three sisters of Alberton, P.E.I., who were employed in the States, sent their spare earnings home two years ago to be invested in the fur farming business and their profits have averaged $15,000 yearly since.

A bookkeeper in the employ of Mr. Fred L. Rogers, the Governor's son, of Alberton, invested $300 three years ago, and is now worth $45,000 directly from this source.

The Rossmount Live Stock Co., Limited, of Alberton, P. W. Turner, treasurer, has paid a dividend of 1000 per cent. this year.

Mr. Frank Hall, clerk at Holman's Limited, received $25,000 from an investment of $500 made in this business three years ago.

Seven clerks and managers in Summerside pooled $500 each in 1910 and purchased a pair of silver foxes for $3,500. The seller, feeling that he had driven a splendid bargain, cared for the pair a year. The first litter consisted seven pups. The seven owners have received $36,000 cash dividends since and the pair bought for $3,500 could be sold for $35,000 to-day. Mr. Austin Scales, of St. Eleanors, is a member of this Association —Boston Sunday American, August 31, 1913.

"BETWEEN SAVAGE AND TIGER"

Anybody who asks for more excitement or thrills than are to be found in George Kleine's latest photo-drama success "Between Savage and Tiger" is unquestionably a menace to society and needs restraint. There are enough situations in this wonderful story of the jungles of India to supply climaxes and plots for half a dozen stage plays. Although some of the best players of the Cines Company are in the cast, the real stars are man-eating tigers, elephants, water-buffalo, antelope, horses and savage tribesmen. No one who ever sees this picture leaves their seat until the last curtain and many stay to see it repeated. "Between Savage and Tiger" is arranged in six parts. It will be seen here for the first time Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, 3, 4, 5 and 6th March, at the Grand Opera House. Don't fail to see this picture. Matinees daily at 2.30 and 4. PARCEL POST WEIGHT LIMIT RAISED MAY SEND GOODS TO ELEVEN POUNDS SYSTEM FROM START WORKED WELL

Hon. L. P. Pelletier, Postmaster-General, Gives Surprising Announcement--Order to Limit Parcels to Six Pounds for Three Months Found Unnecessary

Ottawa, March 5.—Hon. L. P. Pelletier, Postmaster-General announced this morning that it had been decided to extend the weight limit on parcel post from six pounds to eleven, starting at once. The original intention was to allow three months to elapse before the weight of parcels was increased to eleven pounds. However, the system is already working so smoothly and so satisfactorily that it has been decided that the Department will be prepared to cope with the increased business.

The new regulation goes into effect to-day.

GIVES CHINESE O.K., VOTES FOR WOMEN IS REMEDY FOR GRAFT

Regina Speaker at Ottawa Social Congress Lauds Orientals as Citizens

Ottawa. Mar. 5.—"Canada needs 100 Lloyd Georges," said Rev. Prof. W. W. Andrews, of Regina, speaking on "political purity" at the Social Service Congress to-day.

"And some Asquiths," shouted a delegate from the rear of the hall. "Anyone who is a good man," returned Prof. Andrews.

A vigorous defence of Orientals, especially the Chinese, was advanced by the Professor. "There is none better to mix with our blood than the Oriental," he said. "The people who carry the most grey matter over their shoulders are the Chinese.

Are Chinese Too Honest?

"What is the matter with the Orientals? Are they too honest for us?"

He claimed that the Chinese in his city, Regina, shamed the white people by their manifestation of the spirit of brotherhood.

"There are three lizardly things that are corrupting politics," he went on. "One is graft, particularly rampant in the public works and purchasing departments of practically all Governments."

"Another is the tampering with the honor of Legislators and the third is the bribery of voters.

"Direct legislation is needed in Canada and we need to admit women to the franchise."

PASS SENTENCES ON RUTHENIANS

Thirty-Two Found Guilty of Sedition—Russian Monk Was Leader.

Budapest, Hungary, Mar. 5.—Sentence was passed to-day at Marmoros-Sziget on thirty-two of the fifty-five Ruthenians who have been on trial since December 29, charged with inciting to rebellion against the Austro-Hungarian Government.

The principal prisoner Father Alexius, a Russian monk from Mount Athos, was condemned to four and one half years imprisonment. His real name is said to be Alexander Kabalyuk, and he was understood to be the leader of the seditious movement. He was alleged to have carried on the propaganda under the guise of efforts to convert the Ruthenian peasantry to the orthodox faith, but with the real intention of inticing them from their allegiance to Austria-Hungary and drawing them toward Russia. The movement was said to have been promoted and financed in Russia. The other thirty-one convicts were condemned to terms ranging between six months and two and one-half years in prison, and all in addition were fined small sums.

TELLS OF NIGHT SPENT IN "HOLY CITY" CELLS

Haileybury, March. 5. Mr. C. C. Farr, Editor of the Haileyburian, who was arrested last week in Toronto and committed as lunatic, describes some of his experiences in conditions of that city, with interest for some time, I mean this relating to the submerged tenth, the bread line, the shelters, the charity institutions, but principally the doings of the British Shelter League. he says in part I wanted to get a chance to see with my own eyes how Toronto treated a poor chap who was down on his uppers, but essentially honest. Whilst packing my grip, I was tempted to pitch in an old suit, but on reflection, I considered there was no use to load myself up with impossible garments, besides I new that prying eyes would peep into that grip, and the consequences would be that trips would have to be doubled in order to maintain a semblance of respectability. Facilis descensus Averno sed revocare gradus, which in this case means it is easy to go to Toronto, but is hard to get back, as the sequal will show.

The "Holy City."

After reaching the "Holy City" as he calls Toronto, he found that he could not get a room at his favorite hotel and then . . . "Satan tempted me I thought that this would be a splendid opportunity to carry out the scheme of investigation that I had planned, so I hied myself to York street, dropped into the first emporium that I met and purchased a suit including a thing that the proprietor called a shirt for the magnificent price of one dollar. Of course I explained that the clothes were for a poor chap who was down on his luck. I had to come back for a cap to match, and I got one for ten cents. By the look of it you would have thought it cost less.

UNIONISTS TO REJECT ASQUITH PROPOSALS

Mr. Birrell Introduced Home Rule in Commons Again To-day Amid Cheers.

London, Mar. 5.—The Home Rule for Ireland Bill was introduced again into the House of Commons to-day by Augustine Birrell, Chief Secretary for Ireland, and was read a first time amid prolonged Ministerial and Nationalist cheers.

The Government has succeeded in keeping secret the nature of concessions to be offered by Premier Asquith on Monday, when the bill comes up for second reading. According to reports from quarters connected with the Cabinet, however, Premier Asquith will simply propose that any Irish county may, by a plebiscite, vote itself out for a period of three years.

It is generally regarded in Parliamentary circles as certain that the Unionists will reject any concessions Premier Asquith is likely to offer.

PRESIDENT REQUESTS CONGRESS SUSTAIN HONOR OF UNITED STATES IN UPHOLDING TREATY OBLIGATIONS WITH GREAT BRITAIN

Personally Asks Members in Joint Session to Repeal Panama Tolls Exemption

Washington, Mar. 5.—President Wilson personally appealed to Congress, assembled in joint session to-day, to sustain the national honor of the United States in upholding treaty obligations by repealing the Panama Canal tolls exemption against which Great Britain protests. He asks Congress to do that in support of the foreign policy of the United States, and added that an exemption for American ships not only was "a mistaken economic policy," but was in contravention of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty.

"I shall not know how to deal with other matters of even greater delicacy and nearer consequence if you do not grant it to me in ungrudging measure," said the President.

A Voluntary Withdrawal.

"The large thing to do is the only thing we can afford to do; a voluntary withdrawal from a position every where questioned and misunderstood. We ought to reserve our action without raising the question whether we were right or wrong, and so once more deserve our reputation for generosity and the redemption of every obligation without quibble or hesitation."

President Wilson's address, the shortest he has yet delivered to Congress was as follows:

Gentlemen of the Congress.

"I have come to you upon an errand which can be very briefly performed, but I beg that you will not measure its importance by the number of sentences in which I state it.

Justice and Wisdom in Repeal.

"No communication I have addressed to the Congress carried with it graver or more far-reaching implications to the interest of the country and I come now to speak upon a matter with regard to which I am charged in a peculiar degree, by the constitution itself, with personal responsibility."

CANAL IS PROPOSED IN COUNTY OF KENT TO PREVENT FLOODS

Deputation Lay Details of Scheme Before the Provincial Government

Toronto, Mar. 5.—Every spring the River Thames floods its banks and does thousands of dollars damage in the county of Kent. Suggestions by which the water might be kept within to proper bounds during the freshets have been discussed for a generation. To-day a deputation was introduced to Mr. G. W. Sulman, Conservative member for West Kent, to the Minister of Public Works, and laid before him a tentative proposal whereby the years depredations might be stopped.

A cut-off to Lake Erie starting from Thamesville was suggested which could be used to carry away the overflow. The lake is thirteen miles away as the crow flies, while from this point the river takes a tortuous route, extending over 40 miles to Lake St. Clair.

Will Send Engineer.

There is only one high elevation in the proposed path of the relief canal and two small streams have their source there. It is believed that the canal might be dug so as to touch the springs which feed these two streams, and they might be diverted into the canal.

The deputation asked Dr. Reaume to send an engineer to look over the ground and if the plan was deemed feasible the financing and other questions which an undertaking of such a nature would involve could be discussed at a later date.

The Minister listened with interest to the plan, and an engineer will be sent up shortly to look into the matter.

BABY MYSTERY ENDS; NO CHILD WAS BORN

Winnipeg, Mar 5.—The Baby Mystery turns out to be no mystery at all. Mrs. J. B. Jones, who claimed that a mid-wife had carried off her half-hour old child, has admitted that no child was born to her, and that the story was merely intended to delude her husband.

It appears that Jones desired a child and his wife told him one was coming. Unable to continue the deception, she planned with an unregistered midwife Mrs. Anderson, to adopt an infant and present it to Jones as his own. They were apparently unable to find a child. When Jones went home one afternoon about a week ago, his wife was in bed, and told him a child had been born and taken away by Mrs. Anderson. When the child was not returned, Jones notified the police, whose search availed nothing. Finally the facts came out and Mrs. Jones admitted no child had been born, whereupon Mr. Jones called off the police.

CANADA AND THE BRITISH EMPIRE AS MR. J.H. BURNHAM, M.P. SEES IT

Eloquent Plea in Parliament for Protection Against Asiatic Cheap Labor

During the debate in Parliament on the subject of Immigration, the following excellent speech was delivered by Mr. Burnham:

Mr. Speaker, I wish to say a few words on some points connected with this discussion that I flatter myself are somewhat important and more or less new. First of all, let me refer to the usual severe onslaught made by the hon. member for Rouville (Mr. Lemieux) upon imperialism. He sets up, as usual, a man of straw and proceeds, with considerable force, to knock that man down. Let me tell the hon. gentleman that imperialism as understood by the Conservative party and the men who have helped to build up the British Empire, is not such imperialism as he chooses to signify. The imperialism to which he refers is the imperialism of ancient Rome, where Rome was the centre of her empire, and solved all her questions herself. This new British Empire is something that historians agree is like nothing that has ever existed before; it requires careful handling, and requires, above all things, a national and truly patriotic spirit. It is upon the sufferance and upon the affections of the people of the British Empire that it is founded and must continue. I would not for one moment vote in favour of a central parliament. I do not know anybody else in Canada who would. That is not the point. The point is: Are the different parts of the empire prepared at all times to help each other in the storm and stress of empire? Are they or are they not? that is the question, because if they are not, but must meet and deliberate before they decide upon the question, then they are not the empire. That is the point that concerns Conservatives so strongly, that is where we differ. We say that we are at all times ready to do what we are asked, and what we ask the others to do for us, or pray what use on earth is it to talk of making laws for the government of our immigration if we had not Great Britain and the other dominions behind us to back us up in these laws? Japan and Hindustan and China would wipe us out in an hour. We presume that the British Empire is behind us, and surely, if we are at all above the ordinary greedy spirit of a child, we will agree that we will reciprocate and say, whatever they may do, we will always stand behind them. That is the spirit of empire, and the only spirit we dwell upon. We reject the idea of imperialism as talked about frequently for the purpose, I fancy it may be, of irritating Quebec. Quebec has nothing to fear from the imperialism which we preach. We are desirous of preserving the empire as it is. You cannot preserve the empire as it is if you say you are not of the empire all the time, but only a portion of the time and when you may see fit—and I know something of the French Canadians.

Mr. Lemieux: Is India in the empire?

Mr. Burnham: It may be or may not be; I cannot tell, for the simple reason that India is not part of the empire as we are. I would answer the question in that way. I do not presume to answer it any other way. It is not necessary to go into the history of India to show that it is not on the same basis in the empire as we are. It is not necessary to interject foreign matters into the debate. Let us stick closely to the question. We are talking about Canada, and we have all we can handle in Canada at the present time. Let me say that we in Canada are desirous of being counted part and parcel of the empire, and not, as set down in a certain Naval Service Act, only when we see fit to adjudicate upon the question. That kind of empire is not our kind of empire at all: and, for my part, I would not belong to a country that would presume on the support of the rest of the empire and would not be man enough to say it would participate in its support at all times. That is neither imperialism nor Canadianism, and I am sure it does not belong to the true spirit of Canadian manhood. Speaking of Oriental immigration—it seems to me inadvisable to refer to this as Hindu, Chinese or Japanese immigration, let us refer to it as foreign cheap labour and then no difficulty will arise. I have no concern about the morals of it, we can settle it on a different basis. The objection to foreign cheap labour coming into the West has been clearly set out as owing to the fact that they depress the rate of wages, and therefore upset the whole stable equilibrium of the industrial world in the West, and therefore in Canada; and I hope that my friend the Labour member for Montreal (Mr. Verville) will back me up when I say that he recognizes, as the hon. member for Rouville will recognize, that you cannot keep out foreign cheap labour and admit foreign cheap labour's goods.

That is a manifest absurdity. When China develops, when the men who are paid from 18 to 20 cents a day and who are capable of all sorts of skilful culture, turn their energies to producing steel and other manufactured goods, we shall be swept off the decks if we admit them into Canada. Our rate of wages must come down then. That will be the case with all manufactured goods and natural products of every kind. To keep out the people and yet allow their goods to come in, is simply solving half the problem. We must be prepared to maintain by judicious exclusion our own civilisation as much as possible, and we must be prepared to maintain the rate of wages in this country so that the workingmen, the artisans and the labourers, may preserve that high civilization for which they are working and struggling so manfully. It is impossible to be consistent if you will not afford some protection for the rate of wages in this country and yet allow the products of cheap labour to come in, because that happens to be your idea of free trade. It is the old question all over again. It is all very well to interchange with a country like Great Britain with a civilization like our own if not higher; but free interchange with a civilization which is lower and where the rate of wages is lower, tends to depress and ruin our civilisation. It would be far better for us to put a Chinese wall around this country than to submit to such a degradation. The centre of gravity would be changed from the northern atmosphere to oriental countries, and in 200 years, or less, we would see those countries producing a magnificent civilization while we had sunk to the lowest levels, because we had stuck to a theory which in itself has neither common sense nor consistency.

Why Iron Rusts.

British investigators estimate that the rails of a single railroad system in England lose eighteen tons of weight every day and that the larger part of this loss is due to the effects of rust. The problem of rust is of great economical importance not only because of such losses as that just mentioned, but also because of the great expense involved in repainting iron and steel structures in order to preserve them. Thus $10,000 a year is spent in painting the great Scotch bridge over the Forth. Recent experiments indicate that pure iron in the presence of pure oxygen does not rust. It appears to be necessary for the production of rust that some acid, notably carbonic acid, shall be present. When iron is subjected to the action of water containing traces of acid and in the presence of atmospheric oxygen it always rusts. The rapid rusting of iron in railroad stations is ascribed to the presence of sulphuric acid derived from the smoke of locomotives.—Harper's Weekly.

Tax Dodging In Japan.

Lately I have been far afield in a small Japanese-English dictionary, from which I have culled a choice collection of words peculiar to the country, such as:

An—A small house inhabited by a Buddhist priest.

Araigome—Washed rice offered to idols.

Gaden—Rice fields about which a false statement has been made in order to diminish the tax.

Now, idols are all very well, for even in this country we have idols (of sorts) to which we devote more precious gifts than much washed rice; also no idol nourished merely on rice will be able long to withstand the assaults of the higher criticism. But it is rather melancholy to find that tax dodging is not unknown to that most patriotic though by no means lightly taxed nation.—Atlantic Monthly.

One Turn of the Hand.

Biffers—Who says women have no heads for business? There's a woman made $50,000 by simply turning her hand over.

Whiffers—Phew! How?

Biffers—She turned it over to Mr. Bullion, and now she's Mrs. Bullion.—New York Weekly.

A Good Landing.

"He was always a lucky fellow."

"What do you mean?"

"When he fell out of his airship he plumped straight through the skylight of a hospital."—Woman's Home Companion.

Liked His Father.

"Don't you know that little boys who swear don't go to heaven?"

"That's all right, mister. I'd rather be with pa, anyhow."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

TOURISTS IN BERLIN.

They Should Be Careful in Selecting a Boarding House.

A case has occurred in Berlin showing the unpleasant experiences which may occur to tourists who engage board in a boarding house not well recommended. Three American women were the victims.

In the new part of the town, the so called American quarter, a neat sign of "Pension" attracted the women, and they engaged board there. According to the German custom, they paid the boarding house charges a month in advance. Two days afterward the landlady went to a hospital, and the next day the domestic girl of all work took her departure. Food and service ceased, and the host, a count, moved into the attic for some reason unknown to the Americans.

The Americans protested that their money should be refunded or they should have food and service. The host told them he could supply neither as he had no money. The women consulted their friends and were advised to make the best of the bargain and camp out for the rest of the month.

Some days later the host appeared in their rooms and proceeded to remove the curtains from the windows. The women appealed to an American who happened to be calling, but the only result of his interference was a scuffle with the landlord, who knocked him out with a bunch of heavy keys.

Two of the women then sought police aid at the nearest station, a mile away. The officials laughed at them, telling them it was a private matter and no concern of theirs.

In the meantime the landlord returned with two men and took down the curtains, informing the women that he would be back at 5 o'clock the next morning to remove the furniture. The women then sought the aid of the American consul general, who advised them to move out quietly and offered them hospitality for the night. They accepted the offer, but did not get their things away before half past 3 in the morning.

Incidents like this are not rare in Berlin's American colony.—New York Sun.

Quaint Sewing Implements.

An interesting find is reported to have been made by Professor Mestorf, director of the Museum Schleswiger Alters Tumer at Kiel. In the grave of a Germanic woman dating from the pre-Christian era was found a stone box containing a set of sewing utensils, a pair of scissors of considerable weight, a horn knife with an iron blade, a stiletto and several thorns, which were used as needles. There was also a stone resembling the so called "Gnideistein," which was still in use as a flatiron as late as the seventeenth century.

WINDMILL POINT ELEVATOR, MONTREAL.

While the Grand Trunk has been looking well to the matter of elevator construction in Western Canada to provide storage capacity for the ever-increasing grain crop, provision has also been made for shipping facilities at Montreal. In the spring of 1906 what is known as the Windmill Point Elevator, located in the busy harbor of Montreal, was completed and put into operation. Its capacity was 1,080,000 bushels. Its situation is so well planned that it is easily accessible to both lake or ocean vessels, with railway tracks alongside. To provide additional accommodation a large annex has just been completed, with a capacity of 1,070,000 bushels, making a net capacity of 2,150,000 bushels. There are in this new building 28 concrete tanks, 25 feet in diameter and 100 feet in height, arranged at right angles in four rows, with seven tanks in each row. The tanks are constructed of reinforced concrete, having their adjacent sides rigidly united, so that the four-pointed, star-shaped spaces between the circular tanks may be used for storage as well as the circular tanks themselves. The large tanks hold approximately 33,000 bushels apiece, and the star-shaped or interstice bins hold approximately 8,000 bushels each. It is the second largest grain bin on the Grand Trunk System, the largest being located at Fort William, with a capacity of 5,700,000 bushels.

SANOL BLOOD BUILDER

FOR TIRED OUT MEN AND WOMEN
A SURE CURE FOR ANAEMIA

Provides the Blood with Red Corpuscles so Necessary to Life

Clears and Improves the Complexion

For twenty years a celebrated German scientist worked at this great puzzle seeking to find the secret of blood building. The vegetable constituents were brought from the four corners of the earth and so blended that a genuine blood and tissue builder was at last produced.

SANOL BLOOD BUILDER has proved a boon to mankind. The tired worn out mother in the home, with her daily round of domestic and social cares, the head of the family in office or workshop, the growing girl or boy during schooling period, at times need a body building medicine. Sanol Blood Builder supplies the blood with and incorporates into the organism of the human body that which it absolutely needs, the good results are marked and rapid.

Sanol Blood Builder, if taken according to the directions will stop the waste of the body, brighten the appetite, strengthen the system, rebuild the blood corpuscles, improve the complexion, brace the muscles and calm the brain.

The school of musketry that has been held at the armouries during the past six weeks, under Sergt.-Major Instructor Edwards, has been brought to a close. On Monday evening, with Lt. McCullough in charge, the class had their written examinations. Last evening, Col. Helmer, director of musketry, Ottawa, took the class for the practical part of the work. He expressed himself as being well pleased with the class.

FOR THE COMMON GOOD

It is the aim of The Times:

To exploit and advance the best interests of the people of the fair and fertile land wherein it is published, and to which it steadily devotes its efforts;

To stand for liberty and law, equal rights and good government, the greatest boon to a free people;

To foster and encourage private and public enterprise, and hold up the hands of every honest toiler, either with brawn or brain, in every field of activity;

To stand independently for the true interests of the city, the Dominion and the Empire, and for those policies only which make for the common good;

It aims to be excellent and not cheap.

WORMS! YES, THAT'S IT WORMS IS THE TROUBLE—

Many Suffer From Them and Do Not Know It.

Many go to an early grave on account of them and have been pronounced to have had brain fever or some other complaint.

Prof. Mulveney Comes to the Rescue

His Wonderful Remedies are saving thousands of lives.

Why not try his remedies, they are sure, certain and harmless.

Stomach worms are round like earth worms, and measure from 8 to 16 inches in length, the large ones being about the size of a lead pencil in thickness. They are white and sometimes pink in color; they infest the stomach and small intestines, and sometimes great numbers are found to exist. One of my customers claim one of his children passed thirty from the use of my remedy. It does not require much thought to come to the conclusion that these worms are very dangerous, as they cause fever, convulsions, fits, etc. Many persons have died from worms and they have been known to crawl out of their mouth and nose after death. Just imagine the suffering and terrible agony a child or adult must experience with these disgusting and loathsome creatures crawling about in the stomach and bowels. There is no doubt that they are constantly taking the nourishment that should go to make a strong, healthy person. Is it any wonder that your child is cross, irritable and sickly? Adults are also restless, melancholy and miserable from the same cause, and are sometimes treated for dyspepsia, nervous prostration and other complaints. My remedy is in liquid form and is an excellent remedy for build up the system, and can be taken for some time after the worms have been expelled to build up the system, which generally requires it, as the stomach and bowels are generally in a weak and debilitated condition, caused by the ravages of these undesirable pests. My remedy, known as Mother's Friend, is pleasant and agreeable to take and is a life-saver for children, as it not only destroys worms but strengthens and builds up the child, cures wetting of the bed, convulsions and fits; destroys pin worms. The price is $1.00. My remedy known as B'Well is much better for adults, and is the greatest nerve remedy on earth. Cures all nerve troubles, cleanses the system, restores lost energy and is a life saver. B'Well is a microbe killer, also a worm killer; microbes and worms cause all kinds of disease, B'Well kills the cause, also kills blood poison. Sold only by Prof. Mulveney. OUR POINT OF VIEW

The name of the new Russian Premier looks like an alphabetical process, and leaves the impression that he is a man of letters.

◆

During the recent severe cold snap a great many persons made themselves comfortable by remembering that it will be as warm as usual in July.

◆

A paper in Montreal says "the dancing at a recent charity ball was "simply disgusting." But he should remember that charity covers a multitude of sins.

◆

"Less dress and less pomp" is the slogan of some of fashion's leaders in Toronto. Less pomp is all right, but less dress will not do at all. The limit has already been reached.

◆

A correspondent of one of the rural churches writes The Times to the effect that the choir was full on Sunday, rendering excellent music. Yes, some people sing much better when they are in that condition.

◆

The Globe practically admits that if there are any indications of enthusiasm over the proposal to reorganize the Liberal party it has been unable to discover them. Anyway, what is the use of crowding the mourners? Let ample time be given to view the remains.

◆

Notwithstanding the facts, some people wish to lay blame on a party when it should fall on individuals only. It is only necessary to think a moment to see that it is the obstinate political party man who paves the way for the success of the grafter.

◆

MASSACHUSETTS' COMMISSION ON DRUNKENNESS

The Commission on Drunkenness which was appointed by the Governor of Massachusetts to investigate the matter in that state, reported to the Legislature a few days ago. The report declares that one-third of all crime, aside from public drunkenness, is the direct result of alcohol; that public drunkenness was the cause of 63.4 per cent. of all arrests and 67.6 per cent. of all commitments during the year; that intemperance was the primary cause of insanity in 15.67 per cent. of insane hospital cases in 1910-1912 and that the average annual increase of arrests for drunkenness since 1901 is 4,106; that 19 out of 20 men imprisoned for drunkenness last year were of British or American birth; and that imprisonment alone was responsible last year for the loss of 300,000 working days or nearly 1000 years. The commission does not recommend state prohibition, but it does recommend rigid enforcement of local option laws, temperance teaching in the schools, and publication by municipalities of scientific information in regard to alcohol and its effects upon the individual and society. It has little use for the fine as a penalty for drunkenness and thinks it should be levied only in exceptional cases. It is also recommended that the probation system be extended in an effort to reform and cure drunkards. This last recommendation we think might well be applied in Canada. Let us abolish, or at least curtail, our present practice of fining men for drunkenness and try some form of the probation system.

Offensive Breath Caused Usually by Catarrh

A Simple Remedy that Cures Without Drugs.

The American people suffer more from Catarrh than from any other disease. It undermines more constitutions and creates more sickness than all other diseases combined. It is, therefore, very dangerous.

You can't successfully treat Catarrh by internal dosing—you must in some way send a purifying, healing agent through the breathing organs, so that the germs can be reached. This you do every time you inhale Catarrhozone. It's rich essences and healing balsams are breathed all through the nose, throat and lungs, and effectively destroy every trace of Catarrh. This is a proven fact.

I endorse Catarrhozone because I know of six bad cases of Catarrh, including my own, that it has cured. It is a sensible remedy because it is capable of going where the disease is. I believe it cures quicker than other remedy because it gets sooner to the source of the disease than anything else I know of. I had headaches, bad breath, and much stomach trouble associated with my Catarrh, but they have disappeared since using Catarrhozone, which keeps me free from colds, headaches, catarrh and all winter ills." OTTO E. KRAMER, Belleville, Ont.

Catarrhozone is needed in every home. Large size lasts 2 months, price $1.00; small size, 50c.; trial size 25c. At all storekeepers and druggists or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

THE CIGARETTE BY-LAW.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I would like to ask "Are we living in Canada or Russia?" The City Council has passed a by-law regarding cigarettes that will practically confine the sale of these paper covered atoms of tobacco to a handful of merchants. With this confining of the sale of cigarettes to a few, of course there will be money made. It would seem that one reason for cutting off the privilege of a poor widow who owns a corner grocery, from making a few hard earned cents, is that boys will be debarred from buying such goods. Piffle! Hot air! The boy does not try himself to get cigarettes, he persuades an adult to buy them for him. This elimination of the widow from making a few honestly earned dollars will not stop the boy (and he is a very exceptional boy) from getting his ill-smelling smoke.

Again, Mr. Editor, I see by your paper that either the Mayor, the City Clerk, the Chairman of the Finance Committee, or Chief of Police, has the power to cancel that $40 license. I would suggest that where nearly everybody is appointed on this committee of censorship for public morality, with such extraordinary power, that the name of Dinny Daly be added. Mr. Daly is well qualified to act. I would further suggest that this Star Chamber of local moralists be furnished with a distinctive uniform and compelled to wear the same on making their rounds. It would possibly save future lawsuits if the Committee empowered so fully, on making their rounds, be headed by a Highland piper who will play "The Wearing of the Green," or "In the North Sea Lived a Whale."

STANDARD RELIANCE MORTGAGE CORPORATION

Last Year's Earnings Over 11 Per Cent.—Aggregate Net Earnings for the Period Ending December 31st, 1913, $351,886.55.

In another column of this paper will be seen the annual financial statement of the Standard Reliance Mortgage Corporation. This is one of the best statements issued by any financial corporation for the year 1913, and was highly commended by the shareholders who were present at the annual meeting held at the company's offices, 82-88 King Street East, Toronto, on Monday, March the 2nd.

The net earnings amounted to over 11 per cent. of the paid-up capital, which now amounts to the substantial sum of $1,985,104.00. After deducting interest on debentures and deposits, amounting to $122,521.00, the balance available for distribution amounted to $228,806.00, of which sum $118,471.88 was paid out in dividends, $100,000 was added to the reserve fund, and the balance carried forward to the credit of Loss and Gain account.

The present corporation is an amalgamation of the Standard Loan Company and the Reliance Loan & Savings Company of Ontario, the amalgamation having taken effect on the first of May last.

The president, Mr. N. H. Stevens, stated that the net earnings of the corporation for 1913 exceeded the combined net earnings of the two companies prior to the amalgamation by over $30,000. This record is well worth noting, as showing not only the efficiency secured by the combination of the two companies under one management, but it shows also what may be accomplished in the way of reduction of expenses of operation.

It will be noted from a perusal of the statement that the total assets now amount to $5,110,332.00. The position obtained in the financial world by the Standard Reliance Mortgage Corporation places it amongst the largest and most prosperous financial institutions in the Dominion.

The conservative policy pursued by this corporation is an important feature for the consideration of those looking for substantial and safe investments. The debentures of the corporations are issued in sums of $100.00 or more, and interest at the rate of five per cent. per annum on these amounts is payable by coupon every six months.

The corporation invites correspondence with reference to the safe investment of funds at remunerative rates. All communications should be addressed to the head office, 82-88 King St. East, Toronto.

POET OF MANY VERSES.

An Anecdote of Pellegrin, an Eighteenth Century Bard.

The impecunious French poets of the middle eighteenth century used to consort at the cafes, where sometimes they would pick up customers. One of the worst and at the same time the most facile of the bards was Pellegrin, of whom a characteristic story is told in "An Eighteenth Century Marquise." One day a newcomer entered the cafe and began complaining that he was going to be married and had no epithalamium for his wedding. Pellegrin hastened to offer one of his own compositions. A deal was soon arranged, and the price agreed upon was 20 sous a verse. The poet disappeared. The bridegroom was presently accosted by a stranger, who began a conversation on various subjects and suddenly said:

"By the by, my friend, what price are you paying Pellegrin?"

"Twenty sous a verse."

"H'm."

"Is that too dear?"

"No"—doubtfully—"not if you fixed the length of the poem."

"I never thought of doing that."

"When is he to bring your epithalamium?"

"Tomorrow morning."

"Tomorrow morning!" cried the stranger. "Why, you must be rolling in money!"

"What do you mean?"

"That you will have to pay for at least a thousand verses."

"Oh, what a fraud!" exclaimed the bridegroom and rushed off to find Pellegrin in his attic. The versifier had just completed his hundredth verse.

GIRLS! THICKEN AND BEAUTIFY YOUR HAIR

Bring back its gloss, lustre, charm and get rid of dandruff—Try the moist cloth.

To be possessed of a head of heavy, beautiful hair; soft, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and free from dandruff is merely a matter of using a little Danderine.

It is easy and inexpensive to have nice, soft hair and lots of it. Just get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine now—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance; freshness, fluffiness, and and incomparable gloss and lustre, and try as you will you cannot find a trace of dandruff or falling hair; but your real surprise will be after about two weeks' use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair— sprouting out all over your scalp—Danderine is, we believe, the only sure hair grower; destroyer of dandruff and cure for itchy scalp and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments — a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries this.

KING GEORGE'S REIGN.

Astrologer Daoud Says It Will Be Short and Stormy

A short and stormy reign for George V. is predicted by S. Daoud, the Washington astrologer. Two years ago, it is said, Daoud foretold the death of King Edward and described the circumstances accurately. Among the things which he foresees in the new king's horoscope is that his reign will last but six and a half years.

"The first five years," Daoud says, "will be among the stormiest in England's history. The last eighteen months, however, will be comparatively fortunate. The coming reign will be terminated by the king's death, which will be a natural one. He will more than once be the object of attempted assassination, but would be murderers will be powerless to harm him.

"There will be trouble in all the British possessions during the second year, especially in India.

"In the third year of his reign there will be a conflict between England and another European power ruled by a kinsman of King George, which will precipitate a great war. England will on her own part wage war with this European country. The war will be short and decisive and will result in England's being obliged to make concessions which will deprive her of much of her power.

"Egypt will give King George decided trouble, but will not be able to free herself from English rule during his reign."—New York World.

HOW TO BECOME INVISIBLE.

A Sample of the Mummery Used in Ancient Witchcraft.

Some curious formulas of ancient witchcraft are given in Mr. A. E. Waite's "Book of Ceremonial Magic." Here is a recipe for becoming invisible:

"Begin this operation on a Wednesday before the sun rises, being furnished with seven black beans. Take next the head of a dead man. Place one of the beans in his mouth, two in his eyes and two in his ears. Then make upon the head the character of the figure which here follows. (Omitted.) This done, inter the head with the face toward heaven, and every day before sunrise for the space of nine days water it with excellent brandy.

"On the eighth day you will find the cited spirit, who will say unto you: 'What doest thou?' You shall reply: 'I am watering my plant.' He will then say: 'Give me that bottle; I will water it myself.' You will answer by refusing, and he will again ask you, but you will persist in declining until he shall stretch forth his hand and show you the same figure which you have traced upon the head suspended from the tips of his fingers. In this case you may be assured that it is really the spirit of the head, because another might take you unawares, which would bring you evil, and, further, your operation would be unfruitful. When you have given him your vial he will water the head and depart. On the morrow, which is the ninth day, you shall return and shall find your beans ripe. Take them, place one in your mouth and then look at yourself in a glass. If you cannot see yourself it is good. Do the same with the rest or they may be tested in the mouth of a child."

"BROADWAY JONES"

George M. Cohan Selects Thomas V. Emory, Well Known Toronto Favorite, to Succeed Him in the Title Role of His Latest Successful Play.

The management takes pleasure in announcing the booking of Cohan and Harris' splendid production of George M. Cohan's successful comedy, "Broadway Jones" on Monday next, March 9th, at Grand Opera House.

In selecting the actor for leading as well as the title role, George M. Cohan has again proven that he is a wizard of the Theatrical field by placing none other than the genial Thomas V. Emory in the part. Mr. Emory will be remembered by local theatre-goers playing the timid bridegroom, "Kettle" in "Over Night" at the Royal Alexandra, in Toronto, in which he scored a big hit; also as leading comedian and quite a favorite for three summers with the Percy Haswell Stock Co. The rapid rise of this young man is noteworthy for his ambition and cleverness upon the stage. He has also played a number of parts with Cohan and Harris, and it is by his hard work he has been promoted to the stellar position he now holds. It is said by a number of people who have had the pleasure of seeing Mr. Emory fill Mr. Cohan's place, that it is a wonderful performance that he is giving the title role.

What Is Woman's Work After She Is Married?

By WINIFRED BLACK

Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service.

Winifred Black

SHOULD the married woman continue her vocation after she's married?

I heard a great discussion of that question at a woman's club the other day and I had all I could do to keep from rising up and saying it depends upon the woman, upon the vocation, and upon the marriage, for really, between ourselves, that's just exactly what it does do.

Some women have no vocation at all but to look pretty and be happily married.

The vocation which some women have chosen is sometimes one which no one can keep up and be a wife and mother.

You couldn't travel for fancy skirts, for instance, and catch the 3:23 to Evansville, Ind., or some other equally remote place every other morning or so and be much of a success as a home maker, could you?

And some marriages are a whole vocation in themselves. It takes the woman who makes a marriage of this kind every minute of her time to stay married.

A Successful Example

I know a woman like that. She was a kindergarten teacher, and a star in her profession.

She loved to teach and she always had more offers of positions than she could possibly fill.

She married a nice, agreeable, energetic young man with good manners and a deep and thrilling voice. He was getting a hundred dollars a month in some auditor's office somewhere.

My little woman gave up her teaching and went into the vocation of marriage heart and soul and brain and body. She has made a marvellous success at it.

She did her own housework, made her own dresses, trimmed her own hats and invited you into the daintiest little lunches in the world, which she served herself in the prettiest little boudoir cap and the most fetching little apron.

When you went home all you could remember about that luncheon was that it was well cooked and charmingly served and that you heard a great deal about "Joe" and what wonderful things "Joe" was doing.

"Joe" was using his personality and his delightful voice making speeches and being on reception committees in all kinds of conventions and things.

"Joe" was wearing very smart clothes. "Joe" had met so-and-so and so-and-so, the big men in such-and-such a line, and the wife with a vocation for marriage had entertained "So-and-so's" wife at one of her simple little luncheons and the "So-and-so's" were so pleased with "Joe" and his clever little wife that it looked as if "Joe" was going to have the offer of a fine position as secretary in chief to "So-and-so's" brother, the big railroad man.

"Joe" got this secretaryship, and many other things. He joined this club and that benevolent order and the other lodge. He was always going somewhere as a delegate to something.

The wife with the vocation for marriage always went along, and while "Joe" was making speeches Joe's wife was making friends—for "Joe."

She's given up doing her own housework now. Joe's made plenty of money so she can afford a maid and I suspect by the look of her frocks that she has a smart dressmaker do a good many of them.

She runs her own little electric nowadays and it's quite an affair to be invited to one of Mrs. Joe's smart little luncheons. "Joe" is going to run for Congress, they tell me. All the benevolent orders and the lodges and the clubs are strong for him and so are all the husbands of all the friends of the woman with the vocation for marriage. They do say that "Joe" is likely to be elected.

Simply a "Wife"

Mrs. Joe is studying French very hard. They say she expects to see "Joe" minister somewhere abroad one of these fine days, and, do you know, I shouldn't wonder the least little bit in the world if she did.

"Joe" thinks his wife is the sweetest, prettiest, simplest, most clinging little creature in the world. He can't endure clever women, he says, and doesn't see how a man can live six months with a woman who knows more than he does. When he says this sort of thing, which for some obscure, masculine reason he does rather often, Mrs. Joe opens her eyes very wide and looks as much like a baby as she possibly can and everybody at the party says "Quite so, quite so," or "To be sure," or "Isn't it the truth?" according to their various habits of mind and of expression.

Now wouldn't Mrs. Joe have been a goose to keep on teaching a kindergarten after she had found such a perfectly good profession for herself right at home with husband?

But, what if husband hadn't had the attractive personality, the rather easily influenced character and the pleasant voice? What if he had been a man who wouldn't be helped, or couldn't be—what then?

Would it have been the thing for his wife to drop her own clever, successful, independent personality and become just the poverty-driven wife of a poverty-driven clerk without the ability to rise to anything else?

I know another woman who is clever, very clever. She's a teacher, too—or was before she married the teacher of mathematics in her school.

She earned a bigger salary than he did when they married, and if she had gone on teaching she would undoubtedly be earning twice as big a salary now as she was then, for she is a woman of originality and force of character and she has a genius for teaching.

She would have been Mrs. So-and-so, the distinguished principal of the new Latin school, or something of that sort. People would have been inviting her to give lectures on this and talks on that; she would have had a dignified and pleasant position in a dignified and pleasant profession.

But she gave up her vocation when she married and now she's just Prof. So-and-so's rather discontented wife. She has three children to whom she is devoted, a pleasant enough home and a husband who is always telling what a charming girl little Miss So-and-so, the new primary teacher in his school, is.

I know another woman who gave up her vocation when she married. She was a musician of real ability and she had a life crowded full of music and friends and congenial occupations.

Now she lives in a hotel with her husband; it's part of his business to live that way; he doesn't like musical people, so she has to entertain the wives of her husband's business associates. She never was pretty, but she had, before she was married and when she was happy and lived in her own world happily, a kind of elusive charm that was full of fascination. She has quite lost all that charm now and is just a sad-eyed, somewhat querulous person with a pout, who lives with Mr. So-and-so because she happens to be married to him and he is good enough to pay her bills.

A Common Mistake

The husband of this woman who gave up her vocation when she married always says that he cannot endure the type of woman who makes her own way in the world.

I saw him giving the young woman who sells periodicals at the hotel a large bunch of violets the other day. He seemed, strangely enough, quite able to endure her, and she makes her own way through a world which sometimes seems to the observing eye to be somewhat devious.

A certain woman known from one end of this continent to the other for her great beauty, her great talent as a musician and her great business ability, told me once that people were always wondering why she made such unhappy marriages.

"I've been married four times," said the great beauty and the great singer. "Every man I've married fell in love with me when I was on the stage. I didn't want to stay on the stage; I wanted to marry and have a home and make things to eat in a chafing dish and wear smart little breakfast frocks and meet husband at the door with a smile when he come home, tired, from business.

"But that's where I made my mistake.

"My first husband married me because he fell in love with an actress—a beauty, and a public idol.

"Just as soon as I ceased to be these three things he ceased to love me.

"It was so with every one of them.

"Men marry a woman for one quality—and then fall out of love with her when, for the sake of marriage, she sacrifices the quality which won him.

"Marriage is a profession—my profession is the stage.

"After this I am going to stick to it, if I have to marry a dozen different men to do it."

Since the great beauty said these things to me (she has married again) I notice that she is still in her profession—of being a beauty. I should not like to advise her to give it up. Should you?

FORTY—THE MAGICAL AGE

Mme. Frances Alda

Singer Lauds Modern Women

By Madge Marvel

"THE woman of 40 seems to dominate the world," declared Mme. Aida of the Metropolitan Opera in a recent interview. By the way, she herself is barely thirty.

"It is absurd to think there was the time when 40 was considered the beginning of old age. Yet we have only to look back over the family album to see grandmother with a cap and an expression of resignation, looking as if she had earned her right to sit quietly by the fireside and knit or spin and let others run the universe. It is a distinct shock when we look up dates and find the nice old person was but [illegible] or [illegible] when the picture was taken.

"A woman of [illegible] whom I met at a recent dinner told me she had been so engrossed by all the dancing of the winter that she had neglected much of the study she mapped out for herself at the beginning of the season. 'Dancing and buying pretty things for my newest grandchild take all my time,' she said. Then, as I inquired for her daughter, whom I remembered as a most graceful and attractive girl, the mother replied, 'Poor child! She amuses me, for she takes life so seriously. I tell her she is very young, and when she gets to be [illegible] or so she will learn how to enjoy herself and not worry so much.'

"I think the woman of 40 is the most fascinating and wonderful being! She has all the beauty and charm of youth and the poise and sympathy and tolerance and understanding which comes with experience. She has learned how to live, and she is able to apply the knowledge to her benefit and the joy of all who know her. She has ceased to try to right all the wrongs of the world by fretting and trying to shoulder all responsibility, and she has evolved a very practical and helpful philosophy of life.

"If the age limit on a woman's charm and activity is further extended," continued Mme. Alda, "there will be no chance for the debutantes. Already at all the social affairs I have attended this season the most beautiful women are the young matrons or their mothers. They have a completed beauty, the beauty of understanding with humanity, a kindness toward the world at large, coupled with an enthusiasm and optimism which is simply irresistible.

"Isn't there really food for thought in the place the mature woman occupies in life today? It is such a reversal of the old order. The Woman of Forty is the Woman of the Hour."

Secrets of Health and Happiness

Power Radiates in the Warm Glow of a Smile

By Dr. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

Copyright, 1914, by L. K. Hirshberg.

DR. HIRSHBERG

ONE may no doubt smile and smile and still be a villain, but there is a sallow sickliness about most heathenish smiles which makes the character behind them plain.

Smiles really show more than passive innocence, as you may yourself see when a babe smiles. He smiles and sleeps with innocence to himself and a cheering contagion which is spread to others.

See a babe smile and stretch forth his dimpled elbows! He opens wide his globular eyes and his little jellied flesh flutters with winged joy, spreading radiance round about.

Eternal smiles do not betray the emptiness that bubbling brooks beseem. A hearty smile is like a good deed in a naughty world. Like the quality of mercy it blesseth him that has it and him that sees it.

The Animal Behaviorists—those subtle psychologists who deny that there is any psychology which cannot be seen by others in your actions or the actions of your cat and dog—say that if you can prove that a brute smiles, you must admit that he has a sense of humor. From this it follows, if the canine smiles in his sleep, he must dream. If he dreams, he thinks; ergo he reasons and has free will.

Such is utter nonsense, for infants smile before they co-ordinate their movements, yet no one can say they choose wisely or too well.

For smiles from reason flow,
To brute denied, and are of love and food

may have held 200 years ago, but not today.

The very word "smile" has a healthful value as can be proved by a Milky Way of specimen phrases, such as "In came Mrs. Fezziwig, one vast substantial smile," or "Heine Mencken hugged his broad Seidel of malt with a bouncing smile upon his rotund cheeks."

When bold Sir Plume had drawn Clarissa down,
Chloe stepped in, and killed him with a frown;
She smiled to see the doughty hero slain,
But at her smile the beau revived again.

Thus Pope exhibits the magic revivifying powers of a smile.

Can a maid be denied a boon with a smile on her lips and a tear in her eye? No more can she than with a reproof on her lips and a tear in her eye.

The Angel of Health hovers over the living structures of the smiling person. A smile is as invigorating to a muscle as it is to the liver.

Choler and spleen are no more at home in the neighborhood of a smile than an icicle is in the tropical sun. Sluggish fluids, inert digestion, the poisons of passion and the icy pallor of the bone-marrow are all stirred to manly vigor and rip-roaring robustness beneath the glow of the debonair smile.

On the whole, if you smile you not only tone up your muscles and vital tissues beyond the help of drugs and potions, but you out-radium radium in your electronic radiation of health to those you meet.

Buttermilk is nourishing but not fattening. It is a splendid thing for the stout person to take instead of fat-forming foods. Many persons have greatly reduced their weight by taking nothing but buttermilk for a week or more. Of course, when such a strict diet is followed it is not wise for the patient to undertake any strenuous physical or mental work.

• • •

The internal and external use of buttermilk is very good for the complexion. It bleaches and softens the skin.

Following is the recipe for a good massage cream which will increase the chest:

Cocoa butter	1 ounce
Lanolin	1 ounce
Sweet almond oil	1 ounce

Put in small bowl, set in hot water until melted. Beat together and cool. Each night, after laying hot cloths on the bust, rub it in by massaging gently and thoroughly in a circular direction for 15 minutes.

Deep breathing, too, will help wonderfully to increase the size of the chest.

Cupid, Incurable Gambler

By Tom Jackson

EUGENICS now is quite a fad, at least among a few. Still people marry in the way their parents used to do; still Cupid is the God of Love who does his work by stealth, and doesn't undertake to run the local board of health. He rules without a stethoscope and brings joy to the young. He doesn't say—"Before you wed, let me look at your tongue."

Love takes a chance with throbbing hearts with pretty good results, and never stops to count the beats or comment on the pulse. When man and maid make up their minds that it is time to mate, he buys a ring and gaily they face all their future fate. Though ancestor she might have had, who one time threw a fit, it doesn't worry him at all—no, not a little bit. Though his grandma once had the mumps and chronic rheumatis, the maid will take him for her own and he take her for his.

We've been a pretty husky race from way back times of yore, and we'll continue just the same without Eugenic lore. But even if we had the same, when two hearts beat as one, 'twould be the Parson, not the Doc, who got a little mon. Good health, of course, is ev'rything, which no one can gainsay, still loving hearts will take a chance in the old-fashioned way; and even should Eugenics try to butt in Cupid's game, it wouldn't do a bit of good—he'd tie knots just the same.

Sayings of Wise Men

Misers mistake gold for good, whereas it is only a means of obtaining it.—Rochefoucauld.

It is a sure evidence of the health and innocence of the beholder if the senses are alive to the beauty of nature.—Thoreau.

Men of God have always, from time to time, walked among men, and made their commission felt in the heart and soul of the commonest hearer.—Emerson.

A large library is apt to distract rather than to instruct the learner; it is much better to be confined to a few authors than to wander at random over many.—Seneca.

The reason why so few people are agreeable in conversation is that each is thinking more of what he is intending to say than of what others are saying; and we never listen when we are planning to speak.—Rochefoucauld.

Philosophers have done wisely when they have told us to cultivate our reason rather than our feelings, for reason reconciles us to the daily things of existence; our feelings teach us to yearn after the far, the difficult, the unseen.—Bulwer.

I have told you of the Spaniard who always put on his spectacles when about to eat cherries, that they might look bigger and more tempting. In like manner I make the most of my enjoyments; and though I do not cast my cares away, I pack them in as little compass as I can, and carry them as conveniently as I can for myself, and never let them annoy others.—Southey.

Great Novels in a Nutshell

"Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde"

Condensed from the STEVENSON novel by HELEN S. GRAY.

THIS story is a study of dual personality. A lawyer named Utterson and a friend of his were out for a walk one day in London and passed a queer building, which reminded the latter of an incident, which he related.

Once he was passing there at 3 in the morning and saw a child, sent for a doctor, and a man collide at the corner. The man trampled on her like a human juggernaut and went on. Her screams brought several people. Without having any nameable malformation, this man, Hyde, gave the impression of being deformed, and filled the beholders with loathing. They demanded damages. He went in and brought out from the building a check signed with the name of a highly esteemed man.

Utterson went home, took out of his safe the will of his old friend, Henry Jekyll. It provided that in case of his death or unexplained absence for more than three months, Edward Hyde should have all of his property.

One evening Dr. Jekyll's butler came to Utterson in great distress. He feared there had been foul play. For a week he had not seen his master. A voice not his had answered knocks at his laboratory. They broke down the door. There lay Hyde writhing in the throes of death, a suicide. No trace could be found of Dr. Jekyll. Among his papers were a will bequeathing his property to Utterson and a sealed packet for him.

Utterson then went home and read a letter from Dr. Lanyon, who had been an old friend of his and Dr. Jekyll's, delivered after Dr. Lanyon's death, and marked "Not to be opened till the death or disappearance of Dr. Henry Jekyll." In it Dr. Lanyon said that he had once received a letter from him, asking him to get a certain drawer and its contents in his laboratory and deliver it to the messenger to be sent for it at midnight. He was convinced his friend was crazy, but complied. A man revolting in appearance came for it, mixed some of the drugs it contained, and drank the potion. It threw him into a paroxysm. He seemed to swell and his features to alter. He was then recognized as Dr. Jekyll. Then he confessed all of his experiences with his dual personality.

Utterson next read the letter to him found among Dr. Jekyll's papers. In it Dr. Jekyll said in his youth he had been struck by how much evil there was in him and how much good, and had dwelt on the thought of separating them. In his medical studies he had found some drugs that would do that. Everywhere he aroused feelings of repugnance, because Edward Hyde was all evil, whereas in others good and evil are commingled. He rented a house for Hyde's use, and, lest he should ever be unable to change back to Dr. Jekyll, drew a will in Hyde's Favor.

For two months he did not yield to temptation. Then the evil in him broke loose and he murdered Danvers Carew. One day as he sat on a park bench a paroxysm came over him and he was Hyde. If he should go to his home to get his drugs he would be arrested. So he wrote to Dr. Lanyon. The next day he became Hyde again without the use of drugs. Only under their immediate stimulation was he now able to be Dr. Jekyll. At any hour he was liable to be seized with a convulsion, especially if he slept or dozed.

His terror of the gallows drove him continually to return to the subordinate station of a part instead of a person. His supply of drugs was now getting low. He tried to get more of the same quality, but could not. He was writing his confession under the influence of the last of the old powders. He felt the end was near.

Daddy's Good Night Story—

By GEORGE HENRY SMITH

OH, MOTHER! Look! Look! The ground is covered with ice cream!" shouted Charlie Chick.

"That is not ice cream," said his mother; "that is snow."

"What makes snow?" asked Charlie, as he snuggled under his mother's wing.

"Snow is frozen rain," replied Mrs. Cackle. "The air becomes so cold that the rain drops freeze and drop like little cotton balls."

Charlie peeked out the window again and watched the snow flakes fall in the air. Then he walked to the crack in the door, first peeking to see if his mother was watching him. He saw that her eyes were closed. He hopped right out in the snow, but he did not stay long.

"Ouch! Ouch!" he shouted, as he came back.

His mother jumped up quickly and ran to the door.

"Oh! Mother, my feet are burning up!" whined Charlie.

"No, my dear, they are cold, not hot. The snow makes your feet tingle."

Charlie crawled under his mother's wing and lay very still. He felt quite warm, but his feet were cold.

He pushed his head out and said:

"Mother, my feet are cold now. I must have stepped on a frozen rain drop. Does the snow come from as far as the stars?"

"No, my dear, the rain and snow come from the clouds only a few miles up, while the nearest star would take [illegible] million years to reach, going as fast as a train could go," said Mrs. Cackle.

"I know how fast the train goes, Mother, but perhaps some day I will fly up and sit on a cloud."

"You are very ambitious," said Mrs. Cackle, as she closed her eyes.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS

THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at the office of any Local Agent of Dominion Lands (not sub-agent), on certain conditions.

Duties.—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required in every case, except when residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside of his homestead. Price $3 per acre. Duties.—Six months residence in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and 50 acres extra cultivation. The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land after report by Homestead Inspector on application for patent.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price, $3 per acre. Duties.—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

Queer Products Evolved and Made in the Prison Cell

The story recently circulated concerning the forged banknotes alleged to have been made by certain inmates of the great convict prison at Peterhead, Scotland, is not by any means unbelievable by those who know something of what goes on behind the scenes in other similar institutions in England and elsewhere.

These particular notes—although such good imitations of the genuine article that two or three of them were actually passed to unsuspecting tradesmen—seem to have been more or less in the nature of curios, such as are frequently made by convicts in their leisure hours, with, of course, the connivance of their warders, who afterwards dispose of them outside the prison, sharing the proceeds with their charges. Quite a trade is done in this way in little knick-knacks, such as, for example, carved stone tobacco boxes, wooden brackets, watch and key guards made from leather laces, photograph frames, and other similar articles beautifully fashioned and finished in iron and copper.

But other less harmless industries are also practised in prisons by prisoners. It is not so very long ago, for instance, since a convict in one of the largest establishments of the kind was detected in the act of making counterfeit money in his cell. He was a professional counterfeiter, and while serving his term in gaol he had been employed as a plumber. This gave him the opportunity to get possession of solder, lead, silver sand, acid, and other materials used by coiners. Some women convicts are very clever at making things out of hair, which they pluck from their own heads. There is one very elaborate specimen of this kind of work in the famous Black Museum at Scotland Yard. It is a pincushion containing, it is alleged, over thirty thousand separate hairs, and the female convict who made it occupied herself for several years upon the job, using not only her own hair, but begging contributions from the other women prisoners as opportunity arose. Eventually she died in prison, and bequeathed this, her only belonging to the gaol chaplain, who, in turn, presented it to the museum.

Corean Justice

The Corean judge dispenses justice in the open, and by etiquette only the judge can sit; everyone else must stand, excepting the prisoner and his friends, who are forced to remain in a humble kneeling position with bowed heads. Until quite recently these trials were always very one-sided and shockingly unjust. When a man was brought to a judge, it was taken for granted he was guilty, and if he did not confess he was tortured and made to do so. Witnesses, too, were openly bribed. In fact, giving evidence for or against an accused person meant a living to a portion of the community, and these witnesses naturally favored those who paid best. Punishment varied. If the prisons were too full, and the condemned could not pay a fine, they were often given a chance to escape, or disappeared by some means. Though these are things of the past, Corean judges, like those of China, possess a poor idea of the sense of justice.—Wide World Magazine.

Lost Charter Claimed

Criccieth became famous through Mr. Lloyd George's connection with the place and at the Criccieth Council meeting Mr. Rowland Hughes moved that the council should take steps towards restoring to Criccieth its charter of incorporation and creating a municipal corporation. He said that Criccieth was now of world-wide reputation, and it was high time to restore to it its lost charter. The resolution was adopted.

Railway Engines Lost

Some amusement was occasioned by the discovery in the stocktaking at the South-Eastern and Chatham Railway Works at Asford that two railway engines were missing.

Inquiries were made up and down the main lines, but no trace of their whereabouts could be found. One of the engines was of up-to-date pattern.

A local skit runs: "Passengers who sometimes lose the train will be interested to learn that the railway company have lost the engines."

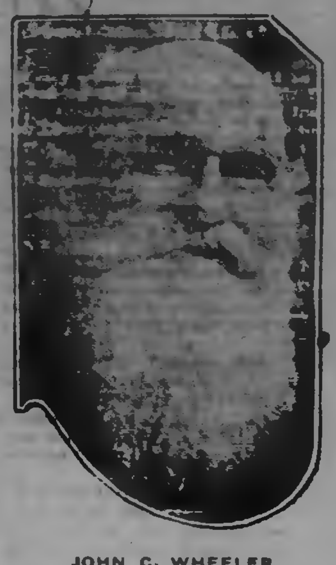
DEPARTED SPIRIT RE-ENTERED BODY

Old Man's Story of Wonderful Experience—Lived For Day Apart From Human Shell

John C. Wheeler is a fine old man living at Ivanrest, a village a few miles from Grand Rapids, Michigan. As he stands up in meeting, with white hair and patriarchal beard, and tells of the most remarkable experience of his life, he makes an impressive figure.



JOHN C. WHEELER

"I believe I had the most wonderful experience of any human being in the world to-day," he told an interviewer. "I have lived apart from my body! I have been dead! And now I am alive—very much alive!"

Wheeler is certainly very much alive. Over 70 years of age, he stands with a spine as straight and unbendable as a hickory pole. His eye is clear and his face the picture of health."

"I was swimming in a lake when suddenly I went down. It was several minutes before my companions missed me. When they secured my body a doctor pronounced me dead. I was taken to my boarding place and another doctor brought from a distance also pronounced me dead after an examination. Then they laid me out covering me with a sheet.

"The next day a girl who was passing through the room where I lay noticed a movement of the cloth over my face and gave the alarm. They came to me, chafed my hands and body and I was soon able to sit up. It was not the fact that I regained consciousness after so long a time that is remarkable, but it was the fact that, while I was apparently dead, I never was so much alive in my life. But I was apart distinctly from my body. I could tell the persons around me everything that had happened when I was helpless to return to life.

"During those hours I discovered many things. Much was revealed to me that would only sound preposterous to relate. But the one thing I do remember clearly was the sensation of dying. Being dead is delightful, of that I am sure. After I had been engulfed in the waters I seemed to float away from my body and I soared away above the waters of the lake. I looked down and could see my body. I watched the rescuers find it and place it on the bank. Then I floated back to it and became a part of it.

"In that fleeting moment between the conscious and the unconscious state, the thought of returning to life was repugnant and I knew that I didn't want to live. But I was forced to and I returned.

"Up to the time of that experience I had been an agnostic, disbelieving in a hereafter or a spiritual state of existence, but my whole point of view of life was changed. I never since have had a shade of doubt in regard to a spiritual state of existence. A man is double and the body is the lesser part of him."

Land For Nothing

The Llanfyllin Rural Council discussed the housing problem as it affected Llanfair Caereinion and Llangynog. The chairman moved that Lord Powis be asked to give the land to the council as an inducement to build houses. Mr. Edward Jones: "You are asking for charity." The Chairman: "Yes. If he makes no use of it himself. I consider it's a dog-in-the-manger policy." The motion was carried, a member remarking: "I think we are starting very safe on the begging line."

Coroner Warns a Jury

The Manchester coroner warned a jury at Ashton-under-Lyne that they should return in accordance with the medical evidence, and not have regard to the Workmen's Compensation Act. The inquest was on John Williamson, aged fifty-six, a packer, who, it was stated, had strained himself while lifting a bale of cotton. Medical evidence showed that the man had died from natural causes and that death was not in any way due to the alleged strain.

The coroner said it did not matter one brass farthing what the jury's conclusions were with respect to any question under the Workmen's Compensation Act. If the relatives wished to take legal proceedings under the Workmen's Compensation Act that was a matter to be dealt with elsewhere.

The jury returned a verdict of "Death from natural causes."

DUCKING A SCOLD

A Custom Quite Popular at One Time In This Country.

WOMEN ALWAYS THE VICTIMS.

In Colonial Days Ducking Stools Were Common in Maryland. In Virginia the Penalty Was Often Inflicted, and Georgia Sinned as Late as 1819.

Nowadays if a woman forms the habits of talking too loud and too long or insists upon saying unpleasant things in wrong places and at wrong seasons there are several things which may happen to her. If she is a person of some social standing her husband may get a divorce, or if she belongs in one of the lower strata he may leave her without that little formality. If she makes life too unbearable for the neighbors she may possibly be arrested and fined. If she lives in England and interrupts the proceedings of parliament, calls names, chases dignitaries to cover whenever they show themselves in public and knocks off policemen's helmets she is called a suffragette and sometimes imprisoned. But even the most "obstinately opprobrious and virulent woman," to quote the stately Addison, may be confident that she will escape the punishment meted out to her sister of old. Whatever happens, she won't be sentenced to the ducking stool. In many ways modern life is tame and lacking in dramatic incident for a self assertive lady, and even the English suffragettes complain that they are not taken seriously enough.

No such claim could have been made in the past, say between the fifteenth and eighteenth centuries, when far more rigid views prevailed on the subject of feminine self repression. In those days magistrates were unanimous in the conviction that "meekness is ye chefest orniment for a woman," and it was held a crime to speak "discornfully" of those in authority, civil or ecclesiastical. A woman must not even indulge in too great freedom of speech in the privacy of her own home and neighborhood. Sometimes she did, and then she was attended to in a simple yet spectacular manner.

She was bound securely to a stout chair firmly fixed to the end of a long beam, arranged to work up and down on the principle of the seesaw, on the edge of a river or pond. On the bank at the other end a man worked the contrivance by means of a strong chain, and she was given a ducking, which lasted until justice was satisfied or reform was promised, the populace of course gathering in large numbers to assist at the function.

In England the practice was so general that each town had its ducking pond conveniently located where petty offenders of various kinds were disciplined. The pond for the western part of London was what is now a portion of Trafalgar square, Charing Cross. Many of the old ducking stools are still in existence as curiosities. In the days of their activity they were kept in the church porches, where they doubtless pointed a moral as to the haughty spirit which goeth before a fall.

The first colonists brought the institution to this country, although it never flourished in New England. In fact, there are no authentic records of the actual use of the ducking stool in these colonies, although a number of women were sentenced to be so punished. They had, however, other methods of treatment for ladies of a shrewish disposition, one of these being the wearing of a cleft stick upon the tongue.

In the central and southern colonies the custom was quite popular. In the seventeenth century ducking stools were in every county in Maryland, and in 1775 one was placed at the confluence of the Ohio and Monongahela rivers. In Virginia the penalty was often employed, and in 1634 a Thomas Hartly of that colony wrote, it is said, to Governor Endicott of Massachusetts, giving a detailed account of a ducking administered to "one Betsey, wife of John Tucker, who by violence of her tongue had made his home and ye neighborhood uncomfortable." After describing the machine he adds: "Ye rope was slackened by ye officer, and ye woman was allowed to go down under ye water for ye space of half a minute. Betsey had a stout stomach and would not yield until she had allowed herself to be ducked five severall times." After she promised to "sin no more" Betsey was untied and allowed to "walk home in her wetted clothes, a hopefully penitent woman."

The ducking stool prevailed longer in America than in England. In the old country it does not seem to have been used later than 1809, but in Georgia women were ducked for scolding as late as 1819. It is interesting to note that in 1824 a woman in Philadelphia was sentenced to be ducked, but the decree was not carried out, as it was "deemed obsolete and contrary to the spirit of the times." A writer on colonial customs states that one of the last indictments for ducking in this country was that of Mrs. Anne Royall in Washington, a lobbyist, who "became so abusive to congressmen that she was indicted as a common scold before Judge William Cranch and was sentenced by him to be ducked in the Potomac. She was, however, not subjected to the ducking indignity, but was released with a fine."—Bellman.

His Way of Getting Even.

"You know that fellow, Jim McGroarty, the lad that's always comin' up an' thumpin' ye on th' chest and yellin' 'How are ye?'"

"I know him."

"I'll bet he's smashed twinty cigars for me—some o' thim clear Havannys—but I'll get even with him now."

"How will ye do it?"

"I'll tell ye. Jim always hits me over the vest pocket where I carry me cigars. He'll hit me there just once more. There's no cigar in me vest pocket this mornin'. Instead of it there's a stick of dynamite, d'ye mind?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Matter of Business.

"I cannot understand, sir, why you permit your daughter to sue me for breach of promise. You remember that you were bitterly opposed to our engagement because I wasn't good enough for her and would disgrace the family."

"Young man, that was sentiment; this is business."

Afflictions.

Before an affliction is digested consolation comes too soon, and after it is digested it comes too late, but there is a mark between these two as fine almost as a hair for a comforter to take aim at.—Sterne.

Dear Talk.

"Talk is cheap," quoted the wise guy.

"Not always," replied the simple mug. "Sometimes it costs a man his reputation."—Philadelphia Record.

The average person wastes lots of time telling other people things they do not care to hear.

STORY OF A LOAN.

A Case Where the Statute of Limitations Was Not Considered.

A well known Kansas banker told a story the other day about the statute of limitations. There is a simile in it, plus some good philosophy.

One day an old southerner walked into this banker's office. The southerner was a typical gentleman of the old school, suave, courteous to the point of punctiliousness and honorable to a degree of martyrdom.

"What can I do for you?" asked the banker.

"Well," replied the southerner, "about thirty-five years ago I loaned a man down south some money—not a very big sum. I told him that whenever I should need it I would let him know and he could pay me the money. I need some money now, so I shall let him know, and I would like to have you transact the business for me."

"My good friend," replied the banker, "you have no claim on that money. You can't hold that man to that loan. You say it has been thirty-five years since you loaned it to him? The statute of limitations has run against that loan years and years ago."

"Sir," replied the southerner, "the man to whom I loaned that money is a gentleman. The statute of limitations never runs against a gentleman."

So the banker sent for the money, and within a reasonable time thereafter the money came. There was a courtly gentleman at the other end of the transaction also. — Kansas City Journal.

Marks of Social Distinction.

"The Hugginses," said Sherlock Holmes, "are very popular with the wealthy classes."

"How do you know?" I queried, confident of a brilliant answer.

"Because there are so many grease spots on the pavement in front of their house."

"I don't see the point," said I.

"You auto," said Sherlock.—Newark News.

A PRETTY DEVELOPMENT OF THE VEST THE SMART FEATURE OF SO MANY GOWNS

There is scarcely a frock nowadays constructed entirely of one material. Contrast is the thing desired, and there are numberless ways of bringing it about. The gown of figured or brocaded material usually has its accessories of plain faced fabrics and vice versa. The vest offers one of the most attractive ways of introducing a becoming color. A vest of Persian coloring goes far to make the dress of dark serge or silk becoming.

Nearly as popular as velvet are the pile fabrics, peau de peche, duvetyn, etc. They are rich and soft in coloring and lend themselves beautifully to the drapings of the moment.

A smart afternoon model developed in sapphire blue peau de peche is illustrated in 8060. The vest is of tapestry showing a predominance of old gold in the figure. The lace undersleeve shows a pattern worked out in metal threads which is one of the new details of the moment. The frock closes in front, and there is an effective bit of draping on the skirt in back.

To make this model in size 36 it requires 3½ yards of 54 inch material with ¾ yard of brocaded material for the vest.

A plain tailored looking little frock of water proof home-spun is a very practical thing to have, especially if one frequents winter house parties and is fond of long tramps in all kinds of weather. A very smart model fashioned of this material is shown in 8020-7994.

This may be copied in size 36 with 2½ yards of 36 inch material for the blouse (8020) and 2⅝ yards for the skirt (7994).

No. 8060—sizes 34 to 42.
No. 8020—sizes 32 to 42.
No. 7994—sizes 22 to 30.

THE SERGE FROCK POSSESSES A CERTAIN SMARTNESS FOR THE HIGH SCHOOL GIRL

Serge is not especially new, but it continues to be for almost all informal occasions one of the smartest and most favored of fabrics both in junior and grown-up modes.

One of the smart shops displayed the other day several imported models of blue serge for the girl of sixteen that were very alluring. One was trimmed with tiny red buttons and the pointed ends of the sash were braided in red silk soutache; another was trimmed with bright green. Both were simple, but unusually attractive.

The tiny tot is not forgotten by any means in the scheme of things this season. The same shop showed several small models that were equally fascinating. On one, the Russian blouse was of a dark red duvetyn trimmed with blue silk braid, and the kilted skirt was of dark blue serge; another was of the blue serge, with collar, cuffs and a low belt of plaid silk.

In No. 7888, which is a design for a girl from 16 to 18, the effectiveness of bright silks as a relief to blue serge is well brought out. The sash is one of those new woven silk sashes, and the collar is of flowered silk ratine. Buttons and loops are red.

It requires 4¼ yards of 36 inch material with ⅜ yard of silk to make this frock in size 16.

A girl's coat of serge trimmed with plaid is shown in No. 8032. It may be copied in size 6 with 2 yards of 42 inch material and 1⅝ yards of silk for trimming.

No. 7888—sizes 14 to 18.
No. 8032—sizes 2 to 10.
Each pattern 15 cents.

To obtain either pattern illustrated fill out this coupon and enclose 15 cents in stamps or coin. Be sure to state number of pattern and size, measuring over the fullest part of the bust. Address Pattern Department, care of this paper.

Weak, Tired Folks Given New Vigor

STRENGTH RETURNS, HEALTH RENEWED, VITALITY OF YOUTH RE-CREATED

Exhaustion and Bodily Tiredness Every Day Being Turned into Vigor and Ambition by Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

From Chebeque Pt., N. S., comes the following from Mrs. H. A. Reynolds- "A year ago my health began to fail, I lost appetite, became nervous and sleepless. My weight ran down, I became thin, hollow-cheeked, and had black rings under my eyes. I really felt as if the charm of life had left me and when springtime arrived I was in the 'blues.' I read of Dr. Hamilton's Pills and got five boxes at once.

"Within a month my apetite and color were good. I gained strength and felt like a new woman. New life and vigor returned, and my friends scarcely knew me. A medicine that will do this should be in every home."

Good health means much to you. Success and happiness depend upon it. The maintenance and source of health is found in Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box, or five boxes for $1.00, at all druggists and storekeepers, or by mail from the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Work on City Buildings.

The work of remodelling the premises west of the City Buildings on Simcoe street, has been commenced by Mr. Jas. Graham. The premises will be occupied by the Peterborough Utilities Commissioners.

An Assault Case Dismissed.

Two employes of a local factory were respectively defended and complainant in the police court yesterday morning over an assault case. A blood-stained shirt worn by one was "Exhibit A" and a scratched face of the other was "Exhibit B." The Cadi dismissed the case.

J. R. Bell Soon to Move.

Mr. J. R. Bell expects to soon enter his new premises on Hunter St., now undergoing repairs. The hot water system is now in successful operation throughout the building and plastering will be begun this week. Mr. Epsgrave, the contractor, has pushed the work on rapidly.

Gasoline Boat Sold.

Yesterday, Mr. Thomas Palmer, of this city sold his well known gasoline launch "Nifty" to Mr. Hugh Coughlin of Katchecoma Lake. The price, it is understood was $150 which was for the hull alone. This is the second launch Mr. Palmer has sold to residents of that district within a year.

Speech Before Graduate Nurses.

The regular monthly meeting of the Peterborough Branch of Graduate Nurses, held in the Public Library, was addressed by Dr. Moir. The subject was "Infectious Diseases in Private Nursing." A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the speaker. Miss Bertha M. Mowry presided. The next meeting will be addressed by Dr. Middleton on "Oral Hygiene."

Local Liquor Licenses

The Ontario Government report on Liquor License Acts for 1913 is just to hand. This shows that in West Peterborough there are 12 tavern, 3 shop and one club licenses. The revenue was $7,638, of which the city got $3,250. In East Peterborough, there were two licenses, in Burleigh and Anstruther, which paid $240, all of which went to the Government. This year there is only one license in East Peterborough, that at Julian's Landing.

Fainted in Belleville Court.

Belleville Ontario: A sad affair occurred yesterday after the police court. A man not used to drinking had two glasses of whiskey that affected him so that he went home and began to cause trouble striking his son with a pitcher, shoving his fist through two glass lights in a cupboard, and brandishing a hatchet with which he smashed the bottom of a chair. Fortunately he was caught. Late in the afternoon he became hysterical and took a fainting spell. This morning he expressed regret and throwing up his hands he fell backwards out of the box on the floor in a faint.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

Former Local Man's Death.

The death is announced at Stratford, of Mr. Jas. Pringle, who many years ago was in the grain and lumbering business in Peterborough. He was 83 years of age. Coming to Canada from Scotland, Mr. Pringle settled in Cold Springs and entered the grain business with his brother-in-law. Later Mr. Pringle came to Peterborough and added lumber buying to his business interests. In 1858 Mr. Pringle removed from Peterborough to Seaforth, remaining in that town until 1880, when he went to Chicago.

Mrs. Andrew Young.

The death of Alice Darling, relict of the late Andrew Young, occurred yesterday morning, at her late residence, on the fourth concession of Smith. The late Mrs. Young was born in Smith, eighty-two years ago. Six children are left to mourn the loss of a loving mother. There are Messrs. Thomas and J. D. Young, of Manitoba; Mrs. Jas. Montgomery, Dundalk; Mrs. John Archer, Smith and Misses Bessie and Mary and James Young, who reside on the homestead.

The funeral will take place to-morrow at 1.30 from the late residence to the Little Lake cemetery.

RINGING IN EARS DEAFNESS INSTANTLY RELIEVED BY THE DR MARSHALL'S CATARRH SNUFF 25 [illegible]

The report for 1912 of the Ontario Minister of Public Works shows that the Peterborough Radial Railway that year had 6.03 miles of line in operation.

It is getting to the time when the Peterborough man who owns a garden is taking interest in seed and plant catalogues.

Mr. A. T. Fontaine, the Hunter street liveryman, has secured one of the best outfits for private driving in the city. The outfit in question includes a handsome bay mare, a new set of harness that is possibly the finest in the city and the last word in cutters.

First Annual Report OF STANDARD RELIANCE MORTGAGE CORPORATION.

The Standard Reliance Mortgage Corporation of Toronto held its annual meeting of shareholders on Monday, March 2, 1914, in the offices of the Company at 84-88 King Street East, Toronto. The following report was submitted and approved:—

Your Directors have much pleasure in submitting herewith the first Annual Report and Statement for the past year accompanied by the Balance Sheet to December 31st, 1913, showing the result of the Company's operations.

The Directors are pleased to submit the First Annual Report and Balance Sheet of the Corporation for the period ending 31st of December, 1913.

The Order-in-Council approving of the merger of the Standard Loan Company and the Reliance Loan and Savings Company of Ontario was passed on the 21st day of April last, and the actual merging took place on the first day of May.

It will be noted that after paying all fixed charges and expenses, including outlays consequent upon the amalgamation, the balance available for distribution has been sufficient to allow of payment of the usual dividends to the Shareholders, and an addition of $100,000 to the Reserve Fund, which now stands at $400,000.

We are pleased to be able to report a substantial increase in the Debentures placed by the Company, and also in the Savings Accounts. By reason of this our total Assets now stand at over $5,100,000, or an increase of over $300,000 since the merger, and the net earnings of the Corporation are greater by over $30,000 than the combined net earnings of the two Companies prior to the amalgamation.

The shares held by the Corporation in the Dovercourt Land, Building and Savings Company, Limited, represent assets consisting of real estate having an actual value largely in excess of the par value at which the shares are now standing on the books.

To fill a vacancy in the Directorate since the amalgamation, Dr. E. Jessop, of St. Catharines, a large and influential shareholder in the Company, was elected.

Since the last Annual Meeting of the Standard Loan Company, now an integral part of the amalgamation, the death of one of the most distinguished Canadians, Lord Strathcona, has taken place. We feel sure that all our shareholders deplore the great loss which the Dominion of Canada has sustained by the passing of one of the most notable figures in the history of our country. He was, at the time of his death, a Director of this Corporation.

We take great pleasure in bearing testimony to the efficiency displayed by the officials and agents of the Corporation in performing their respective duties.

Respectfully submitted on behalf of the Board.

(Signed) N. H. STEVENS,
President.

SOME IMPORTANT FACTS ABOUT THE SILVER BLACK FOX INDUSTRY

The first Island ranch was started with two pairs of Anticosti Silvers, bought from a trapper for experimental purposes solely, and same proved so successful that the fox industry started to be developed.

In the year 1910 a pair of breeders could be bought for $4,000.00, in 1911 the price went up to $6,000 a pair, during 1912 a pair at $10,000 was considered high but not unusual, and at the time of writing (January 20th, 1914), live breeders can bring any price from $15,000 to $35,000, according to fecundity, and options on the unborn of next year are selling for $12,000 a pair.

About $10,000,000 is said to be invested in the fox industry on Prince Edward Island, showing a gain of over $3,000,000 inside a year.

Official returns for the present year show that the 277 fox ranches on the island contain 899 silver breeding foxes, (441 males and 458 females.) The total number of silver offsprings for 1913 was 703, and the average assessed value was $4,892.53 per fox.

The total valuation of the young silver black foxes for the current year is $3,349,449. The total number of silver foxes in the ranches for 1913 is 1602.

Pelts from ranch-bred Prince Edward Island silver black foxes have sold at the London auction sales as high as $2,628.00.

ASSETS OF THE COMPANY

The Company have TEN PAIRS of high-grade PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND Silver Black Foxes, EIGHT PAIRS are now on the ranch and two pairs of breeders under option are all eligible for registration under the select class "A" of the FOX BREEDERS' ASSOCIATION. These Foxes have been selected with special regard to parentage, and consist of the following well known strains:

Gordon, Dalton, Tuplin, Oulton, Raynor, and Champion. These names are conspicuously prominent in the Fox Industry ranches which, in 1913, paid from 45 p.c. to 900 p.c.

FUTURE POLICY

The Company expects to earn large profits from the sale of these rare black and silver foxes for breeding purposes, while each year a per centage of the production will be retained, placing the Company in a position to pay large dividends from the sale of furs alone. The object of this policy is to place the fur farming industry on a substantial commercial basis.

THE COMPANY'S RANCH

The Company owns outright a fine 211 acre farm with complete farm buildings—one of the most up-to-date ranches on the Island. It has an experienced and highly skilled keeper whose services have largely contributed to the present satisfactory condition of the business.

ONLY ONE CLASS OF STOCK

There is only one class of stock fully paid and non-assessable. Every shareholder participates pro rata in all dividends paid by the Company, and the latter has no authority to issue either Preferred Stock or Bonds.

From the above it will surely be seen that the R. J. McNEILL BLACK AND SILVER FOX COMPANY, LIMITED, are engaged in business at a most opportune time and under most favorable circumstances. Take into serious consideration that our company is established and that we have the FOXES AND RANCH, and not prospective. YOU ARE ENTITLED TO SEPTEMBER, 1914, DIVIDENDS: you don't have to wait for your dividends until 1915. In 1915 another dividend will be awaiting you.

REMEMBER the average cash dividend of the above companies is 175 per cent, and there is absolutely no excuse why we cannot repeat the same.

We offered for public subscription the remaining allotment of $70,000. $30,000 has already been subscribed. $40,000 remains to be sold.

NOTICE.—Should the shares of stock not be allotted, the money paid by you will be refunded by return mail.

SOME PRESS COMMENTS

"Widows" Fox Company Declares a 900 Per Cent. Dividend.

Clerks in the employ of Sinclair & Stewart, a big dry goods house at Summerside, formed a silver fox company in 1910. This Company is popularly referred to as the "Widows" Fox Company, as nearly all the stockholders are women, a dividend of 900 per cent. was their reward.

Three sisters of Alberton, P.E.I., who were employed in the States, sent their spare earnings home two years ago to be invested in the fur farming business and their profits have averaged $15,000 yearly since.

A bookkeeper in the employ of Mr. Fred L. Rogers, the Governor's son, of Alberton, invested $800, three years ago, and is now worth $45,000 directly from this source.

The Rosemount Live Stock Co., Limited, of Alberton, P. W. Turner, treasurer, has paid a dividend of 1000 per cent. this year.

Mr. Frank Hall, clerk at Holman's Limited, received $25,000 from an investment of $500 made in this business three years ago.

Seven clerks and managers in Summerside pooled $500 each in 1910 and purchased a pair of silver foxes for $3,500. The seller, feeling that he had driven a splendid bargain, cared for the pair a year. The first litter consisted seven pups. The seven owners have received $36,000 each dividends since and the pair bought for $3,500 could be sold for $35,000 to-day. PETERBOROUGH RIDINGS WILL REMAIN, TORONTO TO HAVE 7 SEATS

Redistribution Committee Will Get Pretty Well on Next Week

Special to The Times.

Ottawa, March 6.—It is is generally understood that the Peterborough and adjoining ridings will not be altered to any extent. Toronto, on account of the great growth in population, will have seven seats and York County three in the next Parliament. The exact boundaries of the seven Toronto seats have not yet been determinedl but will be settled by the Redistribution Committee when it meets again next week. The York seats will follow the boundaries of the present local seats, there being thus East, West and South York. The counties in Western Ontario which will lose a member each are, Huron, Grey and Middlesex. In Huron there will be a North and South Riding, and the same division will take place in Grey, where the Centre Riding, now represented by Speaker Sproule, will disappear. In Middlesex there will probably be an East and a West Riding, in addition to the London city seat. A portion of East London, which was annexed to the city a year ago will continue in the East Riding.

WARM BRITISH PRAISE FOR WILSON'S PANAMA ADDRESS

Statemanlike and Generous Policy, and an Example of Old World Nations---Reciprocal Act Would Be an Exhibit at San Francisco

London, Mar. 6.—Laudatory comments of President Wilson's message delivered to Congress yesterday are published in most of the newspapers of this country to-day.

The Government organ, the Westminster Gazette, pays the highest compliments to President Wilson for his attitude in regard to the question of Panama Canal tolls. It says·

"It is not always convenient to hail a statesman of another country as a 'just judge' when he advocates your cause against a section of his own countrymen. We cannot refrain, however, from expressing respectful admiration of the courage and manliness with which President Wilson handles the Panama tolls question.

Straight Dealing.

"The President of the United States sets an example of straight dealing, which may be recommended to diplomats of the old world. Other statesmen in other countries are capable of doing the thing he has done, but most of them would fetch about for diplomatic phrases or make-believe arguments to save the face of their Government, or to conceal from their own public that they are proposing a change of policy.

"It is a great example, and if the people of the United States respond to it as we feel confident they will do, they will have done much more than adjust the difference between them and us with regard to the Hay-Pauncefote treaty. They will have set a precedent of profound importance to the whole world."

Other Delicate Questions.

Referring to President Wilson's mention of other matters of even greater delicacy, the Westminster Gazette says: "We understand the allusion and think it right to say at once that Mr. Wilson's handling of this question greatly facilitates quiet consideration of the other and more delicate questions here alluded to."

On the subject of William S. Benton the British ranchman killed at Juarez, the same newspaper says:

"When we are dealing with a man of such manifest uprightness and goodwill as President Wilson, we shall certainly not expect our Government to force those issues in a choplogical and contentious spirit. The only material point for us to consider is whether if the United States was non-existent in this affair we could do anything better for ourselves than it is endeavoring to do for us. To that question there is none but a negative answer."

The article concludes:

"We greatly deprecate all efforts in this country to force the United States into an adventurous policy out of keeping with President Wilson's ideas."

LOCAL OPTION FOR ULSTER NOT AT ALL A POPULAR MOVE

Home Rule Within Home Rule for Northern Province is Abandoned

London, March 6.—It is understood that at the meeting of the British Cabinet on Wednesday last the plan, previously favored by Premier Asquith and Sir Edward Grey, the Foreign Secretary under which the Province of Ulster was to be offered a sort of Home Rule within Home Rule, was abandoned in favor of a temporary scheme of local option. It is now proposed, according to reports, from Government circles to allow any British county by a plebiscite to vote itself out of the operation of the Home Rule bill for a period of three years.

Redmond Reluctant to Give In.

The Irish Nationalists were reluctant to acquiesce in the local option plan and they have only accepted it subject to an endorsement by their convention which will be summoned to meet at Dublin after Premier Asquith has made his announcement in the House of Commons on Monday when the bill comes up for second reading.

This power of a plebiscite by the Irish counties will come into operation immediately after the bill is passed and before the Dublin Parliament actually begins its work.

FOR ROUGH WRINKLED, FRECKLED, PIMPLED SKIN

As March winds, flying dust and dirt, are apt to injure any complexion this information will be of special value right now. If you have any cutaneous blemish, don't use paint, powder or anything else to cover it up. Too often this only emphasizes the defect. Besides, it's much easier to remove the disfigurement with ordinary mercolized wax. Applied nightly, the wax will gradually remove freckles, pimples, moth patches, sallowness, red or yellow blotches or any surface eruption. The affected cuticle is absorbed a little each day, until the clear, soft, youthful and beautiful skin beneath is brought wholly to view. Ask the druggist for one ounce of mercolized wax and use this like you use cold cream. Remove in morning with soap and water. Many who have tried this simple, harmless treatment report astonishing results.

If bothered with wrinkles or furrows, a wash lotion made by dissolving 1 oz. powdered saxolite in ½ pt. witch hazel will prove wonderfully effective.

AUDIT OF THE COUNTY

Mr. W. H. Casement of Lakefield, and Mr. Jas. Calder, ex-village clerk of Norwood, County Auditors, finished last night their auditing of County Treasurer Ed. Elliott's books. The result of their audit demonstrated that Mr. Elliott was one cent wrong in his accounts. The county owes him that sum. It is possible that the county may issue a series of 4½ per cent debentures to meet this shortage.

REDISTRIBUTION NOW ASSURED BOTH POLITICAL PARTIES AGREED

Proposed Rearrangement is Said to be Satisfactory to All Concerned

Ottawa, Mar. 6.—So far the Government members of the Redistribution Committee have submitted maps of the four Western Provinces with proposals for the rearrangement caused by addition of new constituencies.

It is understood that the Manitoba map has proven acceptable to the Liberal members of the committee and little objection is taken to the proposed division of Alberta, Saskatchewan and British Columbia. The next meeting of the Committee will probably see an agreement reached on the redistribution of the four Western provinces.

While the Ontario map has not been submitted it is understood to be ready and will be brought down as soon as an agreement is reached on the four Western Provinces. As far as possible county boundaries have been observed in making this redistribution.

It is announced that an agreement has practically been reached regarding Nova Scotia. Antigonish and Guysboro may be united and another constituency on the mainland wiped out. Richmond is likely to be united with South Cape Breton and the new constituency given two members.

Prince Edward Island.

The committee will have to decide whether Prince Edward Island is to have three or four members. If it is possible to leave the island with its present representative, it is believed the committee will recommend that this be done.

The Quebec members of the Redistribution Committee—Hon. L. P. Pelletier and Hon. Dr. Beland—have had a number of informal conferences and have reached an agreement on the boundaries of many of the new constituencies caused by the disappearance of some to increase the representation of Montreal. Montreal and Montreal Island will have 12 instead of 13 constituencies, as was at first intended.

From the progress made it is not believed that much difficulty will be encountered in securing a redistribution agreeable to all parties.

OLD AGE PENSION BILL

Mr. Kyte, M.P., of Richmond, N.B., brought up on Wednesday the question of an Old Age Pension system for Canada in the House of Commons. The committee appointed by the House over two years ago, which has btcn in session at repeated intervals, has not yet reported, owing, it was said, to the fact that although an immense amount of evidence had been taken, the Government was said to be financially unable at the present time to take the matter up. The finance minister said that the Government was in sympathy with the project and appreciated the great work done by the commitee which had been appointed on motion of the Prime Minister himself, and had been furnished by the Government with ample funds. Without wishing, however, to drag in contentious matters, he was compelled to say that the Government could not take the matter up just now. He regretted to say that to do so was an impossibility. Hon. Geo. P. Graham, Mr. Alguire, M.P., E. M. Macdonald, M.P., John Carroll, M.P., Mr. Burnham, M.P., and others spoke also.

Huerta, Who Has Strengthened His Field Force, May Take Personal Command

Mexico City, March 6.—Despatches received by the Government to-day said that in the naval engagement Wednesday at Topolobampo between the Federal gunboats Morelos and Guerrero and the rebel gunboat Tampico, the Tampico was forced to retire badly crippled. The rebel boat according to the despatches, was attempting to escape when the Federal boats fired on her. No mention of the Tampico's defection has yet been published here.

700 Federals Defeat 4,000 Foes?

Mexico City, March 6.—Three thousand rebels under Gen. Toribio Ortega who were moving towards Torreon, were defeated yesterday between Conejos and Escolan, according to advices received at the War Department. The despatch said four hundred rebels were killed in the engagement. The Federal forces, commanded by Gen. Ricardo Pena, numbered 700.

Huerta as Northern Commander.

Mexico City, March 6.—Once more the rumor is in circulation that Gen. Huerta soon will leave the presidency to assume command of the army in the north. Part of the alleged plan is that he will run for the Presidency in elections to be held in July. Should Huerta vacate the post of Chief Executive, the present formation of the Cabinet would leave in the presidency Jose Popez Portillo Y. Rojas, Minister of Foreign Affairs.

NICHOLL'S HOSPITAL BOARD LAY CLAIM BEFORE COUNCIL

Last night the City Fathers met in committee of the whole.

Mr. E. F. Mason spoke for the local merchants about "Dollar Day" of next week for Thursday. The by-law of the city now in force might interfere with the merchants keeping open at night an that evening. The movement was, however, as much for the poor men as the merchants. The merchants had interviewed the City Solicitor who advised them to go to the Council.

The City Solicitor will be seen later and arrangements made for Thursday night.

The Nicholls Hospital Board was heard. Rev. Mr. Rollins wanted a cordial relationship between the Board and the city. He said the Board is elected to do work for the city just as the council is. The Hospital Board must come to the city when they need money. The Hospital now needs money. The Hospital Trust authorizes the Board, under its charter to come on the city for money. He referred to the Hospital Endowment, but said the Board is as anxious as the council to keep down expense. The Hospital, under its charter, might demand from the city so much per month. The Hospital is under city control and expenditure and could come on the city for what it wants. Every municipality has to pay for hospital care of its indigents. He asked that the city appoint someone to investigate the individual cases of indigents admitted. Any such patients admitted should pay $1 a day. If any desirable patient were refused this treatment, such case might be reported to Toronto and the Government grant would cease for Nicholls Hospital.

The Mayor suggested that some doctors admitted some patients to the hospital when the doctor got fees from the city.

A settlement of some $1300 was agreed on between the city and the Hospital Board, "nem dis"

The mayor said the council had thought on settling with the Hospital for a lump sum.

Mr. W. H. Hill said he thought each indigent applicant as a patient should have his case investigated.

Ald. Green asked "should the city accept the Hospital Board's offer and the money paid does not finance the hospital would the hospital come back at the city for the deficit? Rev. Mr. Rollins: "Yes."

The City Fathers decided unanimously to accept the Hospital Board's suggestion.

Ald. Stratton said the suggestion was a good one, but not binding on the city as suggested.

The Mayor said Father McColl told him St. Joseph's Hospital would be prepared to take similar treatment.

As any claim for indigent patients for Nicholls Hospital could only be levied on Protestant ratepayers, a lump sum could not be given by the city.

Ald. Duncan moved, seconded by Ald. Johnston that the proposals as presented by Rev. Mr. Rollins be accepted—Carried.

Mr. Finch Miller was appointed to adjudicate such cases as mentioned.

It was proposed to asked Father McColl to meet the council re St Joseph's Hospital.

The East City garbage collection matter was next brought up.

Ald. McIntyre said the people of Ashburnham wanted to be eliminated from the garbage by-law.

Ald. Duncan thought it unfair for East City to kick against paying their share of the expense of keeping the city clean.

Sanitary Inspector Spence said: "You could not find a more sanitary spot in the city than on Hunter street east."

Ald. Stratton said the garbage by-law was carried in the interests of the whole community and moved that the extension of the garbage collection area as proposed by the Property Committee be carried out.

Ald. Duncan moved that the part of East City from Rogers street to Concession street be cut out.

BURNT CORK.

The Paste Used by Minstrel Performers When "Blacking Up."

The popular impression as to the application of burnt cork by minstrel performers and actors in general is that it is rubbed on the face and hands of the player from a cork whose end is charred in a convenient gas jet. This impression is, however, incorrect. The burnt cork used by minstrels and others is the product of the theatrical "paint factories," just as is any other cosmetic or pigment employed by the profession.

One house makes it in the following manner: The corks are placed in three tin vessels, resembling wash boilers, with holes punched in their sides and bottom. Alcohol is sprinkled over the corks, and they they are "fired." When the corks have been properly charred they are placed in muslin sacks, which are kneaded in barrels of water. This operation forces the powdered charcoal through the sacks into the water.

When all the charred corks have been worked through the sacks into the water in this way the water is drained through a close canvas sack, and what remains in that sack is ready for the performers. The stuff is put up in cans, from which, when the minstrel is ready to "black up," he takes a little of the black paste in his hands and applies it to his face, neck and sometimes his hands.—New York Herald.

A CURIOUS BIRD.

The Crested Hoactzin When Hatched Has Four Legs.

The crested hoactzin of British Guiana is the only survivor of a certain race of birds most of which are now known only as fossils. The hoactzin inhabits the most secluded forests of South America, and its survival beyond its congeners is doubtless owing to its retiring habits and to the fact that it feeds on wild arum leaves, which give its flesh a most offensive flavor, rendering it unfit for food.

The chief peculiarity of the hoactzin consists in the fact that when it is hatched it possesses four well developed legs. The young birds leave the nest and climb about like monkeys over the adjoining limbs and look more like tree toads than birds.

The modification of the fore limbs begins at once after hatching, when the claws of the digits fall off and the whole clawlike hand begins to flatten and become wing shaped. Feathers soon appear, and before full growth is reached not a vestige remains of the original character.

The adult birds not only have no claws upon their wings, but their thumbs even are so poorly developed that one would hardly suspect that in the nestlings we have the nearest approach to a quadruped found among existing birds.—London Tit-Bits.

Reason For the Peculiar Signature on the Hotel Register.

Many peculiar signatures in the course of a season find themselves upon the register of a hotel. There are foreign fists of all sorts in script that none but the Kytka could unravel. The most curious of all, however, was placed on the book only recently. It is this:

"Wm."

Only that and nothing more!

There is no surname, no address, nothing at all but just "Wm."

This is the way it happened:

A well dressed man entered the hotel the other day and followed his bags to the desk. The register was swung around into position for him and a pen handed him by the gentlemanly desk clerk. Then, in a free, swinging hand, he wrote the accepted abbreviation of his first name, "Wm."

As if a thought had suddenly occurred to him, he stopped writing and looked up.

"What do you charge for a single room here by the day?" he asked.

"Three, four, five and six dollars," answered the clerk.

"Ain't you got no dollar rooms?"

"No, we have no dollar rooms. Three, four, five and six."

"Gosh!" he said, and he didn't look the part either. "This is no place for me. Gimme my luggage."

And he sneaked out of the hotel as one who had trodden on sacred ground. Which is why on the register today is the odd signature:

"Wm."—San Francisco Chronicle.

Confucius on Kingcraft.

"What is kingcraft?" demanded a disciple.

Confucius replied, "Food enough, troops enough and a trusting people."

"Were there no help for it which could be best spared of the three?"

"Troops," said the master.

"And were there no help for it which could be better spared of the other two?"

[illegible] master. "Food. From of old all men die, but without [illegible] people cannot stand."

Got it Mixed.

An amusing blunder was made in the case of a judicial declaration that certain recalcitrant magistrates "could no more state a case than they could write a Greek ode."

This was made to read that the magistrates "could no more state a case than they could ride a Greek goat."—London Saturday [illegible]

SOME IMPORTANT FACTS ABOUT THE SILVER BLACK FOX INDUSTRY

The first Island ranch was started with two pairs of Anticosti Silvers, bought from a trapper for experimental purposes solely, and same proved so successful that the fox industry started to be developed.

In the year 1910 a pair of breeders could be bought for $4,000.00; in 1911 the price went up to $6,000 a pair, during 1912 a pair at $10,000 was considered high but not unusual, and at the time of writing (January 20th, 1914), live breeders can bring any price from $15,000 to $35,000, according to fecundity, and options on the unborn of next year are selling for $12,000 a pair.

About $10,000,000 is said to be invested in the fox industry on Prince Edward Island, showing a gain of over $3,000,000 inside a year.

Official returns for the present year show that the 277 fox ranches on the island contain 899 silver breeding foxes, (441 males and 458 females.) The total number of silver offsprings for 1913 was 708, and the average assessed value was $4,892.53 per fox.

The total valuation of the young silver black foxes for the current year is $3,349,449. The total number of silver foxes in the ranches for 1913 is 1602.

Pelts from ranch-bred Prince Edward Island silver black foxes have sold at the London auction sales as high as $2,628.00.

ASSETS OF THE COMPANY

The Company have TEN PAIRS of high-grade PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND Silver Black Foxes, EIGHT PAIRS are now on the ranch and two pairs of breeders under option are all eligible for registration under the select class "A" of the FOX BREEDERS' ASSOCIATION. These Foxes have been selected with special regard to parentage, and consist of the following well known strains:

Gordon, Dalton, Tuplin, Oulton, Raynor, and Champion. These names are conspicuously prominent in the Fox Industry ranches which, in 1913, paid from 45 p.c. to 900 p.c.

FUTURE POLICY

The Company expects to earn large profits from the sale of these rare black and silver foxes for breeding purposes, while each year a per centage of the production will be retained, placing the Company in a position to pay large dividends from the sale of furs alone. The object of this policy is to place the fur farming industry on a substantial commercial basis.

THE COMPANY'S RANCH

The Company owns outright a fine 211 acre farm with complete farm buildings—one of the most up-to-date ranches on the Island. It has an experienced and highly skilled keeper whose services have largely contributed to the present satisfactory condition of the business.

ONLY ONE CLASS OF STOCK

There is only one class of stock fully paid and non-assessable. Every shareholder participates pro rata in all dividends paid by the Company, and the latter has no authority to issue either Preferred Stock or Bonds.

From the above it will surely be seen that the R. J. McNEILL BLACK AND SILVER FOX COMPANY, LIMITED, are engaged in business at a most opportune time and under most favorable circumstances. Take into serious consideration that our company is established and that we have the FOXES AND RANCH, and not prospective. YOU ARE ENTITLED TO SEPTEMBER, 1914, DIVIDENDS: you don't have to wait for your dividends until 1915. In 1915 another dividend will be awaiting you

REMEMBER the average cash dividend of the above companies is 175 per cent, and there is absolutely no excuse why we cannot repeat the same.

We offered for public subscription the remaining allotment of $70,000. $30,000 has already been subscribed. $40,000 remains to be sold.

NOTICE.—Should the shares of stock not be allotted, the money paid by you will be refunded by return mail.

SOME PRESS COMMENTS

"Widows" Fox Company Declares a 900 Per Cent. Dividend.

Clerks in the employ of Sinclair & Stewart, a big dry goods house at Summerside, formed a silver fox company in 1912. This Company is popularly referred to as the "Widows" Fox Company, as nearly all the stockholders are women, a dividend of 900 per cent. was their reward.

Three sisters of Alberton, P.E.I., who were employed in the States, sent their spare earnings home two years ago to be invested in the fur farming business and their profits have averaged $15,000 yearly since.

A bookkeeper in the employ of Mr. Fred L. Rogers, the Governor's son, of Alberton, invested $600 three years ago, and is now worth $45,000 directly from this source.

The Rossmount Live Stock Co., Limited, of Alberton, P. W. Turner, treasurer, has paid a dividend of 1000 per cent. this year.

Mr. Frank Hall, clerk at Holman's Limited, received $25,000 from an investment of $500 made in this business three years ago.

Seven clerks and managers in Summerside pooled $500 each in 1910 and purchased a pair of silver foxes for $3,500. The seller, feeling that he had driven a splendid bargain, cared for the pair a year. The first litter consisted seven pups. The seven owners have received $[illegible] each dividends since and the pair bought for $3,500 could be sold for $35,000 to-day. Mr. Austin Scales, of St. Eleanors, is a member of this Association —Boston Sunday American, August 31, 1913.

HUMAN NESTS STIRRED UP

Text: As an eagle stirreth up her nest, fluttereth over her young, spreadeth abroad her wings, taketh them, beareth them on her wings, so the Lord alone did lead him.—Deut. 32:11-12.

* * *

Mythology says that the swan lives to a great age. Just before death it sings a wonderful song and dies. So Moses, living to the ripeness of a hundred and twenty years, sees his end approaching, and before he climbs to the mountain's summit he sings this, his swan song, which we may read now, three thousand years afterwards, in the thirty-second chapter of Deuteronomy. The man who, on Horeb, had complained of his slow and clumsy tongue, becomes most eloquent on Nebo; so magnificently eloquent that this, his farewell address, deserves a place among the masterpieces of oratory.

His song is all about God. The old statesman has passed beyond the petty things of time and place, and sees only the eternal glories of the Infinite. Somebody writes interestingly about a night spent at Hawarden during the last years of Mr. Gladstone's life. When family prayers were announced, the aged host himself sat down to the piano to lead the singing of a hymn. The visitor was curious to see what kind of hymn the great statesman would select. Soon the whole household was following the leader in singing.

"From all that dwell below the skies,
Let the Creator's praise arise;
Let the Redeemer's name be sung
Through every land, by every tongue."

So the theme of the aged statesman of Israel was God:

"Give ear, O ye Heavens, and I will speak; and hear, O earth, the words of my mouth. My doctrine shall drop as the rain, my speech shall distil as the dew, as the small rain upon the tender herb, and as the showers upon the grass. Because I will publish the name of the Lord: ascribe ye greatness unto our God. He is the rock, His work is perfect, for all His ways are judgment: a God of Truth and without iniquity, just and right is He."

Then he speaks so gratefully of God's dealings with Israel, tells of God's providence all the way from the Nile to the Jordan, how God found Israel in a desert land and in the waste, howling wilderness, how He led him about, instructed him, kept him as the apple of His eye. And having mentioned the miracles, the chastenings, the blessings, yea, even the reproofs, he cries:

"As an eagle stirreth up her nest, fluttereth over her young, spreadeth abroad her wings, taketh them, beareth them on her wings, so the Lord alone did lead Israel."

This is the picture; God is a mighty eagle, guarding the nest, and His children are the brood. We can afford to stand before this picture with uncovered heads and grateful hearts.

The eagle is the king of birds, the emblem of royalty. He is the sovereign of the air. He soars higher than any of his feathered brothers, and scans the earth with piercing eye. He lives among the crags, and flies among the clouds.

Even the eagle mother's nest is regal. In the loneliness of the lordly pine or the highest cliff the eyrie is built, far from the haunts of beasts, and beyond the reach of the fowler's arrow. This castle is a yard square, with walls of sticks and branches, bound together with twining vines, and lathed with birchbark and balsam, and carpeted with hair and wool, and feathers and down, until it is as soft as velvet. There she lays her eggs and hatches her young. There her lord, never polygamous, like the [illegible], but always loyal to one wife, patrols the air, as the sentry of the nest. Thither is carried the spoil of [illegible], and there the eaglets are fed with the choicest of morsels. There, when the giant pines sway in the beating storms, she broods over the little ones and tucks them into their feather beds. There she waits until the soft down of her children's coats is changed into sprouting feathers.

Then one day she stirs up her nest. She becomes possessed of a wild enthusiasm; she cries out with fiendish screams, as if imitating the shrieking of the wind, to arouse their ambition to soar. The eaglets feel her talons as she pushes them toward the wall of the nest. Look! She flings one over the edge and it falls! Its little wings flutter helplessly, but form a sort of parachute, to check its fall, while the mother, swift as an arrow, darts down under the helpless chick, spreads broad her wings, and catches it on her back to rest.

There the curtain falls, and all the congregation of Israel has left of the [illegible] is the word of its great leader in applying the metaphor: "So the Lord alone did lead you!"

The lesson is simple—God teaches His children to soar in the heavens of immortality. From helplessness through faith, to the flight of angels that is the evolution of our race. God, the Eagle God, broods over our nests—watching, nourishing, feeding, waiting, strengthening, lulling, teaching, fluttering, screaming, tossing, catching, bearing, until at last the child of immortality has faith and strength and training enough to take the wings of the morning, and fly away, and be at rest.

Our God is an attentive parent. This is manifestly a lesson of the text. See the mother hen talking to her brood, as she gathers them under her wings. That is what God's Son wanted to do with the children of Jerusalem. And that is what God wants to do with us, His offspring. Our good is His constant, yea, His chief concern. He deviseth means for us. That is His eternal work. Do you doubt that? What do you think God is doing? The machinery of the universe does not harass Him. The earth keeps her path; the sun holds his place; the stars run their courses. They never clash; He assigns to each his place; He calleth them all by their names. What then is God's chief concern? His children! God the Father is greater than God the engineer! "My Father worketh hitherto, and I work!" What did the Saviour mean by that? He meant that God is working all the time, even on the Sabbath day, to win His children back to Him!

He is an attentive parent: His children are the objects of His care. You parents know it, for your chief concern is your children's welfare. The piano stays where you set it; the chairs and the tables and the dishes and the doilies behave themselves—unless the wife goes away for a few days and leaves the husband to manage things. But, normally, you don't worry very much about the various pieces of furniture. They are not constantly in your mind. But the children are! You devise means! Means to keep the boys at home! Means to interest the girls! Oh, boy, boy, mother doesn't sleep sound o' nights; she is brooding, devising, about you! Oh, men, women, the Father is keeping awake! The nest is watched. He, watching over Israel, slumbers not nor sleeps. That is the kind of God I can easily believe it!

Oh, parents, hearken! God watches over your children. They must pass through earth's sin-laden atmosphere, but God curves His hand to protect them from pestilential winds. How they get through without contamination sometimes seems a miracle! It is like the process that purifies the water that we drink! The doctors and microscopists would have us all killed every morning, killed dead as smelts, if it weren't for a natural miracle! They say that the germs of pollution from a score of Canadian and American cities have been poured into that water. Sarnia and Port Huron, Windsor and Detroit, Cleveland and Buffalo all cast their sewage into the great lakes and we drink the water! Ah, but meanwhile a miracle has been performed. The water has had the nest stirred up. It has been tossed by the winds, filtered by the sands, [illegible] by the rapids, buried by the cataract, sifted by the whirlpool, and lo, it is pure!

God performs a miracle with your children. You, mother, are quite concerned over your son or your daughter leaving for school, or going out into the big world. Years ago, when the little tot kissed you at the gate and toddled with slate and book to school, you had a foregleam of the day when the trunk would be packed. And now, alas! that day has dawned when that child must leave you and go out into the world of dangers and traps and decoys. But it is the way of the eagle's nest; it is the inevitable way of the mother's home

And the wings of the Most High will protect them. They will go through unscathed. They will answer mother's prayers. And they never altogether lose their veneration for mother's Christ.

But our God is a disturbing parent. "As an eagle stirreth up her nest." Yes, it is necessary. We cannot quite understand it at the time, but if we should be left in the soft downy nest of indulgence we should be good for nothing. Fancy an eagle leaving her overgrown infants in the nest until they fatten into clumsy barnyard fowls.

I once visited an old couple who lived on the abundant savings of the energetic years of a farm life. They had their two youngest sons, 31 and 36 years old, remaining with them. In their old age these parents had conceived the notion that it was unsafe to let the boys leave home. The saloon or the gambling house might get them. So they were kept at home, peeling potatoes, washing dishes, making a bit of garden. They snuggle in the same old nest, unstirred and undisturbed. They will never fly.

There is a plain little wedding in a cottage on a side street. The mother has her little cry as she kisses the daughter she is losing from the nest. The bride is feeling happy enough but the mother is losing her, and she also thinks of the inevitable hardships ahead. Maybe a ticket has already been bought for Saskatchewan or Alberta where only intense struggle is rewarded. And yet that mother would not have it otherwise. The nest must be disturbed. The young eaglets must learn to try their own wings!

Old Doctor Lyman Beecher had a unique way of teaching the first question of the Presbyterian catechism, that grand old question that asks: "What is the chief end of man?" and is answered, "To glorify God and to enjoy Him forever." "Now, boys, what is this good for?" the good pastor would ask, holding up a knife with all the blades visible. "To cut." Then he would lift up a knife with all the blades broken. "And what is this good for?" "For nothing." "Then, boys, know that you are to glorify God, and if you do not do that you are absolutely good for nothing."

Man is for soaring. He is to be with God and like God. He must learn to fly. He must be pushed out of the nest. We must not be left poor humans with wings unstretched. The divine must be developed in us; the wings of our faith must be exercised and strengthened. Pathos, nobility, glory, must grow in me. I must get above the hot-house things of indulgence. Rich or poor, I must throb with love, I must go to school with the Eagle-God. I must love. My soul must learn to soar, or I shall never be able to leave this poor earthly ball and fly away to Jesus.

It is perplexing, of course, this stirring up. The poor eagle babe cannot understand it. What can it mean? "Mother, you have always been gentle, but to-day your talons are sharp and your scream frightens me." Oh, brother, of mine, have you said it? You started sweetly, calmly, successfully. God seemed to smile. Then sorrow came. A death or a loss. And you looked up and said, "Oh, my God, what does it all mean? Thou hast been kind to me in other days. Now thou art cruel. Thou didst lullaby me then; Thou roarest now."

Calm, brother, calm. Thy God is but teaching thee how to fly. The first lesson is the hardest. New responsibilities, a sick child, a home broken up, a position lost—all these things may come that you may have new powers and capabilities. Look up and thank God.

But, God be praised, His discipline and His providence are always linked. Each clause speaking a sternness is balanced by one expressing love. For every frightening "stirreth up her nest," is the soothing "spreadeth abroad her wings. For every "fluttereth over her young is a "beareth them on her wings." The disciplined soul is always safe. "There shall no evil befall thee. His angels shall bear thee on their wings lest thou dash thy foot against a stone." The Father who stirs up your nest and seems to let you shift for yourself will come, just timely enough, and spread His wings underneath you.

"Beneath thee are the everlasting arms."

Some day we'll understand. A friend of mine had a son whom he coddled and pampered over-long. The boy was a trifle lazy, and just delicate enough to furnish an occasional excuse for his indifference to any kind of work. Finally, however, when half through his twenties the young man tossed himself out of the parental nest, by running away and getting married. It was about the first time in his life he had really shown any independence. But, alas, the wings had been unused so long that flying was well nigh impossible. His father, however, vowed that now he must shift for himself, and while secretly he felt like helping him out of his abundant store, he knew that to do so now would be an irreparable mistake. So the boy eked out a very scant living with his young wife. Finally he came to my parsonage for a small loan. His father not only repaid me the loan but gave me $50 in trust, to lend Charlie from time to time when I really thought he needed help. But I was not to tell him that the money came from his father. I was to take his I.O.U. for it, and let him know that I expected to be repaid as soon as he found employment.

He soon came for another loan. I gave him $5 of his father's money. He took it, thanked me, and stood at the door, hat in hand, and eyes downcast, murmuring, "If my father would only do the right thing by me and give me a lift, I wouldn't need to ask you." I didn't remind him that his father had been doing nothing but giving him lifts during the twenty-five years of his life.

Within a week he came again. I gave him another $5 and once more he stood in the hallway and said, "If my Dad would only help me as he should, I wouldn't need to ask strangers."

And so, by fives and tens, he got the whole amount in my hands. The father died, and left him a fairly comfortable income in the care of prudent executors. The young man was honest enough to take $50 out of his first remittance, and bring it to me. I told him it belonged to him, for I had loaned him his father's money. He stared at me a moment after I had explained the case; then he broke down and wept. "So I have been blaming my good old father for neglecting me," he cried, "and here I find that has been helping me all the time."

Now that father was really putting his wings of help beneath his son, even while the young fellow imagined he was being forsaken. So, my brother, will we find that while we were lamenting our abandonment, the Father's Everlasting Arms were under us all the time.

God's discipline of training is always intended to fit us for spiritual service. The nest-stirred eaglet is just beginning his life. So the sorrow-stirred soul is equipped for the most helpful service to humanity. No one is fitted for speaking the word of cheer to earth's sorrowing hearts who has not himself passed through trial. And having had sorrows, we must make the right use of them. We may make of them curses or blessings.

Finally, all this is preparatory to heaven. We must pass through tribulation to glory. Rev. John McNeill tells of a friend who had an eagle, caught while young and raised among the ducks and chickens in an immense wire-netting cage. Moving to a distant place the owner of the eagle was persuaded to give the bird of the air its freedom. He opened the door of the big coop, and waited for the eagle to come out. How astonished he was! But he seemed to simply feel that this was a little larger than his cage, and made no effort to use his wings. Then the owner took the big fellow and lifted him to the garden wall. He looked down at his liberator as if perplexed. The sun had just been hidden behind a cloud; now it shone out with light and warmth. The eagle lifted his eyes, and pulled himself up. He raised a wing and stretched it; then pushed out the other wing; then with a scream of delight, his piercing eyes, looking towards the sky, he arose, and with all the grace of an eagle's flight, swept through the air with a series of spiral curves, rising with every circle without perceptible effort, and was soon a vanishing speck in the blue heavens!

O Christian, whose nest is stirred, get ready to soar. Death will soon open the door into the infinite. Angels will lift you to the garden wall of yon cloud and let you rest until you catch the enthusiasm of the air. With a glad cry you will spread your wings and soar and shout with Dwight L. Moody, "Earth is receding; Heaven is opening!"

SANOL BLOOD BUILDER
FOR TIRED OUT MEN AND WOMEN
A SURE CURE FOR ANAEMIA
Provides the Blood with Red Corpuscles so Necessary to Life
Clears and Improves the Complexion

For twenty years a celebrated German scientist worked at this great [illegible] seeking to find the secret of blood building. The vegetable contents were brought from the four corners of the earth and so blended that a genuine blood and tissue builder was at last produced.

SANOL BLOOD BUILDER has proved a boon to mankind. The tired worn out mother in the home, with her daily round of domestic and social cares, the head of the family in office or workshop, the growing girl or boy during schooling period, at times need a body building medicine. Sanol Blood Builder supplies the blood with and incorporates into the organism of the human body that which it absolutely needs, the good results are marked and rapid.

Sanol Blood Builder, if taken according to the directions will stop the waste of the body, brighten the appetite, strengthen the system, rebuild the blood corpuscles, improve the complexion, brace the muscles and calm the brain.

OUR POINT OF VIEW

The year is young yet, but we note that the once crowded water wagon is now carrying only a few lonesome figures and they are chronic riders.

A ROMAN CATHOLIC BOYCOTT

The Northwestern Christian Advocate, of Chicago, tells the story of a Roman Catholic boycott in Wisconsin. Some four million Polish Roman Catholics have been trying for the past twelve years to secure more rights in the administration of the parishes and to better their parochial schools. But, as in Maine, the priests have sided with the bishops, and the people have made little headway towards popular control of their Church property. In the fight the editor of the Kuryer Polsku, of Milwaukee, championed the cause of the people, and at last Archbishop Messmer put the paper on the black-list and issued a pastoral letter denying the right of any member of the Roman Catholic Church to buy or read the paper. Then the two hundred and seventy-two stockholders in the paper met and unanimously decided to sue the Church. This was done. The Church made a vigorous defence, declaring that they had a perfect right to do as they wished with their own; but the court decided that the Church had not the right to black-list the products of any publishing company without being compelled to answer for it before the civil courts. The community concerned is strongly Roman Catholic, but the decision is that the state in regard to civil rights is necessarily supreme. The "Index Expurgatorius" may be used, we presume, but the Church must satisfy the state that it is rightly used. So far the Kuryer Polski seems to have come out ahead.

ENGLAND'S RURAL HOUSING PROBLEM

One of Mr. Lloyd-George's proposals is to house the rural laborers of England in decent sanitary cottages. In many villages no new dwellings for agricultural laborers have been built for fifty years or more. One by one the old cottages become irreparable and uninhabited; even the energy to pull them down is sometimes lacking, and the melancholy ruin stands in the fields or by the roadside telling of depopulation, of sapped vitality, and lack of hope.

The system causes many kinds of hardship. Thus a man living b·· favor in a cottage, recently had to turn out, and could not get another home nearer than six miles from his work, and has therefore to cycle twelve miles daily to and from his labor. Couples are sometimes prevented from marrying by the impossibility of getting a cottage near the man's work.

Norfolk takes pride in always having been in the van of agriculture, yet Norfolk, with Oxfordshire, pays the lowest agricultural wage in the whole country, ranging from just below to just above three dollars and sixty cents weekly. There is much inequality, one parish being well housed, and its immediate neighbor miserably supplied with cottage accommodation.

LENGTHY VISITS.

The Unstinted Hospitality of Old Virginia.

Virginia hospitality is a byword. The old time country house, says Mrs. Roger A. Pryor in "My Day," was built of elastic material, capable of sheltering any number of guests, many of whom remained all summer. Indeed, this was expected of them.

"My dear sir," said the genial master of Westover to a departing guest who had sought shelter from a rainstorm, "my dear sir, do stay and pay us a visit."

The guest pleaded business that forbade his compliance.

"Well, well," said Major Drewry, "if you can't pay us a visit come for two or three weeks at least."

"Week ends" were unknown in Virginia, and equally out of the question an invitation limited by the host to prescribed days and hours. Sometimes a happy guest would ignore time altogether and stay along from season to season. I cannot remember a parallel case to that of Isaac Watts, who, invited by Sir Thomas Abney to spend a night at Stoke Newington, accepted with great cheerfulness and stayed the rest of his life, nearly forty years, but I do remember that an invitation for one night brought to a member of our family a pleasant couple who remained for years.

Strange Death of Rival Stags.

Many records exist of the way in which rival stags have met their death when fighting for supremacy. Probably none is more strange than that described by Herr O. Drathmore of Charlottenburg in the Deutsche Jager-Zeitung. In 1908 the keepers on the Geibenand shooting in Mecklenburg-Schwerin found a fine twelve pointer lying dead, apparently from antler thrusts and with both beams close together. Not far off was a smaller stag, a ten pointer, still living, but as its back was broken it was put out of its misery. On examination it was found that the antlers of the larger stag were torn out of the skull and the frontal bone was broken. The back of the smaller stag must have been broken in the struggle.

One of Mark Twain's Jokes.

Mark Twain played a practical joke on the first audience he addressed in England. This was in 1872, when his reputation was already high in that country, and the announcement of his lecture filled St. George's hall, London, to overflowing. Few if any of those present had ever seen the humorist. He came on the platform in evening dress, with the crestfallen air of a manager announcing a disappointment. "Mr. Clemens had landed at Liverpool and had fully hoped to reach London in time, but unfortunately missed his train." The audience started booing, but the boos changed into cheers and laughter when he added that, fortunately, Mark Twain was present and would do his best to fill the place of the defaulting Clemens.

ERIN'S ANCIENT KINGS.

Untimely Death Was the Rule For Monarchs of Old Ireland.

"Tis ould Oireland can bate them all, begorra, when it comes to talkin' of kings and coronations! For there was probably a king of Ireland when Noah was building his ark. There certainly was one in 1300 B. C. To be sure, though, Ireland's ancient monarchs mostly came to unhappy ends, either dying of the plague, being assassinated or killed in battle, says London Answers.

For instance, King Lughaidh, who reigned in the second century, was killed by being thrust through the eye with a spear during a conspiracy. His successor, Feargus, was assassinated by order of the next comer, Cormac Ulfhada, who, however, was merely choked to death by a fish bone at supper.

"Slain by his successor," indeed, was the fate of very many Irish kings, but of Congal Clonmaghair, who died in 608, it is simply but eloquently recorded that he "died suddenly." He was a "cruel persecutor of the Irish church." In 806 King Dathy was killed by a thunderbolt, while King Connor died of grief in 837. And one of the greatest of them all, the valiant Brian Boroihme, was assassinated in 1014 while at prayer after he had defeated the Danes at Clontarf.

It is hardly surprising to learn that four of Erin's kings resigned their crowns to become peaceful, cloistered monks.

PUBLIC OPINION

PAROXYSMS IN THE NEWSPAPERS.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—Sometime ago a member of a Police Commission, who was also a County Judge, lambasted the good women of Peterborough to his own, if not to the Queen's, taste. He was under the impression that being a judge when he got his Sunday clothes on, so to speak, he was first cousin to the Emperor of Japan on other ordinary days. We are informed, however, that the Minister of Justice has told a deputation that went to Ottawa that the judge was in no sense or way a judge on the police commission, but an employee of the city only, acting as a superintendent of police. The Attorney-General of Ontario has also decided that a police commission is open to the public, which is at perfect liberty to make known its wants to the Commission. This leaves the judge with only his violent and unseemly language left. It would be better if this was now satisfactorily explained away also. An apology that is due hurts no one.

POET'S CORNER

Readers are invited to contribute to this column. Matter to be either original or otherwise.

NOTHING IS LOST.

Nothing is lost; the drop of dew
Which trembles on the leaf or flower
Is but exhaled to fall anew
In summer's thunder shower.
Perchance to shine within the bow
That fronts the sun at fall of day;
Perchance to sparkle in the flow
Of fountains far away.

Naught's lost, for e'en the tiniest seed,
By wild birds borne, or breezes blown,
Finds something suited to its need
Where'er 'tis sown and grown.
Perchance finds sustenance and soil
In some remote and desert place,
Or mid the crowded homes of toil
Sheds usefulness and grace.

The touching tones of minstrel art,
The breathings of the mournful flute,
Which we have heard with listening heart,
Are not extinct when mute;
The language of some household song,
The perfume of some cherished flower,
Though gone from outward sense, belong
To memory's after hour.

So with our words, or harsh, or kind,
Uttered, they are not all forgot,
They leave their influence on the mind,
Pass on, but perish not.
As they are spoken, so they fall
Upon the spirit spoken to,— Scorch it like drops of burning gall,
Or sooth like honey-dew.

So with our deeds,—for goods or ill
They have a power scarce understood;
Then let us use our better will
To make them rife with good.
Like circles on a lake they go,
Ring within ring, and never stay.
Oh, that our deeds were fashioned so
That they might bless alway.

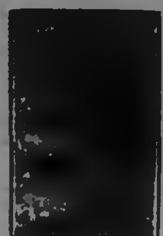
Wigs That Match Gowns Win Favor

By Madge Marvel



GREEN wigs and trouser skirts sound worse than they look. The Poiret version of the trouser skirt is a more attractive garment than the skirt with the exaggerated slash, and, under certain conditions, colored wigs have a possible charm.

I have no idea they will be generally worn on the street, but with the right gowns, under the right light for evening, it is perfectly simple to see they are not impossible.

They were displayed recently at a costume salon in New York city, surmounting some of the newest Poiret creations, and women were rather enthusiastic about them. To be sure, they were given a Poiret setting, rose and violet hangings, rose lights, gray furniture and heaps and more heaps of Poiret pillows thrown about, which aided the effect.

Six costumes were shown, and there was a colored wig to match each one. The models were typical of the ultra-slender woman of the moment, and they had mastered the slinky, slouch walk, which represents the most extreme manner of locomotion.

Two Decided Novelties.

The most decided dress novelties shown were the trouser skirt and the street suit with pockets.

The former did not startle any one because it is fully six months since trousers were shown as possible substitutes for skirts, but this is the first time such an eminently practical edition of the style has been shown. They, or it, whichever is correct, are, or is, so mild and inoffensive one can readily believe the fashion will obtain to some considerable extent.

The trouser skirt a la Poiret is of taffeta. The model shown was in a dark blue gray. At first glance it looks like a perfectly plain and narrow skirt with a tiny pleated frill at the hem. The bifurcation is only in the front breadth. The back of the skirt is exactly like a perfectly straight plain skirt. There is not the suspicion of a pleat or a gather. The division is made down the centre front with elastic bands attaching it to the back breadth.

When the wearer is standing still there is not the least indication of the bifurcation. When she walks it is not startling, but looks like any narrow skirt which catches about the feet when one walks fast. It is said to be very comfortable, and it is not unattractive. Over it was worn a tunic of silk striped in Roman effect with the color of the skirt and a dull brick red. This had a wide sash of the material of the skirt and a vest of white muslin edged with gilt galloon. The wig exactly matched the red stripe in the tunic.

Pockets Seem Mannish.

The suit with pockets was a far more mannish affair than the trouser skirt. It was developed in green and white checked suiting. The skirt was longer than we have been wearing for the trottour suit, and was worn over tights. The front was cut very long, and this extra length was folded up and buttoned across just below the waist line, making deep pockets possible at each side, quite like the side pockets in real trousers, and giving full draping over each hip and a series of folds at the back of the skirt.

The coat was exactly on the loose lines of a man's sack coat, and the wearer thrust her hands in her pockets with the little coat pushed back of them. There was a simulated belt at the back of the coat with a bit of red showing at each end, and at the bust line there were long ends of the material of the suit with red embroidery for the finish. Underneath was a soft mulle blouse, and the wig was of silver white.

A bright blue wig was worn with a charming frock of blue and bronze changeable taffeta. The skirt was plain, narrow, and instead of the slash there was an inverted pleat in the front where the closing was. On each hip were pleatings in exaggerated pannier effect. They were confined entirely to the hip, stopping each side of the centre back and leaving a plain panel in front.

Live, Laugh and Love

By Brett Page

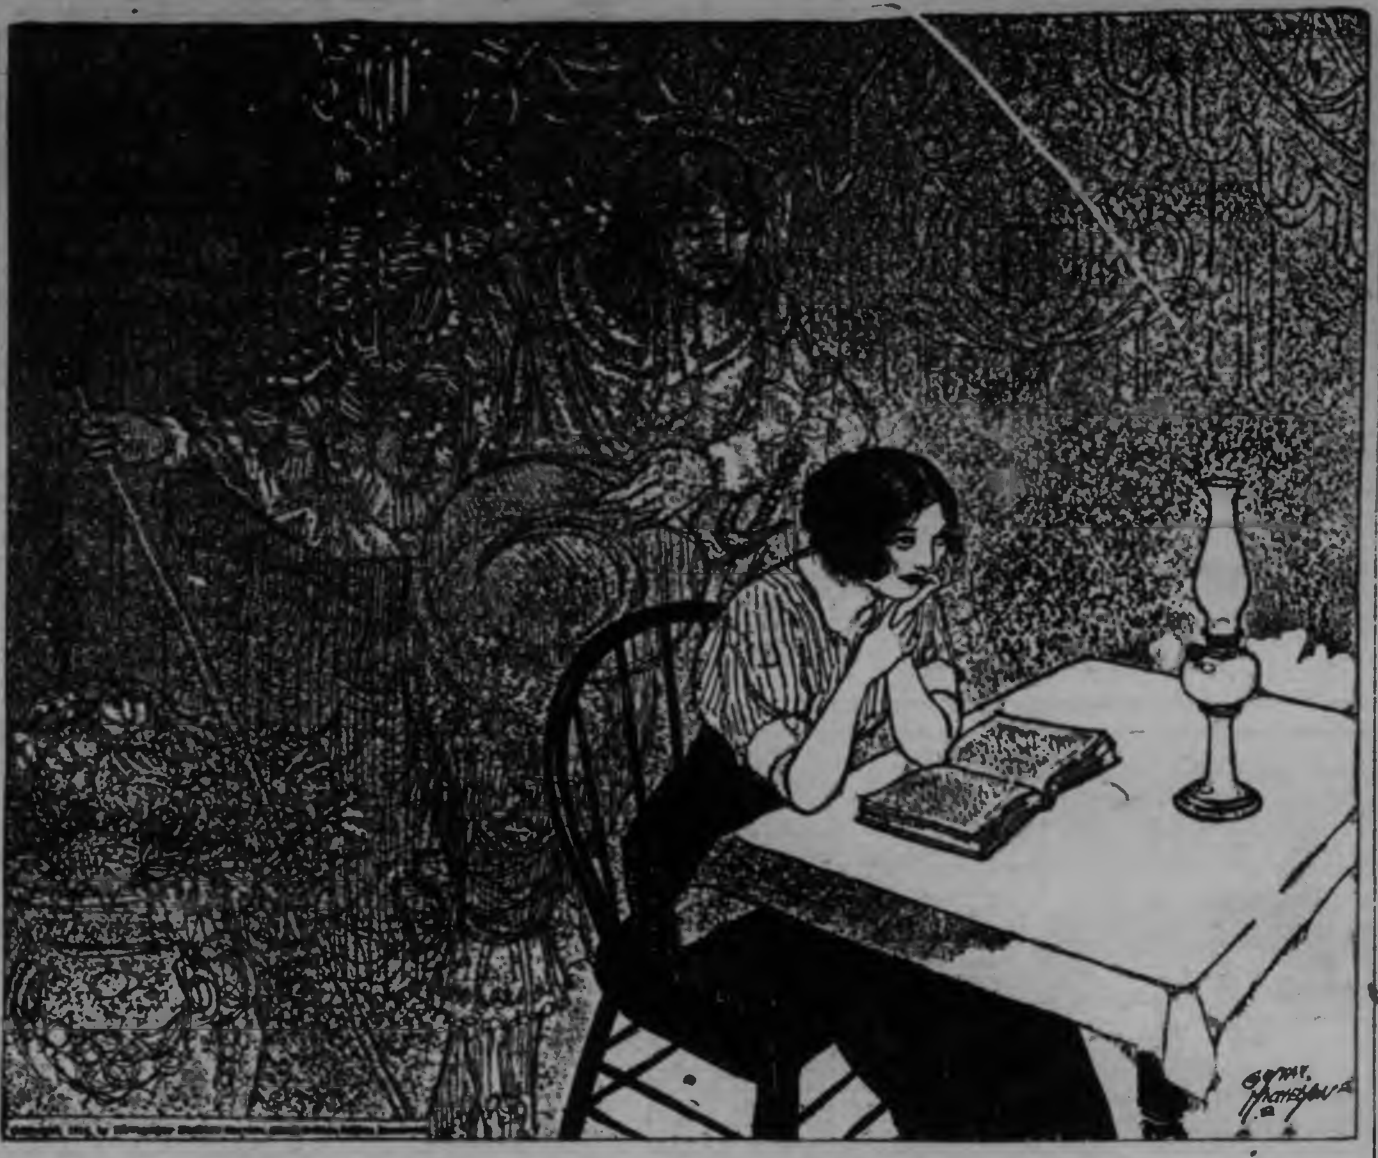
A LITTLE life, a little love,
A little time to stay,
A few short years of smiles and tears
And then we go away;
Enjoy the laughter, songs and wine,
There's none to say you sha'n't.
Live, laugh and love your fill, until,
The time comes when you can't.

For what's Life worth, if not with mirth
To crowd each blessed hour?
No merit lies in frightened eyes
And faces sad and sour.

The smile's the thing, the laugh whose ring
Wakes joy in ev'ry heart
And knows that life is only sad
When good friends have to part.

So love your life, so live your life,
When reveille shall come
You smiling go as one who'd know
What moves above the sun;
For 'neath the sun, the race you've run,
Since first your life began;
You laughed and loved your fill, until,
You met Death like a man

ROMANCE · · · · · By Michelson



A MAGIC word, you say? Yes, it is more—it is a magic THING. Romance softens all the hard lines of the reality that SEEMS to be around us. It splashes with the colors of the rose and the violets and the opalescent sky all the pinched pleasures of the lonely. It brings into the gray hall bedroom the splendors of pageantry, the radiance of imagined days, the sparkle of royal enchantment.

Michelson has drawn a girl sitting at a pine table beside a simple kerosene lamp. For a moment her eyes have wandered from the hypnotic page. She has forgotten paper and type, the pine table and the lamp. She has floated away into that other time and other place which for that moment are as REAL as the nearer things she may actually touch. She hears the blare of the tourney; she sees the flash of knightly banners, the beauty of bedizened princesses, the gleam of swords, the scarlet of plumes, the flutter of spangled fans.

And she feels the presence of a courtly person more brave, more imposing, more gracious, more faithful, certainly more delightfully decorated than any male creature one meets at the boarding house table or at the shop.

Isn't this a tribute to the power of a BOOK?

Fame Never Makes a Mistake

By WINIFRED BLACK

Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service.

Winifred Black

A CHARITABLE man died in New York the other day.

He left a good big fortune to be used for the establishment of a bread line.

The only thing the charitable man wants done when the bread is handed out to those who need it is that some one shall see to it that each loaf is stamped with the name of the man who died.

Oh, yes, he wants the bread line known as his own particular bread line and called always by his name.

Poor man. I wonder if he thought he'd sleep better in his narrow bed just because his name is stamped on the loaf of bread that some poor fellow stands in line in the cold and the storm to get.

There's something pathetic about the way we all try to reach out of our graves and make people remember us—somehow, anyhow. We all hate to think that we are just, each of us, a little bit of a mite of an atom in the scheme of the universe and that we aren't worth remembering one year, most of us, after the earth falls on the coffin at the funeral.

Remember me. That is what we all cry. Think of me, whether there is anything in particular to remember or not.

What a lot of children we are, after all, even the best of us.

Writing our names upon the sand for the waves to come up and wash them out.

What wonderful curlycues we put after the name, some of us.

I saw some children playing in the sand at a winter resort the other day.

Some built great castles with frowning battlements and stuck pebbles in them for guns.

Pleasure Lies in Building

And some made gardens, lovely little walled gardens with seats and walks, and these took little sprigs of green and stuck them in for trees.

And some made schoolhouses. One little girl—she was very pale, I noticed, and looked as if she wasn't much accustomed to outdoor air—built a great square of wet sand and took a pointed stick and wrote upon it Hospital for Sick Children.

And when she had finished it she wrote her name, too—Margery—and under the name she drew a beautiful rose with wide and spreading petals.

Just as she finished the rose the tide swept in—and before the little girl, who had taken so much pains to build her wonderful hospital, could run her feet and the edge of her pretty flimsy skirt were very wet indeed.

And the little girl cried and was very much discouraged, poor little thing. Her mother told her that she was foolish to cry.

"It isn't the thing that you build that amounts to anything," said the mother gravely, "it is the fun you have building; come back tomorrow and we'll build a new one, better than this and bigger and much prettier, and it will be more fun tomorrow than it is today."

But the little girl cried and cried and would not be comforted.

The next day I saw her on the sands again. She wore a fresh dress, not quite so delicate and easily soiled as the one she wore the first day, and her shoes were heavy and sensible.

She was not building, but she sat on a rock and told all the other children just exactly what to build and how to build it.

And the other children worked very hard and had a glorious time. But the little girl who told them what to do and how to do it seemed to me just the least little bit in the world bored.

Fate an "Arrangement"

Then the tide turned, and the waves came, and swept the grand hospital with its gardens and its walks and its sleeping porches out to sea.

She laughed then, did the little girl who knew, and somehow the sound of her laughter was not particularly pleasant to hear—for she laughed at her playmates, and not with them, which is always a good deal of a mistake.

Poor little girl, she didn't realize that what her mother told her was absolutely true.

What we build doesn't seem to make much of a difference, does it? It's the fun we have in building that counts.

There's a statue down in New Orleans that I always go to see whenever I'm down that way, with the mocking birds and the magnolias—it stands in rather a dingy little square and it isn't a great and astounding work of art, though it is well enough, too.

But I never can leave the city till I have gone and looked—at Margaret the Bread Woman.

She was very poor, was Margaret, when she was alive, and she worked very hard, but every day when she went to work she carried with her a bag full of bread—crisp loaves they were, they say, and brown and sweet and wholesome—and she always found somebody who needed them, black or white, old or young, it mattered not to Margaret; all she cared to know was "Are you hungry?" She grew better off as she grew older, and finally she had a little bakery all her own and she no longer carried the bread through the street, but stayed in her little shop and baked, and those who were hungry and had nowhere else to go came always to her. They were never turned away.

And now there is a statue to Margaret the Bread Woman, and they say that she would be greatly surprised if she knew about it—simple, kindly Margaret, who gave for the sake of giving and not for the sake of being remembered.

The thing we call fate is a just sort of arrangement after all, isn't it?

What we want most bitterly we never seem to get.

And what we never think of comes knocking blithely at our very doors, and when you think it all over quietly there's always a reason.

Fame never, never makes a mistake.

Said by Wise Men

Every man who loves his country, and wishes well to the best interests of society, will show himself a decided friend not only of morality and the laws, but of religious institutions, and honorably bear his part in supporting them.—J. Hawes

Secrets of Health and Happiness

Why Combing Your Hair May Make You Bald

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

Copyright, 1914, by L. K. Hirshberg.

DR. HIRSHBERG

ALMOST everybody who uses a comb is destined to be bald! Combs in general are a hissing and a mocking, also hair brushes.

Fine-tooth combs are an abomination. Herewith, now and forever, I excommunicate all mothers who dare endanger the adult future of their infants by the ploughing and harrowing of the youngster's scalp with this pernicious instrument of hirsute torture.

The fine-tooth comb is a survival of the prefossilized days of the ichthyosaurus and the piltdown skull

Perhaps when babies had heads so small that there was no room for wit, and scalps as smooth as sea-cows, hair that could be combed by laying heads to the wind; perhaps then fine-tooth combs were harmless.

At the maternal stroke of the fine-tooth comb the knell of a sad and permanent parting of the hair begins. Not the sort of part wished for by the nurse, but a germ-infecting, scalp-vaccinating kind of parting. This parting is not "of" the hair, but "with" the hair. For the fine-tooth comb, jerked like a currycomb is through Pegasus, causes the hair to leave the infant's scalp, as well as to inoculate the hair cups with marauding germs, which weave the beginnings of woful destruction in later life.

Indeed, the use of the fine-tooth comb is painful and irritating. Not only does it pull and heave-ho at the roots and fastening of the child's hair, but its sharp fence of dirks and stilettoes dig deeply into the soft and tender flesh

In its interstellar spaces, compactly huddled together in an oily, taffy-like, gelatinous condition, lurk the moulds and bacilli of boils, eczema, ringworm, tuberculosis, the itch, tetter, erysipelas, blood-poisoning and the major demons of microbic maladies.

Moreover, they cannot be gotten rid of. You can no more clean a fine-tooth comb than you can stop an active volcano from volcaning

Water, soap, sterilising and seven seas of antiseptics have hitherto been tried in vain. The fineness of the grooves and the gumminess of the grease which surrounds the germs form an impervious protection of them in their treacherous whalebone or ivory lair.

Every time you use a fine-tooth comb you vaccinate bacteria, or virus of one sort or another, into the bed of the hair. Some hardened sinners or innocent children prove occasionally immune to these vaccines, but in the long run, if the fine-tooth comb continues its service as a polite and domestic weapon of torture, even the most sceptical anti-vaccinationist will ultimately be thus vaccinated and fall a victim to some scalp malady.

Answers to Health Questions

MRS. P. J. B., W. Philadelphia, Pa.: Is there anything I can safely use at home to remove protruding moles?

If the moles hang from a slender thread boil a pair of scissors for 10 minutes. When cool clip the mole off and then touch the bleeding point with a stick of alum.

If the mole is flat it is advisable to have it thoroughly removed by a good surgeon, who will see to it that no cancer can ever locate itself in the wound.

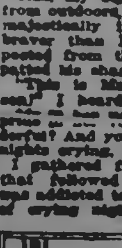
The Question of Children

XXXVIII.



LEONA DALRYMPLE

I HAVE had a shock and a very real one. It came about in an odd manner. Mary had been entertaining the card club I remember now she had told me of her plans in the early morning, but I must have forgotten. Therefore when I came home from the office and found the house festively alight, I was a little surprised and slipped in at the rear. Thence I made my way to my den and sat lazily by the window in the summer twilight, smoking my pipe.

From the rooms beyond came the general hum and clatter of laughter and conversation, snatches of fashion talk and the eternal personalities in which women delight. There was a table very close to the door and Mrs. Penfield, Mary's mother, was playing there. There is a certain conversational gush about Mary's mother that is unmistakable.

Rex, my big collie, came romping in from outdoors, sniffed about and walked majestically into the party. Rex is braver than I. Mrs. Penfield, I suspected from the thumping of his tail, patted his shaggy head indulgently.

"This is Mary's baby, Mrs. Anderson," I heard her say, with fatuous praise in her voice. "Isn't he just wonderful? And you don't keep Mary awake nights crying, do you Rex?"

I gathered from the stifled laughter that followed that somebody's baby was addicted to the uncomfortable habit of crying nights and that Mrs. Penfield's reference was not without spite.

The players shifted. Mrs. Penfield evidently remained, for her voice came clearly to me again a little later.

"Of course, Jane hasn't been so fortunate as Mary," she was saying in sweetly acidulated tones of patronage. "Jane is tied down with a young baby and can't go anywhere. Dreadful, isn't it?"

I listened intently from that time on, something in Mrs. Penfield's voice rousing an unconscious resentment. I soon learned the reason for that fatuous arrogance in her tone. She was flaunting in the face of the young mothers in the club Mary's childless freedom.

I confess I was greatly shocked. Mary's indifference to children had often jarred upon me. Now I was ferreting forth the secret of it. It was a reflex of her mother's undermining instruction.

What sort of a mother will deliberately discourage her daughter's interest in the normal function of every woman who is a wife?

Mary's mother, in an insane desire to shield her daughter from physical hardship, is subtly undermining my future happiness. And she is deliberately patronizing the young wives who have babies. I was inexpressibly horrified.

Later I spoke to Mary.

"Mary," I said quietly, "tell me, why does your mother speak so slightingly of the girls who are married and have babies? Is it some sort of disgrace to her way of thinking?"

"Mother," said Mary, coloring, "thinks it is a great pity for a girl to be so tied down—"

I wheeled suddenly.

"Mary," I flamed, "tell me honestly, do you want to go through life without children?"

"Yes," said she, defiantly, "I do, Peter. I—I don't see why women have to bear it all."

I was sick with anger. Mary's mother has sent to me a wife who knows nothing of the duties of womanhood. Now she is putting into her mouth shallow, artificial arguments that may wreck our lives. Mary and I quarrelled terribly. I told her that the childless wife is but a legalised mistress, and Mary cried

A mother then may be a harmful influence. It is a disturbing thought.

What Cheer Is Worth

By Tom Jackson

BE cheerful as from day to day life's journey you pursue, for worry won't extend the time on notes a-comin' due. It makes white streaks among one's thatch, puts wrinkles on one's brow; it doesn't help stave off a debt which must be paid somehow. So just brace up, and try and keep your mind in cheerful frame—for worry will not trouble cure, the bunch will come the same. Just try and do the best you can, and do it with a smile, for worry puts one on the fritz within a little while. If one month's rent you chance to owe, be glad it isn't four; and, if there's worry to be done, let landlord walk the floor. To touch you for a dollar bill perhaps a friend may strive, then laugh unto yourself and say, "I'm glad it wasn't five." Things may be pretty bad at times, and 'way upon the blink, but they could be a blame sight worse, if you'd but stop and think. When clouds are rolling thick around, appearing mighty black, remember, like a looking glass, they have a shiny back.

The worry puts a man all in, and causes care to cank; it never aided any one to put dough in the bank. It makes deep lines beneath one's eyes, like on a railroad map; it never helped a little bit, and isn't worth a rap. And so be cheerful—that's the stuff that helps to win the race. Old worry handicaps a man, his chances and his face.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS

THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at the office of any Local Agent of Dominion Lands (not sub-agent), on certain conditions.

Duties.—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required in every case, except when residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside of his homestead. Price $3 per acre. Duties.—Six months residence in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and 50 acres extra cultivation. The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land after report by Homestead Inspector on application for patent.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price, $3 per acre. Duties.—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

A CLEAN KITCHEN

Some Easy Rules For Keeping It Sanitary

In these days of applied domestic science, and when hygienic living is being emphasized, it behooves housekeepers to see that some simple rules for cleanliness, especially as regards the kitchen, are enforced.

Take the matter of the kitchen sink. It should be kept scrupulously clean, for drain pipes not in good condition breed disease. Flush the sink often with boiling water and soda, and if at any time the water fails to run off freely, use one of the vacuum pumps and remedy the stoppage immediately.

See that the hands are clean before touching cooking utensils.

Pots and pans need careful attention. Not only should they be carefully washed in soap and water, but they should be rinsed in scalding water and then wiped with clean cloths.

Too little attention is given by many housewives to the matter of dish cloths, dish mops and dish towels. These washing helps should themselves be washed after every meal and the dish mop and dish cloth should be scalded at least once a day.

Not only should all fruit be washed before it is used, but one should be sure that vegetables are clean. It is difficult to be sure that such vegetables as lettuce, Brussels sprouts, cauliflower and cabbage are clean unless they stand in salted water for some time. The salt water will draw out the insects lodged in the vegetable.

Pay careful attention to the refrigerator, within and without. Use plenty of hot water and soap in washing the refrigerator; flush the drainage pipe thoroughly and scald out the drip pan daily. Slime in the drip pan means disease.

In putting away food, put it away in the right way. Do not leave soups or other warm vegetables closely covered. If you do, they will sour. Use the screen tops when close-fitting ones are not practical.

Do not leave bottles or pitchers of milk uncovered. If you have not the celluloid, metal or paper tops, put an inverted glass or jelly tumbler over the bottle.

To aid in keeping the air of the refrigerator clean, keep a saucer of powdered charcoal on one of the shelves.

Make it a rule if anything is spilled in the refrigerator to clean it up at once.

To Wash Silk Embroidered Articles

For washing silk embroidered cushions covers, etc., use bran instead of soap, for this will cleanse without injury to the color, unless, of course the silk is very badly dyed. Tie a couple of handfuls of bran in muslin—leaving plenty of room for the bran to swell—and plunge it into the boiling water, which will be ready for use when cool. Wash the articles thoroughly, using a second supply of bran-water, if needed.

No starch will be wanted, for the bran will stiffen sufficiently. If no stiffness be desired, rinse in two cold rinsing waters. Squeeze in a clean cloth and dry as soon as possible.

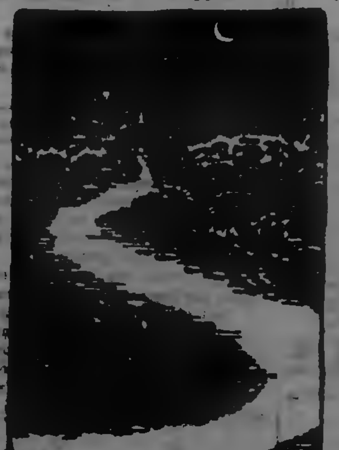
Iron on the wrong side till dry, iron over a thick blanket, so that the embroidery may be nicely raised, and iron that first, to prevent the colors running if they are at all inclined to do so.

CLEARLY MARKED PATH

Lime Will Give Sense of Security in Lonely Communities

Did you ever tread a path across a field, or through a wood, at night, stumble over vegetation, tin cans, rocks or rotten branches?

If so, you will appreciate every man's "great white way," which is made possible by scattering lime along the pathway. The lime makes the path as definite and certain as the most brilliantly lighted thoroughfare and costs next to nothing.



To Clean Lamp Chimneys

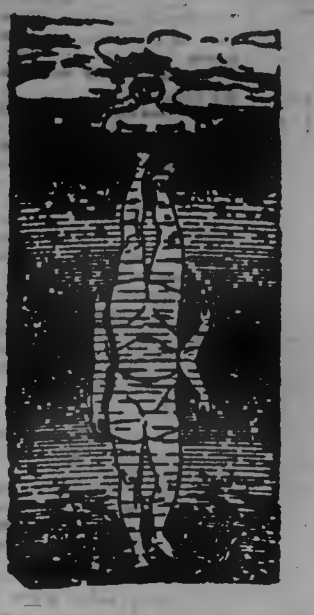
A lamp chimney is one of the most difficult things to get perfectly clean without a lot of trouble. Here's a way to lessen the difficulty. Put a stick through a rubber ball and cut slits in the ball. Use this to wash out the chimney. The elastic surface of the ball will fit tightly against the surface of the glass, but will not stick and can be rubbed as hard as any one wants without breaking the glass.

THE OCEAN'S DEPTHS EXPLORED BY FILM

Famous French Scientist, Master of "Oceanography," Takes Parisians on Weird "Trip"

The marvels of "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea"—that famous fancy of submarine adventure—are far surpassed in reality, as has just been shown by a scientific "expedition" into the deepest abysses of the Atlantic ocean! M. Louis Joubin, famous French scientist, after years of research, practically "conducted" Parisians on a wonderful voyage from continent to continent in the eternal calm that lies three miles deep under the Atlantic billows. The "trip," however, was really taken at the Oceanographic Institute in Paris—taken by means of moving pictures and lectures on what the floor of the sea looks like.

M. Joubin pretended to lead his hearers down into the ocean from the coast of France. They were shown by films not only fish and plants that have long been familiar to science—but they also made astonishing discoveries as to the way objects appear to a human eye submerged under water. Due to the bending of rays of light when they enter the water and the reflection of rays from the underside of the surface back towards the bottom, it is difficult, Joubin proved to them, to tell the location of the head of a man walking on the bottom, and a double image was produced which was very confusing, as the accompanying sketch shows.



How a man would look if we viewed him under the sea

After crossing the "sidewalk" or comparatively shallow ledge around the coast, the explorers "plunged" suddenly into the abyss. Three solid miles of black salt water rolled over their heads! The freak fish that inhabit those mysterious realms carry their own searchlights—little phosphorescent lamps—about them to illumine the blackness of their native sea. And the floor of the ocean itself is lit up with a pale glow sent out by the thousands of minute animals which cling to it. The ocean floor is covered with gray mud, encrusted with the shells of uncounted millions of tiny animals. The temperature of the ocean depths is so frigid that the bodies of fish that have died in upper layers of the ocean and have fallen to the bottom do not rot, but gradually dissolve, forming a gruesome slime. This many of the sea-beasts eat.

The air that they breathe is also obtained in a curious way. The waters of the ocean near the north Pole are naturally very cold, and cold water is heavy and tends to sink. As it sinks, the warmer water from the tropics flows northward along the surface of the sea and takes its place. But cold water has a tendency to absorb oxygen in great abundance. And so this cold water which sinks to the bottom of the ocean is heavily charged with oxygen. There it forms a current flowing southward to replace the surface water of the tropics which—in the Gulf Stream—is drawn northward as above described.

This deep-sea current, Mr. Joubin's explorers found, is divided in two streams by a great submarine mountain range which extends north and south through the center of the Atlantic. After crossing this range the "explorers" visited Nares Deep between the Bermudas and West Indies where the water is five miles deep; thence they gradually ascended to the shore line of North America.

Beware the Feather Duster

The old fashioned feather duster with its long handle is no doubt a great convenience to those housekeepers who are unable to do much stretching or stooping, but it does not accomplish its purpose. It only scatters the dust from one article to another because the feathers cannot hold it. A substitute for the feather duster that will do the work better is a child's broom, the head covered with a bit of cotton flannel or an old stocking cut open finished off with two ruffles made from the material doubled. With this aid tops of windows and doors, also baseboards and all places difficult to reach by the hand may be thoroughly dusted. Since the fabric will hold the dust it is permanently removed, not changed from one place to another.

AN ARTIST OF NERVE

Remarkable Daring and Coolness in an Alpine Accident.

The architect Viollet le Duc was one day on the Schwarzenberg glacier at a height of about 9,000 feet, accompanied by Baptiste, the guide, who marched in front. The two men were attached to each other by a rope, as is usual in Alpine mountaineering.

The guide had passed over a crevasse, but when M. Viollet le Duc attempted to cross it he failed and fell into the abyss. The guide tried to pull him out, but instead he found himself gradually descending.

The architect perceived that his companion if he persisted in the attempt to save him would surely share his fate, and he asked if Baptiste had a family.

"A wife and children," was the answer.

"Then," said Viollet le Duc quietly, "I shall cut the rope."

He did so and fell, but a block of ice thirty feet lower down stopped his descent. When Baptiste saw this and that for a time the danger was lessened he went in search of help and returned with four stout peasants. Three hours afterward Viollet le Duc was extricated.

In spite of his perilous position the ruling passion was strong with the artist, for, although he was almost covered with icicles from the dripping water, he had contrived to make drawings of the novel effects he was able to perceive.

The Men Don't Deserve It.

"I defy any one to name a field of endeavor in which men do not receive more consideration than women!" exclaimed the orator at a suffragette meeting.

"The chorus," murmured some irresponsible person.—Lippincott's.

Too Brisky.

A young wife concocted a biscuit.
Her husband, too fearful to riscuit,
Smashed a beautiful vase
Which stood near the place
Where he slyly attempted to whiscuit.
—Boston Transcript.

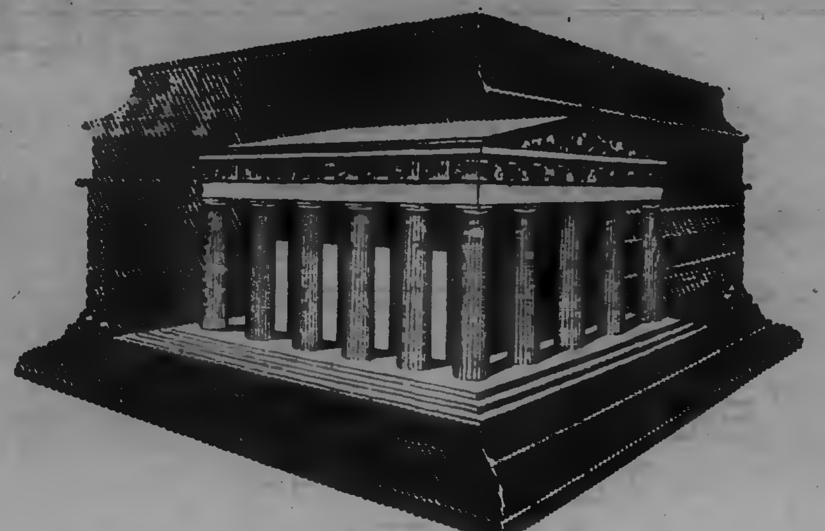
The Only Way.

Her—I've suffered in every possible way since I married you.

Him—Pardon me, dear. There's one way you haven't suffered.

Her—How?

Him—In silence.—Cleveland Leader.



Your Temple of Music

The unmatched beauty of the Greeks' early temples has been the inspiration of architects for 2000 years. But their music is gone—forgotten. No genius can "restore" it as we do the crumbling columns of her Acropolis.

We have caught the spirit of their art, however, in the design of the modern temple of music—the Grafonola.

The Favorite, for instance, embodies the same principles of proportion and contour, and as an example of cabinet-making pays the same tribute to modern music as the architecture of the Greek temples did to ancient music. Grafonola music is worthy of this tribute.

You can put this modern Temple of Music with its inexhaustible repertoire in your own home for as little as $20.00.

You pay for it in convenient monthly amounts, whether you purchase the Grand at $650 or a lower priced instrument.

SIMPLE BUT DISTINCTIVE IS THIS ONE-PIECE BLOUSE OF BROCADE

Whereas skirts just now are trimmed quite considerably, blouses depend for effect upon cleverness of cut and simplicity of lines. Many are cut in one piece, and this renders the figured materials, brocades, silks, etc., still more attractive, as the pattern is not disturbed.

For afternoon affairs these figured blouses with skirts repeating the predominating shade are most practical as well as pleasing. Several blouses may be worn with the same skirt, each combination giving the appearance of a new frock.

No. 8100 is an attractive example of brocade combined with a taffetas skirt; there is a small self figure in the taffetas, but this does not clash with the figure of the blouse.

The skirt (8164) is a peg-top with the fullness laid in about the waist-line.

To copy this costume in size 36 it requires for the waist 1½ yards of 36 inch silk ranging in price from $1.50 per yard up; for the skirt, in size 24, 3½ yards of 36 inch taffetas from $1.25 a yard and up.

No. 8195 is another frock that shows a simple kimono blouse with a two-tiered skirt. It is fashioned of charmeuse, plain and figured. A chemisette of net fills in the front and an unusually good collar completes the costume.

This dress requires for size 36 6¼ yards of 36 inch charmeuse, which ranges in price from $1.50 up.

No. 8100—sizes 32 to 42.
No. 8164—sizes 22 to 32.
No. 8195—sizes 34 to 44.
Each pattern 15 cents.

OF SLIGHTLY MORE PRACTICAL CHARACTER THAN THE REGULATION EVENING WRAP, BUT QUITE AS ATTRACTIVE

In purchasing a wrap for dressy wear most women prefer a model that is suited to more than mere evening use. The automobile has influenced designers in this direction, and we see on every side coats and wraps for automobile wear; however these are no longer the severe models that were first put forth, but gracefully draped designs that may be worn over the afternoon frock or for evening.

No. 8222 is a model of this description; it is dressy enough for evening, but appropriate for afternoon as well. Here it is made of matelassé in one of the old red tones; the collar is of black plush. On a coat of this sort most attractive buttons of semi-precious stones, carved ivory, etc., are effective as trimming.

To copy this model in size 36 it requires 3¾ yards of 42 inch matelassé or other coating material.

Matelassé is wide and ranges in price $4 a yard and up.

No. 8233 is a little afternoon dress developed in flowered crepon and relieved by bands of plain black taffetas. The bodice opens over a vest of cream colored net; a girdle of black taffetas with a wide, softly tied bow in front completes the design.

No. 8233—sizes 32 to 44.
No. 8222—sizes 34 to 44.
Each pattern 15 cents.

To obtain either pattern illustrated fill out this coupon and enclose 15 cents in stamps or coin. Be sure to state number of pattern and size, measuring over the fullest part of the bust. Address Pattern Department, care of this paper.

Women's Ailments Caused by Neglect

Proper Treatment Will Quickly Bring Back Robust Health and Good Spirits.

Women are on the whole more sickly than men. One reason is that their system is more complicated; another and more important reason is they put off measures of relief too long. At the beginning, constipation is the cause of nine-tenths of women's ailments. The blood becomes weakened and polluted — the nerves suffer and a run-down condition takes root.

Because of their remedies of action as a system regulator, no medicine for women can compare with Dr. Hamilton's Pills. The kidneys quickly respond to the remedial action of Dr. Hamilton's Pills and the result is as you would expect—pain in the back and side, shortness of breath, and bad color disappear—the functions of the body then operate naturally, congestion and pain are prevented and perfect health returns.

Thousands of happy women say Dr. Hamilton's Pills are the greatest and best blood-purifier, the finest complexion renewer, the most certain regulating medicine known. Sold by all druggists and storekeepers, 25c. per box, five for $1.00, postpaid. The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Lindsay Counterfeiters Off.

Lindsay Post: The two prisoners, Burke and Burkholder, accompanied by Governor G. Balfour, of the county jail, and Deputy-Sheriff G. Foster, left on the 7 a.m. train for Kingston "Pen." to-day. The counterfeiters were joined together with a handcuff and closely watched by the officers in charge that their escape would not be possible.

To Investigate Omemee Fire

Lindsay Post: Mayor H. T. Hughes, of the C. R. C. E., Ottawa, was expected to arrive in town to-day in connection with the new armory, which on his coming he will inspect and report if the work is dully finished; he will also form a board while in town. The major, it is understood, will visit Omemee and deal with matters incidental to the burning of the armory in that village.

"When Dreams Come True"

Jimmy Lewis, the Hunter Street barber is a firm believer that dreams convey omens for good and bad and carry a message. On Thursday night he dreamed of a white horse. Yesterday morning at breakfast he told about his dream and remarked, "I've bet there'll be a death in the family inside of a week." Death came sooner than he expected. On going to feed his chickens one of his best layers was dead. Old age killed it.

Kingston Standard: Mr. David McKee, who has been dangerously ill in Peterborough was removed from there last Friday evening to undergo treatment here. He is in a very precarious state, but his physician, Dr. Gibson, hopes to pull him through. His father and brother accompanied him from the above city. Mr. McKee's many friends of the Electric town, and in this city hope he will recover. He was an employee of the Electric Works there and is highly respected by his employers.

Quick Cure for His Rheumatism

ROBERT J. PYLE FOUND IT IN DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

He Suffered for a Year, but His Return to Health was Quick and His Cure Complete.

Bourg Louis, Que., March 6.—(Special).—How quickly Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure rheumatism and other forms of Kidney Disease when taken in the early stages is shown in the case of Mr. Robt. J. Pyle, a well-known farmer living near here.

In an interview Mr. Pyle says: "Working in cold, wet weather was the cause of my trouble, and for about a year I had occasional cramps in the muscles, and stiffness in the joints. I was often dizzy and felt depressed and low spirited. I was nervous and my skin itched and burned at night.

"When Rheumatism was finally added to my ills I decided to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. One box cured me completely, and I have had no return of my trouble."

Dodd's Kidney Pills cured Mr. Pyle's Rheumatism because it was caused by sick Kidneys. Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure sick kidneys. If you have any two of Mr. Pyle's symptoms you have sick kidneys and you need Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Dog Tax to Be Observed.

The local police are determined to see that the dog tag or tax by-law is strictly observed. Special reservations are made in the case of an owner or possessor of a kennel of pure bred dogs, that are registered in the Canada Register. The owner or harborer of every dog in the city shall on or before the first of May in each year, cause the same to be registered in the office of the Chief of Police Thompson, and obtain from him a license and tag. A breach of the by-law may place the dog in the confines of that bourne from which no dog has yet returned

McClay Gets a Year.

"John McClay—There has just been handed to me a statement under the hand and seal of the Chief Justice of Ontario, stating that the case against you has been sustained in the Appellate Court, and that you were rightly convicted by me, some little time ago. You are therefore brought before me for sentence." These were the words with which His Honor Judge Huycke, addressed the prisoner, when he was arraigned before that Justice on remand. McClay, it will be remembered, was, some weeks ago, charged with supplying drugs for criminal purposes. He was found guilty of the charge by Judge Huycke. The case was taken to the Appellate Court by prisoner's counsel, but the five presiding Judges upheld the conviction that was given

An English Joke.

Mr. E. S. Carman, Toronto Inspector of the Yorkshire Insurance, was in the city yesterday. In speaking to a Times representative, he told the following story, which is worth repetition. "You know I came originally from Norwich, England. Some years ago I visited London for the first time. Acting on advice of a friend, I took a seat on the "boot" or front of a bus, tipped the driver and got him to explain the various points of interest we passed. As we drove through Clerkenwell, near Holloway jail, I saw the driver wave a friendly hand at a friend of his sitting on a balcony. The greeting was returned. Then the driver drew a piece of cord from his vest pocket and waved it at his acquaintance, who smiled back at him. I asked the driver what the cord was waved for? He replied, 'Oh its just a bit of a jaoke we 'ave; you knaow 'is fawthaw was 'ung.'"

An Unfounded Liquor Charge.

Port Hope Guide: The Provincial Government and their special officer, Alexander Corrian should feel heartily ashamed of themselves after the attempt they made this morning to convict George Page, of Millbrook, for selling liquor without a license. The information was laid by Alexander Corrian and the only grounds for such information was that Thomas Robinson was seen coming from the Page Hotel on Feb. 11th, and his manner of walking indicated that he had been drinking. The fact of the matter was that Mr. Robinson a few minutes before had been thrown from his rig in a runaway and had received injuries that made him walk lame. In giving evidence this morning he swore that he received no liquor at the Page house, neither had he tasted liquor that day. Case dismissed.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

Mrs. Levi Bullied, Chandos.

Mrs. Levi Bullied, wife of Mr. Levi Bullied, Chandos, passed away Wednesday morning, March 4th. It was a shock to the whole community, being very sudden. Mrs. Bullied was a great favorite with everyone and her death will be mourned by a large circle of relatives and friends. Mr. Bullied had only been married about a year, and it is only a few weeks since he lost his house and contents by fire. Those who are left to mourn her death have the sincere sympathy of the entire community. Funeral took place, Friday, from her residence, Chandos, to the churchyard, Apsley.

LATEST FROM APSEY.

Mr. J. G. Hardill, of Richors Ltd., E. E. Caase, of Kingan Hardware Co., L. Jewell, of Hopwood Co., and J. Doughty, representing the Toledo Scale Co., Ohio, took Apsley by storm Wednesday, March 4. Mr. Hardill always brings a bunch of up-to-date commercial travellers with him, who this time secured good fat orders from the Apsley merchants. This will make about 120 trips for John to Apsley, and he is beginning to think he owns the Burleigh road, in all the years that he has been coming to Apsley has not missed a trip, and never failed to get good orders. Mr. Doughty made a sale of one of the Co.'s fine scales to Mr. Simon Windsor, which was encouraging.

Lumbering operations are progressing favorably in this section. A few more weeks of this weather and nearly, if not all, the logs will be on the dumps. Sandy will have a busy summer at his mill, as he will have about 2,000 custom logs to cut. At present he is busy turning out pike poles and peavy stocks, for which he has a large demand from not only the Peterborough Lumber Co., but from other companies at a distance.

HUDSON Light Six

For $2,300—a Quality Six Below Same Class Tours, Less Weight, Less Fuel Cost Than Fours

The HUDSON Six-40 comes out this year to offer legions of motorists just what they have wanted—

A light-weight Six—2,980 pounds.
An economical Six—
A high-grade Six under $2500.

Howard E. Coffin, the great HUDSON engineer, has now solved all these problems. He has made a Six which underweighs any comparable Four. He has made a motor, with small bore and long stroke, which uses far less fuel than any equal-powered Four.

And the HUDSON factory, through enormous output, is selling that Six below the price of any same-class Four.

New HUDSON SIXES
Six-40—$2,300
Six-54—$2,950
f. o. b. Detroit, Duty Paid

A NEW-TYPE CAR

This new-type motor follows the latest European practice. Its operative cost is far below what is possible in Fours. The new-type Body—an ideal streamline body—also follows Europe's vogue.

The gasoline tank is in the dash. The extra tires are carried ahead of the front door. It has the convenient new "One-Man" top. The curtains are quick-adjusting and attached. All hinges concealed, speedometer gears concealed. Disappearing tonneau seats. Dimming searchlights. Hand-buffed leather upholstering. The Delco patent system of electric starting and lighting.

It is almost identical in design and equipment with the new HUDSON Six-54. And that is considered the handsomest car of the year.

NOW FOURS MUST GO

This new Six-40 means that four-cylinder cars at any like price must go.

The Six is too smooth-running, too flexible, too free from vibration, too saving of tires to leave any question on this point.

And a Six depreciates, in this day of Sixes, very much less than a Four.

Now comes a Six of quality lighter, more economical, lower in price than equal-class Fours. So not one reason now remains for clinging to a Four.

YOU'LL BE INTERESTED

Come see this car. See the new-style body, the new-type engine, the many new attractions in design and equipment.

The HUDSON last year built more Sixes than any other factory in the world. But the demand for this new car—this light Six-40—is breaking all HUDSON records. Men who are likely to want early delivery are urged to call at once.

54 of the 79 Automobile Exhibitors at the 14th National Automobile Show held in New York January 3 to 10 this year, displayed six-cylinder cars. Eighteen showed Sixes exclusively. That emphasizes the dominance of Sixes.

SIR GEORGE ROSS' LONG LIFE ENDS--DEATH WAS PEACEFUL

Former Premier of Ontario Died in Toronto at 8 o'Clock Saturday Morning—Was Active in Many Spheres

Toronto, Mar. 7.—Sir George Ross is dead. His life of service to the world came to an end at 8 o'clock on Saturday in Toronto General Hospital, where for weeks he has been lying—slowly growing weaker until just before the end he lost all consciousness and then died peacefully. The last week he lay in a state of coma, until Thursday night, when consciousness returned and his mind was clear. Then he was quite rational and talked to Lady Ross and visitors. But that was the last time, for Friday afternoon he sank again into his former state. At five o'clock on Saturday morning it was known the end was fast approaching and just at eight o'clock his life slipped out into the beyond.

Sir George William Ross was leader of the Senate for years, a member of Parliament in the early days of Canadian Confederation, a former minister of education of Ontario, a former premier of Ontario, a charter member and fellow of the Royal Society of Canada, and was the first president of the Authors' Society.

Sir George Ross was the son of the late James Ross, who, with his wife Ellen McKinnon, both natives of Ross-shire, Scotland, came to Canada in 1832. Sir George was born near Nairn, County Middlesex, Ont., in 1841, and received his early education in the public schools. After receiving a first-class county board certificate empowering him to teach, he took a course at the Normal School, Toronto, and left it with a first-class provincial certificate. At a later period he matriculated in law at Albert University, graduated LL.B., 1883, and was called to the bar in 1887.

School Inspector.

In 1871 he was appointed inspector of public schools for the county of Lambton and acted subsequently in a similar capacity for the towns of Petrolea and Strathroy. When the establishment of additional Normal Schools was agitated in Ontario he took a leading part in the creation of the county model school system. After their organization he prepared a syllabus of lectures for their direction and filled the position of inspector. From 1876 to 1880 he was a member of the central committee of examiners. He steadily contended for the uniformity of text books and favored the limiting of Normal Schools to professional work. A Liberal in politics he was elected in that interest to the house of commons for West Middlesex at the general elections in 1872, and continued the representative of that riding at Ottawa up to November, 1883, when he entered the administration of Sir Oliver Mowat in Ontario as minister of education. This office he retained under the late Hon. A. S. Hardy, and was also a member for West Middlesex in the legislature. He devoted some years to journalistic work, being at one time editor of The Strathroy Age, and at another time part proprietor of the Huron Expositor. He was also conductor of the Ontario Teacher, a publication which proved of great service to educationalists in all parts of the province.

Allied With Prohibitionists.

For many years he was prominently identified with the temperance cause. He was elected most worthy patriarch of the Sons of Temperance of North America in 1879; founded the Temperance Colonization Company in 1882, attended the British and Colonial Temperance Congress, held in London in 1886; was elected president of the Temperance and General Life Assurance Co., 1885 and was elected a vice-president of the Ontario Prohibition Alliance in 1896.

The funeral will take place from his late residence, 3 Elmsley Place, on Tuesday afternoon, and will be private.

MR. L. M. HAYES FOR JUDGE

OTTAWA WILL NOT HOLD ELECTION

City Council Decides to Obey Ruling of Justice Middleton on Water Supply.

Ottawa, March 7.—At a meeting this afternoon the city council decided to obey the ruling of Justice Middleton, who granted a restraining order this morning ordering the council not to take a vote of the ratepayers on Monday on a five-question and negative plebiscite for a water supply for the city.

It was decided to make application to the legislature next week, however, for enabling legislation legalizing the form of the present ballot and asking permission to take the vote on it Monday, March 16. Mayor McVeity and six of the aldermen left the council chamber during the proceedings, protesting the meeting had been irregularly called and could take no action. However, the remainder of the aldermen and controllers appointed a chairman and proceeded with business.

WANTS DOMINION GOVERNMENT TO PLAN OLD AGE PENSION MEASURE

What Montreal Mail's Ottawa Correspondent Says Regarding the Project

The Montreal Mail's Ottawa correspondent says in regard to Old Age Pensions:

Old Age pensions were again discussed in the House of Commons, not that there was any expectation of the proposal being adopted at present, but for the purpose of asserting the need for such a system and keeping the subject before the country.

A similar discussion two years ago led to the appointing of a special committee to report on the question, and a vast amount of evidence was taken from men in all classes of occupations from the Atlantic to the Pacific. The evidence has been published and interim reports made from time to time but the final report has not been submitted.

CLAIMS NEED FOR PENSIONS.

Mr. J. H. Burnham, chairman of this committee, and Mr. W. F. Carrol, another member, said to-day that they were convinced by the evidence they had heard that there was need for an old age pension system in Canada, and there was also a public opinion sufficient to warrant the adoption of such a system.

Mr. E. M. Macdonald and Hon. G. P. Graham strongly supported the resolution introduced by Mr. Geo. W. Kyte, Richmond, N.S.

HON. MR. WHITE'S VIEWS.

Hon. W. T. White, Minister of Finance, speaking for the Government, claimed that public opinion was not ripe for the establishment of old age pensions at the present time, and, in addition, the heavy expenditures which the country had to meet for important national undertakings made it inadvisable to assume the additional burden of seven or ten millions or more per year which an old age pension system would require. Mr. White, however, expressed sincere sympathy with the intentions of those advocating the system, and believed that the time would come when the question would have to be dealt with.

WANTS OLD AGE PENSION SYSTEM FOR CANADA

Mr. George W. Kyte, Richmond, N. S., moved, "That in the opinion of this House an old age pension system for Canada should be inaugurated." It had been adopted, he said, in Great Britain, Germany, Australia, New Zealand, and elsewhere. In Canada, pension systems were provided by various branches of the public service as well as by the larger railway companies, banks, and some of the leading industrial companies.

An argument used against the old age pension system, he continued, was that the cost would be excessive. But Professor Mavor, of Toronto University, had estimated that $1 week for 72,000 persons in Canada over 65 years of age would cost the country $7,500,000 a year. Mr. G. D. Finlayson of the finance department estimated the cost at $7,657,861.

At present over $3,000,000 was being spent yearly in Canada on old peoples homes. The working classes and artisans, he concluded, were just as deserving of old age pensions as those who are already provided for by the Government services and by large corporations.

TIME NOT OPPORTUNE, SAYS BURNHAM

Mr. J. H. Burnham, Peterborough, said, that a pension system was just a means of levelling up the distribution of wealth. The committee of old age pensions of which he was chairman had taken evidence at the last two sessions from every form of industrial life, and he believed this was not the time to ask the Government starting an old age pension scheme, to undertake the responsibility of its financial difficulties were heavy enough at present. But while this was largely an academic discussion the subject was well worth consideration.

COMMENDS MRS. HENDERSON'S EVIDENCE.

One of the most interesting witnesses heard by this committee, he said, was Mrs. Henderson of Montreal. Her views had impressed the members. She believed that old age pensions would be an infinite benefit to the people. Wages were so low that it was impossible for many workingmen to put away savings for their old age. It was becoming impossible for some of them to pay their union dues and their insurance. The cost of living had gone up tremendously in the last few years and the children were forced to go out to work more than ever to help support the home. Canada she said, should profit by the mistakes of other nations. The poorhouses of England were a system of national disgrace.

Mr. Burnham deplored the widening gulf between the rich and the poor in Canada. A wealthy class was rowing up who enjoyed their automobiles and would enjoy their airships, "while the poor," he added, "were allowed to go to the devil."

TO HADES BY AUTOMOBILE

"Some go there in automobiles" interjected Hon. G. P. Graham.

"If they want to go there in their automobiles, I have no objection. I have no use for those who give themselves up solely to the enjoyment of their wealth," retorted Mr. Burnham.

"The testimony of this country is overwhelmingly in favor of an old age pension system," he said, and there was a strong feeling that widows left with children to bring up should be provided for if only to save the children from falling into evil ways and into crime because the mother had to go to work and could not keep a watch on them.

THE 25TH ANNIVERSARY

This coming spring marks the twenty-fifth anniversary of the creation of the C.P.R. of the floral department which, though it is immediately concerned with aesthetic effects, has been a splendidly paying feature of the organization—paying, that is, in the sense of popularizing the system with the traveling public. Twenty-five years ago the company began the work tentatively, and almost apologetically it seemed, in a system which was marked, and which had to be marked, by a relentless utilitarianism, that to introduce poetry when you wanted dividends was to "slop over," in an absurdly sentimental way. The work, feeble as it was done at the start, showed gratifying results. The agents and section men showed that with a little encouragement their native love of flowers would be a factor which could be depended on to make the floral department a success. The work grew until today, from coast to coast, every station in the summer time has its plot of flowers, while along the track one may see a blaze of color as the train rushes by.

It is now the time when the spring seeds are being sent in. In these are put up, in carefully sealed packages, at least 37 varieties—seeds obtained from many diverse quarters, but the whole forming, if used, a beautiful floral synthesis. Scores of thousands of these packages are being sent out along the line to the agents and section hands—to all in employment of the company who will undertake to care for them and take a pride in their growth. In the early fall thousands of bulbs are sent out — narcissi, jonquils, tulips, hyacinths, daffodils and all the familiar names which have their appeal in the homes of the agents when they appear in bloom, either in the earth itself or in glass-vase cultivation against the windows. When these have gratified the eye and finished their course, the seeds will be ready to come up, and thus the year round, all over the vast system, there is a color scheme which has the most inspiring effect. The company has received many letters from passengers complimenting it on the floral department, and testifying, not only to the aesthetic, but moral effect of the parterres in front of the stations on the long journey between coasts

JURY DRANK WHISKEY NEW TRIAL IS ORDERED

Conviction Reversed Because Jurymen Consumed Nine Quarts of Liquor.

Harrisburg, Ark., Mar. 7.—One of the reasons given for reversing the conviction of Charles Myers, sentenced to electrocution for murder, was that the trial jury drank nine quarts of whiskey while deliberating. The supreme court also says there is additional evidence justifying a new trial.

Myers was convicted last October of killing John Bass, a neighbor, in a quarrel over property lines. Myers is now in jail at Jonesboro and will seek a change of venue.

CABINET DRAWS DEEP VEIL OVER THE IRISH DECISION

Plenty of Latitude for Home Rule Rumorists, But No Real Knowledge

London, Mar. 7.—With the announcement of the premier that he proposed to make on March 9 his eagerly expected statement regarding the concessions which the government is willing to grant to the Ulster Protestants public interest has again centred on the Home Rule bill. This week the air has been full of rumors as to the compromise that will be offered, but none of the various anticipations appear to be based on real knowledge. Certainly the secrecy of the cabinet's deliberations has been maintained to a quite unusual extent, so great indeed as to render it probable that ministers have been placed doubly on their honor. Under ordinary circumstances some reliable indication of the mind of the cabinet is afforded or can be gauged, but over the Home Rule compromise a deep veil has been drawn which has given more than common latitude to speculation.

King's Position in Crisis.

Yet another point arousing extraordinary discussion bears on the part played by the King in this crisis. For some time past the opposition extremists have been loudly calling upon the King to either veto the measure should it be submitted for his approval, or to dissolve parliament of his own volition if need be and without the consent of the cabinet.

MOTHER SUICIDES AFTER SON'S ARREST

Brooding Over Trouble is Thought to Be Cause of Woman's Awful Deed.

Woodstock, March 7.—By hanging herself in a barn at the rear of her home, near Otterville, Mrs. Brown, well-known in that vicinity, committed suicide this morning. The body was found hanging to a beam by a son-in-law.

Mrs. Brown had been left alone since Tuesday, when her two sons, Walter and John, were arrested as members of a gang which during the past two months have been engaged in wholesale looting in Otterville district. Brooding over this trouble is thought to have been the cause of the suicide. John and Walter Brown now awaiting sentence in the jail here were released this afternoon under a heavy bond in order to attend their mother's funeral.

EIGHTEEN MEN ADRIFT ON OCEAN IN OPEN BOAT

Captain and Crew of Charlemagne, Who put of in Lifeboat When Steamer Sank, Cannot be Found

Seaside Park, N.J., Mar. 7.—Eighteen members of the crew of the steamer Charlemagne Tower, jr., which sank near here, are adrift on the ocean in an open boat. The last seen of them they were going out to sea in a southeastern direction. The steamer sank in 50 feet of water three-quarters of a mile from shore between Cedar creek and Forked river life-saving station, six miles south of here.

H. B. Thompson, of Brooklyn, first mate, and three members of the crew were brought ashore.

The revenue cutter Itasca reached the scene after the steamer went down. The commander of the cutter was signalled from shore of the predicament of the eighteen men among whom is the captain and the Itasca put to sea to search for the missing men.

The Tower was owned by the Southern Transportation Company, with which Charles W. Morse of New York is identified. It is said that this was the first trip of the steamer in six years and that the crew was new to the officers.

The captain is Harold Symons. According to the crew he edged in towards shore because he did not care to risk going on the bar and have the boat pounded to pieces. All hands were ordered into the boats an hour before the steamer sank. There were only three boats on the ship and one was used for the clothes and other personal effects of the crew. This boat came ashore to-day at Barnegat Inlet.

The most of the crew were virtually strangers to one another, they being known to each other only as "Mike" "Charlie," etc. The second mate is named Neaves and his home is in Boston.

W. W. JANNEY DIED SUDDENLY AT GALT

Galt, Ont., March 7.—The death occurred early this morning of W.W. Janney, at the family residence, Lansdowne avenue. Deceased was a highly respected citizen and was associated with the Shurley Dietrich Co. Saw Works since its inception, and for many years acted as general superintendent of the factory. Latterly he became a member of the company. Affected with heart trouble, the recent disastrous fire accelerated the progress of the disease, while an attack of blood-poisoning hastened his end. He was 61 years old and was a native of Philadelphia. He leaves a widow two sons, E. Lloyd and W. E., Toronto, and one daughter, Ella. The second son, W. E. Janney, is mechanical engineer in the service of Toronto public works department.

GERMANY BREAKS AWAY FROM WILSON'S CONCERT OF NATIONS

Commission is being Sent by Government to Ascertain What Precautions are Being Taken to Protect Lives of Germans in Mexico

Mexico City, Mar. 7.—Germany has notified President Huerta that subjects of the kaiser must be protected in Mexico.

This fact became known to-day following news that a German commission is coming from Washington to investigate conditions in the republic and ascertain what precautions are being taken to prevent the killing of Germans as William S. Benton was slain at Juarez.

The action by Germany is the first break in the concert of nations that the United States sought to back up the policy of "watchful waiting" advocated by the American Government. It is said that Germany intends to take steps to prevent attacks on its citizens or attempts to balk the punishment of those guilty of committing outrages against them.

The commission coming here consists of Capt. Franz Papen, military attache at the embassy in Washington; Capt. Boyed, naval attache, and Baron Von Lersner, second secretary. They were sent here as a result of appeals that the protection of Germans should not be left in the hands of the United States.

Pearson Manager Resigns.

Much importance is attached to the action of Enrique Creel, former Mexican ambassador to the United States, who resigned to-day as managing director of the Eagle Oil Company, the chief Mexican enterprise owned by the Pearson Syndicate of England. It is believed that Creel is winding up his affairs preparatory to leaving the country.

This is regarded as highly significant in view of the fact that Creel evidently believes that the Huerta Government has but a brief period to live. The Constitutionalist leaders, especially Gen. Villa, feel bitter animosity towards the members of the once influential group of which Senor Creel and Gen. Luis Terrazas were members. The hatred has been shown by the confiscation of the Terrazas estates in Chihuahua and the seizure of Luis Terrazas jr., who is held for ransom. Senor Creel feels that his life would be in danger with the Constitutionalists in control of the Government.

BOURASSA CAN RUN RIDING DEMANDS HIM

Toronto, Mar. 8.—Hon. J. J. Foy, attorney-general, asked if there was anything in the Legislative Assembly Act to prevent Henri Bourassa running in the Ontario constituency of Prescott, did not know of any provision that would bar him, although he had not read the act lately.

Vankleek Hill, Ont., Mar. 7.—Henri Bourassa may succeed Gustave Evanturel as M.L.A. for Prescott County and become the stormy petrel of Ontario provincial politics. Bourassa's name was prominently mentioned among the gathering of Liberals here to-day and there was a movement afoot to ask him to run. J. N. Lapointe of Plantaganet, president of the Prescott County Liberal Association, and F. Asoncrel, secretary of the same place, are aspirants for the Liberal nomination. When asked if he would be a candidate in the election that will be necessitated, Mr. Evanturel said it rests with the people; if they want me to run again I will.

MUST ALLOW WIFE'S MOTHER TO VISIT HER

Vienna Civil Court Gives Hard Blow to Men Who Have a Mother-in-Law.

Berlin, March 7.—The judge of a civil court in Vienna has decided that a husband cannot prevent his mother-in-law from coming to his house to see her daughter.

The decision was given in a case where a railway official named Michna wrote a letter to his mother-in-law forbidding her to enter his house. She disregarded the communications and Michna brought an action charging her with disturbing him in the peaceful possession of his own home, and asked for a judicial order prohibiting the lady from making any further visits.

It was urged on behalf of the mother-in-law that the wife had the right to receive her mother in the common home of her husband and herself, and that the husband's application was illegal.

Rejecting all the evidence as irrelevant, the judge ruled that a husband could not forbid his wife to receive her own mother in the home, and that in accepting her daughter's invitation to come there, the mother was performing no arbitrary act, and therefore, was not interfering with any rights of quiet possession.

The Young Mathematician.

Mrs. Dodge was a guest at the home of Mr. Evans. There was a young son in the family of whom the father was very proud.

One evening, while the family was sitting in the library, Mr. Evans leaned over to the guest and said in a whisper:

"Charles is a born mathematician. Look at him, will you? He's been figuring for more than an hour by the clock. I never saw a child so fond of his school. He loves it."

"Yes," replied Mrs. Dodge, "I've been noticing him. What problem is he working on?"

"Charles, tell Mrs. Dodge what problem you are working on."

"I'm figuring on how many days there are before vacation," replied the boy.

WATERING THE STOCK.

Not in Wall Street, but in the Big Cattle Markets.

Water is the only thing in the marketing of live stock that figures clear profit. Feed corn at $1 per bushel, hay $20 a ton, the charges made by stockyards companies for yardage and the charge for selling made by commission companies tend to reduce the shipper's profit, but when he sees his bunch of cattle properly yarded, fed and quietly drinking at the water troughs he knows the amount of water the cattle drink will cost him nothing and will sell at as much per pound as the weight gained by expensive feeding.

If cattle at the big markets were yarded and sold without a chance to get water it would mean a large loss to shippers yearly.

The average steer or cow will drink twenty to fifty pounds of water at the marketing point, according to the distance it has been hauled and the length of time without water. The hog being much smaller and capacity for drink limited, the water fill seldom exceeds five pounds per head. Sheep drink little water at markets, but to get the proper fill due them the big sheepmen who cover several hundred miles with shipments bill their sheep to some feeding station near the market, hold them on feed and water several days and at the proper time resume the journey.

Dealers in live stock at the Kansas City yards say that weight gained by the use of water at the Kansas City stockyards in 1910 amounted to $1,600,000.—Kansas City Star.

McSwiney's Gun.

Near Horn Head, County Donegal, Ireland, there is a hole in the rocks called McSwiney's gun. It is on the seacoast and is said to have connection with a cavern. When the north wind blows and the sea is at half flood the wind and the waves enter the cavern and send up jets of water from the "gun" to a height of more than 100 feet. The jets of water are accompanied by explosions which may be heard for miles.

More Worry.

"I didn't know you admired that official."

"I don't," replied the political manager.

"Then why do you insist on crediting him with a presidential boom?"

"Merely to make his life harder by giving him something more to worry about."—Exchange.

Be Slow to Indorse.

"A man should think before he speaks," said the prudent youth.

"Yes," replied Dustin Stax. "And he should think still harder before he writes his name on the back of any sort of document."—Washington Star.

VANILLA BEANS.

They Are Not Beans at All, but Pods Filled With Tiny Seed.

The vanilla plant is the only orchid of any industrial value. As orchids go, the plant is not unattractive, for the foliage is much greener and more enduring than in the case of most of the species. It is a climber, and when the leaves are fresh it brightens a small tree trunk wonderfully. The Vanilla planifolia, to give it its full name, is a terrestrial parasite. It climbs from the ground, but once established has feeding stations on the bark all along the line. The leaves—long, very smooth and light green—are alternate, and at the axil of each is a sucker a few inches in length that fastens itself securely to the tree, lying flat against the bark.

The blossoms are inconspicuous. It is the resultant pods that are the vanilla of the industrial world. They are slim pods six to eight inches long and when dried for the market are of a rich, deep reddish brown. These are called vanilla beans, but without warrant. They contain no bean; the seed in them is as fine as dust. These seeds are the black specks that are usually found in the finest grade of vanilla ice cream, the best chefs the world over preferring to grind the "bean" rather than use the extract. Vanilla is found growing wild in the Bahamas, West Indies and Central America. In Madagascar and some of the neighboring islands it has been introduced and now forms an important article of export. But American vanilla is the best.—Harper's Weekly.

Australia's Hinterland.

The one problem in Australia which really overshadows every other, says an English paper, is that of the huge rich, unpeopled northern territories—not only that section of the north which is at present controlled from Adelaide but the whole of northern Australia. It is an even greater problem than that of immigration, which to some extent forms a part of it. Here are enormous stretches of well-watered land capable of growing wheat, vast grazing areas, auriferous belts, rich tropical lands, innumerable natural products, deep rivers and fine harbors. The portion known as the Northern Territory contains little more than 1,000 white inhabitants; the rest is populated on the same scale. There is need for a very rapid awakening of Australian opinion upon this vital issue.

Her Game.

"Your father despises that young man you are engaged to."

"I know it, and so do I."

"Then why in the world are you going to marry him?"

"I wouldn't marry him if he was the last man on earth."

"Then why"—

"Dad will buy me off with an electric runabout in a few days."—Houston Post.

SOME IMPORTANT FACTS ABOUT THE SILVER BLACK FOX INDUSTRY

The first Island ranch was started with two pairs of Anticosti Silvers, bought from a trapper for experimental purposes solely, and same proved so successful that the fox industry started to be developed.

In the year 1910 a pair of breeders could be bought for $4,000.00; in 1911 the price went up to $6,000 a pair, during 1912 a pair at $10,000 was considered high but not unusual, and at the time of writing (January 20th, 1914), live breeders can bring any price from $15,000 to $35,000, according to fecundity, and options on the unborn of next year are selling for $12,000 a pair.

About $10,000,000 is said to be invested in the fox industry on Prince Edward Island, showing a gain of over $3,000,000 inside a year.

Official returns for the present year show that the 277 fox ranches on the island contain 899 silver breeding foxes, (441 males and 458 females.) The total number of silver offsprings for 1913 was 703. and the average assessed value was $4,892.53 per fox.

The total valuation of the young silver black foxes for the current year is $3,349,449. The total number of silver foxes in the ranches for 1913 is 1602.

Pelts from ranch-bred Prince Edward Island silver black foxes have sold at the London auction sales as high as $2,626.00.

ASSETS OF THE COMPANY

The Company have TEN PAIRS of high-grade PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND Silver Black Foxes, EIGHT PAIRS are now on the ranch and two pairs of breeders under option are all eligible for registration under the select class "A" of the FOX BREEDERS' ASSOCIATION. These Foxes have been selected with special regard to parentage, and consist of the following well known strains:

Gordon, Dalton, Tuplin, Oulton, Raynor, and Champion. These names are conspicuously prominent in the Fox Industry ranches which, in 1913, paid from 45 p.c. to 900 p.c.

FUTURE POLICY

The Company expects to earn large profits from the sale of these rare black and silver foxes for breeding purposes, while each year a per centage of the production will be retained, placing the Company in a position to pay large dividends from the sale of furs alone. The object of this policy is to place the fur farming industry on a substantial commercial basis.

THE COMPANY'S RANCH

The Company owns outright a fine 211 acre farm with complete farm buildings—one of the most up-to-date ranches on the Island. It has an experienced and highly skilled keeper whose services have largely contributed to the present satisfactory condition of the business.

ONLY ONE CLASS OF STOCK

There is only one class of stock fully paid and non-assessable. Every shareholder participates pro rata in all dividends paid by the Company, and the latter has no authority to issue either Preferred Stock or Bonds.

From the above it will surely be seen that the R. J. McNEILL BLACK AND SILVER FOX COMPANY, LIMITED, are engaged in business at a most opportune time and under most favorable circumstances. Take into serious consideration that our company is established and that we have the FOXES AND RANCH, and not prospective. YOU ARE ENTITLED TO SEPTEMBER, 1914, DIVIDENDS: you don't have to wait for your dividends until 1915. In 1915 another dividend will be awaiting you

REMEMBER the average cash dividend of the above companies is 175 per cent, and there is absolutely no excuse why we cannot repeat the same.

We offered for public subscription the remaining allotment of $70,000. $30,000 has already been subscribed. $40,000 remains to be sold.

NOTICE.—Should the shares of stock not be allotted, the money paid by you will be refunded by return mail.

SOME PRESS COMMENTS

"Widows" Fox Company Declares a 900 Per Cent. Dividend.

Clerks in the employ of Sinclair & Stewart, a big dry goods house at Summerside, formed a silver fox company in 1912. This Company is popularly referred to as the "Widows" Fox Company, as nearly all the stockholders are women, a dividend of 900 per cent. was their reward.

Three sisters of Alberton, P.E.I., who were employed in the States, sent their spare earnings home two years ago to be invested in the fur farming business and their profits have averaged $15,000 yearly since.

A bookkeeper in the employ of Mr. Fred L. Rogers, the Governor's son, of Alberton, invested $800 three years ago, and is now worth $45,000 directly from this source.

The Rosemount Live Stock Co., Limited, of Alberton, P. W. Turner, treasurer, has paid a dividend of 1000 per cent. this year.

Mr. Frank Hall, clerk at Holman's Limited, received $35,000 from an investment of $500 made in this business three years ago.

Seven clerks and managers in Summerside pooled $500 each in 1910 and purchased a pair of silver foxes for $3,500. The seller, feeling that he had driven a splendid bargain, cared for the pair a year. The first litter consisted seven pups. The seven owners have received $36,000 each dividends since and the pair bought for $3,500 could be sold for $35,000 to-day. WHY ARE YOUR NEIGHBORS SO HAPPY?

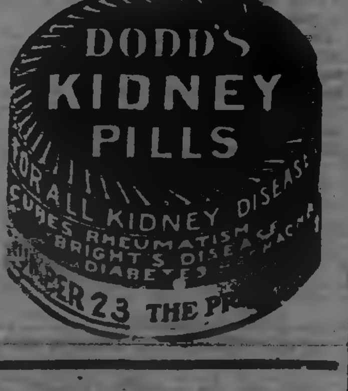
BECAUSE THE WIFE BOUGHT AN EDDY'S WASHBOARD

And now—washday is a joke!

ALL KINDS OF WASHBOARDS FOR ALL KINDS OF PEOPLE.



ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

Modern Utensils

The modern store caters to the modern housekeeper, and so it should—for look what an important personage she is! Here are a number of things which she will be glad to know about.

Apple Corer

There is an apple corer that can do two things at once. It is a little wheel-shape affair of metal. The rim and spokes are rounded and smooth on the top, but ground to sharp knife-edge on the lower side. When this is pressed hard into the top of an apple the rim will core it and the spokes will cut the apple into sections just ready for cooking. Both things are done "at one fell swoop." One can easily see what a convenient sort of thing this is.

Egg-slicer

Made in somewhat the same fashion, is an egg-slicer, which will cut up a hard-boiled egg into just the shape bits that are nice to use as a garnish for a salad.

Glass and Enamel Sanitary Covers

Glass and enamel sanitary covers which will fit twenty-one different sizes of bottles, glasses, or bowls can be gotten at a small price. The usefulness of these will be readily appreciated by the housekeeper, who delights in keeping an immaculate refrigator.

Vegetable Boilers

Another nice utensil is the vegetable boiler of heavy block tin or aluminum, containing a removable drainer. This can be raised and hooked onto the edge of the boiler until all the fluid has been drained off and the vegetables then slipped off into a dish. These drainers make a colander unnecessary and they are far nicer to handle.

MAKING UP BOUQUETS

French Women Have a Particular Genius For This Art

There is more art than may be at first supposed in the process of making up a bouquet. It is essentially an art of the maitresse de maison who likes to receive and give bouquets, and to see her drawing-room adorned with a profusion of flowers. In short it is a woman's art, be the woman a grande dame or a simple fleuriste, whose trade is to ply deft fingers in the making up of bouquets. There is a certain deftness and a certain taste in this matter which seems to belong especially to French fingers, as they most certainly do to feminine ones.

To set a man to make up a bouquet would, in a general way, be very like turning a bull into a clover field. As the bull would trample down the clover blossoms, so would man's fingers and thumb crush the beautiful blossoms without being able to turn them into any account in the formation of a bouquet. Women easily become proficient in the art, without having learned it; and speaking in a general way, the Paris fleuriste surpasses them all. A certain faculty here comes into play, in which taste for combining and eye for color have place. Countless French women possess a distinct artistic sense, applicable in general to small things only.

Is this business of making up bouquets to be classed among the small things? Perhaps—as it might also develop into a matter of considerable importance. For artistic decoration for instance, what a resource is the ability for skilfully combining flowers? More than one street flower girl has made a fortune by the art. The well known "Isabelle," under the Second Empire, was one. From being a little fleuriste selling bouquets at two sous each, she came to be known to Napoleon III. and to the Empress Eugenie. No one could produce bouquets for the decoration of the salons of the Tuileries as she could. From owning a small street stall she came to be possessor of an immense shop on which the single word "Isabelle," in big letters, acted as a flaming advertisement. Others have followed her example and the trade of a Paris fleuriste sometimes brings in a large revenue.

Sterilizing Milk

Dr. E. W. Hope, Medical Health Officer, Liverpool, England, states that careful researches carried on at the University of Liverpool by Professor Beattie and others, have in view, if possible, the lessening the cost of sterilizing milk. As a result, it has been demonstrated that all extraneous organisms in milk can be effectually destroyed by electricity without changing the flavor or chemical composition in any way. The process is said to be very much cheaper than the ordinary pasteurisation by heat. Dr. Hope is also authority for the statement that the corporation of Liverpool has authorised the installation of the electrical method at one of their depots for the supply of milk for infants.

Mrs. Snowden's Record

Mrs. Philip Snowden created a new record. In eight years she addressed more than 1,500 political meetings—mainly on women's suffrage—with a total attendance of well over a million and a half. There is probably no other speaker, man or woman, in the country who can approach these figures.

WORMS! YES. THAT'S IT WORMS IS THE TROUBLE—

Many Suffer From Them and Do Not Know It.

Many go to an early grave on account of them and have been pronounced to have had brain fever or some other complaint.

Prof. Mulvaney Comes to the Rescue

His Wonderful Remedies are saving thousands of lives.

Why not try his remedies, they are sure, certain and harmless.

Stomach worms are round like earth worms, and measure from 8 to 16 inches in length, the large ones being about the size of a lead pencil in thickness. They are white and sometimes pink in color; they infest the stomach and small intestines and sometimes great numbers are found to exist. One of my customers claim one of his children passed thirty from the use of my remedy. It does not require much thought to come to the conclusion that these worms are very dangerous, as they cause fever, convulsions, fits, etc. Many persons have died from worms and they have been known to crawl out of their mouth and nose after death. Just imagine the suffering and terrible agony a child or adult must experience with these disgusting and loathsome creatures crawling about in the stomach and bowels. There is no doubt that they are constantly taking the nourishment that should go to make a strong, healthy person. Is it any wonder that your child is cross, irritable and sickly? Adults are also restless, melancholy and miserable from the same cause and are sometimes treated for dyspepsia, nervous prostration and other complaints. My remedy is in liquid form and is an excellent remedy for build up the system, and can be taken for some time after the worms have been expelled to build up the system, which generally requires it as the stomach and bowels are generally in a weak and debilitated condition, caused by the ravages of these undesirable pests. My remedy known as Mother's Friend, is pleasant and agreeable to take and is a life-saver for children, as it not only destroys worms but strengthens and builds up the child, cures wetting of the bed, convulsions and fits; destroys pin worms. The price is $2.00. My remedy known as B'Well is much better for adults, and is the greatest nerve remedy on earth. Cures all nerve troubles, cleanses the system, restores lost energy and is a life saver. B'Well is a microbe killer, also a worm killer; microbes and worms cause all kinds of disease. B'Well kills the germs, also kills the poison. Sold only by Prof. Mulvaney. Write for further information free.

NATURE'S DIARY

A clear stretch of red close along the horizon, surmounted by yellow, at sunset, denotes fair weather next day. But a lurid western sky at sunset, with the colors spread above the horizon on cirrus clouds, indicates a coming storm, and if the sunset is dull and "dirty" with clearer sky in the east, the storm is nearer.

Rainbows in the east and hence in the afternoon, foretell clearing weather, as these are usually formed on the rain of retreating shower, but if seen in the west and, therefore, in the morning, rain is approaching.

In the winter when the air sounds "hollow" it denotes a thaw. When in the winter there is a yellow-green color in the sky over the setting sun, it usually heralds colder weather.

MANITOBA WATER POWERS

The Importance of Hydro-electric Energy in the Province

Owing to the great and ever-increasing cost of good steam coal, the great distance of the province from anthracite coal fields, and the constant growing demand for hydro-electric energy in and around the city of Winnipeg, the development of water powers in Manitoba possesses a peculiar importance. The main sources of power in commercial quantities are the Winnipeg river, Grand rapids on the Saskatchewan, and the large rivers of the northern hinterland, including the Churchill, Nelson and Berens. The great strides made in the electrical industry in recent years have brought the present commercial centres of the province within easy transmission distance of the basins of the Winnipeg and English rivers.

Of the eight possible power sites on the Winnipeg river there are three now under development, representing a total power capacity of 189,000 (twenty-four hour) horse-power. One site is completely developed by the Winnipeg Electric Railway Company on the Pinawa channel, and produces about 24,500 horse-power under favorable conditions. Another site at Point du Bois falls, developed by the city of Winnipeg, produces about 20,500 horse-power but is capable of extensions to a maximum of 77,000 (twenty-four hour) horse-power. Development at the third power site at Great falls, having a maximum possible development of 86,500 (twenty-four hour) horse-power, is about to be commenced.

DR. WILEY'S PARAGRAPHS

Dr. Wiley, a food expert from the United States has given various addresses in Canada from which we cull the following:

Dishonest advertising must go.

My position is that honesty is absolutely necessary for permanent success.

The age of fraud and deception is now past. I have no fear of the ultimate result.

Men die at the average age of 44 in the United States. What service could not be rendered humanity if that age limit could be extended?

Other preachers are trying to get you into heaven. I am preaching to keep you out just as long as possible.

Legislators are beginning to find out that the citizens of a country are more important than any measures.

There is no such thing as a brain food, or a nerve food, or a toe-nail food. Food nourishes all parts of the body equally.

Cooking is the highest of fine arts. Let us have fewer pianos and more cook stoves. If there were more good cooks there would be fewer divorces.

The new rule is not "Let the buyer beware," but "Let the seller beware." The seller must gaurantee his goods.

The further north you grow a sugar beet, the sweeter it is. So it is with human beings; the further north the race, the better they are. You Canadians could not help but excel, except you moved away from your northern zone.

Heredity and environment are the two important things in the life of a nation or an individual. Canada is blessed in her northern location. If her glorious climate was spread over hot little Mexico, it would be pacified within 24 hours.

BATHING IN EARLY DAYS

Almost Unknown Until the Time of of the Crusades

Most barbarians, judged by modern standards, were anything but cleanly in their personal habits. In England, France and Germany bathing was an almost unknown custom until after the Crusades. The pilgrims from the East brought home with them ideas of the bath as a help in the treatment of disease, and bathrooms were gradually introduced into the hospitals. From the hospitals the ideas of bathing spread generally. People who had been treated there saw the value of keeping the body clean in order to resist disease. The great plague that swept over Europe in the early years of the fourteenth century helped to teach this lesson. By the fifteenth century there was scarcely a large city that did not possess well-patronised public bathing establishments, although it was not until the seventeenth century that the Turkish bath was introduced, and not until the eighteenth century that sea bathing so common among the American Indians, was tried experimentally. Saturday was chosen as bathing time, and the reason is not difficult to imagine. On Sunday everybody was compelled to go to church, whether he would or not. As the Moslem in the East bathed before entering the mosque, so did the medieval man before entering his church, only he must take his bath on Saturday afternoon in order to be clean the following day. There was even a distribution of bath money to the children whose parents were unable to pay for their baths.

SANOL BLOOD BUILDER

FOR TIRED OUT MEN AND WOMEN
A SURE CURE FOR ANAEMIA

Provides the Blood with Red Corpuscles so Necessary to Life

Clears and Improves the Complexion

For twenty years a celebrated German scientist worked at this great puzzle seeking to find the secret of blood building. The vegetable contents were brought from the four corners of the earth and so blended that a genuine blood and tissue builder was at last produced.

SANOL BLOOD BUILDER has proved a boon to mankind. The tired worn out mother in the home, with her daily round of domestic and social cares, the head of the family in office or workshop, the growing girl or boy during schooling period, at times need a body building medicine. Sanol Blood Builder supplies the blood with and incorporates into the organism of the human body that which it absolutely needs, the good results are marked and rapid.

Sanol Blood Builder, if taken according to the directions will stop the waste of the body, brighten the appetite, strengthen the system, rebuild the blood corpuscles, improve the complexion, brace the muscles and calm the brain.

AMERICAN MEN AND METHODS.

Xisits of British business men to United States to study American ways of doing things, are now followed by the selection of an American railroad man to be manager of the Great Eastern Railway of England.

To foreign railway executives ambitious of preferment and the big salaries that go along with it, this putting an American over the heads of English expetts must be a rather startling sequel to the British inquiries which have been going on, as to industrial methods in the United States.

Lord Claud Hamilton, chairman of the Great Eastern's managing board, explains that England has no man so well qualified, as the American in question, to bring the road to the highest state of efficiency. This is a compliment which American railroad men will probably not soon forget, and from the English viewpoint is a "knock" which cannot be expected to pass without some pretty sharp protests on the British side.

Taken as a whole, the incident suggests an increasing feeling in Europe that American methods need Americans to apply them. It is an issue, not only of theory, but of personality. American (which, of course includes Canadian) enterprise develops originality, forcefulness and independence to an extent seldom found in countries where business runs in grooves of long-established traditions.

Your Bad Taste In The Morning Is Due to Catarrh

DESTROY THE POISONOUS DISEASE BEFORE YOUR HEALTH IS SERIOUSLY INJURED

Perhaps you haven't thought of calling those unpleasant symptoms that affected your nose and throat by any particular name — but it's Catarrh just the same.

When the attack is severe, your eyes are watery and look weak. Your breath is offensive, due to inflammation in the nose and throat.

At last science has discovered a real remedy, a new scientific marvel which acts like no other Catarrh remedy on earth. "Catarrhozone" operates on a new plan; it is a direct remedy, goes instantly to the source of the trouble. Its rich, fragrant essences and healing balsams are breathed in vapor form through a special inhaler and gives instant relief.

Catarrhozone doesn't stop at the relief stage—it goes further—keeps on going till a cure is affected. Bad cases are cured, as you can judge from the following letter:—"Every morning for six months last winter I awoke with a bad taste, an awful breath and stuffed up feeling in my nostrils," writes Rob E. Rutland, of Regina. "It was simply an awful case of chronic Catarrh. Relief first came from Catarrhozone. I used that inhaler twenty times a day and took it to bed with me at night. I am cured, and by the use of Catarrhozone stay well. Now I am free from that irritable throat trouble, coughs, colds, headache, or catarrh."

No medicine on earth is so certain to cure every form of Catarrh or throat trouble as "Catarrhozone." Get the large $1.00 size, lasts two months and is guaranteed; medium size 50c.; sample size 25c.; all storekeepers and druggists, or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

THE FINANCE MINISTER.

Speaking to Mr. Kyte's motion re Old Age Pensions, the Finance minister said:

"Whether the amount would be seven, ten or fifteen millions, we can be assured that a very substantial sum indeed, and an increasing amount, would have to be provided from the revenues of the Dominion. Having regard to the programme that confronts this Government and will confront governments in Canada for many years to come, I can forecast that our expenditures upon public works of all character will be very large, probably sufficiently so not to exhaust our revenue, but to compel us—anb there could be no serious criticism of the wisdom of that—to borrow abroad, especially for a part, if not the whole, of our capital expenditure. Under these conditions, the financial side of the matter does become important."

The minister approved of the scheme and praised the great work of the committee, but regretted that the shadow of financial burdens compelled discretion for a time at least.

ERIN'S ANCIENT KINGS.

Untimely Death Was the Rule For Monarchs of Old Ireland.

'Tis ould Oireland can bate them all, begorra, when it comes to talkin' of kings and coronations! For there was probably a king of Ireland when Noah was building his ark. There certainly was one in 1300 B. C. To be sure, though, Ireland's ancient monarchs mostly came to unhappy ends, either dying of the plague, being assassinated or killed in battle, says London Answers.

For instance, King Lughaidh, who reigned in the second century, was killed by being thrust through the eye with a spear during a conspiracy. His successor, Feargus, was assassinated by order of the next comer, Cormac-Ulfhada, who, however, was merely choked to death by a fish bone at supper.

"Slain by his successor," indeed, was the fate of very many Irish kings, but of Congal Clonmaghair, who died in 698, it is simply but eloquently recorded that he "died suddenly." He was a "cruel persecutor of the Irish church." In 898 King Dathy was killed by a thunderbolt, while King Connor died of grief in 837. And one of the greatest of them all, the valiant Brian Boroihme, was assassinated in 1014 while at prayer after he had defeated the Danes at Clontarf.

It is hardly surprising to learn that four of Erin's kings resigned their crowns to become peaceful, cloistered monks.

They Should Be Careful in Selecting a Boarding House.

A case has occurred in Berlin showing the unpleasant experiences which may occur to tourists who engage board in a boarding house not well recommended. Three American women were the victims.

In the new part of the town, the so called American quarter, a neat sign of "Pension" attracted the women, and they engaged board there. According to the German custom, they paid the boarding house charges a month in advance. Two days afterward the landlady went to a hospital, and the next day the domestic girl of all work took her departure. Food and service ceased, and the host, a count, moved into the attic for some reason unknown to the Americans.

The Americans protested that their money should be refunded or they should have food and service. The host told them he could supply neither as he had no money. The women consulted their friends and were advised to make the best of the bargain and camp out for the rest of the month.

Some days later the host appeared in their rooms and proceeded to remove the curtains from the windows. The women appealed to an American who happened to be calling, but the only result of his interference was a scuffle with the landlord, who knocked him out with a bunch of heavy keys.

Two of the women then sought police aid at the nearest station, a mile away. The officials laughed at them telling them it was a private matter and no concern of theirs.

In the meantime the landlord returned with two men and took down the curtains, informing the women that he would be back at 5 o'clock the next morning to remove the furniture. The women then sought the aid of the American consul general, who advised them to move out quietly and offered them hospitality for the night. They accepted the offer, but did not get their things away before half past 3 in the morning.

Incidents like this are not rare in Berlin's American colony.—New York Sun.

HE STOPPED SHORT.

Reason For the Peculiar Signature on the Hotel Register.

Many peculiar signatures in the course of a season find themselves upon the register of a hotel. There are foreign fists of all sorts in script that none but the Kytka could unravel. The most curious of all, however, was placed on the book only recently. It is this:

"Wm."

Only that and nothing more!

There is no surname, no address, nothing at all but just "Wm."

This is the way it happened:

A well dressed man entered the hotel the other day and followed his bags to the desk. The register was swung around into position for him and a pen handed him by the gentlemanly desk clerk. Then, in a free, swinging hand, he wrote the accepted abbreviation of his first name, "Wm."

As if a thought had suddenly occurred to him, he stopped writing and looked up.

"What do you charge for a single room here by the day?" he asked.

"Three, four, five and six dollars," answered the clerk.

"Ain't you got no dollar rooms?"

"No, we have no dollar rooms. Three, four, five and six."

"Gosh!" he said, and he didn't look the part either. "This is no place for me. Gimme my luggage."

And he sneaked out of the hotel as one who had trodden on sacred ground.

Which is why on the register today is the odd signature:

"Wm."—San Francisco Chronicle.

LENGTHY VISITS.

The Unstinted Hospitality of Old Virginia.

Virginia hospitality is a byword. The old time country house, says Mrs. Roger A. Pryor in "My Day," was built of elastic material, capable of sheltering any number of guests, many of whom remained all summer. Indeed, this was expected of them.

"My dear sir," said the genial master of Westover to a departing guest who had sought shelter from a rainstorm, "my dear sir, do stay and pay us a visit."

The guest pleaded business that forbade his compliance.

"Well, well," said Major Drewry, "if you can't pay us a visit come for two or three weeks at least."

"Week ends" were unknown in Virginia, and equally out of the question an invitation limited by the host to prescribed days and hours. Sometimes a happy guest would ignore time altogether and stay along from season to season. I cannot remember a parallel case to that of Isaac Watts, who, invited by Sir Thomas Abney to spend a night at Stoke Newington, accepted with great cheerfulness and stayed the rest of his life, nearly forty years, but I do remember that an invitation for one night brought to a member of our family a pleasant couple who remained for years.

BURNT CORK.

The Paste Used by Minstrel Performers When "Blacking Up."

The popular impression as to the application of burnt cork by minstrel performers and actors in general is that it is rubbed on the face and hands of the player from a cork whose end is charred in a convenient gas jet. This impression is, however, incorrect. The burnt cork used by minstrels and others is the product of the theatrical "paint factories," just as is any other cosmetic or pigment employed by the profession.

One house makes it in the following manner: The corks are placed in three tin vessels, resembling wash boilers, with holes punched in their sides and bottom. Alcohol is sprinkled over the corks, and they they are "fired." When the corks have been properly charred they are placed in muslin sacks, which are kneaded in barrels of water. This operation forces the powdered charcoal through the sacks into the water.

When all the charred corks have been worked through the sacks into the water in this way the water is drained through a close canvas sack, and what remains in that sack is ready for the performers. The stuff is put up in cans, from which, when the minstrel is ready to "black up," he takes a little of the black paste in his hands and applies it to his face, neck and sometimes his hands.—New York Herald.

A CURIOUS BIRD.

The Crested Hoactzin When Hatched Has Four Legs.

The crested hoactzin of British Guiana is the only survivor of a certain race of birds most of which are now known only as fossils. The hoactzin inhabits the most secluded forests of South America, and its survival beyond its congeners is doubtless owing to its retiring habits and to the fact that it feeds on wild arum leaves, which give its flesh a most offensive flavor, rendering it unfit for food.

The chief peculiarity of the hoactzin consists in the fact that when it is hatched it possesses four well developed legs. The young birds leave the nest and climb about like monkeys over the adjoining limbs and look more like tree toads than birds.

The modification of the fore limbs begins at once after hatching, when the claws of the digits fall off and the whole clawlike hand begins to flatten and become wing shaped. Feathers soon appear, and before full growth is reached not a vestige remains of the original character.

The adult birds not only have no claws upon their wings, but their thumbs even are so poorly developed that one would hardly suspect that in the nestlings we have the nearest approach to a quadruped found among existing birds.—London Tit-Bits.

LIPTON CHALLENGER WILL BE OF EXTREBE DESIGN--NICHOLSON

New York, March 7.—A cable to The Tribune from London says: The Shamrock IV, it is now authoritively stated, is to have a centreboard. Charles Nicholson, interviewed at Gosport yesterday, entered fully into all the details of the new challenger. She is of composite build, that is, she will have metal frames, with a wood skin, differing in this respect from the three preceding Shamrocks, which were of aluminum, bronze and steel respectively.

In the construction of the vessel the methods were very similar to those adopted in the building of small raters. Moulds were set up to insure the frames coming into the exact form of the wood skin, which will be of mahogany.

Another interesting operation in progress at the Gosport yard is the making of the mast for the challenger. This will be of wood and hollow, and in itself, quite a big undertaking. Two masts will be made, one to be ready in case of a carry-away, and they will be the biggest hollow spars ever built.

Needless to say, the Shamrock IV is a boat of extreme design, and it may be definitely stated that she will have a centreboard. She will probably be ready for launching about the end of April.

BULGARIAN TRICKED HIS POOR COUNTRYMEN

Belleville, March 7.—The local police are looking for a Bulgarian named Stefan, who is alleged to have worked a clever game on 23 of his fellow countrymen and to have skipped out of the city, leaving the men here penniless.

The story given the police is that a Bulgarian made arrangements with 25 Bulgarians to bring them to a job in a paper mill in Belleville. He collected $2 from 23 of them, and two of these handed over $20 more. The other two backed out.

The members of the gang each bought tickets from Toronto to Belleville for $2.25, the 23 and their friend accompanying them. The tickets cost $54. They left Toronto yesterday morning and reached here about noon. Shortly after arrival the "agent" disappeared with the money he had collected, $86.

The 23 are in the city without means. Some came to the police station for shelter last night.

They don't know the name of the man who is accused, except that he is called Stefan.

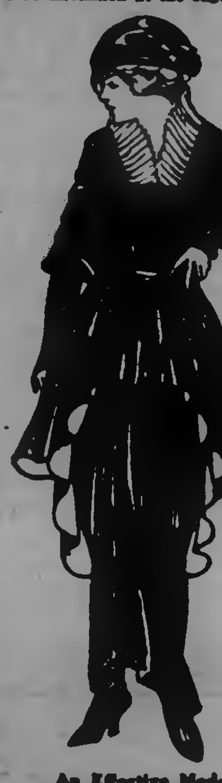
Purple and Cerise in Model Poiret Gowns

By MADGE MARVEL

DEEP violet, which approaches the royal purple in tone, is used in combination with cerise in one of the latest Poiret models to reach this side. The material is charmeuse. The skirt of violet is made without a slash, and is so long that there is a slight train. The tunic, also of the violet, is long in the back and reaches just above the knees in front, but there is no abrupt slope and no distension at the edges.



An Effective Model

At each side are deep pleats which make a cascade effect at the lower edge and allow the lining of cerise to show. The sleeves are of the cerise, and down each side of the tunic on the hips is a breadth of the cerise adorned with buttons of the violet. The front of the bodice is plain, and the fastening is on the side. There is a high rolling collar of lace. A purple wig worn with this costume when it was shown in a Poiret parade seemed to blend so perfectly with the ensemble that every one exclaimed: "How much prettier purple hair is than ours!"

But there were murmurs of disapproval when a mannequin appeared wearing a wig of emerald green. It was parted demurely in front, and built out at the back of the head with a casque effect.

It topped an evening gown that was as dainty and simple as a water lily, which some way it seemed to suggest. The skirt of pale green charmeuse was in the shade we once knew as Nile green. It was draped and short, and gave the idea of being but a lengthened overskirt worn over a petticoat of lace which was quite transparent. The bodice was of shaded chiffon velvet in a deeper green. It was plain, tight-fitting and sleeveless.

There was a tiny fold of tulle to soften the effect in front of the corsage. The tunic of tulle was pleated and full, quite like a ballet skirt. About the waist were pearl ornaments, forming a deep ceinture. From each ornament, hanging loose over the tulle tunic, was a strand of green beads ending in a tassel of pearls. White gloves reached just above the elbow, and were very much wrinkled at the wrist, and the slippers were heelless and of white kid.

Another Poiret model for the spring is built on the lines of the straight blouse, which Mme. Poiret wore so beautifully in New York recently, but which would be trying to the average mature American figure, though for the young and slender girl it is charming. It illustrates the manner in which striped and plain fabrics are to be used.

The skirt, long and plain, is of dark blue serge. At the side there is a peculiar line, which gives a panel effect, with the edges piped with red, and on a line with the knees, at the side seams, there are three red bone buttons. The blouse, of blue and red-striped serge, is perfectly plain and straight, and reaches below the hips, where it has a band of red duvetyne applied like a cuff. The sleeves are of the plain serge to match the skirt. There is a vest of cream muslin with a remarkable collar, which reaches up on the back of the head. It is so high and turns away in deep points just at the ears.

On each of the points are tiny tassels of tarnished gilt, which sway like misplaced ear-rings. There is a band of galloon which finishes the vest. The wig to wear with this frock is of the most glaring vermilion.

There is a marked tendency in the spring styles toward the fitted bodice. In dozens of models one finds the bodice drawn snugly to the figure like the old-time basque.

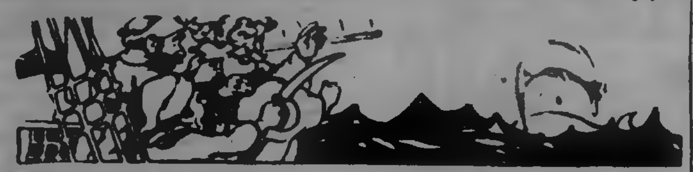
What Happened to Jonah

By Tom Jackson

JONAH was a hoodoo man, who lived long years ago, and every place he butted in he'd queer the bloomin' show. He was a picture of bad luck; a Jinx, he was for fair. Whenever he hiked to a town the folks got out of there. One time he took a trip to sea. A storm it soon arose. "All hands on deck," the captain cried. "Great Scott, men, how it blows!"

"There is a hoodoo on this craft," the first mate loudly said, and then a wave came right his way, and stood him on his head. "You're right, old Hoss," the crew replied, "whoever can it be?"

"Get out the box," the captain cried, "and chuck the dice, and see." They threw the bones the best they could, and Jonah, he threw low. "Pack up your grip," the captain said, "then overboard you go." Sure, Jonah made an awful kick; put up a fearful whine, but sailor men just picked him up and threw him in the brine. Just three points off the starboard bow a whale, old Jonah spied. "It's me for it," he shouted forth, and then he went inside. He landed safe within the whale, without a scratch or jar; the whale was soft upholstered, like a Pullman palace car. For seven days he paid no board, and travelled here and there. He had a stateroom to himself without a cent of fare. 'Twas then the whale it thought and thought, and said: "I guess, my friend, I'll give up this sea chauffeur job, your joy ride's at an end."



So Jonah was cast on the shore, while natives gathered 'round and listened to the story of the hoodoo man they'd found. "For seven days," said Jonah, "I have lived upon sardines. I am the guy, the first to try and test out submarines."

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

Dear Annie Laurie:

I've a friend who says that no lady would go anywhere with mended gloves on. She says she'd stay at home all her life before she'd do it. What do you think?

MODEST POVERTY.

I THINK your friend is the queen of the Amalgamated Order of Goose Girls. Let her stay in the order—that's where she belongs.

Put on your mended gloves and your neat little hat and your best smile and go anywhere you want to go, and forget that such people as your friend, the goose girl, are alive at all. That's the best way.

Dear Annie Laurie:

I go to business college, and there's a girl who sits next to me who is very pleasant and agreeable, but she borrows every last thing I've got. I do not want to offend her, but it is getting to be a perfect nuisance. What shall I do about it?

COURTEOUS.

THERE are so many ways to do, dear child, and it all depends upon you and upon the other girl as to which is the best.

What sort of girl is she? A bright, clever, irresponsible sort of creature with brains enough to see a point—when you make one?

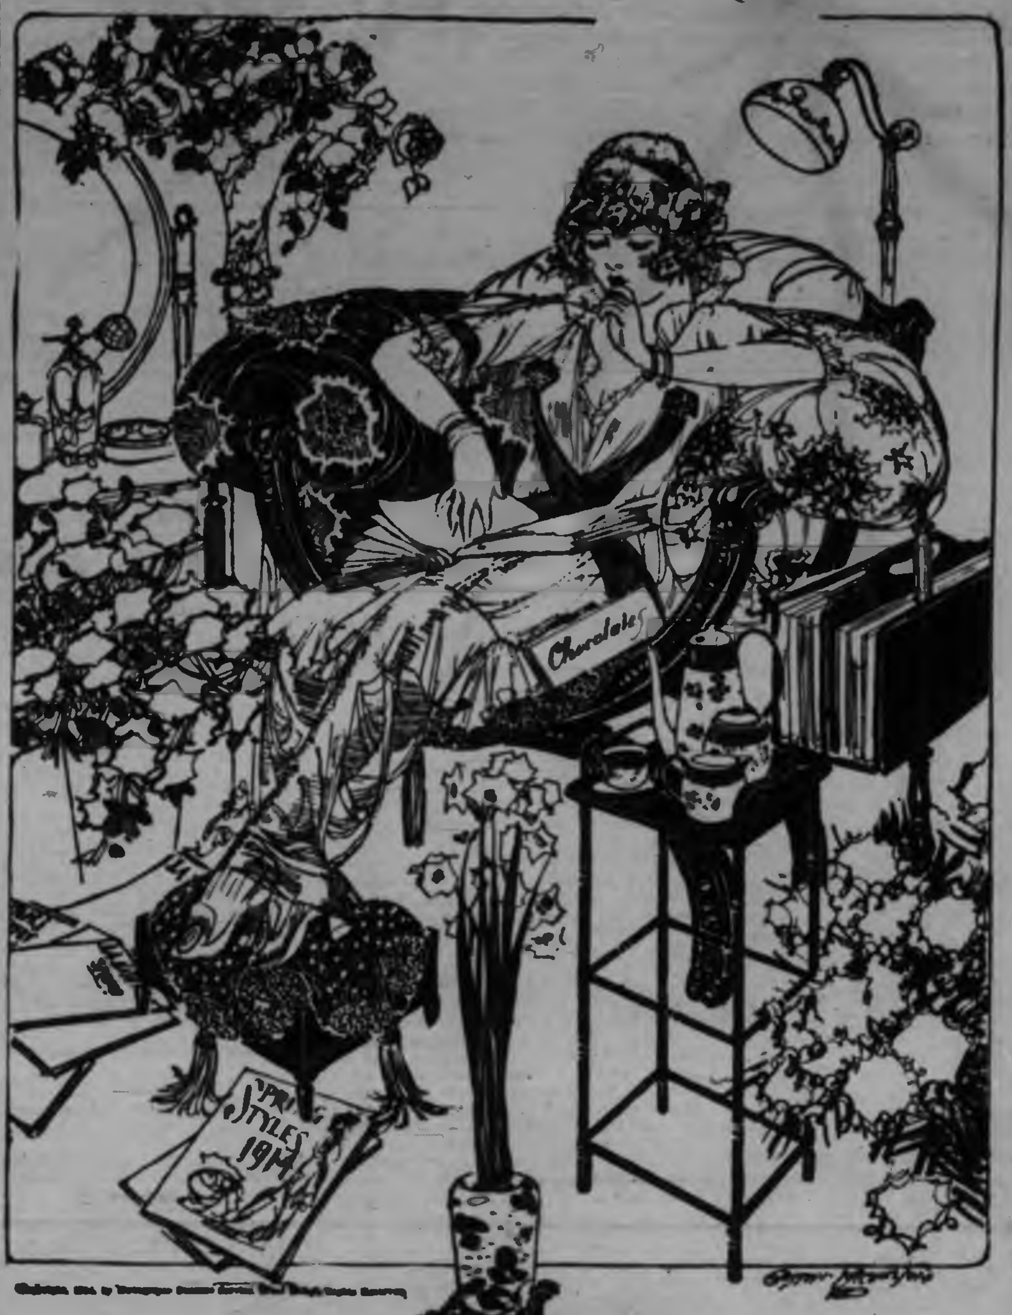
If she is, just laugh the next time she tries to borrow anything, and say good-humoredly, "Not today, little sister, I need that myself, and besides, I think its about time you got some of your own things for your own self."

If you don't want to do that, start in borrowing yourself. Begin before she gets a chance. Borrow everything she has—and forget to return it. If she hasn't anything to lend she'll soon wake up and get something. It is all very well to be good-humored, but it is all very ill to be imposed upon.

Annie Laurie

Miss Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. They should be addressed to her care this office.

KEEPING LENT :: :: By Michelson



[illegible]

A GREAT many foolish things have been said about Lent, but no one has denied that for some persons it follows a strenuous winter and precedes a strenuous spring. No one has denied that it is a good time in which to reflect upon one's failings and to make good resolutions.

There are a great many ways of keeping it, and the luckiest people are those who have a choice—unless it may be those who know just how to THINK they are keeping it.

It is a wonderful art, this keeping Lent—denying one's self comfortably, getting the most out of resignation, softening the asperities of deprivation, snuggling down into the lap of hardship with a sweet willingness.

EVERY ONE cannot keep Lent the same way. Of course not. It all DEPENDS, doesn't it?

Peter's Adventures in Matrimony

By LEONA DALRYMPLE

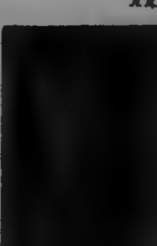
Author of the new novel, "Diane of the Green Van," awarded a prize of $10,000 by Ida M. Tarbell and S. S. McClure as judges.

The "Girl in the Case," about whom Miss Dalrymple has written candidly and conscientiously, even though her analyses may have seemed harsh at times, has apparently come to a realization that a wife has some duties which should not be shirked. This may be said to mark the first step in her development in the modern marital arrangement.

The thousand and one questions which arise in the everyday household—mainly as a matter of course—come up now for the decision of Mary and Peter. As the series of Miss Dalrymple develops, these will be dealt with as frankly as the initial steps in the working out of such a "sample case" as this have been studied and chronicled.

Woman's Sense of Values

XXXIX.



LEONA DALRYMPLE

OUT of much toil and turbulence Mary and I have at last settled down into a certain system of creditable housekeeping. It was time. Thanks to Mary's visionary home training, which taught her French and Strauss waltzes instead of bread-making and similar essentials, it's been a difficult job.

As things stand now, I still suffer considerably from my wife's wilful, spoiled girlhood. I get my own breakfast regularly, and contribute considerable gray matter to household problems, but Mary has at last learned to keep her house in order, and that is a great relief.

For months after our wedding I remember our library was stacked high with wedding presents because Mary couldn't find a place to put them or time to find the place. Now she has evolved a sort of system, and we're getting along a lot better. When a woman honestly makes up her mind to do a thing, I notice, she usually finds a way. The trouble is she has so much difficulty making up her mind.

I find, however, now that Mary does keep her house in order, she talks a great deal in the bromidic fashion of women about the terrible monotony of housework and the terrific amount of work she is daily obliged to do.

"I work and work, Peter," she exclaimed wearily, "and I'm never through!"

Then she quoted that old couplet behind which women have hidden from time immemorial:

Man works from sun to sun,
But woman's work is never done.

Most women, I fear, are extremists. I notice that the woman who is slovenly at all is excessively slovenly, and the woman who is orderly drives her family mad by a passion for detail. Mary was not, I am sure, slovenly by nature. She merely didn't know the things about a house that she should have known.

Now, for a while, Mary had a way of gliding away from the dining room table at night and leaving it just as it was—dishes and all—until morning. Her reason for this was that she could do housework when I wasn't around, but that it was a waste of time when we were together.

"Don't you think we'd better do these dishes tonight, Mary?" I asked one night, appalled at the disorder of the kitchen.

"Oh, no, Peter," she said carelessly. "I can do them in the morning."

I shrugged, but I could not help recalling that the first eye to encounter this dreary outlay of china and food from the night before was invariably my own. We adjourned to the library, and Mary took up her sewing.

The doorbell rang. When we opened the door we found that some old friends of mother's and dad's had come to call, and, incidentally, to view the house.

Mary has an airy, sprightly way about her when she's embarrassed, and I knew she was not comfortable about those dishes in the kitchen. Nevertheless, we valiantly escorted our friends through the house—this, by the way, is an ordeal most young married people have to go through religiously for many months—and eventually we came to the kitchen. It looked even worse to me than it had before. There were milk bottles in the sink and on the table; there were dishes and pots and pans in every conceivable spot, and some not immediately conceivable, and Mary was nervously apologetic as well she might be. I felt horribly ashamed. Mother's kitchen is so neat and shiny always.

Our guests were very decent. Their courtesy, however, did not mitigate my annoyance, and after they had gone I desperately resolved to have it out once for all with Mary.

"Mary," I inquired cautiously, "just what are you sewing on?"

"Why," said Mary, with an air of conscious virtue, "I've made up my mind that if you begin your Christmas presents for next year just as soon as Christmas is over, you get along so much more nicely. And it's systematic. This is a belt for Nan Carey."

It was then January. I gasped.

"Mary," I said, "do you actually mean that you're making next year's Christmas presents 11 months ahead, and the dishes in the kitchen aren't washed? Great Guns!"

Mary flushed and looked annoyed.

"Peter," she countered lamely. "Did I know the Browns were coming?"

But that was the end of the slovenly kitchen. The trouble with some women is, I think, an abnormal sense of values. Else why would Mary make Christmas presents 11 months ahead when she ought to be washing dishes?

Can't Be Prevented.

Bess—You would not let a man hug you unless you were engaged to him, would you?

Marie—How can you expect me to be engaged to every man jammed in next to me in the subway?

Problem.

"I was just wondering," said the bride.

"What about?" asked her friend.

"Whether it is better to have a husband who does not tell you all he does or to have one who tells you more than he does."

It Was.

"That's what I call a picture of health," remarked Gobang.

"What is?" asked his patient wife.

"This one in the paper here," was the answer. "It is labelled 'After Taking' you see."

Secrets of Health and Happiness

Your Adam's Apple Is a Nest for "Liquid Nerves"

By Dr. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

Copyright, 1914, by L. K. Hirshberg.

DR. HIRSHBERG

HAVE you ever noticed a toad swallow? This is no riddle such as: "Have you ever seen a horse fly?" You are not expected to "bite" or to be the "goat."

When a frog swallows you see a big lump come into his throat. There sits your frog on a toadstool, perhaps. He looks blandly and almost imploringly toward heaven as he gulps down, not tears, but air.

If you were a cruel vivisectionist, you would prop open the frog's jaw with a cork. The dentist does this to you with some annoyance, but no danger. When you thus torment a frog the creature dies.

The beseeching brilliancy of the hop-toad's eyes, with his head held skyward as he swallows, is due to the life-giving air which he drinks in.

A frog breathes by swallowing. If his mouth is kept open, he dies of suffocation. No air can enter his lungs and windpipe.

This has very little to do with a goitre. It draws your attention to the big, bulging lump seen outside the frog's white throat. This bulb, bubble or swelling of the frog's under-throat is where you look for a goitre in men and women.

Goitres are called Derbyshire necks in that part of England. In Switzerland, the Alps and certain other European and American neighborhoods, goitres reach the size of large pear-shaped pumpkins. Indeed, they often resemble these Frenchhorn-shaped pumpkins.

Many people, particularly of the tender sex, have little goitres without knowing it. Moreover, the preoccupied physician often overlooks these flat, saucer-shaped, convex swellings in the neck.

Glands Most Important.

You know where your Adam's apple lies. It is the little, semi-rigid wineglass or band around your windpipe. The Adam's apple is made of stiff but slightly elastic cartilage. Sometimes it is a bit bony in texture. Perhaps its firm structure explains Hood's verse:

When Eve upon the first of men
The apple pressed with specious cant,
Oh, what a thousand pities then
That Adam was not adamant.

Just below your Adam's apple is a bouquet of sweetbread. It is a tender, delicate, greaselike efflorescence. This structure is called the "thyroid gland," and it plays a most vital part in your life.

From this nether convexity of your Adam's apple issues forth into your inner ravines of lymph, blood and chyle certain thyroid-made juices.

The juices made with particularity from each little specialized group of living units in man and other animals are called "internal fluids," or "hormones."

The thyroid melon, or tongue-of-flesh, abaft your windpipe, has no canals. It manufactures its special juice, or "hormone," and literally squeezes it into the cob-web of veins, arteries and tissue spaces which ramify in its core.

Therefore, the goitre-making thyroid textile is numbered with other "hormone" makers, such as the spleen, the bone-marrow, the near kidney glands, or "adrenals," the "pituitary" or onion-like body beneath the brain, and others as "ductless" glands.

Regulates Your Emotions.

All thyroids, luckily, do not become goitres. Any disordered thyroid, let it be remembered, is apt to be a type of goitre. Even infants have goitres, although in many Phrynes, Dianas and Panderas the goitre begins with budding womanhood, around 15 or so.

The hormone or fluid which your thyroid pours into your vermilion rivulet of life is actually a liquid "nerve." Just as there are fluid crystals, there are, as I announced to a scientific society three years ago, liquid nerves.

The thyroid hormone flows like a babbling brook in and out among your tissues. It bathes them with a stuff which keeps your emotions just right.

When you are in a huff, fly into a passion, become afraid, grow excited, shiver and shake, have palpitations, perspire freely, almost "pop your eyes out," it is due to an excess of thyroid hormone issuing into your streaming serum.

This is why people who are excessively nervous, who tremble, who are irritable, easily excited, whose eyes are "froglike," who suffer with a rapid pulse and a palpitating heart, should look for a pancake-like bulging in the neck.

Any overgrown thyroid may thus pump its hormone into you. Trouble in the thyroid may cause goitre. Goitres come from infected drinking water, infectious diseases, inheritance, cancers and many other things.

Answers to Health Questions

C. B., Philadelphia—Is eczema a skin disease or a blood disease? Are internal or external remedies necessary?

"Eczema" is another ancient name which covers a legion of skin ailments. While it is true there are really local troubles, just as cancer and leprosy are local when they begin, after a time the virus of "eczema" spreads around and requires additional general treatment.

MR. ROY N., Petrolia, Ont.—If the person who "hears voices" has the irritation in the auditory nerve or in the brain, as your article excellently stated, what can be done? I will gladly pay for your advice.

I accept no pay, but am always most happy to advise the ill in every way I can. The condition you describe can only be remedied by a rare operation upon the brain. This I cannot, at this experimental stage, sanction.

Daddy's Good Night Story

By GEORGE [illegible] SMITH

MISTER SQUIRREL pricked up his ears and listened. The children were upstairs in bed talking about him.

"I wish our father could tell stories like Brer Rabbit," he heard Sammy Squirrel say.

"Yes," began Sallie Squirrel. "When father goes to tell us a story it's awfully dry. We all go to sleep, but when Brer Rabbit tells us a story we grew wider awake all the time."

"Yes," answered Sammy Squirrel, "when he told us about those Indian—"

At the word "Indian" Mister Squirrel sat up with a jump.

"You children go to sleep and stop talking about Indians!" he shouted.

"We can't go to sleep unless you tell us a story," answered Sammy Squirrel.

Mister Squirrel ran up stairs as fast as he could and, seating himself on the stairs where all the children could hear, he asked:

"What do you want me to tell you about?"

"Tell us about Indians," said Sallie Squirrel.

"No, don't," said Sammy. "You don't know anything about Indians."

Mister Squirrel jumped.

"Tell us a funny story, then," said Sallie, "and don't begin it 'once upon a time.' We hate that."

Then Mister Squirrel began: "Day before tomorrow there lived a little boy at the foot of the top of a mountain and—"

"How could a little boy live at the foot of the top of a mountain?" laughed Sammy.

"Keep still!" said Mister Squirrel. He continued: "He had two eyes, two ears and two feet. He—"

"The mountain top had one foot and the boy two," interrupted Sammy.

"Keep still or I will stop," said their father.

"The boy's name was Bobaline," continued Mister Squirrel.

"How do you spell it?" asked Sallie.

"Never mind how I spell it—just listen to the story. It is very funny. As I was saying, Bobaline started down the mountain one day to get some ears of corn and—"

"I thought he had two ears already," laughed Sammy.

"You don't know how to tell a story anyway," added Sallie Squirrel.

Mister Squirrel went down stairs without answering and when he got seated in his chair the children began to laugh.

"What are you laughing at?" asked Mister Squirrel.

"At Bobaline!" shouted all the children at once.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS

THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at the office of any Local Agent of Dominion Lands (not sub-agent), on certain conditions.

Duties.—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required in every case, except when residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside of his homestead. Price $3 per acre. Duties.—Six months residence in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and 50 acres extra cultivation. The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land after report by Homestead Inspector on application for patent.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price, $3 per acre. Duties.—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

SECTION 2, SEVERN DIVISION NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned and marked "Tender for Section No. 2, Severn Division, Trent Canal," will be received at this office until 12 o'clock noon on Monday, March 23rd, 1914.

Plans, specifications and form of contract to be entered into can be seen on or after this date at the office of the Chief Engineer of the Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa; at the office of the Superintending Engineer, Trent Canal, Peterborough, Ont.; and at the office of the District Engineer, Public Works Department, Midland, Ont.

Parties tendering will be required to accept the fair wages schedule prepared or to be prepared by the Department of Labour, which schedule will form part of the contract.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and in the case of firms, unless there are attached the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm.

An accepted bank cheque on a chartered bank of Canada for the sum of $36,000.00 made payable to the order of the Minister of Railway and Canals, must accompany each tender, which sum will be forfeited if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work, at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective contractors whose tenders are not accepted.

The cheque of the successful tenderers will be held as security, or part security, for the due fulfilment of the contract to be entered into.

A NERVY ACTRESS

Allowed Herself to be Dragged by Hair Before "Movie" Film

Alice Rhodes is "the movie girl with the wonderful hair." Her golden red hair falls to her knees when it is loose. But—take note, it is not always all joy to be blessed with "a crown of glory." That is if you happen to be a "movie" star.

A short while ago Miss Rhodes was playing in a spectacular picture which Edwin August was putting on out west. "We are going to tie you by the hair," said realistic August, "to this tree limb. And you are going to be dragged over the ground."

"By the hair?" whispered Miss Rhodes in an almost inaudible voice.

"By the hair," answered Edwin A.

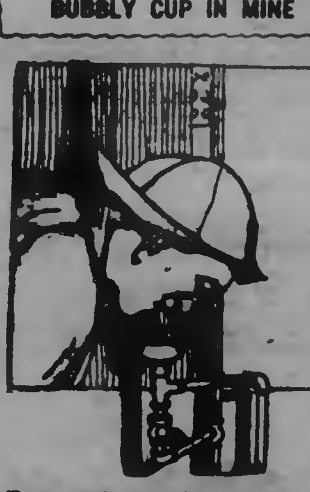
There is nothing to do but do in the "movies" if you want to make good, so Miss Rhodes gritted her teeth and loosened her hair.

ALICE RHODES

To make it possible to carry out the realistic picture and still not injure Miss Rhodes, strands of rope, the same color as her hair were bound around her head and woven into the locks. This was so that the force of the dragging should come, not on the roots of the hair, but upon the rope around her head.

The plan, adroitly worked out, proved successful. So did the picture.

BUBBLY CUP IN MINE



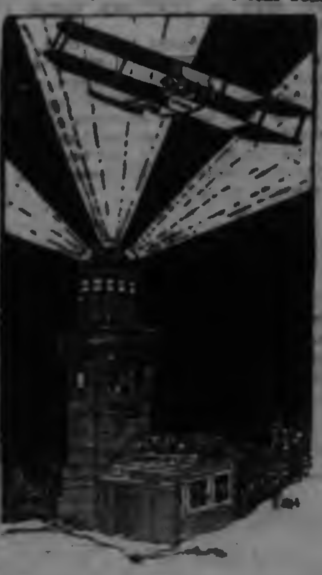
Few people associate mining and sanitation, but in the Oliver mine, in the Lake Superior district, the two go together.

For the convenience of its miners, the Oliver mine established bubbly fountains of the most improved type, and, more than that, concrete and steel reinforcements replace the ordinary timber to prevent a cave in.

SAFE NIGHT FLIGHTS

Germany to Dot Country With Lighthouses For Aviators

The men who go up in the ships as well as those who go down to the sea in ships may cruise at night, with guiding lights. The German government plans to add to many of its present light houses vertical beams as powerful as those which are thrown horizontally.



It is planned to scatter light houses for air craft throughout Germany, each being distinguished by differing lights, just as the light houses of the mariners are now identified by their steady and flashing lights at stated intervals.

MODERN JERUSALEM WEALTHY JEW'S DREAM

Nathan Straus Hopes to Bring Health and Sanitary Conditions to People of the Holy Land

To recreate the Holy Land is the immense project to be undertaken by Nathan Straus, one of the greatest of New York merchant princes. Straus, with his two sons, Nathan, jr., and H. Grant Straus, retired from the firm of R. H. Macey & Co., in New York, to devote all their energies to bringing Palestine into the full realm of twentieth century progress. Nathan, jr., will go to the ancient home of the Jewish people to take up there one part of his father's new-planned philanthropy—to try by installing modern sanitation systems there largely to prevent sickness among the people. Father and son are both ardent Zionists.

A great suite of offices has been equipped in New York for the carrying on of the commercial end of this great project and hundreds of letters and applications for aid are received weekly. The senior Straus will divide his time between the New York office and the Holy Land.

In his plans for rehabilitating Palestine Straus includes the establishment of complete sewage systems, a totally new water supply, the most modern health and sanitation bureaus, milk stations and soup kitchens as well as clinics for the treatment of various scourges.

The urgent need of such work is shown by an article in a leading medical journal, which says: "Jerusalem is a city in which one out of every five of its 70,000 inhabitants carries the parasite of malaria in his blood and three-fifths of the population give evidence of enlargement of the spleen. These facts, so striking because of the enormous amount of preventable disease and so pathetic because they mean so large a loss of human usefulness, are not hearsay figures. They are facts.

"In the light of present-day knowledge the pictures of the primitive sanitary arrangements that still obtain in ancient Jerusalem would furnish an interesting object lesson. As might be expected, malaria-bearing mosquitoes reign supreme. Their chief breeding places are the cisterns which provide the water supply from the rain on the housetops."

NATHAN STRAUS

Straus' philanthropies in Palestine have not in the past been restricted to persons of his own religious faith, and have not been conducted in any sense of the word as religious or racial undertakings. His concern has been, and will continue to be, he says, with humanity and the alleviation of its sufferings through proper preventive and curative health measures. In Palestine the Jewish, Christian, and Mohammedan population alike has shared and will continue to share in the benefits of his works.

Valuable Stamp

The most valuable stamp in existence is said to be the "Post Office" Mauritius, which is worth about $7,500. Just after the postal authorities had received the issue the post office was destroyed in a hurricane. But the Governor had given a ball, and as an act of courtesy had sent invitations to friends in England. The only specimens of the stamp known to exist are those which were affixed to the envelopes of these invitations.

Tango Supplants Reel

The neglect of national sentiment was deplored by the Rev. John Wallace in an address at Dunedin. He said in the average ballroom it was often difficult to secure sufficient dancers to make up a set for the eightsome reel. This national dance was neglected, while there was a regular craze at present to learn the tango. In the average concert room the "auld Scots sangs" were seldom heard. Sentimental ditties or music hall parodies were often substituted for the tunes of the past.

The Birch Revived

For the first time in five years the birch was brought into use at the Marylebone Police Court, London. The victim was Sidney Carthew, a lad of eleven years, who was found guilty of stealing two rubber mats, and selling them, after tearing them into pieces. He was ordered six strokes. At first it was thought that a birch would have to be sent for, but an old one was eventually found in a remote corner of the gaoler's room, and the punishment was inflicted in the presence of the boy's mother.

YIELDED TO EDMUNDS.

Cleveland's Political Foe Won After His Friends Had Failed.

Soon after Mr. Cleveland entered the White House in 1885 Vice President Hendricks died at his home in Indianapolis, and the president made arrangements to attend the funeral. Many of his social intimates and all his official advisers united in an effort to dissuade him from making this twenty hour journey, enlarging on the manifold risks of rail travel at all times and the special opportunity this would offer some fanatic to assassinate him. But he remained immovable until within a few hours of the time set for closing up his business he received an unexpected call from Senator Edmunds of Vermont.

Mr. Edmunds was the leader of the Republican side of the senate and was understood to have in preparation several measures of opposition to the announced policies of the new administration. But he was also and above all else an American citizen and a patriot, and his visit to his political foe was made in that character. In a conversation of less than half an hour, in which he drew the curtain over all differences and disregarded all empty formalities of intercourse, he laid before the president in the clear terms and logical order in which he knew so well how to express himself the larger aspects of the situation.

As the presidential succession law then stood the speaker of the house of representatives stood next in line to the vice president, and next to him came the president pro tempore of the senate. The house not having organized since the inauguration, no speaker had been elected, and, the senate having failed at its special session to choose a president pro tempore to serve during the recess, only one life—that of the president himself—stood between the nation and administrative anarchy; hence, argued Mr. Edmunds, it was Mr. Cleveland's duty to forego every other consideration and invite no chances of throwing upon the country they both loved a strain such as it had never been subjected to before.

The writer of these lines was seated in the next room while this visit was in progress, and he will never forget the president's expression of satisfaction on coming out of his office after the senator had gone. He gave orders at once that all preparations for his journey should be suspended and declared that nothing that had occurred since he entered the White House had so touched him as the kind solicitude shown by Mr. Edmunds about his exposing himself to any peril now. The others who had reasoned with him on the subject were men who were presumptively friendly and whose chief anxiety seemed to be lest he should suffer some injury to his individual person or fortunes. But here was a man who, as far as politics was concerned, was a hostile of hostiles, yet who appealed to him in behalf of the American people and their government.

"That settled it," Mr. Cleveland concluded as he turned to go back to his office. "After what Edmunds said there can be no further question of where my highest obligation lies."—F. E. L. in New York Post.

The First Iron Bridge.

The first iron bridge ever erected in the world and which is in constant use at the present time spans a little river in the county of Salop, on the railroad leading from Shrewsbury to Worcester, England. It was built in the year 1778 and is exactly ninety-six feet in length. The total amount of iron used in its construction was 378 tons. Stephenson, the great engineer, in writing concerning it said, "When we consider the fact that the casting of iron was at that time in its infancy, we are convinced that unblushing audacity alone could conceive and carry into execution such an undertaking."

One Thing Sure.

"My wife went to town today to get a good plain cook."

"Did she get one?"

"I don't know whether she's a good one yet, but she's plain, all right."—Baltimore American.

Escaped the Bullets.

Dr. James Craik, who was Washington's family physician, was with the Father of His Country in the expedition against the French and Indians in 1754, and the next year he attended General Braddock in his fatal campaigning. Fifteen years later, while exploring wild lands in the western districts of Virginia, Dr. Craik encountered a band of Indians led by an aged chief, who informed the physician through an interpreter that he had made a long journey to see Colonel Washington, at whom in the battle of Monongahela he had fired his rifle fifteen times and ordered all his young men to do the same. In fact, Washington had two horses killed under him that day, and his coat was pierced with four bullets, yet he left the battlefield unscratched.

A Chemical Experiment.

When the genial Quaker, Isaac T. Hopper, met a boy with a dirty face or hands he would stop him and inquire if he ever studied chemistry. The boy, with a wondering stare, would answer, "No."

"Well, then, I will teach thee how to perform a curious chemical experiment," said Friend Hopper. "Go home, take a piece of soap, put it in water and rub it briskly on thy hands and face. Thou hast no idea what a beautiful froth it will make and how much whiter thy skin will be. That's a chemical experiment. I advise thee to try it."—Life of Isaac T. Hopper.

Difference of Opinion.

It were not best that we should all think alike; it is difference of opinion that makes horse races possible.—Mark Twain.

A Statesman's Queer Ambition.

The great Lord Grey had an ambition far above politics. He had passed the reform bill, but that did not satisfy his soul. There was talk of Taglioni, and Grey said quite earnestly, "What would I give to dance as well as she!" The statesman who had been Prime Minister and had left an indelible mark on the history of his country was envious of an opera dancer!—London Saturday Review.

During the cold weather when it is necessary to keep on extra fires there is always increasing danger of accidents happening from defective chimneys, defective stovepipes, furnaces, explosion of coal gas, accumulation of dust near heating appliances and numerous other causes.

QUAINT LINES AND TRIMMINGS MARK THE NEW THINGS FOR THE CHILDREN

There is something warm and attractive about plaids, that make them very pleasing for early spring days. The plain, comparatively straight lined, one-piece frocks are better suited to these, than the puffed or pannier effects.

Paris says that the new skirts will continue narrow and that bodices and blouses will be loose. Both long and short sleeves are favored and the drop-shoulder, the raglan effect, and the set-in sleeve with the slightly enlarged arm's eye, are all popular.

We have a rather unusual sleeve in No. 8363 which is developed in a softly colored plaid in which blues, reds and greens are harmoniously combined. It is brought about by the raglan shoulder and a gathered lower sleeve of contrasting material. This material, which is blue satin, is used also for the collar and the trimming band down the front of the dress.

These light wool fabrics range in price from 75 cents per yard and up.

This frock may be copied in size 36, with 4½ yards of 36 inch material.

In No. 8362 is shown a two-piece Peasant dress for a child of from 4 to 14. The material in which it is developed is an English mercerized poplin. It is embroidered in colored floss with a Greek border design that adds to its attractiveness. This dress may be made for a child of 10 with 3¼ yards of 36 inch material.

No. 8363—sizes 34 to 44.
No. 8362—sizes 4 to 14.
Each pattern 15 cents.

To obtain either pattern illustrated fill out this coupon and enclose 15 cents in stamps or coin. Be sure to state number of pattern and size, measuring over the fullest part of the bust. Address Pattern Department, care of this paper.

MANY FROCKS AND SUITS OF GEBARDINE AND SERGE NOTED AMONG THE NEW MODELS.

In the recent Parisian openings, many of the tailored suits and dresses were made of gebardine or serge; dark blue seems as always, to be the favored color. These materials, however, are seldom if ever used alone; they are combined with satin, Roman striped or plaid taffeta. The suit shows in nearly every instance, a vest of plaid or figured silk; the draped Japanese collar is noted on both dresses and suits. The sash of plaid or figured silk also plays an important part.

Illustrated here are two costumes, suitable for street and afternoon functions; No. 8189 is developed in a dark blue serge with vest, draped collar and narrow cuffs of taffetas in a dark, rich green. The skirt, which is a two-piece model, shows an unusual and attractive panel effect.

This dress may be made in size 36, with 4 yards of double width serge and 1⅛ yards of 36 inch taffetas. This mannish serge may be purchased from 75 cents a yard and up.

No. 8175 shows one of the modish, bolero-like coats with an unusual vest extending into gathered ends below the girdle; the skirt is in three tier effect.

This suit, 8175-8177, may be copied in size 36, with 2¼ yards of 42 inch material for the coat, and 4⅞ yards of 42 inch material for the skirt.

No. 8189—sizes 34 to 44.
No. 8177—sizes 22 to 32.
No. 8175—sizes 32 to 42.

ROYAL Baking Powder Absolutely Pure

There is a remarkable interest in Home Baking and Cooking throughout the land.

This is a most encouraging indication that the battle against impure, improper food is going to be won.

The credit for the victory will belong to the women of the country.

Home cooking has the backing of science and the approval of fashion. It adds to housekeeping a pride; to our food, healthfulness.

It is acknowledged by experts, and by the women who know, that the best cooking in the world to-day is with the aid of Royal Baking Powder.

Mr. Graham Gets the License.

The local License Commissioners met, in camera, on Saturday night to consider a transference of the National Hotel liquor license from the Toronto Guarantee Co. to Mr. G. N. Graham, former proprietor of the Oriental. It was decided to make this transfer. Mr. Graham will take possession of the National about June 1st.

New Cheese Board Officers.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Cheese Board was held on Saturday morning in the Bank of Montreal chambers. The following officers were elected:

W. C. Switzer, president.
G. W. Mann, Vice-president.
E. Hawthorne, secretary-treasurer.
J. Miller and W. J. Bullock, auditors.

Saw Lindsay Prisoner.

Lindsay Post: Governor Balfour of the County jail, and Bailiff George Foster, have returned from Kingston, after bringing two inmates of the local jail to the Penitentiary. While at the Kingston institution, they had a short conversation with "Hee" Ellie, the Minden murderer. He is employed in the laundry department, and is in excellent health

A Serious Accident.

A rumor was current yesterday concerning Mr. R. R. Hall, ex-M.P. It will be remembered that some two weeks ago Mr. Hall got a cinder in one of his eyes. He has suffered much pain from this accident. Yesterday it was rumored that he had had the eye removed We are glad to state that this report is not correct: Enquiries made yesterday elicited the information that the eye may yet be saved.

Former Local Priest Dead.

A Toronto despatch says that Rev. Dean J. H. Coty, died at Hamilton on Friday afternoon. His first charge was in the Peterborough diocese. Mr. Wm. Rudkins, of this city is a brother-in-law. The late Mr. Coty, was curate at St. Peter's after his ordination and he accompanied Bishop Dowling, who was transferred to Hamilton. Rev. J. C. Phelan will represent Bishop O'Brien at the funeral to be held on Monday at Hamilton.

Port Hope Man on Serious Case.

Port Hope Guide: Edwin Bennett came up this morning for a preliminary hearing on a charge of assaulting his wife, said assault occasioning actual bodily harm. Mr. Kerr conducted the prosecution and Mr Chisholm appeared for the prisoner. William Hamill told the prisoner coming to his home on Feb. 22nd, and asked him to phone for Dr. Beatty, as he thought he had killed his wife. The case had not been settled when the above was printed.

Local Girl in Accident.

Bobcaygeon Independent: Master S. Kerr, South Verulam, was in town Saturday with his sister Elsie, and cousin Irene of Peterborough. Towards evening as they were standing in the cutter getting ready for a start home, a dog startled the horse, which was somewhat skitish. In making the turn the cutter upset and threw the occupants. Master Kerr hung to the lines and was dragged along the road, till the bit broke in the horse's mouth, and then he let go. The horse was caught uninjured, but the cutter was too much broken to go home with. Miss Elsie was the most bruised as she was caught somehow in the cutter.

Improvements at the National.

The $40,000 improvements now in progress at the National Hotel will be completed about June 1st. Yesterday a Times representative was shown through the premises by Mr. O'Hearn, who represents the Toronto Guarantee Co. On Saturday several of the 15-inch "I" teams, that will carry the first floor and rest on a 10-inch steel pillar which rests on the cellar, on a solid concrete foundation, were put in position. When Mr. G. N. Graham takes possession of the National there will be over 100 bedrooms.

A new system is being introduced whereby two adjoining rooms will each have access to a private bathroom. These bathrooms are so arranged that when the occupant of either room uses the bath room, the adjoining room will be closed off for the time.

CASCARETS" ALWAYS STRAIGHTEN YOU UP

If Costive, Headachy, Bilious, Stomach Sour, Breath Bad—Clean your Liver and Bowels.

Get a 10-cent box now.

You men and women who can't get feeling right—who have headache, coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath, dizziness, can't sleep, are bilious, nervous, and upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach, or have backache and feel worn out.

Are you keeping your bowels clean with Cascarets, or merely forcing a passageway every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil?

Cascarets work while you sleep; cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested, fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels.

A Cascaret to-night will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box from any drug store will keep your stomach sweet, liver and bowels regular, and head clear for months. Don't forget the children. They love Cascarets because they taste good—never gripe or sicken.

GOOD WORK DONE BY IMPERIAL HOME REUNION

At the annual meeting of the Imperial Home Reunion, in the Bank of Montreal Chambers, with Mr. G. N. Gordon in the chair, it was explained the the guarantors had not been called upon to pay anything for money advanced for transportation. Most encouraging reports were presented.

Mr. J. J. Turner, the secretary presented his report. During 1913 eighteen meetings were held. In that period five applications were received, which were not granted.

The report of the Bank was presented by Mr. J. Johns and showed that the Association had brought 109 people to the city and had spent $3,338 for transportation. Those brought to Peterborough constituted some 40 families.

The election of officers took place and the trustees elected were as follows: Ex-Mayor Rush, Ex-Mayor Bradburn and Mr. Walter Stocker.

The Advisory Board and Committee of Recommendations, was elected as follows: Messrs. Pitchford, Stocker, Johns, Jay, Rev. Father McColl. J. J. Turner, Jr., G. N. Gordon and W. J. Oke

This Board and Committee afterwards held a meeting and elected Mr G. N. Gordon Chairman, and Mr. J. J. Turner, Jr., Secretary.

HUDSON Six Upkeep Less Than a Four

At one time all Sixes were big, powerful, extravagant. Now we build them in smaller sizes, and by a different method. Thus we have secured all the wonderful advantage of six cylinders, yet have not increased the gasoline consumption. A HUDSON Six will cost you less for gasoline, oil, tires and general upkeep than will a Four of equal power. In a score of contests we have proved this under average road conditions.

Until you drive a HUDSON Six you cannot realise its great advantage. Its smoothness and flexibility are an insurance as well as a delight. HUDSON Sixes are preferred because of high quality combined with moderate price. The Six-54 has four forward speeds, 135-inch wheel-base, motor 4⅛ x 5¼, developing 55 horse-power. Made in Phaeton at $2950 and Sedan at $4050. The Six-40 has 123-inch wheel-base, motor 3½ x 5, developing 47 horse-power, gives 13 to 17 miles to the gallon of gasoline, and is, we think, the easiest riding car on the market. The Six-40 in Phaeton and Roadster at $[illegible]00, and in Cabriolet at $2575. All cars, of course, are electrically started and lighted, left side drive, center control, gasoline tank in cowled dash. Catalog on request. Demonstrations as arranged. Prices f. o. b. COMPLETE REPORT OF THE TRENT VALLEY CANAL INVESTIGATION

WOMEN, BANK MANAGERS, BOOKKEEPERS, MERCHANTS, LABORED ON TRENT CANAL

According to Pay Sheets of the Department During Liberal Administration—Disclosures Made by Investigation of Government Commission.

Below will be found the report of Mr. G. H. Ferguson, K. C., who conducted the Trent Canal investigation:

HONOURABLE FRANK COCHRANE,
Minister of Railways & Canals,
Ottawa, Canada.

Under authority of the Commissions issued to me in that behalf, I proceeded to investigate the general administration of the Trent Valley Canal and the conduct of the employees, and now beg to report as follows:—

Alexander J. Grant is styled Superintending Engineer and has under his jurisdiction all new construction work on the Canal.

Joseph H. McClellan is known as Superintendent and is in charge of the maintenance of the Canal.

I found it convenient to deal with the two branches separately, and first proceeded to investigate the complaints referred to me in connection with Mr. McClellan's branch.

It is charged that grave irregularities occurred during the season of 1912 in connection with the purchase of certain explosives for use on the Canal.

For some years previous to 1912 Superintendent McClellan had purchased the explosives he required from the Kingan Hardware Co., of Peterbor. In 1912 he shifted his patronage to Daniel Cinnamon, a hardware merchant of Lindsay. The particular explosive in question here is known as "Blasters' Friend," and is manufactured by Dominion Explosives, Ltd. This is put up in sticks, or cartridges, of different strengths, 1½ and 1¼ inch thick and 8 and 12 inches in length. A case of the eight-inch sticks weighs fifty pounds which, from the evidence, appears to be the usual weight of a box of explosives. The same sized case of twelve-inch goods seems to average only about 35 to 37 pounds.

Robert C. Kingan, the President and Manager of the Kingan Hardware Co., who seems to be a very close friend of McClellan's, persuaded the latter to use a special make of Blaster's Friend known as the "Submarine Special," which is put up in sizes 1¼ by 12.

During 1912 three purchases were made, as follows:—

May, 1912 .... 1 ton
July, 1912 .... 2 tons
Sept., 1912 .... 1 ton

In the May shipment only forty cases went forward, the balance of the ton being retained in Kingan's magazine at Peterboro.

In the July order 112 cases should have been delivered, but only eighty cases were sent to the Department. The remaining thirty-two were taken to the Hardware Company's magazine.

All these explosives were for use at Lindsay and were checked on arriving there by Robert Hamilton, the foreman who had charge of the storehouse. Hamilton had weighed some sticks from a box of the May shipment and by counting the sticks had satisfied himself that there was a shortage in the order. He reported this to Overseer Samuel Clegg, who was his superior officer, but the latter apparently did nothing about it.

When the eighty cases reached him on August 5th he weighed some of the boxes and checked up some of the boxes and checked up the weights and found a shortage of upwards of one thousand pounds. He reported this to Overseer Clegg and to Cinnamon, and the following Saturday, August 10th, told Accountant Bartlett about it.

The result of this discovery was that Kingan Hardware Company delivered p forty-two cases more to cover the ten cases short in May and thirty-two cases short in July. All dealings with the Kingan people were conducted in a remarkable manner and are shrouded in a most suspicious atmosphere.

Kingan accounts for the shortage in both lots by saying he believed there was fifty pounds in each case. His evidence is that every time anything was added to or taken from the stock in the magazine it is noted in the magazine stock book so that the stock book constantly shows a complete inventory of all explosives on hand. I file with this report this stock book, marked exhibit 20. The entry of May 6th, 1912, shows that he had just put in stock fifty cases (presumably a ton) of special submarine. He knew that was all he had purchased. He purchased it purposely to sell to the Canal office because he says they were his only customers for it. Notwithstanding this when a ton is ordered he ships out only forty cases, and the ten cases improperly retained appear in his book at each stock taking thereafter.

Moreover, when the forty-two cases are turned over to the Canal authorities the stock book shows that Kingan did not follow his rule of taking stock of the balance on that date but simply crosses out the entry of forty-two cases where it appears under date of August 6th. He gives no reason for adopting this unusual method. The only reason I can conceive of is a desire to conceal the date of delivery.

Kingan secured an order from McClellan in the latter part of July for two tons of Submarine Special. It was shipped from the factory at Sand Point on July 29th as part of a car lot. On August 1st Kingan wrote Cinnamon enclosing invoice dated July 30th for 4018 pounds and requested Cinnamon to bill the Department at once, dating his invoice 30th July and he intimated that an arrangement had been made to have the account certified and put through in the office at Peterboro. The bill dated July 30th is certified by Hamilton and Clegg and McClellan and sent to Ottawa by the latter with his monthly return. As a fact the goods were not shipped from Peterboro until August 2nd and were received by Hamilton on August 5th.

When the car of explosives reached Peterboro, Kingan gave his man orders to unload everything but eighty cases of Submarine Special, which were to go to Lindsay and that was done. Thirty-two cases belonging to the two ton lot ordered by McClellan were put into Kingan's magazine and remained there until August 28th, when as a result of Hamilton's report of the shortage, McClellan spoke to Kingan and the latter turned these thirty-two cases along with the ten cases short in May over to Fairen the Department Storeman, and the Government subsequently paid seventeen dollars ($17) to have it hauled to Lindsay where the vendor should have delivered it.

A cheque for 4018 pounds, the full amount of the purchase, was delivered

Hamilton and Bartlett, he refused to pay Kingan until the matter of the shortage was straightened out. Cinnamon was absent from home for a time, but on his return he took the matter up with Kingan. On Aug. 26th the latter wrote Cinnamon stating that the shortage on the order was in the Government warehouse. This statement he knew to be untrue as it was only turned over to Farein on August 28th. He further states in that letter that the officials at Peterboro knew all about the shortage before they certified to the invoice for the full amount. Despite this assurance Cinnamon refused to pay until he knew the proper quantity had been delivered and my finding is that it was only on account of this refusal that the balance of the explosive was delivered. McClellan writes Cinnamon under date of August 29th advising him that "the balance of Blasters' Friend was received here and placed in our magazine." The letter is worded to give the impression that the shortage had been made good immediately it had been discovered. Kingan's letter of 30th August, to Cinnamon stating that the Departmental officials purposely retained the balance of the order in Peterborough and is contradicted by his own evidence under oath and is undoubtedly false. It was obviously written with the purpose of allaying suspicion against himself and heading off any investigation that might be serious in its consequences to him. McClellan's statement under oath that a part of the explosive had been taken off at Peterboro to be used at Balsover is in the same category. There was no work being done at Balsover and none in contemplation.

On Sept. 13th Cinnamon called upon the Superintendent and solicited a further order for Blasters' Friend. McClellan refused him the order upon the ground that he didn't need any more. My conclusion is that at this very time he had an understanding with Kingan to take another ton which was delivered and billed through Cinnamon.

From a careful perusal of the correspondence filed herewith the evidence taken under oath and the demeanor of the witnesses I am forced to the conclusion that there was a collusion between McClellan and Kingan. I am convinced that if McClellan was not actively a party to it he at least knew of it and acquiesced to it. There can be no question but that an attempt was made to defraud the Government, which would have succeeded except for the discovery made by Hamilton.

One is at a loss to understand why the Department should pay such a high price for explosives. Kingan buys it for nineteen cents at the mill. The freight rate is eighty-eight cents. He sells to Cinnamon for twenty-two cents and he in turn charges the Department twenty-seven cents. Either some ulterior motive or gross incompetency is responsible for business methods.

Moreover, Cinnamon avers that the goods were ordered and sent forward as a rule without his knowledge. His part in the transaction merely consisted in making out an invoice; adding five cents to Kingan's price and taking this rake-off as a profit for himself.

When undertaking to widen my field of inquiry into the general affairs of the maintenance department. I found on every hand insurmountable difficulties due to lack of complete records and confusion of those in existence. Until the present accountant, Mr. E. H. Bartlett took charge, there was absolutely no office system in existence: practically no pretense made of scrutinizing accounts, time slips, or pay sheets; no proper cash account, and a woeful lack of records of any kind in connection with the office.

This chaotic condition rendered it impossible to make anything like a full and complete examination of the affairs of the Department.

This report sets forth a comparatively few of the irregularities and fraudulent practices in vogue in the office under Superintendent McClellan's supervision. He has not only practised deception and dishonesty himself, but has condoned it and winked at others and has proven himself hopelessly incompetent for the position he holds.

At the outset of the inquiry he expresses surprise when I point out to him that W. F. Nelson, who conducts a typewriting office in Peterboro has been carried on the pay list as a laborer and he says that it is an exceptional case and he knew of no others.

As the enquiry proceeds and these deceptions are unearthed and it is shown that bankers, lawyers, doctors, dentists, undertakers, barbers, merchants and almost every class of business and profession is represented on his pay sheets in a similar way, he confessed to such methods being an ordinary practise in the office over which he nominally presides. So far as Superintending the Canal and safeguarding the public interests is concerned it is amply proven that there has been no serious attempt to do so. McClellan seems to have engaged himself largely with matters of political patronage and pleasure seeking jaunts at the public expense, and the bills for liquor and other refreshments and meals on the boat eloquently testify to his popularity as an entertainer. The evidence shows that these entertainments have been ceased since the fall of 1911. The last bill for liquors and cigars to regale the guests of the Superintendent aboard the Bessie Butler is paid in October, 1911. The grocers and confectioners accounts have ceased since that date. The carnival of corrupt padding of pay lists came to an end. But so far as control and management is concerned there is no improvement, and cannot be under the present incumbent.

countant, has done a great deal to systematize the business of the office, during the short time he has been there. He has inaugurated many reforms and evidently has a high sense of his responsibility as an officer of the department, and had he more latitude could do much more to improve the efficiency of the work of the office.

It is impossible in this report to give a resume of all the eight hundred pages of evidence. The following, however, are a few cases of the deception continually practised upon the Government, and these are characteristic of the business methods followed and the reckless disregard of public interests displayed by the officials of this Department, and particularly by Overseer Gordon and Accountant Clarry, former officials of this Department and Superintendent McClellan and Overseer Clegg.

PAY SHEET IRREGULARITIES.

W. BURGOYNE, who is a grocer at Fenelon Falls, had his accounts for goods supplied the cookeries paid by being put on the time sheet as a laborer.

E. YOUNG, a grocer, at Young's Point, appears as a laborer on the time sheet for the amount of his grocery bill.

D. McKERCHER, a veterinary surgeon and livery man of Peterborough, figures on the pay sheet several times as a laborer.

A. B. SPILLMAN drew a number of cheques as a laborer for work in and about Peterborough. Mr. Spillman is a hotel keeper at Hastings and never did a day's work on the Canal. He was on the pay roll to secure payment for board bills.

A. G. LAWLESS, the proprietor of hotels at Lakefield and Bobcaygeon,

SIX YEARS EXEMPTION THEN ANOTHER PLEBISCITE

Any Country of Ulster or Any Other Province of Ireland to be Given the Opportunity of Voting

London, Mar. 4.—Precisely at a quarter to four Premier Asquith rose in the Commons, which was packed to suffocation, to make the most important statement on a grave political issue ever uttered in the last fifty years. He was received with loud Ministerial cheers.

"I do not conceive it my duty to state the case for this bill which has been presented at two successive sessions and twice passed through the Commons," were the Premier's opening words.

Premier Asquith said the Cabinet proposed to allow counties in Ireland to refrain from participation in Home Rule by popular vote. Individual counties, said the Prime Minister, might reject Home Rule for themselves and remain under the jurisdiction of the Parliament of Westminster by a majority of their electorates. Such elections must be held after the final enactment of Home Rule and before the establishment of a Dublin Parliament as provided by the bill.

"Any county of Ulster, or any other Irish Province, can by such an arrangement refuse to accept Home Rule for a period of six years," Premier Asquith said. "At the end of that period, it would be necessary to hold another election on the proposition, to ascertain whether or not the people of the counties had changed their minds in regard to participation of Irish self-government."

Jury Trial

Overwhelming Verdict

A few months ago a man in no way connected with the making of Postum or the marketing of tea and coffee, wrote to quite a number of physicians asking their unbiassed testimony in the case of "Postum vs. Tea and Coffee."

The following excerpts from their letters constitute an overwhelming verdict.

In favor of Postum

"I have discarded coffee altogether in my family, and instead use Postum which we find makes a rich, delicious drink, without any of the deleterious effects attendant on the continuous use of coffee."

"Our family has been users of Postum for a long time. We were very liberal coffee drinkers, but were conscious that coffee was harming us—our nervous system, digestion and heart action—so we quit the coffee and began using Postum. Now we relish it far more than we did coffee, and are all relieved of the old coffee troubles. As a physician I have induced several families to quit coffee and use Postum."

"Postum—when it is desirable to leave off coffee on account of over stimulation or gastric disturbances."

"I have used Postum in my family for years with the most satisfactory result—so much so that we have practically abolished coffee, and with it the coffee headaches, nervousness, and lying awake the best part of the night."

"I drink Postum every morning, and recommend it to my friends who have nerves and indigestion."

"No more coffee for me. I am using Instant Postum and advise my patients to do likewise. I prefer it to the best coffee, and have no more sour stomach attacks as I used to."

"For years I have been using Postum in the family and advocating it for my patients. I consider it to be exactly what its manufacturers claim for it. Postum is excellent in place of coffee where the latter is contra-indicated. The food value of Postum plays an important part when compared with coffee."

"Have had many cases that could not drink coffee on account of its reflex action on the heart. Postum always supplies the place of coffee without the bad effects."

"I have used Postum for the past eight years in place of coffee. Before that I was troubled with frequent bilious headaches due to excessive use of coffee and was then advised to try Postum. Since that time I have not had a single attack, which effect I attribute entirely to Postum. I frequently recommend it to others who experience equally gratifying results."

"Hardly a week goes by that I do not advise some patient with an irritable, acid stomach and nervous heart to stop at once the use of all coffee and take up the use of Postum, and always with good results."

"I am satisfied that coffee is responsible in a great degree for the premature breakdown of our active men and women. They suffer from caffeine poisoning. Of the truth of this there is not the shadow of a doubt. Our common sense tells us that the daily swallowing of caffeine—over-stimulating the heart and brain—will be followed by nervous depression, and finally by more or less disastrous results. I believe if people in general would use Postum as a beverage in place of coffee and tea their mental and physical condition would be much improved."

According to a recent article — "The Chemistry of a Cup of Coffee" — in the London, (Eng.) Lancet, Tea and Coffee, from a dietetic standpoint, are much alike, and are similarly injurious, because both contain the alkaloid caffeine.

In the light of such testimony it would seem the part of wisdom to stop tea and coffee and use Postum.

Postum is a genuine food-drink, made of whole wheat and a small per cent. of molasses. Contains the nutritious values of the grain, but is pure and absolutely free from the drug caffeine, or any other harmful substance.

Postum comes in two forms:

Regular Postum—must be well boiled to bring out its fine flavor. 15c and 25c packages.

Instant Postum—a soluble form! A teaspoonful stirred in a cup of hot water—with sugar and cream added—makes a delightful beverage instantly. 30c and 50c tins. The cost per cup of both kinds is about the same.

A COLD STORAGE ROMANCE.

Bill Bailey was a bachelor, forsaken and forlorn,
He used to eat a single egg for breakfast every morn.

He bought his egg one morning from the shop across the way.
The sign above them read, "These Eggs Are Strictly Fresh Today."

Bill Bailey's wonder and surprise were more than we can tell
When he discovered some one had been writing on the shell.

In fact, it seemed a woman had inscribed upon the egg
Her autograph. The name he found was Clementina Clegg.

He wrote to the address she gave and registered a vow:
"This is the woman of my choice. I'll find a partner now."

For weary weeks he waited, though the maiden had forgot,
And then his hopes were shattered by the answer that he got:

"Dear sir, your letter is at hand, and in reply would beg
To state that there is no one here named Clementina Clegg.

"Some of the oldest people here admit they used to know
A bunch of Cleggs who peddled eggs, but that was years ago.

"They tried to run a poultry ranch, but couldn't make it pay,
So sold to a cold storage plant, and then they went away."

—Spokane Spokesman-Review.

Professor Virchow was almost as famous for his excessive bluntness of speech as for his very remarkable mental attainments. Often he spoke so unfeelingly to the students who sat under him in the lecture rooms that they have been known to leave his classes and not return. According to Berlin traditions, one of the professor's favorite replies to a wrong answer to one of his questions was:

"Certainly not. Any cook would know better than that."

On the other hand, he seemed to appreciate the spirit in some of his students which prompted them to answer him back in very much his own tone. Once when he was presiding in a very old and faded suit of clothes he turned suddenly upon a seemingly bashful man sitting near him and asked:

"Do your eyes tell you the truth? What color is this coat of mine?"

Without an instant's hesitation the young man rose and said: "I presume it was once black. Now it is any color except white."

That student was passed.

NOISY BUTTERFLIES.

One Species Produces a Sound Like the Snap of a Whip.

One does not think of butterflies as making any sounds, nor of caterpillars as noisy creatures, yet according to the late Samuel Hubbard Scudder in "Frail Children of the Air," the careful student will find some use for his ears when observing the habits of both. Says the author:

It is a fact that certain butterflies produce sound during certain movements. The "whip" butterfly when surprised makes a noise like the snap of a lash by opening and shutting its wings in quick succession. Some hibernating butterflies when disturbed make a faint hissing sound by slowly depressing and raising their wings. The noise thus produced resembles that made by blowing slowly through closed teeth. Other sounds resemble the friction of sandpaper.

A large number of caterpillars make sound by striking the head against the leaf on which they are resting or by swinging the head from side to side, catching the mandibles in the roughness of the leaf or on the silken threads spun on it. It is said that a certain kind of chrysalis when disturbed emits a slight, sharp chirp or clicking noise.

A Hard Face.

Bobby's papa, who is a naval officer, took him to call upon the family of a brother officer who had just returned from a cruise to the tropics.

Among the treasures exhibited was a large red and blue parrot, whose appearance and conversational powers proved most fascinating to the little boy. While the grownups were engaged in talking over old times Bobby, left to his own devices, drew nearer to the parrot's cage, bent on making friends.

Presently there was a squawk from the parrot and a little frightened cry from Bobby, who ran to his father, exhibiting a bleeding forefinger.

The little man was brave, though, as befitted the son of a sailor. He brushed away his tears and said:

"Gee, papa, but that bird has a hard face!"—Harper's Magazine.

Tips to Travelers.

Take a candle in your bag and a box of safety matches. When they are wanted you will be glad they were put in. The space required for them is small. A passenger on a steamer that was wrecked had a small candle, which enabled her to collect some of her most valuable possessions when the lights went out after the collision. Carry a few pens in your bag if you do not use a fountain pen. You will find that it is worth while, as the pens provided at some hotels and other public places are often so bad that it is impossible to use them with any satisfaction.—San Francisco Chronicle.

SOME IMPORTANT FACTS ABOUT THE SILVER BLACK FOX INDUSTRY

The first Island ranch was started with two pairs of Anticosti Silvers, bought from a trapper for experimental purposes solely, and same proved so successful that the fox industry started to be developed.

In the year 1910 a pair of breeders could be bought for $4,600.00; in 1911 the price went up to $6,600 a pair, during 1912 a pair at $10,000 was considered high but not unusual, and at the time of writing (January 20th, 1914), live breeders can bring any price from $15,000 to $35,000, according to fecundity, and options on the unborn of next year are selling for $12,000 a pair.

About $10,000,000 is said to be invested in the fox industry on Prince Edward Island, showing a gain of over $3,000,000 inside a year.

Official returns for the present year show that the 277 fox ranches on the island contain 899 silver breeding foxes, (441 males and 458 females.) The total number of silver offsprings for 1913 was 708, and the average assessed value was $4,892.53 per fox.

The total valuation of the young silver black foxes for the current year is $3,349,449. The total number of silver foxes in the ranches for 1913 is 1602.

Pelts from ranch-bred Prince Edward Island silver black foxes have sold at the London auction sales as high as $2,628.00.

ASSETS OF THE COMPANY

The Company have TEN PAIRS of high-grade PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND Silver Black Foxes, EIGHT PAIRS are now on the ranch and two pairs of breeders under option are all eligible for registration under the select class "A" of the FOX BREEDERS' ASSOCIATION. These Foxes have been selected with special regard to parentage, and consist of the following well known strains:

Gordon, Dalton, Tuplin, Oulton, Raynor, and Champion. These names are conspicuously prominent in the Fox Industry ranches which, in 1913, paid from 45 p.c. to 900 p.c.

FUTURE POLICY

The Company expects to earn large profits from the sale of these rare black and silver foxes for breeding purposes, while each year a per centage of the production will be retained, placing the Company in a position to pay large dividends from the sale of furs alone. The object of this policy is to place the fur farming industry on a substantial commercial basis.

THE COMPANY'S RANCH

The Company owns outright a fine 211 acre farm with complete farm buildings—one of the most up-to-date ranches on the Island. It has an experienced and highly skilled keeper whose services have largely contributed to the present satisfactory condition of the business.

ONLY ONE CLASS OF STOCK

There is only one class of stock fully paid and non-assessable. Every shareholder participates pro rata in all dividends paid by the Company, and the latter has no authority to issue either Preferred Stock or Bonds.

From the above it will surely be seen that the R. J. McNEILL BLACK AND SILVER FOX COMPANY, LIMITED, are engaged in business at a most opportune time and under most favorable circumstances. Take into serious consideration that our company is established and that we have the FOXES AND RANCH, and not prospective. YOU ARE ENTITLED TO SEPTEMBER, 1914, DIVIDENDS: you don't have to wait for your dividends until 1915. In 1915 another dividend will be awaiting you

REMEMBER the average cash dividend of the above companies is 175 per cent, and there is absolutely no excuse why we cannot repeat the same.

We offered for public subscription the remaining allotment of $70,000. $30,000 has already been subscribed. $40,000 remains to be sold.

NOTICE.—Should the shares of stock not be allotted, the money paid by you will be refunded by return mail.

SOME PRESS COMMENTS

"Widows" Fox Company Declares a 900 Per Cent. Dividend.

Clerks in the employ of Sinclair & Stewart, a big dry goods house at Summerside, formed a silver fox company in 1912. This Company is popularly referred to as the "Widows" Fox Company, as nearly all the stockholders are women, a dividend of 900 per cent. was their reward.

Three sisters of Alberton, P.E.I., who were employed in the States, sent their spare earnings home two years ago to be invested in the fur farming business and their profits have averaged $15,000 yearly since.

A bookkeeper in the employ of Mr. Fred L. Rogers, the Governor's son, of Alberton, invested $300 three years ago, and is now worth $45,000 directly from this source.

The Rosemount Live Stock Co., Limited, of Alberton, P. W. Turner, treasurer, has paid a dividend of 1000 per cent. this year.

Mr. Frank Hall, clerk at Holman's Limited, received $25,000 from an investment of $500 made in this business three years ago.

Seven clerks and managers in Summerside pooled $500 each in 1910 and purchased a pair of silver foxes for $3,500. The seller, feeling that he had driven a splendid bargain, cared for the pair a year. The first litter consisted seven pups. The seven owners have received $36,000 each dividends since and the pair bought for $3,500 could be sold for $35,000 to-day. Mr. Austin Scales, of St. Eleanors, is a member of this Association

CANADIAN MILITIA

Sir William Otter Points Out its Weakness and Suggests a Remedy

Sir William Otter in the course of an address on the "Efficiency of the Canadian Militia," said in part: "The situation is briefly this—Canada, rich and prosperous, with a frontier extending from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and from the 49th parallel to the North Pole, vulnerable on all sides, requires by expert computation a force of 250,000 trained officers and men, with their attendant reserve, arms, equipment and transport to insure her safety from aggression under probable circumstances, while against these obligations for her safety her only present asset is a militia force of under 50,000, practically untrained and barely equipped.

"The militia force itself has seemingly but little conception of its weakness, or is lulled into a blind belief in its efficiency by the plaudits of admiring friends at a ceremonial or church parade; yet a greater evil appears in that the public, busily engaged in private affairs, remains totally unconcerned and oblivious to the dangers which its own enterprise is creating." In offering a remedy for the conditions which he outlined, the veteran expressed the belief that "the most economical and effective mode of meeting deficiencies of personnel, training and discipline is by the adoption of the Australian system, that is, compulsory military training in schools and universities; because from these sources we can secure both officers and men possessed of a fair knowledge of the rudiments of drill and discipline, thus forming a solid foundation upon which to prosecute further advancement."

The speaker also urged the importance of keeping rolls of the male population liable for military service to provide a reserve, and the need for more extensive and suitable training areas. In regard to the latter he suggested that the several Provinces might be asked to assist in providing training areas. "The prominent weaknesses in the discipline of the Canadian militia," said General Otter "are not apparent on the outside, nor do they consist in the commission of serious crimes or exhibitions of insubordination, but rather in the evasion of duties and responsibilities, the performance of which cannot be avoided without disjointing the whole structure of military efficiency. The principal cause of this deficiency can be traced to ignorance of the danger and the laxness of youthful training."

DEFECTIVE CHILDREN

Social Worker Deplores the Lack of Training in Many Homes

"The Cry of the Children" was the subject treated by Mrs. Wm. Duncan, of the Children's Shelter, Toronto. "A babe," she says, "is a bundle of potentialities and possibilities, and should have the right to be well born, the right to live and the right to live under as favorable conditions as it is possible to obtain. It may be the chattel of the parent, but it is also the asset of the State." She told of some of the cases that have come under her care. Five thousand children were cared for in one year at the shelter. Feeble-mindedness was increasing at such a rate as to appal the social worker and those engaged in trying to better conditions. Girls were brought to the shelter decked in jewelry, but with a paucity of underclothing. They frequently did not know how to comb their hair, they could not sweep, or wash a dish so neglected had been their home life and training

PROTECT THE BIRDS

An International Understanding May be Effected

William S. Haskell of New York, general counsel of the American Game Protection League, wants an international treaty that will prevent migratory birds in Canada being ruthlessly slaughtered similar to the way they are protected in the United States under the federal law passed at the last session of congress. Under the law all migratory and insectivorous birds are placed under federal control. "A treaty," said Mr. Haskell, "is much more effective than a statute. It is a guarantee of the law. The protection of insectivorous birds is as important to Canada as it is to the United States. When the experts tell us that insects inflict a loss on the United States estimated at $800,000,000 it will be readily understood how necessary it is to protect such birds as ducks, bobolinks, flycatchers, grosbeaks, meadow larks, thrushes, woodpeckers, wrens, swallows, warblers, etc., all of which are great devourers of all kinds of insects that destroy foliage and vegetable matter."

Unclaimed Medals

A motor lorry of the Army Service Corps passed through the streets of South London with several small khaki-colored cases. Not even the armed guard knew that the cases held more than 50,000 unclaimed South African War medals, 1899-1902, on the way to the Royal Mint to be melted down.

Turkey Luck

Twenty-six turkeys hatched at the same time by a turkey hen on a farm near Llanelly (Carmarthen) all survived, and in the fall weighed in the aggregate 400 pounds. The farmer claimed this as a record single hatch in number and weight.

WORMS! YES, THAT'S IT WORMS IS THE TROUBLE—

Many Suffer From Them and Do Not Know It.

Many go to an early grave on account of them and have been pronounced to have had brain fever or some other complaint.

Prof. Mulvaney Comes to the Rescue

His Wonderful Remedies are saving thousands of lives.

Why not try his remedies, they are sure, certain and harmless.

Stomach worms are round like earth worms, and measure from 8 to 16 inches in length, the large ones being about the size of a lead pencil in thickness. They are white and sometimes pink in color; they infest the stomach and small intestines and sometimes great numbers are found to exist. One of my customers claim one of his children passed thirty from the use of my remedy. It does not require much thought to come to the conclusion that these worms are very dangerous, as they cause fever, convulsions, fits, etc. Many persons have died from worms and they have been known to craw out of their mouth and nose after death. Just imagine the suffering and terrible agony a child or adult must experience with these disgusting and loathsome creatures crawling about in the stomach and bowels. There is no doubt that they are constantly taking the nourishment that should go to make a strong, healthy person. Is it any wonder that your child is cross, irritable and sickly? Adults are also restless, melancholy and miserable from the same cause and are sometimes treated for dyspepsia, nervous prostration and other complaints. My remedy is in liquid form and is an excellent remedy for build up the system, and can be taken for some time after the worms have been expelled to build up the system, which generally requires it as the stomach and bowels are generally in a weak and debilitated condition, caused by the ravages of these undesirable pests. My remedy known as Mother's Friend, is pleasant and agreeable to take and is a life-saver for children, as it not only destroys worms but strengthens and builds up the child, cures wetting of the bed, convulsions and fits; destroys pin worms. The price is $1.00. My remedy known as B'Well is much better for adults, and is the greatest nerve remedy on earth. Cures all nerve troubles, cleanses the system, restores lost energy and is a life saver. B'Well is a microbe killer, also a worm killer; microbes and worms cause all kinds of disease. B'Well kills the cause, also kills blood poison. Sold only by Prof. Mulvaney. Write for further information free.

DRIP PAN HAS ALARM

Automatically Gives Word When It is About to Overflow

Unless the refrigerator drip pan is emptied periodically, and in sufficiently short periods, it is going to overflow. Sometimes it does overflow, to the exasperation of the housewife but not of the maid. Maids do not get exasperated over their mistresses' misfortunes. A Western man has patented a drip pan that gives warning just before it is full and if the warning is heeded it cannot overflow. In the front of the pan is an alarm bell, operated by an electric battery. An arm that projects inside the pan has a float fixed to it and this float rests on the water in the pan. When the water gets too high the float rises and establishes a connection in the circuit that causes the alarm to ring. It will continue to ring until the pan is emptied.

Graham Pudding

1 cup chopped raisins; 1 cup sour milk; ½ cup molasses; 1 teaspoon soda; 1½ cups Graham flour; spices to taste, a little salt. Steam one hour.

The sauce for this pudding is made as follows: ¼ cup butter; ½ cup sugar; ½ cup milk; 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Rub butter and sugar together, add milk and flavoring, bring to the boiling point.

LOBSTER FISHERIES

The Money Value Increases But the Catch Declines

The wonderful productiveness of the Canadian sea shores is such that the lobster industry is still carried on on a vast scale, and the total money value of the lobster fishery is greater than ever, but the annual returns are really misleading, because, while the supply of lobsters is declining, the price has so materially advanced that the total value is greater to-day than at any previous period. Thus, in 1880, lobsters brought $5 a case, whereas last year the price realized was nearly four times that amount. In the case of the oyster, though the number of barrels annually produced on the Canadian beds is only half what it was ten years ago, the price per barrel has increased in about the same ratio as the price of lobsters, and is now four or five times what it was in 1880.

It is a widespread opinion that, by returning small lobsters to the water and marketing only the large lobsters, the value of the catch has been increased. But, in general, fishermen do not favor a size limit and some canneries would, for a time, be closed were the eight or nine-inch limit enforced generally. All, however, are convinced that the berried lobsters—the female lobster carrying eggs—must be protected.

NOW GETTING HIS DUE

The Goat Has Now Outlived Peculiar Superstition

Out of the ages steeped with superstition came the legend that the goat was created by a fiend, and its peculiar pranks and fondness for strange tricks have supported the cry. Medical men have, however, always upheld the hardy little animal. It is an indisputable fact that goats' milk is richer, more nutritious, and more easily digested than cow's milk, and as a food for children and invalids it cannot be surpassed. An eminent physician has proclaimed his championship fo the maligned goat, which he declares is more satisfactory and profitable as a milk producer than a cow. But the great point in its favor is that it is free from that taint that even the purest of our cows barely escape—tuberculosis. To use the physician's own words, the goat is "the only dairy animal immune from tuberculosis." The animal itself costs very little to buy, had very, very little to keep. The wandering tribes of Eastern Africa practically exist on the milk of goats and camels.

Courage, like panic, is infectious.

A bird in the hand often flies out of the window.

The Inside of a Teapot

The following is an excellent way to clean the inside of a silver teapot. Put a large piece of washing soda into the teapot to be cleaned and fill with boiling water. Then boil it for one hour over a spirit lamp, when it will become as bright inside as out. This does not injure the silver in any way.

Reheating Meat

The best way to warm up a joint is to wrap it in thickly greased paper and keep it covered while in the oven. By having it covered thus the steam will prevent the meat from becoming hard and dry, and the joint will get hot through in less time.

If vegetables are cooked in a steamer over hot water and sprinkled with salt when nearly done, then served in a very hot tureen, they will be found better and are said to be more nutritious than when boiled in the ordinary way.

SANOL BLOOD BUILDER

FOR TIRED OUT MEN AND WOMEN
A SURE CURE FOR ANAEMIA

Provides the Blood with Red Corpuscles so Necessary to Life

Clears and Improves the Complexion

For twenty years a celebrated German scientist worked at this great specific seeking to find the secret of blood building. The vegetable contents were brought from the four corners of the earth and so blended that a genuine blood and tissue builder was at last produced.

SANOL BLOOD BUILDER has proved a boon to mankind. The tired worn out mother in the home, with her daily round of domestic and social cares, the head of the family in office or workshop, the growing girl or boy during schooling period, at times need a body building medicine. Sanol Blood Builder supplies the blood with and incorporates into the organism of the human body that which it absolutely needs, the good results are marked and rapid.

Sanol Blood Builder, if taken according to the directions will stop the waste of the body, brighten the appetite, strengthen the system, rebuild the blood corpuscles, improve the complexion, brace the muscles and calm the brain.

OUR POINT OF VIEW

We have no doubt Sir Wilfrid Laurier will be glad to aid in the uplift of the Liberal party, provided he is boss of the job.

◆

A Hoboken school principal has been dismissed for making love to a scrub-woman. The problem of keeping domestic help has its pitfalls.

◆

It may be said without feat of successful contradition that to the self-respecting people of Canada, the late Liberal leaders in Ottawa is just one humiliation after another.

◆

It strikes us that there is something ominous in the fact that a man named Slaughter is promoting the airship race around the world.

◆

From Washington comes the news that the Department of Commerce has classified aerohydroplanes as motor boats. This ought to make it easy for the Department to group balloons with air-cushions.

◆

A news paragraph in The Examiner says that a man named Mitchel (not Mitchell), is likely to be a candidate for the Ontario Legislature at the next election. The fact will doubtless tempt you to remark that there's an "l" of a difference

◆

A great many people in Toronto are asking themselves if it is too much to hope that the proposed reduction of the price of gas this month has not been timed with the view of exercising a beneficent influence on the Legislature which has not assembled.

◆

A farm paper says: "The mule does not require very much feed or attention." The point about the feed may be well taken, but the idea that a mule does not require attention when you are within range of his heels is something that should be told to Sweeney.

MUNICIPAL WORKING CAPITAL

The city of Edmonton, together with other municipalities in the West, has adopted a plan for providing by means of "working capital" fund for the financing of public works, and especially of local improvements ultimately chargeable against the property-owners, during the period between their inception and the issue of the long-term bonds against them. The proposal, which is also being considered in Toronto, seems entirely reasonable, to the Financial Times, but the Edmonton Bulletin takes exception to it on the ground that some of the money would probably be lying idle in the city's treasury during part of the year but the interest payments would have to go on just the same.

We admit that such a prospect does not appal us. Edmonton could probably contrive to get 3 per cent. from the banks on anything which it might elect to deposit in their keeping over the winter, and while that would undoubtedly be less than the rate it would have to pay the lenders for the permanent use of the "working capital" fund it would at least mitigate the loss during such times as the capital was not "working." But surely the whole question depends on the time at which the permanent bonds are sold. If the two millions of proposed working capital of Edmonton are expended, let us say, during the summer of 1914, and the permaent bonds are not issued until the spring, or if issued are made only payable until May 1, there will be no surplus of funds in the city treasury at any time. The interest on the working capital should of course be charged to the capital account of the permanent issue; t is an essential part of the cost of construction.

It seems curious, however, that such wealthy cities as most of those in Canada cannot contrive to accumulate a couple of millions for current financing without having to borrow it.

SICK, SOUR STOMACH, INDIGESTION OR GAS

Take "Pape's Diapepsin" and in five minutes you'll wonder what became of misery in stomach.

Wonder what upset your stomach—which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps; head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take a little Pape's Diapepsin and in five minutes you wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women to-day know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless relief is Pape's Diapepsin which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful—it digests food and sets things straight, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing. Please, for your sake, don't go on and on with a weak, disordered stomach; it's so unnecessary.

COMPLETE REPORT OF INVESTIGATION

received the cheques in a similar way as a laborer, to meet his accounts for board against the department.

W. W. DARCY, a Burleigh hotel keeper figures on the pay roll for a team and teamster to meet the amount of his board bill.

HECTOR CAMPBELL, a hotelman of Kirkfield, had a bill paid in a similar way.

MR. BLADE, a florist, of Peterborough, furnished flowers for decorative purposes about the locks. He furnished a wreath for the funeral of a deceased employee, and he furnished also a rather expensive bouquet to the Superintendent's daughter, at the christening of the Bessie Butler. To pay for these flowers Mr. Blade is put on the pay roll as a laborer.

W. H. HAMILTON, a Peterborough grocer had an account which was paid by putting him down as a laborer.

T. LANE. The Superintendent bought some pillows for one of the boats from Mr. T. Lane, a furniture dealer of Peterborough, in 1910. These were paid for by putting down Mr. Lane as a laborer on pay roll.

C. R. NIXON boarded Mr. Chas. Calcutt, the captain of a government tug in 1910. The accounts are sent in to the Department and Mr. Nixon is put down as laborer on the pay roll for sufficient time to cover the amount of the account.

A. GIBSON, a jeweller in Peterborough, figures as a laborer. The Superintendent says that this was to pay for badges for the lockmen, alarm clocks on the boats and such things as that.

WM. F. NELSON, who styles himself as a broker and runs a typewriting office in Peterborough, figues almost monthly on the pay roll for years back as a laborer. He admits never having worked as a laborer. The cheques received by him were really to pay for typewriter supplies and typewriting in connection with an illustrated booklet on the subject of the Canal published by Clarry, the former accountant.

E. A. FITZGERALD, a coal merchant of Peterborough, gets a cheque for team work in June, 1911. This was really to pay an account for oil and paint and included no labor.

GEOFFREY O'BRIEN, who runs a grocery store in Peterborough for the past five or six years says that he has been selling supplies to Trent Valley Canal, ordered by Overseer Gordon, Superintendent McClellan or Faren, the storekeeper. Most of the goods went to the Bessie Butler to supply parties going up on her. O'Brien's account runs from fifteen to fifty dollars a month. Orders given by Faren were upon McClellan's instructions.

G. N. GRAHAM, proprietor of the Oriental Hotel, Peterborough, according to the pay sheet for Oct., 1907, is paid $9.50 for six days' labor. This was to pay for meals at the hotel.

W. H. ROBINSON, proprietor of the Times newspaper, Peterborough, had an account for $3.60 in March, 1909. He is put on as a laborer and his account is paid in that way.

E. SINGER. A pay sheet for August, 1910, shows E. Singer, laborer 17 days at $1.50, $25.60.

Singer runs a second hand store in Peterborough, and never worked on the Canal. The entry is put through to pay sundry small accounts—$2.50 to Gus Hay, an employee in Hall's law office; $3.00 to J. Gibson, an occasional canal employee, $2.00 to Superintendent McClellan and the balance for parcels.

D. DENHAM. The pay sheet for July, 1911, shows D. Denham, laborer, 6⅔ days, $10.00. This young man was a student at Cornell University. In taking his holidays up the Canal he took some photos and the Superintendent agreed to pay him ten dollars for some of them. It was paid under the guise of labor.

VINCENT EASTWOOD, manager of the Royal Bank at Peterborough, appears on the pay roll as a laborer at $1.50 per day. There is no explanation forthcoming for this.

F. SANDY got a government cheque for $28.00, for alleged services as a carpenter in Aug., 1908. Mr. Sandy is the G.T.R. Station agent at Peterborough and the account of $28 was for a special train to Fenelon Falls to a meeting that was held there on Aug. 22nd, by Hon. Geo. P. Graham.

A. HOLLINGSHEEAD. Nov. 9th, A. Hollingshead on pay sheet A, is paid for 15 days' labor at $1.50, $22.50. Mr. Hollingshead was manager of the Bank of Ottawa at Peterborough at that time and of course was not an employee of the Government.

OZIAS LAPLANTE, a lawyer of Peterborough, figures on the sheet a number of times as a laborer.

H. S. McDONALD, is a druggist. He apparently sold hair brushes and combs to the value of $4.00 for use on the Bessie Buttler. His account was paid by putting him down on the pay sheet as a laborer.

L. DEYMAN, a furniture dealer got a cheque for a day's labor in July, 1909, at $1.75 per day, for a feather pillow.

S. A. OKE is a fruit merchant and grocer in Peterborough. He supplied goods to the Bessie Butler on occasions and was put on the pay sheet to cover his account. For instance, in July, 1909, he is paid for a team and teamster for three and a half days at $3.50, making a total of $12.25.

J. H. STAUNTON appears on the pay sheet as a laborer in 1909 and 1910. He is a photographer at Fenelon Falls and never worked on

HARRY LONG who used to keep a confectionery store in Peterborough and supplied sandwiches and other refreshments for some excursions on the canal, instead of having his account put on the pay sheet in the regular way, is represented as working at the removal of stumps at Kirkfield, and is paid as a laborer.

H. GAINEY was paid for work as a laborer on a number of occasions during the year 1907. Mr. Gainey is a barber in Peterborough and never worked on the Canal.

W. J. O'BRIEN, a grocer in Peterborough, appears as a laborer.

H. HOOVER is a cabinet maker and picture framer in Peterborough. Through the years 1908, 1909, 1910, 1911 he has been paid a considerable sum of money as a laborer on the Canal works. This was to pay accounts for picture framing, etc.

F. W. DOAN. In Oct. 1907, $39.00 rental due the Bell Telephone Company for telephone at McClellan's residence was paid by cheque to F. W. Doan, an employe of the company and charged against repairs to booms, slides and dams. A similar account was paid in the same way in Oct. 1907 and again in June, 1908. There is no explanation of this, as McClellan says, the Government was to pay for a telephone in his house one can conceive of no reason for putting the accounts through in this way.

R. M. ROY, Charged against improving and clearing drowned lands on Balsam Lake in November, 1908, is one dollar paid to R. M. Roy, a photographer of Peterborough for photographs in December there is a similar item of two dollars. In fact Mr. Roy appears frequently for several years on the pay roll. In 1909. Mr. Roy was paid $15.65 as a laborer which was really for photographs.

A. CARR is undoubtedly an assumed namefor some one who drew pay regularly as a laborer during 1906, 1907, 1908 and 1909. After exhaustive inquiry I was unable to find any one of that name who had ever been in Peterborough. The Superintendent himself admitted that he could not see where the Government ever got value for some three hundred dollars paid to A. Carr in this way. It is certainly a most glaring piece of fraud practised upon the Government.

THE PETERBORO EXAMINER appears to have had frequent accounts put through as labor in the name of some of the company's employes. In Jan., 1907, J. Clark is paid for 6 days work as a laborer at $1.50, $9.00; in June, 1907, 7 days at $1.50, $10.50; in March, 1907, 7 days as laborer at Gull River, at $1.50, $10.50; in May, 1907, J. Clark, 6 days at $1.75, repair booms, slides and dams, $10.50; in August, 1908, J. Clark, 10 days, laborer at $1.75, $17.50; in Sept., 1908, J. Clark, laborer, 10 days at $1.75, $17.50. Clark was an employe at the Examiner office, and never did any work on the Canal. The Superintendent swears that Clark did not labor for this money, nor did the Department owe these accounts to the Examiner.

PAT HOGAN. In the year 1905 and 1906. Pat Hogan was paid as a laborer on several occasions. Hogan is a hotelkeeper in Peterborough and never worked on the Canal. Presumably this was to pay board bills, but there is no record to show this.

MRS. KEARNAY. It is shown in the evidence that McClellan built a verandah for Mrs. Kearney and the Government paid and boarded the men while doing it. He says that she still owes for this work, but there is no record in the office and he admits that she has never been billed with any account. (Page 168).

GEORGE WILSON (Page 670) who is called a walking boss does work that the Superintendent says is a part of Overseer Clegg's duties and should be done by Clegg himself. He draws $75.00 a month, although McClellan says that he is unnecessary and his services should be dispensed with.

JACKSON'S MEAL ACCOUNT, JULY, 1908. Pay sheet shows that there were 146⅓ days at three meals a day, making 439 meals Jackson gave for month of July at 14c making $61.46 due him for the month. He was paid $120.54 although McClellan certified for this, he admits that he has no explanation. (Pages 469 and 470). In the month of May Jackson served 643 meals at 14c., which would amount to $90.02. He was paid for 929 meals, totalling $130.06. There is no explanation for this. These accounts with many similar ones were made out in the Superintendent's office, and certified by him and sent to Ottawa for payment.

WILLIAM HEWITT is a caretaker of some small dams at Hawke Lake. He is paid $1.75 a day and board, and free use of a house and fuel owned by the Department at Hawke Lake. He has been permitted to buy provisions and furnish his house. For June, 1911, his grocery bill at one store was $10.26; July, $34.40; Aug. $73.54; Sept. and Oct. $27.02. It is obvious that no attempt was made to control this expenditure and from the nature of the goods purchased Mr. Hewitt lived both luxuriously and extravagantly. It is costing the government at least $1200 a year to maintain Mr. Hewitt at a job that should not cost half that. As a result of the disclosures elicited in my investigation McClellan cancelled this improvident arrangement and engaged him at $60 a month, and even this rate of wages is in my view, excessive.

B. A. ROSE, a G. T. R. ticket agent at Peterborough, appears constantly on pay rolls for several years until 1911, as a laborer. In many cases this is for tickets purchased by employees outside of the regular monthly tickets given for transportation on Government business. In some cases Mr. Rose denies the receipt of the money put through in his name. It was impossible to trace the parties who got either these tickets or the money.

PATRICK J. KENNY, who conducts a liquor store in Peterborough, is almost constantly on the payroll as a carpenter from Dec., 1906, to the fall of 1911. I have filed with this report a verified copy of Kenny's account showing that he was paid nearly $600.00 for liquors and cigars in three years. As far as I can trace it practically all of these refreshments were to equip the Bessie Butler for numerous pleasure parties, some of which were conducted under the guise of official inspections. McClellan denies that any of these went to his house, although Kenny says that a substantial order was delivered there for Xmas, 1908. The evidence shows that some $35 or $40 worth of liquors was purchased and paid for each winter when the boats were out of commission. I was unable to trace the delivery of the winter supply. Kenny testified that all these goods were ordered by McClellan and Farein. The latter says that he ordered only upon instructions from McClellan, who acknowledges this and admits his full responsibility in the matter.

J. Young. The time sheet for Sept., 1905, shows J. Young, laborer, 26 days' work at $1.50, $39.00. Time sheet for Nov., 1905, shows J. Young, laborer, 24 days' work at $1.50, $36.00. The evidence showed that J. Young was not a laborer and never worked on the Canal. He is a steamboat man at Young's Point. Superintendent McClellan engaged the boat for an excursion to Fenelon Falls at $125.00, and says that it was for the use of departmental officials and their friends. Young says that the party was made up largely of Peterborough people.

If there was nothing to conceal one cannot understand why Young's account should not be paid regularly as an account instead of his name being falsely entered on the roll as a laborer.

In Dec., 1908, fire did some small amount of damage to the kitchen of the Bessie Butler. McClellan reported to the department that it would take some two or three hundred dollars to put her in repair. Apparently without authority from anybody except, that he says that he spoke to Mr. Butler about it, he expended upwards of $2,200 in rebuilding the boat on an extravagant and unwarranted manner.

ROBERT PIMMETT has been employed as a cook on one of the Government boats for a number of years. In 1910 he was paid a monthly salary and twenty cents a meal for the crew and workmen, and thirty-five cents a meal or officials' guests, etc. He kept track of the number of meals and sent a statement to the office monthly. The account for meals runs into very large figures. There had been a great many excursion parties up the Canal. When the season closed there was seventy dollars due Pimmett, much of which was from McClellan's family relatives and guests. Pimmett worked for the Department until the middle of Jan., 1911, but was idle from that until the 10th of March. He was kept on the payroll, however, at $1.50 per day throughout Jan and Feb., until the seventy dollars was paid. In March, 1911, McClellan hired Pimmett at 60 dollars a month to cook for a gang of men at Lakefield. Pimmett was directed to keep track of the number of meals and send in a statement to the office. He did this and this statement was sent to Ottawa and a cheque for the amount at 15c a meal was forwarded to Peterborough in Pimmett's name. Pimmett was required to endorse this and the Peterborough office paid the accounts and somebody, not entitled to it, retained the balance. For instance, in April, 1911, the account for meals sent to Ottawa and paid was $156.00. Out of this Pimmett was paid fifteen dollars to make up the difference between his regular salary promised him by McClellan. The account for supplies was 101 dollars so that there was forty dollars rake off in that month's business for some body. In other words somebody stole forty dollars from him.

This arrangment with Pimmett was made by the Superintendent himself and he must have been cognizant with the facts. In the year 1912 a small boat called the Manita was rented by McClellan from Wm. Robinson for use on the Canal at $8.00 per day; McClellan agreeing to do whatever repairs were necessary for this purpose. Rent was paid for her from 26th of May to the 12th of June while she was being repaired. Rent was paid for her also while being laid up in the fall. The spring repairs cost $259.12. She worked 26 days for the engineers department for which they paid McClellan's department $208.00. She worked for McClellan's department 27 days during that season. The balance of the time she worked for Sir Wm. McKenzie, who paid Robinson $8.00 a day for her. McClellan sent the whole outfit on to McKenzie's work and McKenzie paid rental, wages and maintenance while actually on the work. McClellan's department paid for delivering her at McKenzie's work and paid for her while returning from work. Robinson complained that the boat had been badly used and seriously damaged. In the spring of 1913, McClellan spent $331.00 on repairs. The result of operations with this boat is that she cost in repairs—1912, $259.00; 1913, $331.00; rent $504.00; total, $1094.00, received from the engineers, $208.00. The net cost of the boat to the Government, $886.00 for twenty-seven days' work or about $33.00 per day. (Page 451.)

C. C. HUYCKE. The name of C. C. Huycke appears regularly on the pay roll in McClellan's office for the past seven or eight years at twenty five dollars a month as caretaker at Healey's dam. He lives two or three miles out of Hastings and eight miles from the dam he is supposed to take care of. When required to do work at the dam it was necessary to telephone to Hastings and send a message with a livery man out to his house. Then he drove the eight miles to fulfil his orders. The Government paid for the telephone and the livery. In Nov., 1909, Dep. Min. Butler instructed McClellan that Grant would have control of the waters between Healey's Falls and Hastings during the construction work there. McClellan wrote Grant enclosing a copy of Butler's letter and told him that he had notified Huycke that instructions would be given him from the Engineers' department thereafter. Mr. Grant did not even acknowledge the letter. He gives as his reason for ignoring the letter that he did not consider he was in any way under McClellan's direction. He admits that there is a bitter feeling between the two offices and went so far as to forbid his men to have any thing to do with Huycke. He knew that Huycke was a Government employee and must have known that he would continue to draw salary for doing nothing. In my opinion his duty was to have written McClellan telling him that he did not require Huycke's services and the country could be saved $300.00 per year. In his actions towards McClellan, Grant appears to be actuated more by enmity and his own vanity than the safeguarding of the public funds. The result was that Huycke remained on the Government pay roll and was paid through McClellan's office. Grant paid no attention to him; McClellan gave him no instructions. He has been drawing $300.00 a year for which he has done nothing, but sent to Peterborough weekly reports of water levels taken at the foot of his farm. His position is a sinecure and he should be dismissed.

RENTALS.—While under examination in Sept. 19th, McClellan admitted having in his possession $15.00 belonging to the department which he had received by registered letter on the 25th of April, previous as rent. Written demand was twice made upon Grylls while McClellan had the money.

On another occasion he admitted having received $10.00 from the Provincial Treasurer for the storage of a patrol boat. This never reached the public treasury, although the cheque is endorsed by McClellan. Nor are these the only instances of this kind as a perusal of the evidence will show.

There is a large amount of rentals for power and lands paid into the Superintendent's office each year. No attempt was ever made to keep a separate account of these. The Superintendent deposited everything to his private credit and chequed out money on his personal cheque. When public moneys were received by him, instead of remitting direct to Ottawa he deposited everything to his own credit and had the use of it for months sometimes, before he remitted to the Receiver-General. Examination of his various bank accounts shows that had it not been for the deposit of Government funds he would have had almost constant overdrafts and would have been unable to issue cheques against his own account. In other words he improperly diverted to his own use the public funds.

In 1910 his deposits in the Bank of Commerce amounted to $12,452.00. Had he deposited his whole salary which he did not do it would only account for $2000.00 of this deposit. The balance of his deposit amounting to $10,452.00 is made up of at least $3349.71 of the Government funds and moneys received by him in connection with the winding up of some companies in which he and his son were interested. A large part of the amount he admits was money belonging to the Government.

McClellan never had any official or office account but carried private accounts at different times with the Ontario Bank, the Bank of Montreal, the Royal Bank, the Bank of Ottawa, the Bank of Commerce. All these accounts appear to have been conducted on the same principle. (page 427).

W. H. DUNSFORD, Manager of the Bank of Commerce (page 472), says McClellan would not have been able to issue cheques against his own account if it had not been that he was depositing public funds to his own credit.

In the summer of 1910 McClellan sent a dredge to Lindsay to do work for John Ritchie & Company for which they paid to McClellan $500. This money was never paid to the Government and McClellan is unable to account for it. His statement is that he may have drawn the cash for it and left it with Clarry, the accountant to hand over to one Davidson for the Liberal Campaign fund. (Evidence pages 393, 394, 469 and 470). He admits that large sums of money that should have been remitted to Ottawa were contributed to the Liberal Election fund. In a short investigation in the hopelessly muddled account I was able to trace about $2,000, which he says went in that way, made up as follows:—

Three cheques of $514.00, $480.00, $482.00, respectively received for empty cement sacks, and a cheque of $550.00 received from John Ritchie for dredging he says when he went on the canal he was told by Hon. J. R. Stratton that there should be an election fund of from five to seven thousand dollars a year from the canal office and that he proceeded on that basis.

GEORGE A. MOTHERSELL, auditing Engineer and Superintendent McClellan appear to be very close friends and considerable correspondence concerning official matters, but marked private (?) have passed between them. Some of these are in my view highly improper, even if they are not to be characterized more seriously. For instance a pay sheet reaches Mothersill for audit in December, 1909. Amongst the accounts is one from Wm. Jackson, a cook for 444 meals at fifteen cents, making a total of $66.16 to be charged to a wharf at Juniper Island. Mothersill writes a private letter to McClellan returning the account pointing out that the Juniper Island appropriation "will not stand" that amount, and tells him there is only a balance of $30.56 in that account "or about 219 meals." A new account dated the same is immediately returned for 219 meals and was put through.

Again in October 18th, 1912, Mothersill writes privately to McClellan returning some irregular vouchers and warns him that there may be persons on the lookout for any such irregularity. To my mind these are most remarkable letters to go from an auditor to the man whose accounts he audits. They throw some light on the reprehensible departmental methods that have obtained.

SAM CLEGG, an overseer on McClellan's staff, signs time slips and pay sheets including the names of persons who have never worked on the canal, but, of whom have accounts of various kinds. He admits that this was a very general practice and that it was entirely wrong to do it.

M. BURRETT is the wife of the Lockmaster at number three lock. She was paid several sums as a labourer on the canal during the years 1905 and 1906. The Superintendent thinks some of these payments were to pay accounts for boarding canal employees when working on that vicinity during the summer. There was a number of payments made to her as a labourer during the winter. McClellan suggests that this was probably to cover work done by her husband who is a Lockmaster so that he could be paid not only his regular salary as lockmaster, but draw double pay in this way. I find this same M. Burrett on the March 1910, pay roll on the engineers' department.

GEORGE H. GIROUX, of the Superintending Engineer's office, is styled Clerk of Works. His duties, according to his own statement consists of checking over accounts pertaining to the staff, looking after the letters coming through the office, and taking care of office plans and making blue prints. A Character Study That Startles

By LEONA DALRYMPLE

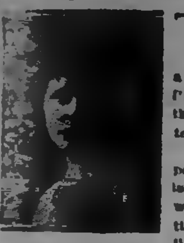
Author of the new novel, "Diane of the Green Van," awarded a prize of $10,000 by Ida M. Tarbell and S. S. McClure as judges.

Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service.

The truth about "the girl in the case" distinguishes this new series by Miss Dalrymple. Her characters will not be unfamiliar to the majority of readers, who will follow the fortunes "Peter" with growing interest.

Questionable Literature.

CXL.



LEONA DALRYMPLE

"THAT," said Mary primly, "is not at all a nice sort of book. I'm surprised, Peter, that you wanted me to read it."

I started in some pardonable astonishment. The book was a powerful fiction sermon, a virile, interesting narrative that I had found most fascinating. Not so Mary. She enumerated the portions which displeased her with an air of offended dignity.

"Dear me, Peter," she said. "Surely you can see for your self that the author touches upon subjects of which we ought never to speak or read. And in the plainest language, too. Such material should not be printed in any book."

"There is nothing that can't be written about," said I bluntly, "provided the writer has the right touch and the right feeling behind it."

"Peter," exclaimed Mary, "I don't see how you can speak so. The book is immoral."

I gasped.

"What," I begged, "is an immoral book?"

"One," said Mary lamely, "that is indelicate."

"That," I replied patiently, "is essentially a woman's viewpoint." I could have qualified it and said a prudish woman's viewpoint, but I dislike the terse things men as a rule say to their wives, and so I forebore.

"The book is—is sordid," said Mary.

Now it has been my experience that Mary hates to face the facts of life squarely. Why this is so I can't for the life of me make out. I like a sane philosophy of realism that helps you understand and meet the problems of everyday life. Mary wants all her reading bathed in an idealistic, rose-colored light that is most misleading.

She likes acute sentimentality, provided it be pretty. She loves to weep over a book and dab her eyes violently at the end of a chapter. And she'll swallow most any absurdity provided the book ends happily.

This abnormal hunger for the unreal is to me most surprising. Is it the result of the idyllic, unreal dream world which girls are taught assiduously to know and to like? Why, in heaven's name, aren't girls taught to face the facts of life in the fashion of boys? Why must we swath a girl's eyes in a mist of rose-colored chiffon and let her suffer cruelly when life snatches the veil away as it must in time?

"And besides," Mary was saying, naively, "the book has no pretty words in it!"

Pretty words! It was a new essential for powerful literature, and I said so.

"Nevertheless," insisted Mary "I do love pretty words, and they help make a book for me. 'Shadows'—that's a pretty word—and 'silver' and 'marigold,' and things like that. Look at some of the dreadful words in that book. They actually made me shudder."

What pampered esthetics some women are!

We laid aside the book, and a few days later I found Mary reading a popular novel of somewhat salacious flavor.

"Oh Peter!" she exclaimed with shining eyes. "It's just wonderful, wonderful! You must read it."

"I have read it," I said with a shrug. "And you'll pardon me, Mary, but I think there's considerably more indelicacy in it than the book you criticised the other night."

"There's a beautiful love story in it," defended Mary, "and beautiful words. I don't see, Peter, how you can speak that way. There isn't a single offensive word in the whole thing, and nothing half so bald and brutal as the other book."

"It doesn't need to be," I pointed out. "It's nasty insinuation beautifully veiled. Mary," I added slowly, "I don't think you and I agree as to just what constitutes an immoral book. That book in your hand I consider grossly immoral because it treats of a sex problem in a flippant, frivolous way, and makes irregularity decidedly attractive. You condone lots more than you ought to while you're reading it. Such an insidious influence is bound to be undermining."

"But," reminded Mary, with triumphant logic, "you said there was nothing—absolutely nothing that couldn't be written in a book."

"Provided it be treated with reverence. Reverence, to my notion, is the thing that makes a book moral or immoral. To clothe vice attractively——"

"Peter," cried Mary, "I think you're horrid. This book is really beautiful."

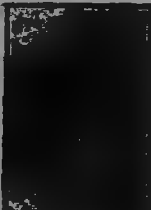
Why does a woman devour exotic, unwholesome sentiment because it's clothed in pretty words, and deliberately sidestep a frank but reverent exposition of the same topic?

Isn't it the result of the foolish, rose-colored training? I think so.

New Cottons Rival Silks

LATEST WORD FROM MAKERS OF FASHION

By Madge Marvel



A WOMAN quickly realizes, after looking through the dress goods sections of the department stores, that dressing well "on nothing a year" is a difficult matter, even if one sticks to cottons. "That simple little wash frock," about which so much has been said and written for many moons, has passed into oblivion. Buying it this year means spending more than an elaborate costume of silk would cost. Indeed, when I went shopping the other day I was pleased with the prices of the new silks and staggered by those of the cotton goods.

Also the latter are far more wonderful in weave and coloring. But when you ask the price of a piece of dull blue crepe stuff in the cotton goods corner and the salesman says "$7.50 a yard" without a tremor of the eyelid, it makes you doubt the condition of your ears.

Never were the cottons so lovely. Never were they so expensive. I am firmly convinced the dry cleaners and the weavers have formed a compact of some kind, even if it is only mental.

There is no hope of sending the new "wash" gown to the tub. It will have to be dry cleansed. I said as much to the salesman.

"Oh, yes, to be sure, madame," he agreed, "all gowns look better by being cleansed than they do by being tubbed. In fact, madame, I do not think tubbing summer dresses has been very much favored for the past two seasons."

However, their loveliness, as I say, is unequalled. Every shade and every weave which have made the silks and wools and velvets such wondrous stuffs for costumes have been repeated in the cottons, which are but half cotton in the best goods, the other threads being silk.

The names we have become accustomed to are retained. There is ratine in various designs, the most appealing being in a loosely woven check, decidedly smart for suits. Tan and rose is a good combination.

Then there is duvetyne in plain and novelty weaves. The latter is like the uncut velvet. It comes in moss green, heliotrope, yellow rose, blue, all the lovely new shades. It is wide—almost as wide as it is costly. It is intended, as is golfine, which is something like corduroy, to be used for coats to be worn over frocks of flowered crepe, the plain material matching the color of the flower.

Crepes, either flowered or brocaded, or plain or figured, and in every color and combination of colors are new, desirable and fascinating. The average price of the most alluring goods seemed to hover about the $4 a yard mark. And I saw a dozen or more women having the materials measured off with delightful unconcern, so I suppose it is all right. But we shall have to change our ideas of what constitutes the "simple little tub frock."

Hustle, or Move On

By Tom Jackson

WHEN chuck steak cost six cents a pound and bacon sold for ten, when one cent to consumers brought an egg fresh from the hen, then one might loaf upon his job and work a little slow, but now the price of eats keeps one a-hustling after dough. Besides, in this Progressive age a person must have speed; live wires are the only kind of men the bosses need. 'Tis get-a-move-on-all the time, if fortune one would win, and "Take It Easy" must slip out, while "Hustler" he steps in.

These are the days of rush and dash, dyspepsia, too, no doubt; but one must keep up with the pace or else step down and out. We hear of many nervous wrecks a-scattered 'long the shore, but biz is biz, and for its sake there will be many more. The stage coach days were easy ones, and healthy, too, we own, but then they had no railroad trains, biplanes and telephone. They could not talk by wireless across the ocean wide, or have a little box at home with opera stars inside. They had no moving picture shows, or buildings to the sky; they just lived in an easy rut 'till it was time to die.

But now the Hustler is on deck; at work he always keeps. He's doing something all the time, excepting when he sleeps. This is the day of mighty things, of experts and technique—one must be right up on the job to draw pay ev'ry week. The stage coach days have passed away, are stricken from the list; the people then lived healthy lives, but think of what they missed!

LIGHT DIET IS AID TO BEAUTY

Elaine Hammerstein

Elaine Hammerstein's Sample Menu

By Ann Marie Lloyd

EAT oranges and apples and bankrupt the beauty parlor. Eat spinach and onions and cheat the germ jinx."

This is the little health and beauty hint which Elaine Hammerstein gives her friends when they marvel at her never lessening vivacity and buoyancy, and cast envious looks at her clear skin and sparkling eyes.

In addition to being healthy and happy, Miss Hammerstein has wisdom. Likewise she has independence, individuality, originality and personality.

She is also musical. She sings—in light not grand opera—and she has dramatic ability. And she has beauty. Not the statuesque type of that commodity, but the beauty of the average young American girl, the beauty of the joy of living.

She has also magnetism and charm.

And she owes most of her attractiveness and healthiness to her belief in these four very simple foodstuffs, she says.

Here is the way she incorporates them in her dietary:

Juice of six oranges for breakfast. (Incidentally, that's all except dry graham toast.)

Two apples, baked or raw, for luncheon. And whatever else she feels like eating, but no sweets. The apples are dessert.

Spinach, plain boiled and eaten without vinegar, as the chief vegetable dish at dinner. All she wants of it. Sometimes she dresses it with oil and lemon juice and eats it as a salad.

One raw onion and another apple at night.

"Analyze the word 'liver,'" says Miss Hammerstein. "It means just what it sounds like. You can't live without a liver. You can't be well or happy without a good one. What keeps the liver good?

"Orange juice, apples, spinach and onions. They are cleansers and tonics of the system. They contain the salts we should have. Spinach is rich in salt and in iron.

"Why don't we find the medicine we need in food? Why don't we find the way to be beautiful in food? Some of us do. All of us may. I am convinced more suicides are due to disordered livers than to aching hearts.

"Unrequited love will not make any sane person take his life, unless it is irritated and aggravated by an unhappy liver. You know there is an old proverb, 'An apple a day keeps the doctor away.' It is perfectly true. Try it. And add the other things to it.

"As for the haunting odor which survives the onion, chew a leaf of parsley and it will be absorbed. By the way, parsley is another grand medicine."

Why the 1914 Girl Is Superior

By WINIFRED BLACK

Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service.

Winifred Black

DR. RICHARD ROOT SMITH says that the woman of 1914 is an imperfect and defective type.

She is, says Dr. Smith, slight, thin-chested, nervous and in every way a bad business specimen.

Dr. Smith made this statement at the Race Betterment Conference at its recent session in Battle Creek, Mich.

Why, Dr. Richard Root Smith, whatever are you talking about, and why are you talking?

The woman of 1914 an imperfect and defective type, indeed! You're fooled, Doctor, the clothes or the lack of them are fooling you.

Don't you remember the man at the circus who used to tickle you almost to death when you were little and thought that spangles dropped down out of the skies and that there was something almost unearthly about the smell of sawdust?

The man I mean was very fat, when he came into the ring.

He bet somebody that he could ride the trick horse as well as the regular circus riders, and with a great deal of trouble he mounted the horse.

You held your breath, expecting him every minute to be dashed to pieces under the horse's hoofs.

Of course, you didn't want that to happen to him, but as long as it was going to happen you were glad, with a kind of breathless gladness, that you were going to be there so you could tell your cousin, who had to stay at home with the whooping cough, that you had seen him.

To your amazement, the man didn't fall off the horse at all. He slipped and he slithered and he caught at the air wildly—but somehow he always held his balance. Then, all at once, he began, to your perfect horror and amazement, to shed his clothes.

First came his coat, then his vest, then his trousers—you tried to look away by this time, but, held by some hideous fascination, you found you could not—then came another coat and another vest and another pair of trousers, and, finally, the fat man stood revealed as the most slender and graceful being you ever saw, all dressed in silk and spangles—and riding like an inspired centaur.

The modern woman you are so worried about is a good deal like that fat man in the old-fashioned circus.

She's just been fooling you all the time.

She's a great deal stronger and deeper-chested and more perfectly balanced nervously than any American woman has ever been. She's just wearing different clothes, that's all, poor deluded man, and fewer of them, and that's what is worrying you. The fashionable walk makes the girls look anaemic, but it doesn't make them so in reality, by any manner of means.

No girl can be anaemic and tango 20 miles a day, besides doing a lot of perfectly good walking for the sake of her complexion.

Your grandmother and mine, Dr. Smith, "swooned."

Your mother and mine "fainted."

My aunt said that when she was a girl there was never a funeral, or a wedding, or a surprise party, or a circus, or a quilting bee, or anything else where people were gathered together, without some one being carried out in a perfectly good faint.

Everybody fainted, sometime, during the week.

Grandma fainted in church when the preacher talked about the Prodigal Son, and everybody knew that she was thinking of her boy that ran away.

Mother fainted when Aunt Sarah said she was going to marry the village cut-up—so there. And Aunt Sarah herself fainted when the village cut-up decided that he didn't want to be married after all. It was the thing to faint; it was the thing to be "delicate" and "frail." Red cheeks were looked upon as vulgar, and nobody who was anybody wore any corsets larger than a number 18.

Feet were small, too, or at least the shoes were, and mother and Aunt Sarah had to make their feet fit the shoes. Women were not supposed to eat; they "trifled" with an ice or picked the wing of a chicken.

It was rude to be healthy and bad form to be sturdy.

Now every girl you know can skate and walk and ride and row and play tennis and swim and play golf and run a motor either in a boat or a car, and she is as strong and "fit" as her brother and, sometimes, and not too seldom by any means, a good deal "fitter."

She isn't spineless and round-shouldered and hollow-chested at all, Doctor; she is just wearing the fashionable clothes and doing the fashionable pose.

There isn't much doubt that that pose was assumed in the first place as a kind of protest against the suffragette and all her ways and means.

The modern girl may look like a clinging vine, for the season, just to fool you and the rest of the men, Dr. Smith, but she's the sturdiest, most independent little vine you ever saw or heard of.

Just try to train her along in some way she doesn't happen to want to go and observe how quickly she will stop "clinging."

Don't fret about the 1914 girl, Dr. Smith, of Battle Creek, Mich. She can take perfectly good care of herself—and of some of the rest of us, too.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

When Might Is Right Odds Favor "Good Luck"

By Dr. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

Copyright, 1914, by L. K. Hirshberg.

DR. HIRSHBERG

HOW does one man rise to the seats among the mighty and another hates him merely for his success? Is there any such thing as a secret formula of strength and power?

Frankly, there is not. Nor is there such a thing as "luck." "Luck," said Prof. Edward Livingston of Johns Hopkins University not long ago, "is merely the proof of our ignorance which shows itself in the law of probability."

In analogous words, luck is the unexpected action of the unlooked for forces of nature upon something or other, which might be you or me.

Thus, if ten thousand persons were gaping upward with their mouths wide open, and some one was to pitch two deadly torturing bichloride tablets up in the air, one of these might be gulped down by Nicholas Nickleowitch and the other might bounce from the head of Skinny Doyle, who was no good to any one.

Those who believe in magic and "good luck" explain such things to their own superstitious satisfaction, but the rest know, with Prof. Livingston, that if all of the possible conditions were known, if the action of the air, gravity, friction, hand-power, the forces above and below, and centillion million other physical conditions of the mineral and living worlds of thought and matter were available for calculation, that which you call "bad" or "good" luck would turn out to be only a matter of mathematics.

Sooth to say, this fulsome state of knowledge remains to be worked out in the dim and distant future.

Might is really to health what luck is to mathematics. If you were perfectly formed from an inheritance of perfection and lived in surroundings that could not reduce your perfect qualities of health, you would be all powerful.

The gods are said to assist the strongest, because nothing succeeds like health. All of the armed prophets conquer and all of the unarmed perish, because to the healthy all things are possible.

For the same reason, the winds and waves are always on the side of the ablest navigators.

Right should always overcome might, because right is an immemorial accumulation of inherited and combined "mights." Briefly, right is a compound of might, and hence, when it acts together, it approaches perfect health more nearly than might itself.

What is mere physical health without a double share of healthful thoughts? Thus right is vaster, more wieldy, less burdensome, more secure, more complete in its health and command than mere muscular health.

"The great mind knows the power of gentleness,
Only tries force because persuasion fails."

Answers to Health Questions

F. B., Philadelphia—What is good for little holes left in the face after blackheads are out? What will remove little, sore, red places on the nose?

Apply glycerine to the blackheads and put into the holes afterward. Too much greasy, rich, "filling" foods may be at the basis of your red nose. Touch the nose with a crystal of alum.

MISS C., Toronto, Can.—What is good for watery eyes?

Hot baths of boric acid water in an eyecup five times a day. Your glasses also need correcting, and should be worn constantly.

* * *

G. J.—I'm annoyed with sweaty hands. What is the cause and the cure for this trouble?

Irritable, nervous, timid people whose "thyroid"—the mass of tissue near the Adam's apple—is overactive, usually have sweaty hands. The application of belladonna ointment, a poison which the doctor must watch, often checks the perspiration.

Sayings of Children

An astute little boy was asked the other day what was meant by "sins of omission," and he responded, without any pause or hesitation, "The sins we have forgotten to commit."

Johnny having arrived at his 8th birthday thought it would be real nice to write a letter to his papa, and this is the way he began: "My dear papa—Whenever I am tempted to do wrong I think of you and say: 'Get thee behind me, Satan.'"

Mamma—Did mamma's little girl keep baby still while I was away?

Mamma's little girl—Yes'm; but nex' time I wish you'd let Susie play wiv me, 'cause it's hard work for jest one to set on him all the afernoon.

Mamma (explaining spiritual truths to her little boy)—Tommy, when you die you leave your body behind; only your soul goes to heaven.

Tommy—Well, mamma, what will I button my pants to?

First boy—My papa knows more than your papa does.

Second boy—I bet he doesn't. Did you ever see my papa? His forehead reaches 'way to the back of his head.

Mamma—You and your little visitors are doing nothing but sitting still and looking miserable. Why don't you play something?

Little daughter—We is playin'.

"Playing what?"

"We's playin' that we's growed up!"

Willie came from the shed where Uncle Rufus was picking a chicken.

"Aunt Sue!" he exclaimed, "what do you think? Uncle Rufus is in the shed husking a hen—honest true!"

Fond parent—Don't you know better, Bobby, than to leave your chewing gum on a chair where people will sit down on it?

Bobby—It's all right, father; I've got another piece.

Daddy's Good Night Story

By GEORGE HENRY SMITH

THE Big Red Rooster stood looking at Charlie Chick one day just as the sun came over the hills.

"What funny feet you have," the big fellow said to Charlie.

"They are not as funny as yours," replied Charlie Chick.

"What is funny about mine?" asked the Big Red Rooster, poking his head down until he almost upset himself.

"Why," began Charlie, "your feet are all full of scratches."

"You don't tell me!" exclaimed the Big Red Rooster, taking another squint at his feet. "I may have been in the briar patch, but I didn't know I scratched those beautiful feet of mine."

With that the big fellow went off behind the barn where Dobbin was. He hung his head and every little while he looked at his feet and asked himself, "I wonder what is the matter with me, anyway?"

"Were you talking to me?" asked Dobbin.

"No," replied the Big Red Rooster, "I was talking to myself."

"I hope you like it," answered Dobbin.

"I don't enjoy talking to myself," said the Rooster, "but it relieves my mind."

"Does it help your mind to look at your feet so often?" asked Dobbin.

"No," said the Rooster. "The talking relieves my mind and I am looking at my feet because Charlie Chick said they were full of scratches."

"Ha! ha!" laughed Dobbin. "That little fellow is very bright if he made you go off by yourself and worry. Your feet are full of scratches."

"I'm not going to look at them again," said the Big Red Rooster, "they get larger every time I see them."

"Well," answered Dobbin. "You are always scratching for the hens, so your feet are full of scratches!"

"Then there are no scratches on my feet?"

"No," said Dobbin, "the scratches are on the ground where you scratch."

"Oh!" replied the Big Red Rooster, very much relieved.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Harbour Improvements at Wellington, Ont.," will be received at this office until 4.00 P.M., on Monday, March 16, 1914, for the construction of Harbour Improvements at Wellington, Prince Edward County, Ontario.

Plans, specification and form of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department and at the office of the District Engineer, Confederation Life Building, Toronto, Ont., and on application to the Postmaster at Wellington, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fails to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowers or any tender.

By order,
R. C. DESROCHERS,
Secretary.

FOR THE COMMON GOOD

It is the aim of The Times:

To exploit and advance the best interests of the people of the fair and fertile land wherein it is published, and to which it steadily devotes its efforts;

To stand for liberty and law, equal rights and good government, the greatest boon to a free people;

To foster and encourage private and public enterprise, and hold up the hands of every honest toiler, either with brawn or brain, in every field of activity;

To stand independently for the true interests of the city, the Dominion and the Empire, and for those policies only which make for the common good;

It aims to be excellent and not cheap.

NAPOLEON LOVED SNUFF.

And He Pinched the Boxes as Well as the Pungent Dust.

Napoleon loved snuff; not only on the battlefield, but at home in the council, he had recourse to the dust, especially when his schemes were unfavorably received and he wished to hide his uneasiness or impatience. Unable to sit still in his elbow chair, he would try in a thousand ways to divert attention from himself, and among other devices, as soon as he saw a member's eye fixed on him would hold out his arm and shake his thumb and forefinger, to signify that he wished for a pinch of snuff. Not less than four, and even six, snuffboxes disappeared in this manner during a single sitting, and it was not till he had left the council chamber that he became aware of the larceny. So confirmed was this habit that some of the councilors, whose snuffboxes were heirlooms or presents from foreign princes, hit upon the expedient of carrying cheap papier mache or wooden boxes for the emperor to pocket. The snuffboxes, however, always returned to their owners and in doing so were often found to have undergone a very pleasant metamorphosis. By some necromancy a wooden or tortoise shell box, on coming out from the imperial pocket, was usually transformed into one of gold, set around with diamonds, or bearing the emperor's miniature on the lid.—William Matthews, "Hours With Men and Books."

Mozart's Musical Memory.

Mozart had a wonderful memory of musical sounds. When only fourteen years of age he went to Rome to assist in the solemnities of holy week. Immediately after his arrival he went to the Sistine chapel to hear the famous "Miserere" of Allegri. Being aware that it was forbidden to take or give a copy of this renowned piece of music, Mozart placed himself in a corner and gave the strictest attention to the music and on leaving the church noted down the entire piece. A few days afterward he heard it a second time and, following the music with his own copy in his hand, satisfied himself of the fidelity of his memory. The next day he sang the "Miserere" at a concert, accompanying himself on the harpsichord, and the performance produced such a sensation in Rome that Pope Clement XIV. requested that this musical prodigy should be presented to him at once.

Intensive Cultivation.

"Intensive cultivation," so called, has reached its highest state of perfection in the market gardens lying about Paris, where land rent runs to $250 an acre or more a year and four crops are taken from the soil between February and November, and on the island of Guernsey, in the English channel, where farming land is valued at $1,200 an acre—two instances that move all writers upon agricultural topics to wondering awe—and yet in the near vicinity of Boston gardeners growing lettuce, radishes and cucumbers under glass are clearing $3,000 to $4,000 an acre a year without attracting more than passing notice.—National Magazine.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS

THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at the office of any Local Agent of Dominion Lands (not sub-agent), on certain conditions.

Duties.—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required in every case, except when residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside of his homestead. Price $3 per acre. Duties.—Six months residence in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and 50 acres extra cultivation. The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land after report by Homestead Inspector on application for patent.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price, $3 per acre. Duties.—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

SECTION 2, SEVERN DIVISION
NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned and marked "Tender for Section No. 2, Severn Division, Trent Canal," will be received at this office until 12 o'clock noon on Monday, March 23rd, 1914.

Plans, specifications and form of contract to be entered into can be seen on or after this date at the office of the Chief Engineer of the Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa; at the office of the Superintending Engineer, Trent Canal, Peterborough, Ont.; and at the office of the District Engineer, Public Works Department, Midland, Ont.

Parties tendering will be required to accept the fair wages schedule prepared or to be prepared by the Department of Labour, which schedule will form part of the contract.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and in the case of firms, unless there are attached the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm.

An accepted bank cheque on a chartered bank of Canada for the sum of $36,000.00 made payable to the order of the Minister of Railway and Canals, must accompany each tender, which sum will be forfeited if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work, at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective contractors whose tenders are not accepted.

The cheque of the successful tenderer will be held as security, or part security, for the due fulfilment of the contract to be entered into.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

LORD DURHAM PLANNED BETTER THAN HE KNEW

"He Built an Empire," Says Mr. G. G. S. Lindsey in an Address

Large credit was given to Lord Durham, who reported on the conditions in Canada that led to the Rebellion of 1837, for the present full measure of self-government enjoyed by Canada, by Mr. G. G. S. Lindsey who reviewed the development of responsible government in Canada from the passing of the Constitutional Act in 1791 to the present day. It was the policy of allowing the various Dominions to govern themselves, that was the strength of the British Empire.

"The British Empire is built up on the foundation rock of self-government and lives," said Mr. Lindsey. "The Roman Empire was built upon the basis of centralization, and though it ruled the whole world, it died. Gone are all the older empires of the world, and for the same reason. Canada blazed the trail. Durham's doctrine was a recognition based on knowledge, inspired by sympathy that the authority of the mother country rested on other than material ascendancy. He appealed to the sentiments and ideals of men, and laid four-square to all the winds that blow the foundations not only of a great Dominion, which he did not live to see, but also of that passionate loyalty which served England well in recent years of warfare and peril. 'That Government alone is strong which has the hearts of the people,' said Fox. 'Canada will one day do justice to my memory,' were the dying words of Durham. The day has surely come, and the hearts of Canadians, strong in his faith, will ever keep his memory green. Bold and large as were his plans, he built better than he knew. He built an empire."

CURIOUS FISH FACTS

A fisherman claimed that a goldfish in his possession came to the surface of the aquarium every morning to have its back scratched, and after the comforting caress the little creature would sink to the bottom with a contented smile. Unfortunately the owner of this wonderful goldfish was called away from home for a couple of weeks. During his absence, it languished for its daily scratch, grew morose, refused all nourishment, and died. Of course, people to whom he told the story made some subtle remarks about a relative of Ananias, but the sorrowing owner of the pet goldfish, it is related, promptly produced the dead fish and showed the marks left by the scratching. There may be those who doubt the truth of this story, but they would have hard work to convince the worthy people of a little village in Worcestershire that fish have no intelligence for they still talk of a wonderful trout which was so tame that it would eat out of people's hands. Indeed, there was a stone set up, which may still be in existence, setting forth the wonderful qualities of this tame trout.

According to the experts who have studied the manners of the finny tribe, fish have many of the emotions of the human race. Among their means of expression, it is pointed out, is the habit they have of erecting their scales or fins under the influence of anger or of terror, much in the same way that feathers and hairs are erected in birds and mammals.

Big Land Owners

Mr. Outhwaite, a member of the British House of Commons, during the debate on the Rural Cottages Bill, gave an interesting table of the little patches of land held by members of the House of Lords. Here it is:

28 Dukes hold 4,000,000 acres.
31 Marquesses hold 1,500,000 acres.
194 Earls hold 5,862,000 acres.
270 Viscounts and Barons hold 2,734,000 acres.
525 Nobles hold 15,000,000 acres.

Tips in Paris

A painstaking statistician has estimated that tips of one kind and another paid daily in Paris to waiters, janitors, cabmen, and the thousand and one others whose income is largely derived from this source amount to $31,000 a day. The grand total of all the tips given in France is placed at $24,000,000 a year.

Cottage and Bath

Four cottages erected at Little Gaddesden, Herts, at a cost of $200 each, will contain hot and cold baths. They are to be constructed of wood and tarred pulp, roofed with thatch, and mounted on wheels.

Cheap Living

Mr. and Mrs. Marcus M. Wood, who celebrated their thirty-second wedding anniversary in their cottage at Webster, Massachusetts, for years subsisted comfortably, they declared, on a daily outlay of five cents per head.

Stockholm's Telephones

In Stockholm there are about 80,000 telephone subscribers for a population of a little over 400,000, or one for every five inhabitants.

A Bird Pledge

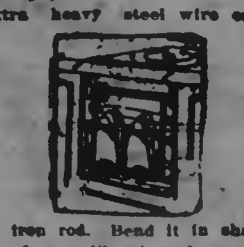
The children in Chicago schools are asked to sign a bird pledge, in which they promise not to rob the nest or wear the plumage of birds.

Weighing three hundred pounds over a ton and 8 feet in length, a cake, the exact model of Buckingham Palace, was "built" by Mr. J. H. Buck, of Leytonstone.

AN IRONING DAY HINT

How to Heat Irons Without Crowding the Stove

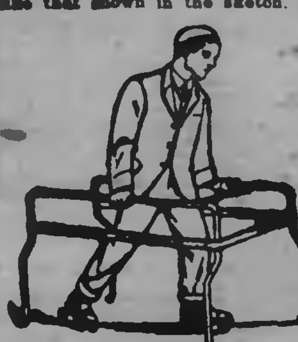
When it's "ironing day" there isn't much room on the kitchen stove for anything but irons, is there? Why not make room by taking the irons off the stove? A simple little attachment to the grate will do it and the irons will keep just as hot. Get a length of extra heavy steel wire or very small iron rod. Bend it in shape to form a hanger like that shown in the sketch. You can have two of these, one for the front and one for the side of the grate. The bottoms of the irons placed in them will be held tightly against the fire and be just as hot as though they were on the top of the stove.



SKATING MADE EASY

No Falls and no Feeling of Insecurity For Beginners

Learning to skate either on ice or rollers is a difficult job—and yet it can be done if the beginner will take the trouble to make himself a device like that shown in the sketch. It is made of ¾-inch gas piping with a furniture caster fitted at the bottom of each leg. One end is left open for the skater to enter. The work of learning to maintain one's balance on skates is then easy, as the frame will keep the learner from falling and yet it moves about as easily as the skates.



FORD THE MILLIONAIRE

He's Fond of Wastrel Boys and Wild Birds

The announcement by Mr. Henry Ford of Detroit that he would pay a minimum wage of five dollars a day to all the employees in his factories, even to the boys who sweep the floors and run errands and that he would distribute among them under a profit-sharing plan ten million dollars a year in cash, was the means of making known to the general public a very interesting personality. He is described as "a slim, active, little man, with contemplative eyes and grayish hair," and as not being liable to the suspicion [illegible] the position of an ordinary mechanic. Mr. Ford is unconventional to the verge of eccentricity, and, like many other men who have achieved a reputation for oddity, his fads have a family resemblance among themselves. He has a two-thousand-acre farm just outside of Detroit, on which he lives in a simple bungalow, of which the work is done by two domestic servants. He has a genuine love of nature, and thinks John Burroughs the greatest man in the world and Thomas Edison a good second. On one occasion he stopped for ten days the work of a plough drawn by a traction engine because a robin's nest happened to be in the way. On another occasion, because they looked homesick, he turned loose four thousand dollars' worth of wild birds of various sorts sent to him by collectors in Europe. He is as fond of wastrel boys as he is of wild birds, and takes every year into his employ from the streets of Detroit a number of them whom he sends to school in winter and puts at work on his farm in summer, feeding and housing them all the year round and keeping a man specially to look after them. As he was once a working boy himself he is said to have "a fellow-feeling for the waifs who must rely on their own efforts to get ahead in the world."

Depends on Canada

Speaking at Washington, Senator Hammond of Minnesota said: "We have to look to Canada for paper, and must treat that country well, or our paper will cost us a great deal more than it does at the present time. We are at the mercy of Canada with regard to pulp and paper and we must remember that we import one million cords of wood every year from that country, free of all restrictions. We also import large quantities of groundwood from Canada."

For Cuts and Burns

Bad cuts and burns sometimes happen in the kitchen, so it is well to know of handy remedies. To stop the bleeding of a bad cut, apply finely powdered rice or flour to the wound. If soft soap is to be had, it will ease the pain of a burn at once.

Add a little baking powder—one-half teaspoonful, if six people are to be served—to mashed potatoes just before serving, and they will be so deliciously white and light you will never serve them without.

POLICE OF PARIS.

Their Methods Effective Even if Sometimes Dramatic.

TESTING A MAN OF COURAGE.

The Secret Service Knew More About His Own Affairs Than He Did Himself and Proved It in a Most Startling and Conclusive Manner.

The police of Paris have always made it a rule to keep closely in touch with the criminal element, the spies and secret officials of the department posing as criminals among the real criminals when necessary to learn their secrets. The following incident,' in which the national impulse for dramatic effect crops out, will serve to illustrate how well at times they do their work:

At the beginning of the French revolution the chief of the police of Paris had upon his register the names of no fewer than 2,000 suspected and depraved characters whose pursuits were known to be of a criminal nature.

A merchant of high respectability in Bordeaux had occasion to visit Paris upon commercial business, carrying with him bills and money to a very large amount. On his arrival at the gates of the French metropolis a genteel looking man opened the door of the carriage and addressed him to this effect:

"Sir, I have been waiting for you some time. According to my notes, you were to arrive at this hour, and, your person, your carriage and your portmanteau exactly answering the description I hold in my hand, you will permit me to have the honor of conducting you to M. de Sartine."

The gentleman, astonished and alarmed at this interruption and still more at hearing the name of the chief inspector of the police mentioned, demanded to know what M. de Sartine wanted with him, adding that he had never committed any offense against the laws and that the police could have no right to detain him.

The messenger declared himself ignorant of the cause of the detention and said that when he had conducted him to M. de Sartine he should have executed his orders. After some further explanations the gentleman permitted the officer to conduct him to the police official.

M. de Sartine, the chief of police, received him with great politeness and, after requesting him to be seated to his astonishment described his portmanteau and told him the exact amount in bills and cash which he had brought with him to Paris, where he was to lodge, his usual time of going to bed and a number of other circumstances which he had conceived were known only to himself.

Having thus excited his attention, M. de Sartine asked him:

"Sir, are you a man of courage?"

The gentleman, still more astonished at the singularity of his interrogatory, demanded the reason why such a question was put to him, adding that no man had hitherto doubted his courage.

"Sir, you are to be robbed and murdered this night," replied M de Sartine "If you are a man of courage you must go to your hotel and retire to rest at the usual hour But be careful not to fall asleep Neither will it be proper for you to look under your bed or into the closet which is in your chamber You must place your portmanteau in its usual situation near the bed and betray no suspicion Leave what remains to me If you do not feel your courage sufficient to bear you out I will procure some one who will personate you and go to bed in your stead."

The merchant, being convinced that M. de Sartine's information was accurate in every particular, refused to be personated and resolved to follow literally the directions he had received

He accordingly drove to the hotel and went to bed at his usual hour, 11 o'clock. At half past 12—the time mentioned by M de Sartine—the door of his bedchamber was quietly forced open, and three men entered with a dark lantern, daggers and pistols The merchant, who pretended to be asleep, perceived one of them to be his own servant. They rifled his portmanteau undisturbed and discussed and settled the plan of putting him to death.

Hearing all this and not knowing by what means he was to be rescued, the merchant was under great perturbation of mind during such an interval of suspense.

Just at the moment the villains were preparing to take the merchant's life four police officers, who were concealed under the bed and in the closet, rushed out and seized the offenders in the very act of attempting murder and with the stolen property in their possession. The law made short work of the criminals, and the police congratulated the merchant on his courage and coolness.

An Excellent Reason.

"You girls are beyond me," said the father as he tied the ribbon of his daughter's shoe. "Why don't you wear buttoned shoes that won't come unfastened instead of these confounded things that are untied half the time?"

"Because, papa," said Gladys sweetly, "I'd rather have a bow than get the book."—Harper's Weekly.

Have You Noticed It?

"Take a couple of coins out of your pocket," remarked the wise man, "one with King Edward's head and the other with Queen Victoria's."

"Right!" said the friend.

"Notice anything peculiar?" asked the wise man.

"Can't say I do," said the friend.

"Well, look again, and you will see that, while Queen Victoria is represented facing to the left, King Edward faces to the right.

"Now," he went on, "procure one of the George V. coins just issued from the British Mint, and you will see that our present King is shown facing to the left."

"What's the explanation?" demanded the friend.

"Oh, it's just the custom to make the head of the new monarch face in the opposite direction to that of his predecessor, on the coinage."

Cooking Ham.

Ham is frequently too salt to fry without previous preparation. Put the slices in tepid water and let them stand on the back of the range to soak out the salt, not to boil, for about half an hour. Drain dry between towels, then fry in a hot spider. When a whole ham is to be baked or boiled let it stand overnight covered with cold water.

During the cold weather when it is necessary to keep on extra fires there is always increasing danger of accidents happening from defective chimneys, defective stovepipes, furnaces, explosion of coal gas, accumulation of dust near heating appliances and numerous other causes.

SUITED TO ALL HOURS OF THE DAY IS THIS USEFUL LITTLE FROCK

A frock that combines a suggestion of both coat and dress is useful in any wardrobe. It is excellent for traveling, for shopping or for little informal afternoon affairs. Bedford cord, ratine, duvetyn or the ever favored hard-finished serge are all suitable. A very nifty little frock displayed in one of the smart shops the other day was of hard finish serge in dark blue, combined with black satin. A wide, soft girdle of the black satin added just the necessary soft touch that completed the frock. The model illustrated in 8211, is of dark gray sponge with a frill of net at the throat and a cluster of softly colored chiffon flowers at the belt. A straight three-piece skirt with a shaped tunic and a drop-shouldered bodice, closing surplice fashion, makes a delightfully simple costume but one that combines many of the effective touches of the season.

This design may be copied in size 36 with 5¾ yards of 36 inch material. Sponge averages 40 inches in width and may be purchased from $1.50 per yard up.

The small dress shown in number 8226, is a long waisted blouse dress; the kilted skirt is of serge and the blouse of cotton crepe with a tiny colored figure.

For a child of twelve, this little dress requires 4½ yards of 36 inch material.

Number 8211—sizes 34 to 44.

Number 8226—sizes 8 to 14.

Each pattern 15 cents.

During Home Pattern Week, February 23 to 28, Pattern Number 8211 Will Be Sent Free of Charge With the Compliments of This Paper to Any One Sending a 2c Stamp with Name, Address and SIZE to F. B. Derr No. 3, 615 West 43 St., New York City.

INTERESTING TO A DEGREE ARE THE NEW SILKS

Our American silks are as near perfection as possible both in texture and design. Paris acknowledges this, and some of the latest creations of Poiret are being developed in the American product. The designs, however, are Poiret's own; there are stripes and quaint figures, flower and animal motifs more realistic than conventional and for that reason unusually striking. The color combinations are brilliant to a degree, but artistically pleasing.

Number 8213 is an attractive model for a figured silk; here it is fashioned of one of the new moired taffetas that promise to be so popular the coming season.

These silks are wide, averaging 42 inches and range in price from $1.25 up. To make this dress in size 36 it requires 5 yards of 42 inch material.

In number 8228 is shown the effectiveness of a contrasting blouse and skirt. This combination promises to be greatly favored; it is economical as well as becoming.

This costume may be copied for a girl of sixteen with 4½ yards of 36 inch material.

Number 8213—sizes 34 to 42.

Number 8228—sizes 14 to 18.

Each pattern 15 cents.

IF HEAD ACHES AND YOUR EARS BUZZ YOU SURELY HAVE CATARRH

It doesn't matter how long you have suffered, or how often you have failed to get relief—even though Catarrh may affect every organ in your body, you can be permanently cured by inhaling the soothing vapor of Catarrhozone.

A few breaths through Catarrhozone Inhalers clears the phlegm out of the throat and stops your cough. The nostrils are cleansed of offensive mucous discharge and sneezing and sniffing stop at once. Partial loss of hearing and headache (very common symptoms of catarrh) are quickly cured, and in a short time every trace of catarrh disappears.

Nothing can be simpler or more pleasant than Catarrhozone. It's healing piney vapor sends a warm cleansing sensation through all the air passages in the head and throat—makes you feel better in half a minute.

"My ears buzzed by the hour and I had frightful head noises," writes J.P. Purdy, from Port Huron. "Catarrh fairly filled my whole head and throat I got relief mighty fast when I tried Catarrhozone; it hit the spot instantly. You bet Cgtarrhozone has cured me and I simply swear by it."

Best Liniment of All Destroys Every Pain But Never Burns

"How thankful we are to get hold of such a wonderful household remedy as Nerviline," writes Mrs. E. L. Lamontagne from her home near Wetaskawin, Alberta. "In this far-away section, far away from a doctor or druggist, every family needs a good supply of liniment. Nerviline is the best of all. It destroys every pain, but never burns. We use Nerviline in a score of ways. If it's rheumatism, aching back, pain in the side, sciatica or stiff neck—you can laugh at them if you have lots of Nerviline handy. For earache, toothache or cramps I don't think anything could act more quickly For a general all-round pain remedy I can think of nothing more valuable and speedy to cure than Nerviline."

The above letter is convincing —it tells how reliable and trusty this old-time remedy is. Nerviline for forty years has been a household word in Canada. Scarcely a home in Canada you can find without Nerviline. Every community has its living examples of the wonderful curative properties of Nerviline which will cure pains and aches anywhere in the joints or muscles. It's penetrating, soothing, warming and safe for young and old to use. Get the large 50c family size bottle; it's the most economical. Small trial size 25c at any dealers anywhere.

pay roll and sends them to Ottawa, and when the cheques come back he sees that they are sent out. This embodies all his duties as accountant. The plans for the different works are taken care of by him, and he makes whatever blue prints are required. Information was given me that in August, 1912, Mr. Giroux had improperly charged to the Department some items of expense that were purely personal. On the 22nd August, 1912, he drove his family to Chemong Lake to a regatta. The livery was four dollars, and he put it through and had it paid for by the Government. A few days afterwards he made a trip to Campbellford. As he puts it, it was purely a pleasure trip to see the work there, and the expense of this trip was put through on Government account. Mr. Giroux says that the Superintending Engineer knew of these things and approved of them, and Mr. Grant admits this Of course such charges, however trifling in amount, are entirely irregular and improper. Mr. Giroux admits that he made and sold during the past seven or eight years, blue prints for every one who brought him plans and asked him to do such work. The paper used for the purpose belonged to the Government, and they were made on the Government machine, and Giroux's time belonged to the Government. Mr. Grant knew of this and permitted it.

ALBERT JAMES RADDON, who styles himself Cement Test Clerk and Photographer, has been in the employ of the Department since August, 1896. His duty is to make tests of the cement used on the works. He not only tests the cement for the Government, but, made a business of testing cement for others. He admits having done this and says it was with Mr. Grant's permission he did it. In the years 1907, 1908 and 1909, he tested in the Government Office with the Government apparatus one hundred and sixteen cars for outside parties for which h charged for his own use three and four dollars a car. Even as late as November last year he made tests you outside parties and was paid for them. That sort of thing is highly reprehensible and should not be permitted.

ROBERT FRANK RADDON was a sort of handy man around the premises. He was originally taken on as a helper to his brother, A. J. Raddon, in the cement room. He says, and, his brother corroborates he worked a great deal about Grant's house, and, Mr. Grant admits that he worked a great deal about Grant's house. In fact my conclusion from the evidence is that his duties about the office were very light: a good deal of his time was spent looking after Mr. Grant's private requirements. He was discharged by Grant as a result of a quarrel with Mrs. Grant, and it was not found necessary to replace him. This fact alone would lead one to the conclusion that he was retained largely for Mr. Grant's private service. Mr. Grant says that at the request of Hon. J. R. Stratton he found him a different position at Healey's Falls after dispensing with him at the Peterborough Office.

JAMES ANDREW HADCOCK has been in the employ of the Government undr Mr. Grant since 1909. He says that he has not any regular engagement, but is paid five dollars a day when working. His salary was fixed by Mr. Grant. In the summer of 1913 he was employed at dredge work until the 15th November. From the 15th to the 24th he was idle. On the 24th he went to Trenton as inspector of lockgate construction. He was paid for the week he was idle on Mr. Grant's instructions. Hadcock acted as timekeeper on the dredge work. He made up his time book showing that all the men ceased work on the 15th November. It was totalled up and certified to by Mr. Cameron, the Engineer, in charge of th work. Hadcock afterwards altered his time book to make it appear that he worked that week, although as a matter of fact, he was not working. This alteration cost the Government thirty dollars ($30). Mr. Grant takes the responsibility for this and approves of it upon the ground that he has the right to give a man a few days when he sees fit.

ROGER MILLER and Company, the contractors, who are building the lockgates at Trenton, shut down their work on the 20th December. Hadcock says they were shut down for eight days, during which time he was at his home in Peterborough.

MR. J. B. BROPHY, who is the engineer in charge of the division where Hadcock was working, had to certify to his time. In making out his December pay sheet he left Hadcock's time and salary blank as he had no instructions from Mr. Grant in the matter. When he brought his pay roll to the head office, Grant instructed him to give Hadcock full time. In January, 1913, Mr. Hadcock took a trip to Buffalo to buy a moter-cycle for himself, and was gone, according to his own story, not less than three days. He signed his own time sheet certifying that he was on the works during that three days and was paid his regular wage. He says Mr. Grant knew of this and approved of it. Hadcock, according to his timebook, certified by himself, spent from the fourteenth November, 1912, to the 15th February, 1913, in all 81 days, at five dollars a day, building three ordinary flat bottom punts, worth at his own estimate, thirty-five or forty dollars apiece. These punts cost in labor four hundred and five dollars ($405), besides the material used. Hadcock says he did this under Grant's instructions, and in fact Mr. Grant assumed full responsibility and says that he was simply finding something for Hadcock to do so that he would not leave Peterborough and would be available for the spring work. Mr. Hadcock admits that every other winter he was idle for some months, and still he has always been available at the opening of the season. And even during 1913 he was idle from the 15th February until June, according to his own statement.

ALEXANDER JOSEPH GRANT has been Superintending Engineer of the Trent Canal since the first of April, 1906. Although not a civil engineer Mr. Grant lays claim to long experience in engineering work. One of his first works on the Trent was the designing and constructing of the dam at Buckhorn which was built in 1907-1908, at a very large cost. In 1913 alterations to the amount of $4,229.00 were necessary to make the dam conform to the requirements for which it was originally constructed.

I discussed with Mr. Grant at considerable length the organization of his office and the staff. Although in my view there is a lamentable lack of system, he appears to think it satisfactory.

Although there is a very large amount of valuable plant belonging to the Government in the hands of this Department there never has been any inventory of it made or maintained. There is a dredge, a couple of house boats, gasoline boats, row boats, canoes, stoves, tents and all varied equipment, amounting to a very large sum in value, necessary to carry on the work along the whole length of the canal. No record of this is kept and nobody seems rsponsible for its care. Some few articles are kept in a store house. The store house man says that he has no instructions to keep track of things. When anything is brought to him he puts it in the store house; when any one asks for anything he hands it out. This seems to me to be a serious defect in management and must inevitably result in loss and waste.

There is no office organization of any kind in existence; absolutely no books are kept and there is no attempt at accounting of any kind. The only records in existence are copies of the accounts and pay sheets that are sent to Ottawa. One would expect to be able to turn to some book or record and find a summary of the cast of any particular work, or the year's accounts with any particular firm. To get such information at present the individual accounts and sheets have to be gone over and the fact gleaned from them.

Mr. Grant should have closer supervision over the office and his staff, and the reprehensible practices permitted should never have been allowed. He is aware and has permitted Raddon to make a profit from his position by testing cement for outside parties. He has been aware and approved Giroux making a business of furnishing blue prints to the public for his private gain. He kept no man about his own residence, but made use of Robert Frank Raddon, an employee of the Department as a man of all work about his own premises. He certified to expenditures made by Giroux on his private account and had them paid by the Department. He has certified to Hadcock's time on a number of occasions when Hadcock was not working, and he takes the ground that he has the right to do that.

It is little short of scandalous that without any justification whatever an employee should be retained at five dollars a day for eighty-one days building three rough board punts which, as a matter of common knowledge we all know can be bought for from ten to fifteen dollars each.

A large item of expense in connection with the engineers office is livery account. This office expends in this way from four to five hundred dollars a year. My attention was directed from complaint I had received from Jones Bros. This account shows an expenditure as follows:

1910	$171.25
1911	235.25
1912	152.50
1913	83.25

The substantial falling off in 1913 is due to the use of automobiles instead of horses.

This account is exclusively Mr. Grant's. The evidence shows and Mr. Grant admits, that a considerable part of the expenditure was incurred by Mrs. Grant. He attempts to justify it in many cases by explaining if he were going away she had a liver go for her an hour or two before the train, and she drove around until train time, and drove him to the train. If he were coming him the livery came early for her and she used it until time to meet him at the train. He apparently does not regard seriously the fact that the extra driving by Mrs. Grant costs the country just the difference between a fifty cent hack which would take him to or from the train, and, a charge or from two to five dollars, according to the length of time Mrs. Grant used the rig. Moreover, if it were only an occasional occurrence it might be overlookd. But it has been the common practice and runs into a very substantial sum of money. But even this explanation does not cover all the livery rigs made use of by Mrs. Grant. There are on his own statement a number of occasions when Mrs. Grant made use of the livery that was charged to and paid by the Government when Mr. Grant was away from home entirely.

In the year 1911 the dredge "Holland" was purchased by the Department on the recommendation of the engineer at a cost of upwards of $16,000.00. She is a combination of orange peel and suction dredge. She originally belonged to a firm of contractors of the Newmarket Canal. The contractors made default in their work and the dredge might have been confiscated by the Government at that time. She was transferred by the owners to the Standard Bank from whom the Government purchased her. Mr. Grant informs m that the original purpose was to use her on the Holland river where the excavation consisted of loose sand and silt. She was brought to Peterborough and tied up on the bank of the Canal where she still lies. Mr. Grant says that she never has been made use of because the Newmarket Canal was abandoned subsequently to the purchase. The evidence of every one whom I questioned upon the subject is that her machinery is a splendid type and in excellent condition.

In the store house in connection with the maintenance department there is almost a complete outfit of dredging machinery bought some years ago with the alleged purpose of constructing a dredge.

Notwithstanding the fact that these two dredge outfits were available and could surely have been utilized, a new dredge called the "Au-Burn" was builtin by Mr. Grant in 1912. His original estimate was about $19,000.00, while the cost amounted up to $26,000.00. The engineers seem to have taken upon themselves to build this dredge without any appropriation having been made therefor. The Auburn is what is known as a clam shell dredge and the material that she is adapted to handle is much the same as the class of work for which the Holland was intended.

What strikes one as remarkable is that the Government should have locked up not less than $25,000.00 or $30,000.00 in two dredge outfits and that a third dredge is built without any attempt at utilizing any of the splendid machinery or parts already on hand. In other words the Government has invested from fifty to fifty-five thousand dollars in dredge plant and have but one operating dredge costing $26,000.00.

My observation together with the strongly expressed opinion of officials, convinces me that the system of administration of the affairs of the Trent Valley Canal is entirely wrong. There should be one supreme head in control of everything connected with the Canal. Under this central authority it might be well to maintain a construction department, but the control of affairs should be vested in one official. Experience has amply demonstrated the failure and the folly of the present system. With the offices divided, as they are to-day, with a separate official at the head of each branch, there is constant conflict of jurisdiction, overlapping of authority, frequent disputes, and continuous friction. This has been productive of such marked enmity between the two offices that the official heads make no attempt to conceal their ill-will towards each other. Such a condition, of course, is subversive of all discipline and inevitably militates against efficiency.

But putting the whole Canal service under one man, (and if possible housing the staff in one premises), a very substantial reduction of rentals could be made; the number of the staff could be largely reduced; much duplication of plant would be avoided, and more economical, efficient and business-like administration would result.

Appended to this report is the notes of evidence and the exhibits referred to therein.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Commissioner.

"SYRUP OF FIGS" FOR CONSTIPATED CHILD

Delicious "Fruit Laxative" can't harm tender little stomach, liver and bowels.

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste, and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy, they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here, so don't be fooled. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company."

Zam-Buk
"RUB IT IN"

ACCIDENTS WILL HAPPEN!

The finest "first aid" is Zam-Buk for many reasons. It is antiseptic—kills the poison in any wound. It ensures any wound, or skin injury, or disease against poison-germs in the air which are always ready to enter a sore place and set up poisoning and putrefactive change. Immediately they enter Zam-Buk they are instantly killed.

While certain ingredients in Zam-Buk are thus protecting you against external dangers, the rich healing herbal essences in the balm penetrate the tissue, stimulate the cells, and bring about perfect healing. Nothing like it! Watch it work!

PROOF FROM THE HOMES.

Mrs. Halliday, of Wroxeter, Ont., says:—"I have found Zam-Buk a most reliable household remedy. I have used it for cuts, sores, and various skin diseases, and have found it an effective cure in every case. I would not be without a box of Zam-Buk in the house in case of emergency, and I recommend all mothers to keep a box handy."

Mrs. R. B. Levy, of Hackett's Cove, N.S., says: "Eczema broke out very badly behind my baby's ears, and, despite treatment, got worse and worse. I was advised to try Zam-Buk. It proved effective from the first, and in a very short time it cured the eczema completely."

Equally good for all skin injuries and diseases, piles, etc. 50c. druggists and stores everywhere or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

ASQUITH PROPOSAL NOT CLEAR SUCCESS WINS POOR SUPPORT

Neither Nationalists Nor Ulster Unionists Ready to Agree to its Terms

London, Mar. 10.—The possibility of a settlement of the Irish Home Rule controversy was again to-day in the forefront of popular interest. The opinions of the various parties as to the effect of the concessions offered in the House of Commons yesterday by Premier Asquith differed widely. The Unionists as a rule expressed themselves quite unsatisfied with the suggested method of voting by counties on the exclusion of Ulster or portions of it from the operation of the Home Rule Bill. Nationalists, on the other hand, declared that the Cabinet had gone to the most extreme limit in its movement toward conciliation.

Chance for Conciliation.

The Independent opinion of the country seems inclined to the feeling that the concessions really offer an opportunity for conciliation and this feeling is strengthened by Sir Edward Carson's counter offer on behalf of the Ulster Unionists to submit the suggested concessions to an Ulster conference providing the limitation on the exclusion of the northern counties to a period of six years to be struck out.

It is pointed out here in Parliamentary circles that the recognition by the Cabinet and the Nationalists of the principle of the exclusion of the counties of Ulster if they vote in favor of it, even if the exclusion be only temporary, is a great step in advance from last year's policy of "full steam ahead."

CABINET MINISTERS COMING

The Times is pleased to learn that the proposal to hold a mass meeting in honor of Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., is practically settled. The meeting will take place in the Grand Opera House on the evening of Monday, March 30th. Mr. Burnham will be accompanied from Ottawa by the Hon. Robert Rogers, Minister of Public Works, and the Hon. Mr. Meighen, Solicitor-General. Mr. Rogers, as most of our readers are aware, is probably the most prominent member of the Borden Cabinet, while Mr. Meighen, who also comes from the West, is regarded as one of our ablest statesmen. It will be up to the people of Peterborough, without regard to party affiliations, to join in showing their appreciation of Mr. Burnham's splendid services, and also in extending a hearty welcome to the visiting Ministers.

ORANGE ORDER TO NIP THE AMBITION OF W. CRAWFORD

Movement Within the Ranks to Bar Government Officials From Orange Offices

Guelph, Ont., Mar. 10.—Orangemen in the Western half of Ontario, are greatly interested in a move, which will probably come up at the annual meeting of the Grand Orange Lodge of Western Ontario here to-morrow, to put a stop to the electing of Orangemen holding Government positions to the high offices of the Grand Lodge. It is felt that the continuance of appointing Government officers as the rulers of the body will tend to make a party organization, whereas the society has always stood as an independent body. During a conversation with a number of Orangemen discussing this question to-day, the opinion of prominent members, which is representative of a large number of Orangemen throughout the Province. "It is not a question of considering the men incapable," he said. "We think that there could be no better Orangemen, but at the same time it must be considered that a man who depends on the Government for his bread and butter, no matter which side is in power, will not lead the Order in its campaigns should they be opposed to the Government.

Hits Wm. Crawford.

"For the last two years the big positions in the Grand Lodge have been held by Government officers and I understand that another is going to run this year for Deputy Grand Master. In fact, I believe there is also a movement on foot to establish a rule whereby no Government official can hold office in the Grand Lodge. Under this rule, should an officer of the Grand Lodge take a Government position he would automatically sacrifice his office. I don't believe it will be confined to Ontario alone, but throughout all Canada."

It is understood that Mr. William Crawford, who is an Ontario Government employe, will run to-morrow for Deputy Grand Master. Those opposed to the electing of the Government officers will probably back Mr. Hart, of Orillia, against him.

MURDERER WROTE TO PARENTS STATING HE WOULD TAKE HIS LIFE

Toronto, Mar. 10.—Isaac Eastrem, who fired two shots into his body after shooting his former sweetheart, Annie Garlock, through the heart yesterday on Adelaid street west, is expected to recover, according to the latest report from the General Hospital, where the murderer lies in a critical condition, under police supervision. He coughed up one of the bullets soon after he attempted to commit suicide and an operation will be performed upon him this afternoon to extract the remaining one, which is lodged in his intestines.

The murderer was visited by the police last night. He admits having killed the girl, but denies the report that he has a wife and children living in Russia.

A new phase of the case has arisen for according to some eye-witnesses of the shooting affray, it is not really known whether Isaac shot himself or whether he was shot by somebody who witnessed the tragedy and became incensed at the man for his terrible deed. The police have been unable to throw any light on the affair so far, but they are conducting an investigation.

New evidence in the shape of a copy of the letter which was written by Isaac shortly before the tragedy, has been secured by the police. The epistle was written yesterday about twelve o'clock at 501 Adelaide street west, where the murderer lived. Morris Garlock, a brother of the murdered girl, was present at the time and in fact read the letter, which was written in Yiddish, and afterwards mailed it at Isaac's request.

Letter to His Parents.

Following is a translation copy of the letter. It is addressed to his mother and father, who live in a small village in Russia:

Dear Father and Mother:

This is the last letter I am sending you. You will never see me any more. I am going to end my life. If you wish to know what is the cause of my decision to kill myself, it is because the girl caused the separation between me and my wife, whom I loved very much. I have written several letters in which I stated that I would kill myself, but this is absolutely the last and final one. I am determined to kill myself.

(Signed) Isaac Eastrem.

LIVED IN FILTH, DIED OF EXPOSURE

Jury's Findings in Connection With Death of Aged Brother and Sister—Bloomingdale Inquest.

Berlin, Ont., Mar. 10.—The coroners jury empaneled to enquire into the death of Jacob Thomasing and Mary Thomasing, the aged brother and sister, whose frozen bodies were found at the farm near Bloomingdale last Thursday, held an inquest at the village to-day. In the case of the woman, the jury found that death resulted from living in unsanitary conditions, exposure to the cold, and the infirmities of old age. The verdict in the case of the man was that he accidentally fell from the wagon in the barn, and on account of his infirm condition, perished there. The evidence revealed a shocking and unusual case of farm life in Waterloo County. Brother and sister lived together on a farm of 46 acres for twenty years, yet secluded themselves from their neighbors. The farm was neglected and they barely eked out an existence. Neighbors who testified at the inquest said that they did not know of the filthy condition of the home. Assessor Halter of New Germany as far as is known, was the last one to be admitted to the home a year ago. He found the interior in a state of disorder and advised the man to get a new set of stove pipes. This he promised to do the next day, but did not. That the man was alive on Feb. 25th was proven by the evidence of the assessor, who called that day, but was not asked to enter.

O'NEILL, OF BARRIE, FORGER, OFF TO JAIL

Turned Crown Witness and Helped to Get His Pals Jailed for Five Years.

Barrie, Ont., Mar. 9.—Jas. O'Neill, of Allandale, the one-armed switchman, who was arrested two weeks ago by P.C. Sweeney for issuing four bogus ten dollar bills of the Bank of Montreal, appeared in the police court to-day for sentence. In recognition of his having pleaded guilty and given the Crown the information which led to the conviction of Chas. Burk and John Burkholder of Lindsay, both of whom were sentenced to five years, the magistrate sentenced him to two and a half years. Owing to the gravity of the offence the court declined to consider the petition asking for suspended sentence. O'Neill has a wife and five small children and made a pathetic appeal on their account. He displayed no emotion as sentence was pronounced.

KRAFCHENKO TRIAL TAKES PLACE AT MORDEN, MAN.

Shooting of Bank Manager Arnold is Followed by Costly Man Hunt and Scandal.

Winnipeg, Mar. 9.—The town of Morden, Man., is excited to-day over the opening of the trial there to-morrow of Jack Krafchenko, charged with the murder of Bank Manager Arnold, and the robbery of the Plum Coulee bank. If the jury returns a true bill the trial itself will probably proceed on Wednesday afternoon before Chief Justice Mather. The Crown has over sixty witnesses and the defence between thirty and forty, so the proceedings will be lengthy. Krafchenko will be taken from the Provincial jail to Morden to-day, probably in a private car. He will be guarded day and night by relays of two men in a steel cell in Morden court house.

Will Cost Manitoba $50,000.

In order to bring to justice the murderer of Manager Arnold it is estimated the Crown will spend upwards of $50,000. This is irrespective of the $13,000 reward which was offered for the capture of Krafchenko and his accomplices after his escape from the police station.

CARSON RECEIVES THE SUFFRAGETTES

Grants Interview to Women Who Waited on His Doorstep.

London, March 10.—Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster Unionist leader, surrendered to-day to the Ulster Suffragettes who have been waiting on his doorstep to get an interview with him since last Thursday. He granted three of the woman an interview of half an hour's duration.

The demands of these Ulster Suffragettes concerned the treatment of women in the matter of suffrage under the proposed provisional government of Ulster. Sir Edward in a recent speech declared that women would have the same franchise rights as men under the provisional government and the women wanted to get a promise from the Ulster leader that this promise would be kept.

After the interview, the women declared they were anything, but satisfied with Sir Edward's replies to their questions.

Ten militant suffragettes who were arrested during the rioting in Trafalgar Square yesterday were arraigned in Bow street Police Court to-day. They were all sentenced to a short term in prison, or to pay a fine.

ESTIMATES FOR THE FIRE DEPT ARE PARED DOWN TO $17,250,00

And Increase of But $750 Over the Appropriation Last Year of $16,500--The Result of Considerable Investigation and Labor on the Part of Ald. Green Chairman of the Committee

The City's Fire, Water and Light Committee met last night, Chairman Ald. G. Walter Green presiding. There were also present Mayor Buller, Aldermen Duffus, A. H. Stratton, Anderson Saunders, and Fire Chief Howard.

Fire Chief Howard's estimates for the Fire Department, totalling up to $23,829, submitted at last meeting and published in these columns, were pared down to $17.250 an increase of but $750 over last year's appropriation of $16.500.

Considerable credit is due Ald. Green's executive energy for the substantial reduction made in these estimates since last meeting, with a view to the elimination of as much expenditure as practicable this year.

SOME OF THE CUTS.

An item of $1700 for a new battery alarm system was cut out; also $25 off fuel; $48 off fur caps; $198 off hose; $10 off lumber; $490 off alarm boxes; $25 off hardware supplies; $25 off painting No. 1 hose wagon.

$200 asked by the Fire Chief for his and the Chairman's or Mayor's attendance at the convention of International Fire Chiefs at New Orleans, was eliminated, as an unnecessary expense this year. Ald. Stratton offered that every other year's attendance at this convention is quite sufficient to meet Peterborough's requirements. The Mayor thought the Canadian Association of Fire Chiefs should send a delegate to the International Convention in the interests of Canadian chiefs, collectively; this would relieve individual municipalities of the big expense of sending their own chiefs to distant points in the States each year when the International Convention is held $10 for livery for committee was struck out; also $382.50 for linoleum; $150 off the $300 estimated for an exercising wagon; and $30 off $50 for grocery supplies. $250 for two smoke helmets was also eliminated.

$45 for a new departure bell was left in the estimates

$10 was cut off office supplies; $10 off $25 for electric lamps and electric supplies and the proposition to add another horse at a cost of $300 abandoned

SYLVIA'S SUPPORTERS ARE SEEKING REVENGE

Big Windows in Home Office on Downing Street Smashed.

London, Mar. 10.—Some of the sympathisers of Sylvia Pankhurst, in revenge for her arrest at the Trafalgar Square meeting yesterday, started out to-day to get revenge. They smashed two big windows in the Home Office on Downing street, and two small ones in the house of Home Secretary McKenna.

IMPRESSIVE WAS SIMPLE SERVICE AT ROSS FUNERAL

Rev. Dr. G. M. Milligan Delivered a Remarkable Address to the Mourners

Toronto, Mar. 10.—Men of the many different departments of life gathered this morning in the redstone house which was once the home of Sir George Ross, to do honor to the late Senator. At eleven o'clock the cortege left the house. At noon the last rites were spoken over the grave at Mount Pleasant cemetery, and the friends of the late statesman and scholar separated to go to their various places in their various walks of life from which they had come.

White-headed, timid, bent old men, who had been neighbors and friends of George Ross, the boy who at 16 was made a schoolmaster; younger men, though grey headed, who had been associates of the Senator in Ottawa in the Assembly of National Representatives; a representative of the Governor-General, in scarlet plumes and clanking scabbard; business congreres; old servants, old fellow-workers in the Ontario Parliament buildings—and old political opponents from whom all memory of bitterness had departed and who came to do honor to all that was mortal of a noble adversary. Thus was Sir George Ross buried in a gathering of his friends—a focussing of the many interests, the many connections and activities with which his name was connected.

The service at the house was the simplest of the simple, but eloquent in sincerity. Three clergymen took part: Rev. Dr. Milligan, Rev. Professor Law, and Rev. Dr. Harper Grey.

The woman who values a beautiful complexion will not tolerate hairy or fuzzy growths on her face or neck—and she doesn't have to, for a paste made by mixing some powdered delatone with water and spread on the offending hairs about 2 or 3 minutes, when removed, will take every trace of hair with it. After this treatment the skin should be washed to remove the remaining paste. Be sure, however, that it is delatone you get.

Obeyed Instructions

The teacher of a large school sent one of the scholars to buy a pound of plums from a fruit vendor outside and as she handed the little girl 10 cents said:

"Be sure, Mary, before buying the plums to pinch one or two, just to see that they are ripe.

In a little while the girl returned with a flushed face and a triumphant look in her eyes. Handing the teacher the bag of plums, she placed the money on the desk and exclaimed:

"I pinched one or two, as you told me, and when the man wasn't looking I pinched a bagful."

NO INCREASE FOR FIRE CHIEF AND HIS STAFF THIS YEAR

Will be Recommended by Committee to Council--One Man to be Added to the Brigade From July First--The Mayor and Ald Green Measure Swords on This Question

There will be no increase in Firemen's salaries this year, and but one new man is added to the brigade, dating from July 1st. This does not meet with either Ald. Green's and Ald. Stratton's approval, both of whom fought strongly in the meeting of the Fire, Water and Light Committee last night for the appointment of at least two new firemen, dating from July 1st, in order to keep up the brigade's efficiency in keeping with Peterborough's growth. The Mayor and Ald. Saunders took the ground that no additional expenditure in this direction should be entertained this year; Ald. Duffus threw oil on troubled waters with the proposition to add one additional fireman, and Ald. Anderson contended that if two men are an absolute necessity, as urged by Chief Howard, they should be supplied, irrespective of the rate.

This question created considerable keen discussion, rather warm at times between the Mayor and Ald. Green.

Ald. Stratton urged that as there is no chance of a substation this year the fire staff should be increased in protection of all concerned. A jump of three mills was made in the rate last year and substantial increases in appropriations allowed. The Chief asked for six new men then and got three; then why mince matters this year to the detriment of the department, which should keep apace with the city's growth. Two new men should be added each year until a standard is reached.

His worship took exception to Ald. Stratton's view. Last year, he said, the fire staff was substantially increased, and brought up to what he considered a standard. When a substation is erected it will be time enough to add new men. "What is more, Ald. Stratton," concluded the Mayor, "I want it distinctly understood that every civic department was run judiciously last year."

Ald. Anderson here interjected that instead of talking of keeping the rate down to 25 mills this year, he thought it would be a struggle to get off with 26.

Ald. Green agreed to some extent with Ald. Stratton. In the interests of business men, citizens and manufacturers the fire department must be kept up to a comparative standard. Figuring as other cities do we should have 22 men on the staff. Peterborough is a small city covering a large amount of territory, taking a fairly large brigade to offer proper protection. Unquestionably, the department must be kept up to a standard commensurate with the city's growth. Two men might be added to the staff this year, and another two next year. Ald. Green eulogized Fire Chief Howard for his management of the Fire department. If the staff is not increased every year, the department will be retrograding.

Ald. Stratton contended that in keeping with the underwriters' key basis upon which they grade cities, of one fireman to every 1000 population, Peterborough should have a 22 man brigade. Such a staff would eventually prove a saving to the ratepayers in insurance rates.

The Mayor—"If we try to keep up with the underwriters' key in all respects, we will have a rate of 40 mills. With the establishment of a permanent force and an increase of from 10 to 17 men he could not see that the underwriters had given Peterborough much substantial reduction in rates. As Mayor, I meet a large number of the ratepayers every day, and I know the people do not want the proposed increase this year owing to financial and trade conditions."

Ald. Duffus did not pay much attention to the underwriters basis of one man for each 1000 population. Other conditions such as cleanliness and efficiency of the fire department enter into the underwriters' rating of a town or city. Peterborough is a clean city with a good brigade, and may be rated higher than some other places having a large fire department.

Ald. Saunders agreed with the Mayor that the people do not want an increased staff. "It will be time enough to increase when we have a substation."

The Fire Chief opined that garbage collection had done more to render Peterborough a clean city, comparatively free of fires, than any other measure yet introduced. As to the increase in staff asked for by him, that increase, he said, is absolutely necessary. Should a big fire occur, no men would be available to handle a second blaze occurring at the same time. He does not ask for more than he absolutely wants, and will always request as many improvements and additions as are needed to keep his department up to the standard with its requirements in the city's protection.

Ald. Stratton here moved, seconded by Ald. Anderson, that two men be added to the fire brigade, dating from July 1st.

The Mayor—"If that resolution passes I'll not pass the appropriations."

Ald. Green—"What do you mean by that?"

The Mayor—"You'll see when the time comes."

Ald. Green—"I don't understand you, Mr. Mayor."

The Mayor—"It is my opinion that these two men are not needed this year, and as Mayor of the city I'll not endorse their appointment; but will stop its sanction by Council if it can be done."

Ald. Green—"You are at liberty to your opinion and so am I. You are Chief Magistrate of this city, and I'll bow to your ruling when you are in your place. We are all in committee exercising our opinions in the best interests of the city."

Ald. Anderson—"If two more men are absolutely necessary for the brigade, as Chief Howard says, we should provide them, irrespective of either a 25 or 26 mill rate.

The Mayor replied that in any extraordinary emergency men could be secured to aid the brigade, as in past years.

Ald. Saunders concurred in this and supported his worship generally.

The Mayor here moved, in amendment to Ald. Stratton's resolution for the addition of two more firemen, that no increase be made this year.

The division on this amendment resulted as follows:

Yeas—The Mayor, Ald. Saunders and Duffus.

Nays—Ald. Stratton, Anderson and Green.

Ald. Stratton's original motion for an addition to the brigade secured the following division:

Yeas—Ald. Stratton, Anderson and Green.

Nays—Mayor Buller, Ald. Saunders and Duffus.

This tied the vote.

ONE MAN ADDED.

Ald. Duffus here said that as in business matters, the staff should keep some pace with growing requirements, and suggested that one new man be added this year.

Ald. Stratton contended that manufacturers, business men and householders expected Council to keep the fire brigade up to the best possible state of efficiency, and he moved, seconded by Ald. Duffus that one man be added this year, dating from July first. This carried. The Mayor and Ald. Saunders being the only opposition encountered.

Should this recommendation to Council pass, one new man will be added the brigade for six months of this year, at an additional expenditure of some $400 odd.

Ald. Green honestly believes that the city's requirements call for at least two additional men at once to afford adequate fire protection to all concerned.

NO SALARIES INCREASED.

Incidentally, in discussing further paring of the estimates, Ald. Green accused his worship of trying to run the committee as well as the Council.

The Mayor replied that he is treating the Fire, Water and Light Committee exactly the same as others. In all committees he has fought and is fighting for economy this particular year to keep the rate down. That has been his policy from the beginning and will be till the end of the year. "And," he concluded, "I have a right to my opinion."

Ald. Green agreed to this last sentence, but thought the Mayor's policy a wrong one, and that he had been ill-advised. He also contended the appointment of but one extra fireman to be a mistake which will be brought home with force subsequently.

Ald. Green suggested that the salary grading of firemen extend to a limit of five years instead of three as at present, beginning with $600 a year and terminating at $850. The grade now is $600 for the first year, $675 for second and $750 for the third year as a limit.

On motion of Ald. Stratton no change was made in this grading.

Ald. Stratton's suggestion that the Engineer's salary of $750 be increased by 10c a day did not pass muster.

The assistant chief's salary of $850 was left as it is.

NO INCREASE FOR CHIEF.

Ald. Green said he understood that last year the Chief asked for an increase from $1250 to $1500, but was given $1400 on the moral understanding by Committee of the Whole that his salary would be brought up to $1500 this year. He thought that understanding should be lived up to. He believed that Peterborough has one of the best fire chiefs of the smaller cities, and he felt it would be hard to replace him at the salary

Neither the Mayor, Ald. Duffus or Anderson remembered such an understanding.

On motion of his worship and Ald. Saunders, no increase for Chief Howard will be recommended for this year.

THE STOLID BELGIANS.

Aviator Sopwith Thought He'd Startle the Peasants, but He Didn't.

Aviator Sopwith describes in the London Times how he landed in Belgium after flying across the English channel in twenty-two minutes:

"Making an aerial detour to avoid some hills, I endeavored to steer toward Chalons by the aid of a compass I carried with me, but I soon lost my way. Just as I was flying over a village about 800 feet high, a very ugly gust caught my machine on one side and tilted it partly over. To my consternation the aeroplane refused to regain its normal position even when I exerted the full pressure of the small balancing planes fixed to the rear ends of the main planes. Just when I thought I should slide helplessly down through the air a field near a village presented itself. I planed down and sat still, quite exhausted.

"A Belgian peasant was working on the road near by. His nonchalance was amazing. He merely stopped his work in a leisurely way and gazed at me stolidly for several minutes. The apathy of the villagers, although they had never seen an aeroplane before, was indeed remarkable. Two old women to whose cottage I went did not appear at all astonished that I should have descended out of the air. All they wanted to know was what the weather was like in England."

Clever Dwarfs.

Richard Gibson and his wife, who flourished in the seventeenth century, were a remarkable pair of dwarfs, quite apart from their inches, which combined barely made up seven feet. Both were clever painters of miniatures, and Gibson was drawing master to the daughters of James II. At their wedding, which was arranged by Henrietta Maria, Charles I. gave the bride away, the queen placed a valuable diamond ring on her finger, and Edmund Waller, the court poet, wrote a poem in honor of the occasion. Gibson was seventy-four when he passed away, while his widow died at the advanced age of eighty-nine years.

A grass plant will in the course of a hot day exhale its own weight of water, and a young leaf of wheat or rye exposed to the sun may even exhale its own weight in an hour. Experiments summarized by Storer indicate that "more than 300 pounds of water pass through a plant and are transpired from its leaves for every pound of dry matter fixed or assimilated by the plant." In Wisconsin, King found the mean amount of water used by barley, oats, corn, clover, peas and potatoes in producing a ton of dry matter ranged from 270 tons for corn to 576 tons for clover, "the average for the six crops being nearly 450 tons, or four acre inches for each ton of dry matter." — Agricultural Department Year Book.

Trees and Wind.

The effect of wind upon trees is powerful. Even the presence or absence of forests may be determined by the character of the prevailing wind or the conditions that modify it. The wind acts as a drying agent, giving a special aspect to many plants. When it is almost always from the same quarter the plants show greater development upon one side. Trees are smaller on the windward edges of forests, and trunks and branches are bent to leeward. The deformations are most marked near the sea or in flat regions. The cherry, plum, walnut, black poplar, ash and certain pines are very sensitive to the wind, but mountain pines and certain firs offer great powers of resistance, and these are recommended for reforesting wind swept lands.

Wanted to Be a Sacrifice.

One of the strangest petitions ever received by a police magistrate has been presented at Calcutta. A young Bengali, with his forehead covered with heavy caste marks, entered the witness-box during the hearing of applications, and handed to the magistrate a stamped paper praying for an order to have his life sacrificed before the goddess Kali for the benefit of the Government, and also for the people of Hindustan. It added that the comet which had been appearing nightly in the heavens was a very bad sign, and the petitioner who signed himself Prani Nath Sadhoo, wished to become its victim. The magistrate declined, and told the Bengali to go home and pray to avert the evil happenings which might follow the comet, as that might prove more efficacious than the loss of his life.

Australian Military Training.

The compulsory training of lads in the Commonwealth between the ages of fourteen and eighteen years will probably commence on or about January 1st next. The only persons who will be exempt from the new system will be those who live at long distance from convenient centres of population. The Commonwealth is to be divided up into districts for the purpose of the training. In each of these districts there will be a militia area officer, who will be assisted by two permanent staff sergeants. The staff sergeants will be in charge of the drill instruction, and the militia officer will carry out the administrative work. It is proposed to appoint the militia area officer next month, and they will then be required to attend a special school of instruction.

SOME IMPORTANT FACTS ABOUT THE SILVER BLACK FOX INDUSTRY

The first Island ranch was started with two pairs of Anticosti Silvers, bought from a trapper for experimental purposes solely, and same proved so successful that the fox industry started to be developed.

In the year 1910 a pair of breeders could be bought for $4,000.00; in 1911 the price went up to $6,000 a pair, during 1912 a pair at $10,000 was considered high but not unusual, and at the time of writing (January 20th, 1914), live breeders can bring any price from $15,000 to $35,000, according to fecundity, and options on the unborn of next year are selling for $12,000 a pair.

About $10,000,000 is said to be invested in the fox industry on Prince Edward Island, showing a gain of over $3,000,000 inside a year.

Official returns for the present year show that the 277 fox ranches on the island contain 899 silver breeding foxes, (441 males and 458 females.) The total number of silver offsprings for 1913 was 708. and the average assessed value was $4,892.53 per fox.

The total valuation of the young silver black foxes for the current year is $3,349,449. The total number of silver foxes in the ranches for 1913 is 1602.

Pelts from ranch-bred Prince Edward Island silver black foxes have sold at the London auction sales as high as $2,626.00.

ASSETS OF THE COMPANY

The Company have TEN PAIRS of high-grade PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND Silver Black Foxes, EIGHT PAIRS are now on the ranch and two pairs of breeders under option are all eligible for registration under the select class "A" of the FOX BREEDERS' ASSOCIATION. These Foxes have been selected with special regard to parentage, and consist of the following well known strains:

Gordon, Dalton, Tuplin, Oulton, Raynor, and Champion. These names are conspicuously prominent in the Fox Industry ranches which, in 1913, paid from 45 p.c. to 900 p.c.

FUTURE POLICY

The Company expects to earn large profits from the sale of these rare black and silver foxes for breeding purposes, while each year a per centage of the production will be retained, placing the Company in a position to pay large dividends from the sale of furs alone. The object of this policy is to place the fur farming industry on a substantial commercial basis.

THE COMPANY'S RANCH

The Company owns outright a fine 211 acre farm with complete farm buildings—one of the most up-to-date ranches on the Island. It has an experienced and highly skilled keeper whose services have largely contributed to the present satisfactory condition of the business

ONLY ONE CLASS OF STOCK

There is only one class of stock fully paid and non-assessable. Every shareholder participates pro rata in all dividends paid by the Company, and the latter has no authority to issue either Preferred Stock or Bonds.

From the above it will surely be seen that the R. J. McNEILL BLACK AND SILVER FOX COMPANY, LIMITED, are engaged in business at a most opportune time and under most favorable circumstances. Take into serious consideration that our company is established and that we have the FOXES AND RANCH, and not prospective. YOU ARE ENTITLED TO SEPTEMBER, 1914, DIVIDENDS: you don't have to wait for your dividends until 1915. In 1915 another dividend will be awaiting you

REMEMBER the average cash dividend of the above companies is 176 per cent, and there is absolutely no excuse why we cannot repeat the same.

We offered for public subscription the remaining allotment of $70,000. $30,000 has already been subscribed. $40,000 remains to be sold.

NOTICE.—Should the shares of stock not be allotted, the money paid by you will be refunded by return mail.

SOME PRESS COMMENTS

"Widows" Fox Company Declares a 900 Per Cent. Dividend.

Clerks in the employ of Sinclair & Stewart, a big dry goods house at Summerside, formed a silver fox company in 1912. This Company is popularly referred to as the "Widows" Fox Company, as nearly all the stockholders are women, a dividend of 900 per cent. was their reward.

Three sisters of Alberton, P.E.I., who were employed in the States, sent their spare earnings home two years ago to be invested in the fur farming business and their profits have averaged $15,000 yearly since.

A bookkeeper in the employ of Mr. Fred L. Rogers, the Governor's son, of Alberton, invested $300 three years ago, and is now worth $45,000 directly from this source.

The Rosemount Live Stock Co., Limited, of Alberton, P. W. Turner, treasurer, has paid a dividend of 1000 per cent. this year.

Mr. Frank Hall, clerk at Holman's Limited, received $25,000 from an investment of $500 made in this business three years ago.

Seven clerks and managers in Summerside pooled $500 each in 1910 and purchased a pair of silver foxes for $3,500. The seller, feeling that he had driven a splendid bargain, cared for the pair a year. The first litter consisted seven pups. The seven owners have received $35,000 each dividends since and the pair bought for $3,500 could be sold for $35,000 to-day. Mr. Austin Scales, of St. Eleanors, is a member of this Association

BRAVE LITTLE BOY SAVED MANY LIVES

Peter Oschar, the eight-year-old son of a railroad watchman in Hungary, saved a whole trainload of passengers during floods. The water washed out a long bridge over which little Peter knew that the trains must travel. On that particular day of which we speak Peter's father was sick and could not get about very fast, although he went down to the railroad crossing. Just before a heavy loaded train was due the watchman got word about the bridge. Just as fast as his short legs could carry him Peter ran along the track. He ran across the footbridge that the farmers used and got around the bend in time. The engineer saw the signal, knew it meant danger and stopped the train!

WORMS! YES. THAT'S IT WORMS IS THE TROUBLE—

Many Suffer From Them and Do Not Know It.

Many go to an early grave on account of them and have been pronounced to have had brain fever or some other complaint.

Prof. Mulvenoy Comes to the Rescue
His Wonderful Remedies are saving thousands of lives.

Why not try his remedies, they are sure, certain and harmless.

Stomach worms are round like earth worms, and measure from 8 to 16 inches in length, the large ones being about the size of a lead pencil in thickness. They are white and sometimes pink in color; they infest the stomach and small intestines and sometimes great numbers are found to exist. One of my customers claim one of his children passed thirty from the use of my remedy. It does not require much thought to come to the conclusion that these worms are very dangerous, as they cause fever, convulsions, fits, etc. Many persons have died from worms and they have been known to crawl out of their mouth and nose after death. Just imagine the suffering and terrible agony a child or adult must experience with these disgusting and loathsome creatures crawling about in the stomach and bowels. There is no doubt that they are constantly taking the nourishment that should go to make a strong, healthy person. Is it any wonder that your child is cross, irritable and sickly? Adults are also restless, melancholy and miserable from the same cause and are sometimes treated for dyspepsia, nervous prostration and other complaints. My remedy is in liquid form and is an excellent remedy to build up the system, and can be taken for some time after the worms have been expelled to build up the system, which generally requires it as the stomach and bowels are generally in a weak and debilitated condition, caused by the ravages of these undesirable pests. My remedy known as Mother's Friend, is pleasant and agreeable to take and is a life-saver for children, as it not only destroys worms but strengthens and builds up the child, cures wetting of the bed, convulsions and fits; destroys pin worms. The price is $1.00. My remedy known as B'Well is much better for adults, and is the greatest nerve remedy on earth. Cures all nerve troubles, cleanses the system, restores lost energy and is a liver saver. B'Well is a miracle killer, also a worm killer; unless worms cause all kinds of disease B'Well kills the cause, also kills blood poison. Sold only by Prof. Mulvenoy. OFFICIAL AUDITOR

Some Curious Rulings of an Important John Bull Authority

The Local Government Board employs a small army of auditors, whose duty it is to check the accounts of local authorities, such as Boards of Guardians, Town Councils, District Councils, and the like. An auditor has power to disallow any items which he considers unjustifiable expenditure. This means that the individuals who authorised it have personally to "stand the racket." On one occasion a curious surcharge was made in the course of the audit of the accounts of the Southampton Poor Law Authorities. It was for the cost of hymn books supplied for the use of the workhouse inmates, at the price of four shillings and sixpence per copy. The books were Moody and Sankey's "Sacred Songs and Solos," which, it was gravely stated, had been purchased, "with music complete," so that the paupers should be "in tune with the choir." In the circumstances, it was scarcely surprising that the guardians had to face the music of the surcharge. A purchase made for the recreation of the nurses led to a curious surcharge on a West of England union. Amongst the accounts was one for a croquet set, which the auditor did not consider justifiable expenditure. As might be supposed, the guardians did not agree with him in this; but, rather than have any trouble, they raised the amount of the account amongst themselves.

Queen Alexandra's Favorite Portrait of King Edward VII.

This marble bust of "Edward the Peacemaker" was unveiled by Prince Arthur of Connaught at the new Middlesex Guildhall, Westminster.

Electricity and Chickens

Chickens which lose their timidity and become bold and pugnacious under the influence of electrical stimulus were described by Mr. Thorne Baker in a paper read before the Royal Society of Arts. Mr. Baker said chickens could be grown under electric stimulus at about double the normal rate, thus doubling the output of a chicken farm, and halving the food bill per chicken. The vitality of the treated chicken was remarkable. During the treatment they were so highly charged with electricity that quite a distinct shock was felt in the fingers on touching them, although the birds were supremely unconscious of anything. The sparks which flew from their beaks on their pecking one's finger did not appear to be felt in the least by them.

A Cyclist's Record

Some years ago a cyclist undertook to ride 100 miles daily every week day for a year, and accomplished the feat. A still more remarkable record is that of Mr. F. J. Lucas, of Coventry, who for twenty years rode an average of fifty miles a day. He covered an aggregate of over 305,000 miles in ten years, when he started to cycle to Wolverhampton and Northampton on alternate days.

Advertising Bill

It is said that $500,000,000 sterling is spent in advertising in Great Britain every year.

Washing and Dusters

Washing and dusters can be avoided by using old newspaper for cleaning. They are excellent for window polishers, first rate for scouring tinware with, and are as good as a brush for polishing a stove. A good pad of newspaper should be kept at hand for wiping up grease or water spilt on the gas or coal cooking stove.

Ironing Linen

Linen or corded material garments should be ironed over an ordinary ironing board, taking care to iron lengthwise or directly crosswise. Ironing even a little on the bias will put them out of shape.

A simple dessert is plain boiled rice served with sugar generously mixed with ground cinnamon.

King's Gift of a Club

The King, as squire of Sandringham, Norfolk, presented to his employes a new club built at Babingley.

Royal Trophy for Museum

The King sent to the National Museum of Wales, Cardiff, a fine tiger which he shot in India two years ago.

New Lord Lieutenant

The King approved the appointment of the Earl of Craven to be Lord Lieutenant for the County of Warwick, in succession to the late Marquis of Northampton.

Ireland's Signposts

Ireland is the country for useless signposts. During the last few years there has been an outbreak of Gaelic League activity in the country. Among other manifestations it has taken the form of erecting signposts with Gaelic inscriptions. There is one such in the little Village of Omeath, in County Louth. It directs the traveler to Carlingford and to Newry—but it directs him in an unknown tongue. It is not easy to see what useful purpose is served by such a signpost. For the inhabitant knows his way without any such assistance and the English-speaking traveler is unable to find it unless he happens to consult one of the villagers, not one of whom—so far as I have been able to discover—can either read or speak a single word of Gaelic.—London Chronicle.

The World's Tiniest Dog

This is Roe, a terrier who enjoys the distinction of being the smallest dog in the world. His ancestors were prized highly because they were small when they "grew up."

Roe had this picture taken at the big Berlin dog show. He is shown in an ordinary glass tumbler.

SANOL BLOOD BUILDER

FOR TIRED OUT MEN AND WOMEN
A SURE CURE FOR ANAEMIA

Provides the Blood with Red Corpuscles so Necessary to Life

Clears and Improves the Complexion

For twenty years a celebrated German scientist worked at this great specific seeking to find the secret of blood building. The vegetable contents were brought from the four corners of the earth and so blended that a genuine blood and tissue builder was at last produced.

SANOL BLOOD BUILDER has proved a boon to mankind. The tired worn out mother in the home, with her daily round of domestic and social cares, the head of the family in office or workshop, the growing girl or boy during schooling period, at times need a body building medicine. Sanol Blood Builder supplies the blood with and incorporates into the organism of the human body that which it absolutely needs, the good results are marked and rapid.

Sanol Blood Builder, if taken according to the directions will stop the waste of the body, brighten the appetite, strengthen the system, rebuild the blood corpuscles, improve the complexion, brace the muscles and calm the brain.

BENEFITS OF WINTER AIR

While opinions differ as to the relative health value of various outdoor sports, there is no question of the value of fresh air. Better curtail the allowance of food than the daily portion of air in the open.

It is easy for a majority of people to lorm a habit of staying indoors in cold weather, instead of welcoming every opportunity for outdoor exercise. This is because they have not learned how to enjoy cold. Instead of "opening up" to it, they probably shrink within themselves and, with muscles tense, brace against it. The breath comes and goes through the mouth in short gasps, and instead of being exhilarated and invigorated they are fatigued—and are glan to get where it is warm. They do everything in their power—even if unconsciously — to impede circulation instead of letting down tension so that the air and exercise will quicken it; and of course they are cold. Except for a certain amount of fresh air that they inhale in spite of themselves they would better have remained in the house.

No amount of clothing will keep such persons warm—and ten to one they swathe themselves in flannels and furs.

The best preparation for going out in winter is to relax partially—enough to let down the tension that would impede circulation—don lightweight but protecting wraps, call up a cheerful train of thought, breathe deeply and more whythmically. A great deal of the pleasure and benefit to be benefit to be derived from a winter walk depends upon these two points; whether the steps are rhythmical and the breathing deep, even and through the nostrils—where the air is warmed before entering the lungs. Respiration should not be forced.

In riding, driving, or any of the cold weather outdoor sports these rules hold as surely as in walking.

GIRLS! DRAW A MOIST CLOTH THROUGH HAIR

Try this! Hair gets thick, glossy, wavy and beautiful at once —Stops falling out.

Immediate?—Yes! Certain?—that's the joy of it. Your hair becomes light, wavy fluffy, abundant and appear as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a Danderine hair cleanse. Just try this — moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or excessive oil, and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair. A delightful surprise awaits those whose hair has been neglected or is scraggy, faded, dry, brittle or thin. Besides beautifying the hair, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair, but what will please you most will be after a few week's use, when you see new hair—fine and downy at first — yes — but really new hair growning all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair, and lots of it surely get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and just try it.

RUSSIAN JEW KILLS GIRL AND THEN SHOOTS HIMSELF

Isaac Estrom Angered by Annie Gorelik's Refusal to Marry Him

Toronto, Mar. 9. Angered when Annie Gorelik, 501 Adelaide street, west, a Jewess of some twenty years, refused to marry him and charged him with having a wife and family in Russia, Isaac Estrom, also a Jew, this afternoon shot her through the heart killing her instantly.

He then turned the revolver on himself, firing two shots into his body.

He is now in the General Hospital and there is little hope for his recovery.

The shooting occurred opposite 412 Adelaide street at 1.45 o'clock this afternoon.

From stories told by the neighbours it seems that Estrom had been keeping company for some time with the young girl.

Yesterday she received word from Russia to the effect that he was a married man with a wife and several children there.

As the two were walking along the street this afternoon the man asked her to marry him, but charged with duplicity and the girl declared that she would have nothing further to do with him.

In anger he drew a revolver, firing three shots into the woman's body, one of which pierced the heart, killing her instantly.

He then pointed the revolver at himself and fired two shots.

Attracted by the shots, neighbours rushed from their homes and caught the man before he could fire again.

SURE WAY TO REGAIN ROBUST BLOOM OF YOUTH

A smooth, velvety-soft skin, with a delicate peach-like bloom, is one of the Creator's most exquisite works. When the first blush of youth is over, this beautiful tint and satiny lustre are rarely seen. How to preserve them—that's the question. Famous beauty experts abroad long have known that ordinary mercolised wax works wonders in this direction. It actually gives a new surface to the skin, restoring that marvelous girlish color and softness in a remarkable manner. An ounce of this wax, procurable at any drugstore, will convert a faded, freckled, worn-out complexion into one of captivating loveliness in less than two weeks. No special skill is necessary in applying the wax, it being smeared on at night like cold cream and washed off in the morning.

To remove wrinkles, or delay their formation, a face bath made by dissolving 1 oz. powdered saxolite in ½ pt. witch hazel, will be found wonderfully efficacious. This tones up relaxed skin, causing it to remain firm and smooth.

PROPOSED INDIAN DAY.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I would suggested that whoever is in charge of the publicity department of this city should, next summer advertise an "Indian Day" for Peterborough. Excursions could be run here for Hastings, Barrie, Orillia, Brantford, etc., wherever there are Indians nearby. This would not only bring hundreds of Indians here but thousand of people from town that never see an Indian.

WARD NOMENCLATURE.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I happened to pick up a copy of your paper of a few days ago in which was letter recommending that the different wards of this city be distonguished by more euphonous names than South, Centre, etc. As a resident of the "West" Ward I would like to have that division of the city known as "Victoria" Ward. This would be doing honor to our late revered sovereign and, also cover a rapidly growing Western suburb "Victoria Heights."

WEST WARD.

A Little Chap's Query.

The superintendent of a Sunday-school was illustrating for the children the text, "Arise, and take the young child and his mother, and flee into Egypt." Shoeing them a large picture, she asked:

"Now, an't that splendid? Here is the mother. Here is the young child. There's Egypt in the distance."

The children, however, looked disappointed, and finally a little boy piped out:

"Teacher, where's the flea?"

NOISY BUTTERFLIES

One Species Produces a Sound Like the Snap of a Whip.

One does not think of butterflies as making any sounds, nor of caterpillars as noisy creatures, yet according to the late Samuel Hubbard Scudder in "Frail Children of the Air," the careful student will find some use for his ears when observing the habits of both. Says the author:

It is a fact that certain butterflies produce sound during certain movements. The "whip" butterfly when surprised makes a noise like the snap of a lash by opening and shutting its wings in quick succession. Some hibernating butterflies when disturbed make a faint hissing sound by slowly depressing and raising their wings. The noise thus produced resembles that made by blowing slowly through closed teeth. Other sounds resemble the friction of sandpaper.

A large number of caterpillars make sound by striking the head against the leaf on which they are resting or by swinging the head from side to side, catching the mandibles in the roughness of the leaf or on the silken threads spun on it. It is said that a certain kind of chrysalis when disturbed emits a slight, sharp chirp or clicking noise.

A Hard Face.

Bobby's papa, who is a naval officer, took him to call upon the family of a brother officer who had just returned from a cruise to the tropics.

Among the treasures exhibited was a large red and blue parrot, whose appearance and conversational powers proved most fascinating to the little boy. While the grownups were engaged in talking over old times Bobby, left to his own devices, drew nearer to the parrot's cage, bent on making friends.

Presently there was a squawk from the parrot and a little frightened cry from Bobby, who ran to his father, exhibiting a bleeding forefinger.

The little man was brave, though, as befitted the son of a sailor. He brushed away his tears and said:

"Gee, papa, but that bird has a hard face!"—Harper's Magazine.

Tips to Travelers.

Take a candle in your bag and a box of safety matches. When they are wanted you will be glad they were put in. The space required for them is small. A passenger on a steamer that was wrecked had a small candle, which enabled her to collect some of her most valuable possessions when the lights went out after the collision. Carry a few pens in your bag if you do not use a fountain pen. You will find that it is worth while, as the pens provided at some hotels and other public places are often so bad that it is impossible to use them with any satisfaction.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Still More Painful.

The Young Politician—I can assure you there is nothing more painful than having to make—er—er—one's first speech in public. Young Politician's Wife—Oh, yes, there is, dear! Young Politician (displeased)—Then what is it, pray? Young Politician's Wife (sweetly)—Having to listen to it, my dear.

Good-Bye, Old Backache, Nerviline Will Fix You!

Stiffness is Rubbed Right Out; Every Sign of Pain Disappears.

Gee whiz—think of it!

No more stomach dosing necessary to cure your lame back.

Every trace of lameness, every bit of stiffness, every sign of weakness in the back's muscles can be rubbed away for all time to come by good old "Nerviline."

No other liniment can do the work so quickly, can penetrate so deeply, can bring ease and comfort to the back-weary sufferer as Nerviline invariably does.

Backache isn't the only malady Nerviline is quick to cure. For lumbago or sciatica you would go far to find relief so speedy as Nerviline gives. For chronic rheumatism there are pain-destroying properties in Nerviline that give it first rank. The way it limbers up a stiff joint and takes soreness out of strained or rheumatic muscles is simply a wonder.

If you have an ache or a pain anywhere, if you have a sore back, a stiff neck a stiff joint a strained muscle—if you have lumbago, congested chest or sore throat, just try Nerviline. Rub it on plentifully—it won't blister, it can't do anything but cure you quickly. The large 50c. family size bottle is the most economical, of course, but you can, from any dealer, also get the 25c. small size of Nerviline, the king of all pain-relieving remedies.

A delegation of Prescott Liberals will ask Mr. Bourassa to consent to run for the Ontario Legislature, in order to look after the bilingual agitation.

Hon. Louis Coderre at the next general elections may leave Hochelaga and be a candidate in his native County of Richelieu.

New Silks Striped in Many Colors

By Madge Marvel

WOMEN crowd and jostle and talk about the table where the newest silks are grouped.

"Look at this! And this—and isn't this the sweetest thing, and isn't this the most absurd figure? What is it—a nasturtium? Nmh-no. For there never was a purple nasturtium as bright as that. But it is easy to see this is a dandelion, and isn't it perfectly fascinating? Or is it a dandelion after all. Perhaps it's a cowslip. Or a buttercup—no, it's too big for a buttercup. Oh, I wonder if it isn't a conventionalized sunflower? I believe it is.

"No, I don't believe I will get one, for they are too conspicuous for me, but there are dozens of women who will look perfectly stunning in every one of them. As for me, I am crazy about the stripes. Who ever dreamed of combining such a medley of color and getting something artistic out of it? Blue, purple, gold, red, green, black, orange—and isn't it the most gorgeous stuff?"

Adjectives Are Inadequate.

The chatter begins early and lasts late. It goes on in the cars, the restaurants, the drawing rooms. Wherever women meet, Poiret is a magic word.

The new silks make me feel more than anything else the paucity of my vocabulary. Just words seem weak. If one were an artist, she might splash some wonderful colors on the page and give an idea of the fabrics. Or if she were a musician, she might crash out a few big chords and then play a dreamy interlude, and run a few scales and sing an aria and that would give an inkling of an idea, if she had well-nourished imaginations to deal with. And if she were a poet she might indite a sonnet or a rondelay.

As for applying the principles of botany to the silks—it is a waste of time. Also it is unsatisfactory. It makes you lose interest in botany.

We are facing a summer of stripes. For two years we have worn Turkish towelling for suits and gowns. This year we are wearing awnings.

Stripes to Be Popular.

The striped voiles have alternating stripes of blue and white, red and white, black and white, green and white, each stripe a full inch in width. They are used chiefly for the tunics and waists over a skirt of white or the color of the stripe. As the tunics are full there is a softened effect of the stripes.

The nearest approach to the threatened bustle seems to be the funny little puff tunic used on many of the taffeta frocks. It is a balloon-like affair, gathered in at the waist and reaching just to the edge of the hips, being very bouffant in the back.

The edges of the ruffles, which are used on the skirts in spiral lines circling from the knees to the waist, are frequently finished with a cord almost as large as the little finger. This is enclosed in the hem, and gives weight and finish to the silk.

The frilled and shirred taffeta wraps are the most alluring garments we have had in a long time. They are cut loose with kimono sleeves, and are longer in the back and slope up nearly to the waist in front. They are almost the exact garment mother wore in war times, only they have fewer seams and more ruffles. Sometimes there are three ruffles, again only two. There is usually a pinked pleating about the neck.

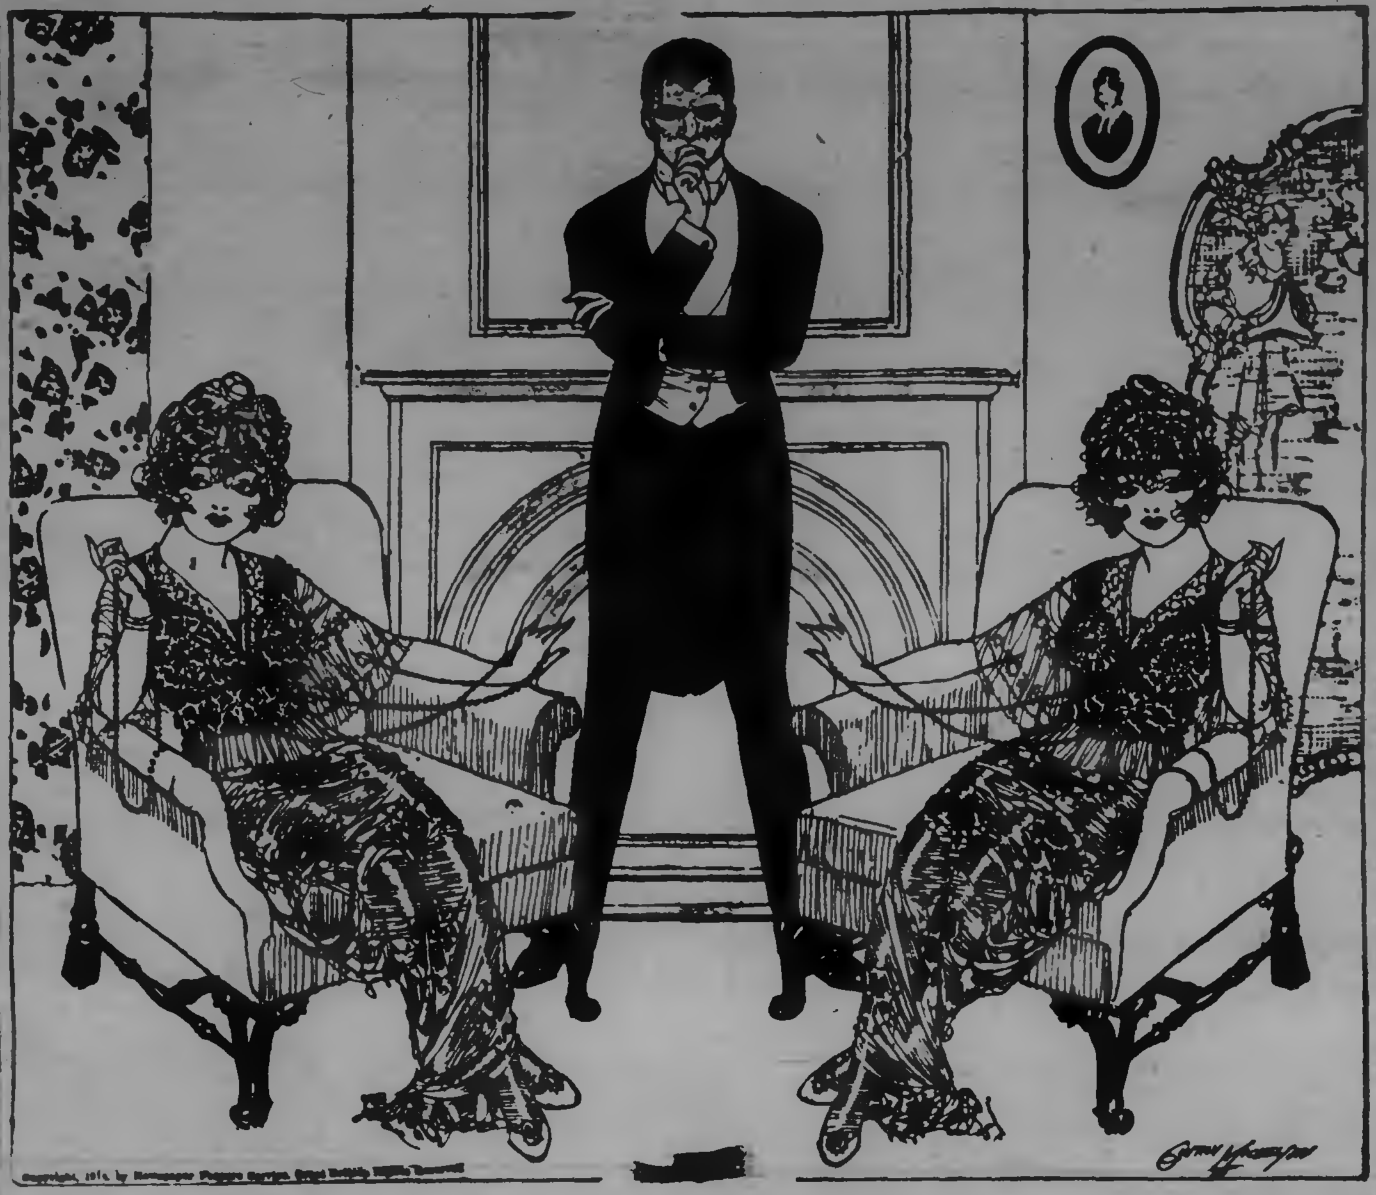
IF SHE WERE TWINS ■ ■ ■ ■ By Michelson



Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service, Great Britain Rights Reserved.

IF by some dreadful magic of nature she really were twins, what should he do? Here he is just on the point of proposing. Suppose there was two of her, which twin should he choose?

Of course both twins would be beautiful—just alike. But with these puzzling contrasts of hers actually separated, which elements should he prefer in a life companion?

Ah! THAT would be a problem! Whether to ask the wistful, fanciful, curious, affectionate, ease-loving side of her, or the breezy, high-spirited, quick-tempered, unexpected, commanding, clever side of her.

Wouldn't it be a HEART-BREAKING choice to have to make? Wouldn't he be torn with regrets at losing either side?

Shouldn't he be glad that this is only a dream and that both sides of her, complicated and perplexing as they may be, are combined in one girl, his (let us hope) for the asking?

What Threatens the Girl Art Student

By WINIFRED BLACK

Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service.

Winifred Black

ALMA GLUCK says that American girls who go to Europe to study music spend much of their time sitting around telling each other what Jean de Reszke thinks about their voices—and much of it running about to cafes and being Bohemian.

The rest of the time, says Alma Gluck, people sit around and talk about the American musical students.

The American Woman's Club of Berlin says that Alma Gluck either didn't know or didn't care what she was talking about when she said these things.

There was a meeting of the club held recently, and that meeting turned itself into a protest against Miss Gluck's statements. Mrs. Gerard, wife of the ambassador, acted as hostess and "protest" leader.

Now I don't know a thing about the American girls studying music in Europe, but I do know a little something about the American girls who study music at home, and I'd think a good long while before I'd let any pretty little daughter of mine run over to Europe "to study" just because some self-seeking person with an aunt who pays her a commission to send boarders to some "near American" boarding house in Paris, or Dresden, or Vienna, or Stuttgart, filled her head with a lot of nonsense.

The average American girl has a good deal more common sense than the average girl of any other nationality. But, between you and me, that isn't saying so very much either.

The American girl is by temperament and by training and by her whole ideal of life better able to take care of herself than any other girl in the world. But somehow I can't believe that we made over human nature when we invented the stars and stripes.

I'd as soon throw a nice, chubby little baby into a den of wolves as to send the average light-hearted, light-headed American girl to Europe, or anywhere else, "to study" alone.

The Girl from Sioux City.

There's nothing particularly settling to the mind about the study of music, or art, either.

In fact, there are those who believe that the effect of both art and music upon the mind of a young and growing girl is apt to be somewhat "temperamental." Whatever did we do before we had that convenient word?

I met a girl from Sioux City, Ia., in New York last winter. She was there "studying," and she was full of rhapsodies about the glory of living the broader life.

"I should die if I had to go back to Sioux City" said the girl who was studying. "My soul would starve."

The Sioux City girl invited me to her "studio" to a Bohemian tea. Of course, I went. I have a fad for going to things that people call "Bohemian." I love to find out what they mean by it.

This tea turned out to be so very Bohemian that there was no tea at all, just highballs and gin-rickies and cigarettes—oh, plenty and plenty of cigarettes—and girls in queer shabby clothes and scrambled hair, and men with pale faces and red eyes and a general look of having been out much too late for several nights.

I didn't hear much that seemed to me particularly broadening in the conversation at the studio tea.

People talked very much as intelligent people talk in Sioux City, Ia., or in What Cheer, Neb., for that matter, or any other place where the daily newspaper gets into town on the 9:55 and the whole town goes to the train to get it.

The young lady from Sioux City sang to us, a little thing of some French composer—rather sweet and pretty it was, too—all about the rose upon the balcony, and the morning air and the song of the birds in the trees. Somehow I kept seeing the girl from Sioux City in a nice, fresh, little print frock sweeping off the balcony somewhere in a pretty little home—in Sioux City—and being a thousand times better off and cleverer and more attractive to real people who really live than she was, poor girl, in her shabby frock and her tousled hair singing rather sweetly to a lot of dissipated persons who would go out after the "Bohemian" tea and tell everybody that she had only a scrap of a voice and not a particle of temperament.

They were all very temperamental, the people at the studio tea.

I know they were because they kept saying so, over and over again they said it.

One young man in particular was so temperamental that he never spoke without casting up his eyes and shrugging his shoulders and clasping his hands.

Genius Will Walk Alone.

Poor young man, he did look so out of place in trousers and coat; I did want to send him a nice, pale pink negligee. It would have suited him so well.

One of the women at the tea was unusually temperamental, too. She told a lot of things to prove that.

She hadn't paid her rent for a month, and didn't intend to pay it for six months longer, by—well, I really don't think I'll quote just what she "by'd" with. And everybody shrieked with laughter and was greatly edified.

We talked about marriage at the Bohemian tea—and apparently none of us approved of marriage at all. Some of us called it a superstition and some of us said it was archaic. We all despised people who got married—poor, old-fashioned, narrow-minded things—and toward the end of the tea two or three elderly men came in. They were not at all like the young men who were so very temperamental.

The elderly men were not temperamental at all—in appearance. They wore exceedingly smart clothes and were well groomed and they had automobiles waiting for them below, and they stayed when the tea broke up, and I think I saw my little friend from Sioux City, Ia., snuggling into one of the automobiles with a particularly well kept old person with a mouth like a pig's and eyes like a cruel tiger.

Poor little girl. I wonder how long she'll stay away from Sioux City—and "study"—and when she will have to take her broken heart back home for her mother to mend!

A genius, a girl with a real voice, with real ability, something more than just a pretty little parlor talent—oh, that is a different matter, a different matter entirely. The girl is different all the way through.

She may starve and fight and almost die alone in a garret in some foreign city, but she'll work and she'll work, and she'll keep on working—and some day she will "arrive"—through what bitter roads of agony none but those who have walked therein can ever dream.

She may go right or she may go wrong, personally—her genius will hold her steady to its flame and nothing that she does or does not do will change that by the shadow of a hair.

Genius walks—alone—because it can and because it must.

You can't keep your genius at home, little mother with the anxious eyes. She's an eagle and all your cluckings will never make a little brown hen of her.

But be sure she is a genius before you let her out alone into the ravening world, which eats up little girls who have nothing but talent—eats them up, body, brain and soul.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

Your Hair Is a Gauge of Your Physical Vigor

By Dr. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

Copyright, 1914, by L. K. Hirshberg

DR. HIRSHBERG

THE hoary head may be a crown of glory, but hair is also used to cover the bodies of brutes. Gray hairs, in these days of dangerous yet oft-used hair dyes, rarely bring people down to their graves.

Rather is it the other way round. Time creeps on; fancy may grow cold; still there are no silvery locks nowadays to tell the advancing winters of life.

Men may tarry at Jericho until their beards are grown, yet they will not be old in the common acceptance of the word. Sable locks are no harbingers of a green old age.

Dark hair upon the head, or the same upon the chin of youths, has always stood for manliness and vigor. Conquerors and rulers have always indulged themselves in whiskers and wigs, and Nero was meek and like putty without his curled periwig upon his brows.

The capture of the Sabine women had much to do with their lovely hair. Women, however, are more powerful than men, for "one hair of a woman can draw more than a hundred oxen."

Goethe's scene in the Hartz mountains in "Faust" contains these wise words: "Beware of her fair hair, for she excels all women in the magic of her locks; and when she winds them round a young man's neck she will not ever let him free again."

The reason of this strong appeal rests upon the physiological fact that fine hair, abundant, ungrayed and long indicates health. Thick, rich, deeply colored hair beckons you. Nobody takes a smooth-pated, bald man seriously. There is an absence of quivers and thrills where there is a want of hair.

Life's whole strength; all the joys of them
Rest in the three—health, hair and happiness.

There are, nevertheless, many odd health fallacies associated with hair. One of these has to do with the expression, "cure the bite with the hair of the dog that bit you."

Then there is the odd phrase, which is associated with the fact that worry and fear, as well as disease, affect the hair. Walter Besant says: "A pint of port? Man alive! We can take two bottles and never turn a hair."

The vast amount of hair which women of sound physique have is responsible for the expression which bald-headed men cannot abide.

Yet, withal, the fine texture of beautiful hair is also recognized in its perfection. Even a single hair casts its shadow, like a dark meteor through the glowing air. Your general strength, your freedom from illness is in proportion to the numbers and texture of your hair.

"Much hair means money," and "long hair leans to strength" are platitudes with lots of truth in them. They spell robust anatomies and clean, wholesome tissues.

Hair is the health and blessing of the rich and the riches of the poor. The one goes with the other, and they are treasures dearer than the wealth of Cathay.

Answers to Health Questions

A. B. O., Darby, Pa.—I am a motorman, and while at work I suffer pains in the skin and legs below the knee. The bone is sore in the forepart of the leg. At night, as soon as I stop work, I feel all right.

You may have trouble from your occupation of striking the gong with your leg. Change of work or method of ringing the bell would, if this is true, cure the trouble.

Meanwhile a brisk laxative, hot applications to the legs several times at night and in the day, and iodide of potash will possibly relieve the acute pain.

Maggie Teyte's Advice to Beauty Seekers

Maggie Teyte, prima donna of the Chicago-Philadelphia Opera Company, whose articles on Beauty are written exclusively for this paper, receives daily a large number of letters from readers. In the following she answers a few. Letters addressed to her in care of this office will be replied to as space permits.

FRANCES MORRIS—Five hours' sleep is not enough for any one. Seven or eight hours is a safe rule to follow. Brain-workers require more than those whose work is more physical. A cup of hot milk slowly sipped before retiring is sometimes a cure for insomnia. Hop tea is excellent for nerves. Fresh air is necessary. There should be a circulation of air in the sleeping room without a direct draught.

MRS. EMERSON—There is nothing simpler for a burn than a mixture of lime water and sweet oil, that should be a household remedy which is never allowed to be forgotten. Its prompt application has saved lives, to say nothing of an immense amount of suffering.

Another splendid remedy for burns consists of a mixture of two ounces of glycerine and olive oil with two drachms of boracic acid. Apply with old soft linen or absorbent cotton. One of the chief things to remember in the treatment of burns is to exclude the air.

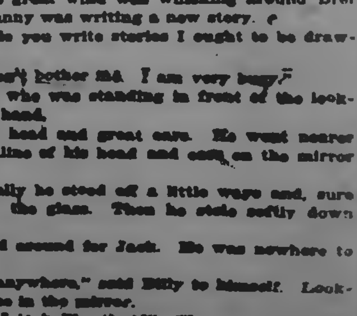
MISS L. J. T.—Flatulency, which is but another name for that "full feeling" after eating, may be overcome to a degree by taking a pinch of common baking soda, the size of a pea, in half a glass of water, as hot as can be drunk, a half-hour before meals. I would not say make a habit of it, but take it when you need it.

Daddy's Good Night Story



By [illegible]

WHE-E-E! Whe-e-e! The great wind was whisking around Brer Rabbit's house while Billy Bunny was writing a new story.

"It seems to me that while you write stories I ought to be drawing the pictures," said Jack Rabbit.

"Go ahead," replied Billy, "but don't bother me. I am very busy."

Billy did not look at his brother, who was standing in front of the looking glass with a piece of soap in his hand.

Looking at the glass he saw his head and great ears. He went nearer the glass and began to draw the outline of his head and ears on the mirror with the piece of soap.

He worked and worked until finally he stood off a little ways and, sure enough, there was a rabbit right in the glass. Then he stole softly down stairs.

Billy finished his story and looked around for Jack. He was nowhere to be seen.

"I wonder if he left his drawing anywhere," said Billy to himself. Looking at the wash stand, he saw the face in the mirror.

"Goodness!" he exclaimed. "Do I look like that?" Then he looked behind him to see if any one else was in the room. Turning again to the glass he said:

"What are you looking at me so funny for?" The rabbit in the glass didn't say a word.

"Don't you look at me like that!" he fairly shouted. "Come out of that looking glass or I will throw something at you!"

The rabbit in the glass kept quiet.

Then Billy picked up the soap dish and said threateningly:

"Are you going to speak to me?"

The picture didn't answer.

"Speak to me or I'll hit you," said Billy.

"What's the matter with you?" asked a voice behind him.

Turning, he saw Jack.

"I'm going to hit that rabbit in the glass," said Billy.

"Don't! Don't!" cried Jack. "That's my picture. I drew it with a piece of soap."

"Oh!" said Billy, and turning to the rabbit picture he said:

"My, but you came near getting hurt."

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Harbour Improvements at Wellington, Ont.," will be received at this office until 4.00 P.M., on Monday, March 16, 1914, for the construction of Harbour Improvements at Wellington, Prince Edward County, Ontario.

Plans, specification and form of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department and at the office of the District Engineer, Confederation Life Building, Toronto, Ont., and on application to the Postmaster at Wellington, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fails to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowers or any tender.

By order,

FOR THE COMMON GOOD

It is the aim of The Times:

To exploit and advance the best interests of the people of the fair and fertile land wherein it is published, and to which it steadily devotes its efforts;

To stand for liberty and law, equal rights and good government, the greatest boon to a free people;

To foster and encourage private and public enterprise, and hold up the hands of every honest toiler, either with brawn or brain, in every field of activity;

To stand independently for the true interests of the city, the Dominion and the Empire, and for those policies only which make for the common good;

It aims to be excellent and not cheap.

Tung Po and Teamaking.

There is but one way of making tea, for—

Unless the water boiling be
To pour on water spoils the tea.

The teapot itself should be heated very hot before the tea is placed in it and the boiling water poured on. It should be scalding hot water or the leaves will float to the top.

No less authority than Tung Po, the Chinese poet, is quoted for a recipe for teamaking. He says: "Whenever tea is to be infused take water from a running stream and boil it over a lively fire. It is an old custom to use running water, boiled over a lively fire. That from springs in the hills is said to be best and river water the next, while well water is the worst. A lively fire is a clear, bright charcoal fire. When making an infusion do not boil the water too hastily. At first it begins to sparkle like crabs' eyes, then somewhat like fish's eyes, and lastly it boils up like pearls innumerable springing and waving about. This is the way to boil water."

Learn to Obey.

Learn to obey! By obedience I do not mean a merely outward submission to outward force and authority, but the voluntary subordination of one's own will under the will of a better and higher intelligence. He who has not learned to do this in childhood will have great difficulty in learning it in later life; he will rarely get beyond the deplorable and unhappy state that vacillates between outward submission and uproarious rebellion. No greater wrong can be done to childhood than the one caused by our desire to spare it the necessity of obeying. Whoever conceives the duty of the educator to consist in giving in to all desires of the child, in gratifying all its wishes, makes himself guilty of the gravest sin toward his child. He denies it what, in view of its future mission, it cannot afford to lose—namely, the exercise in voluntarily subordinating its own will under necessity, be it a natural or a social one.—Professor F. Paulsen, University of Berlin, in Educational Review.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS

THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at the office of any Local Agent of Dominion Lands (not sub-agent), on certain conditions.

Duties.—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required in every case, except when residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside of his homestead. Price $3 per acre. Duties.—Six months residence in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and 50 acres extra cultivation. The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land after report by Homestead Inspector on application for patent.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price, $3 per acre. Duties.—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

Good Work Promptly Executed

BY RADIUM TO THE MOON

Around the World in a Very Few Minutes

M. Ernest Archdeacon, writing of the marvellous progress made in aerial science, expresses the conviction that in a few centuries aerial navigation as we know it will have become as out of date as the horse is to-day as a means of transport. It appears unlikely that flying machines will ever considerably exceed 125 miles an hour. At this rate we should take 200 hours, or a little more than eight days, to make a circuit of the earth. It is evident that we shall soon discover something infinitely better than the aeroplane. It is certain that our children, he says, will girdle the earth (25,000 miles) in a time of which we at present can have no idea. One sees at once what a fantastic revolution this will cause in the world's commerce. All the peoples of the earth will then form a sole and single nation.

"According to the mathematical calculations of M. Esnault Pelterie," says Archdeacon, "the new means of interplanetary transport will be Jules Verne's cannonball transformed into a continuously self-propelling rocket. The problem is to give this rocket a self-contained velocity of 11 kilometres (nearly seven miles) a second, which would be sufficient for it to leave the circle of terrestrial attraction. At this velocity our planet could be girdled in 66 minutes, and the journey from Paris to Nice covered in under two minutes.

"There will be no more wars, for our needs will be reduced to a minimum. Esperanto will have become useless, for we shall communicate by the transmission of thought through space. To terminate my anticipation I am convinced that in a certain number of centuries the inhabitants of all the planets will have made acquaintance with one another, and I forsee the day when a world's interplanetary congress will be held."

UNABLE TO SPEAK ENGLISH

Foreigners Who Have Lived Years in London Still Without the Key

That a man should live 27 years in London and still be unable to speak English seems astonishing, yet it was an admission made by an Italian tradesman in a London police court the other day. The incident throws an interesting sidelight on the number of aliens resident in the capital of the empire, and it is estimated of these foreigners no fewer than 5,000 cannot speak English. Aliens for the most part, affect a particular district to live in—Chinamen for instance inhabit Limehouse; Italians Saffron Hill; French, Soho; and Germans, Tottenham Court road. As they dwell among their own countrymen, many of them find they can jog along successfully without being called on to master the intricacies of English grammar. For example there is an Italian greengrocer in Newington, who is doing an extensive business, and yet can only say "Yes" and "No" in the English tongue. He has conducted his business there for nearly ten years, but a remarkable fact, however, is that he understands thoroughly the value of English money. A prominent police officer recently testified that in the east end, Saffron Hill, and other parts of London there are practically foreign towns. As a rule, the people there engage in trade with others of their own nationality. They, therefore, find it unnecessary to trouble to learn more than a few stray words. When a more liberal knowledge of English is demanded, they obtain the services of an interpreter, and there are hundreds of men who will act in that capacity, in the poorer districts, for a few coppers.

Postman's Mileage

A postman named Mr. T. Anderson, who has had charge of deliveries in the rural area of Carlisle, gave some statistics of the ground he had covered in acknowledging a presentation made to him on his retirement. Mr. Anderson stated that during his thirty-six years' service he had walked a total distance of 133,600 miles. His periodical crossing of the wide bridge spanning the Eden at Carlisle had amounted in the aggregate to 6,000 miles.

Few Old Maids in Japan

According to the statistics of the Japanese Blue Book, there are very few Japanese women who do not marry. The majority of Japanese girls marry at twenty-one years of age. The men usually marry at twenty-six, but marriage at the age of fifteen is not unknown. Practically every Japanese man who does not join a Buddhist monastery marries. The old bachelor and the old maid are almost unknown in the land of the chrysanthemum.

For Sunday's Supper

An excellent supper dish is made of one pint of macaroni measured after boiling, which is about one-third of a package, one-half pint of stewed tomatoes, to which are added two bouillon cubes, one gill of grated rich cheese, two tablespoons of chipped bacon and one of bacon fat, one tablespoonful of minced onion, one tablespoonful of chopped parsley; salt and pepper to taste. Rub a baking dish with bacon fat, mix all ingredients thoroughly, put them into the baking dish, brown in a hot oven. This is satisfactory served with graham toast.

WASTE OF WATER

A Comparison of North American Cities With European

That the per capita consumption of water in most cities of North America is inordinately high, can be shown by a comparison with centres of population in Europe. The tables below give figures taken from representative cities on both sides of the Atlantic, and furnish a good basis for such a comparison. The figures are Imperial gallons per day.

Average	35.5

It will be seen from the above that the average consumption per head in America is between three and four times what it is in Europe. This tremendous difference can only be accounted for by assuming that the greater portion of the water consumed in New World cities is simply wasted. A consumption of 50 gallons per head per day ought to be ample for all purposes, and would still be about 43 per cent greater than the European average. Taking the American average as 150 gallons, we see that cities on this side of the Atlantic are using 100 gallons per head per day more than is necessary.

USE THE "TRIMMINGS"

Beef Tenderloin—Part of it should go in the soup kettle. The lean meat will help out a vegetable casserole dish for dinner.

French Chops—To eight "trimmings" add one pound of meat from neck. Serve with dumplings. A fine dinner dish for five people.

Mutton Stew, Breast—The "trimmings" for this will make mutton broth with barley. The famous home dish of Scotland.

Roast Beef, Best Cut—The "trimmings" can be served as short ribs, or stripped from the bone and run through the meat grinder and made into Hamburg steak or croquettes.

Roast Beef, Chuck—"Trimmings" make a splendid beef casserole.

Pork Roast and Chops—Pork "trimmings" can be put through the grinder and used with veal for veal loaf. If very fat, part of the fat can be fried out for lard, and the remainder can be put into the "soap fat" bottle.

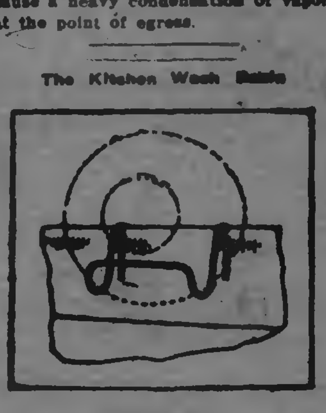
NATURAL GASOLINE

A White Well Was Struck in Alberta Province

A "white oil" was struck in an oil well at Black Diamond near Okotoks, Alberta. It consisted largely of gasoline of such purity that it has been successfully used in its raw state for driving an automobile. At a higher horizon in this well, a flow of 2,000,000 cubic feet of gas per day was obtained. There are two hundred plants in the United States making gasoline from natural gas. The yield is determined largely by the quantity of liquid paraffin vapors in the permanent gases, and is further affected by the temperature conditions in the well, the gasoline content of the oil and the intimateness of contact between the oil and gas. Such rapid expansion of gas from a casing head has been known to occur as to cause a heavy condensation of vapors at the point of egress.

The Kitchen Wash Basin



If there is a wash basin in your kitchen the chances are you are compelled to look for it every time you want to use it. That is the way it usually is. Why not fix things so that the basin is kept in the same place—and that place right alongside the sink? Get a length of heavy wire—ordinary bale wire will do—and bend it in the shape shown in the drawing. The basin rests in that hook all the time.

Consumption Must Be Prevented Rather Than Cured.

STAMP OUT THE INFECTION.

Unless the Germs of the Disease in the Habitation, Whether It Be House or Tent, Are Utterly Destroyed Fresh Air and "Cures" Avail Little.

There is no cure for tuberculosis, and probably never will be, accepting the word "cure" in the sense of some special medicine. A disease prevented is better than cured, for no one is so well off physically or financially after any illness, and particularly does this truth apply to tuberculosis. The successful prevention of a disease does away with any need for its "cure." This is well exemplified in the case of yellow fever. We have never succeeded in finding a cure for that former scourge of the south, but we have done far better. We have wiped out the disease bodily, bag and baggage, by simple preventive methods.

So writes Dr. F. C. Walsh in the Technical World Magazine, and he declares that notwithstanding the "optimists," the disease is on the increase. He singles out and lays great stress on the fact that consumption is a contagious disease and on the contention that it is not contracted to any great extent through infected milk or even by the using the drinking cups that consumptives use or through the "spitting nuisance." Its spread is through the infection of the habitation. Here is one of his parables:

Brown had moved in the month of May into a house in another part of the town where he had always lived. By fall he had contracted tuberculosis. It was discovered later that several different families who had occupied this same house in succession had lost several members from tuberculosis. No attempt had ever been made to disinfect the house. Brown went to a far western state, pitched his tent on a certain spot, and never made any change from that one spot until his death. Note that fact. As a result the soil over which he slept night after night became saturated with the accumulated germs which he expelled in coughing, so that he was continually at night rebreathing into his system the very "seeds" which cause the disease. He was repoisoning himself nightly and didn't know it. His system would have been able to throw off the original "germ poison" which it contracted, but it was not strong enough to withstand a new dose of the poison every night. Had he changed the location of his tent daily he could have slept each night in an atmosphere practically germ free.

Jones is another victim. He goes to the same state. He has an idea that he can get along without any tent and sleeps with only the stars above, rolled up in his blanket. He naturally moves from place to place, each day sleeping on new and different ground each night. He ends by being cured.

Smith has the disease and goes to the west. He feels and looks in perfect health long before a year is gone. He returns home, satisfied that he is cured. In less than four months he is again in the tenacious clutches of the disease.

There is a lesson in this. The open air treatment is all right, but it must be carried out by right methods. All early cases of consumption which have failed to recover by outdoor treatment must lay the blame to faulty treatment. Jones, who recovered, you will remember, did change his location every day, having no tent to bother him, and in doing so avoided the fatal mistake of Brown.

How about Smith? The case of Smith is of the greatest importance. He had recovered, you will remember, and returned to his home feeling fine—back to what? To the very same plague ridden room in which he had first contracted the disease—a room reeking with tubercular germ life and which had been occupied, it was learned later, by five different consumptives at various times. The disease got a hold on him a second time for the simple reason that he came back to the original source of his disease. He should have sought new quarters, or else the house, and particularly the room he occupied, should have been disinfected before being occupied by him or any one else. These three cases cited are but typical instances. There are thousands upon thousands of Browns, Joneses and Smiths living and dying this very day whose story, if told in its true light, would match exactly the simple but pathetic history of these three men.

The thing that the doctor brings out is that consumption must be prevented rather than cured; that prevention is easy and cheap and lies in disinfection. This, in the case of the consumptive's quarters, he insists, should be at least once a week. The formula is simple: "Fumigate every room in the house with a vapor given off by heating formaldehyde; wash all the floors, windows and woodwork with mild solutions of corrosive sublimate and water." Fresh air, either at home or elsewhere, he establishes, is in itself insufficient.

He reaches the conclusion that the very existence of the hope of a "cure" has been responsible for increase of the disease. He urges people to flee from consumption by killing it in the germ that lurks in house or ground.

Sure on One Point.

"Do you believe that great wealth has a tendency to keep a man out of heaven?" queried the party who was addicted to the conundrum habit.

"I am not prepared to express an opinion on that subject," answered the student of human nature, "but I know that great wealth has kept many a man out of the penitentiary."—Chicago News.

Stuttered Out the Child's Name.

Flannery—It seems his full name is Dinnis K. K. K. Casey. What's all thim K's fur? Finnegan — Nothin'. 'Twas the fault of his godfather stutterin' whin he tried to say "Dinnis Casey."—Philadelphia Ledger.

From the Barber's Standpoint.

An applicant for citizenship went with a citizen before Judge Chatfield in the United States district court in Brooklyn the other day. "Are you sure this man will make a good American?" asked the court of the witness. The witness was sure. "Why?" asked the court. "Because," answered the witness, "I have shaved him for ten years."

SUITED TO ALL HOURS OF THE DAY IS THIS USEFUL LITTLE FROCK

A frock that combines a suggestion of both suit and dress is useful in any wardrobe. It is excellent for traveling, for shopping or for little informal afternoon affairs. Bedford cord, ratine, duvetyn or the ever favored hard-finished serge are all suitable. A very nifty little frock displayed in one of the smart shops the other day was of hard finish serge in dark blue, combined with black satin. A wide, soft girdle of the black satin added just the necessary soft touch that completed the frock. The model illustrated in 8211, is of dark gray sponge with a frill of net at the throat and a cluster of softly colored chiffon flowers at the belt. A straight three-piece skirt with a shaped tunic and a drop-shouldered bodice, closing surplice fashion, makes a delightfully simple costume but one that combines many of the effective touches of the season.

This design may be copied in size 36 with 6⅝ yards of 36 inch material. Sponge averages 40 inches in width and may be purchased from $1.50 per yard up.

The small dress shown in number 8226, is a long waisted blouse dress; the kilted skirt is of serge and the blouse of cotton crepe with a tiny colored figure.

For a child of twelve, this little dress requires 4½ yards of 36 inch material.

Number 8211—sizes 34 to 44.
Number 8226—sizes 8 to 14.
Each pattern 15 cents.

During Home Pattern Week, February 26 to 28, Pattern Number 8211 Will Be Sent Free of Charge With the Compliments of This Paper to Any One Sending a 2c Stamp with Name, Address and Size to F. R. Dunn, No. 3, 615 West 43 St., New York City.

INTERESTING TO A DEGREE ARE THE NEW SILKS

Our American silks are as near perfection as possible both in texture and design. Paris acknowledges this, and some of the latest creations of Poiret are being developed in the American product. The designs, however, are Poiret's own; there are stripes and quaint figures, flower and animal motifs more realistic than conventional and for that reason unusually striking. The color combinations are brilliant to a degree, but artistically pleasing.

Number 8213 is an attractive model for a figured silk; here it is fashioned of one of the new moired taffetas that promise to be so popular the coming season.

These silks are wide, averaging 40 inches and range in price from $1.25 up.

To make this dress in size 36 it requires 5 yards of 42 inch material.

In number 8228 is shown the effectiveness of a contrasting blouse and skirt. This combination promises to be greatly favored; it is economical as well as becoming.

This costume may be copied for a girl of sixteen with 4½ yards of 36 inch material.

Number 8213—sizes 34 to 42.
Number 8228—sizes 14 to 18.
Each pattern 15 cents.

During Home Pattern Week, February 26 to 28, Pattern Number 8213 Will Be Sent Free of Charge With the Compliments of This Paper to Any One Sending a 2c Stamp with Name, Address and Size to F. R. Dunn, No. 3, 615 West 43 St., New York City.

DRY IRRITATING HACK OF BRONCHITIS INSTANTLY RELIEVED BY "CATARRHOZONE"

NO FAILURE, CURE IN EVERY CASE, TREATED BY CATARRHOZONE

Catarrhozone can't fail to cure Bronchitis; its so healing, soothing and balsamic that every trace of the disease flies before it. When you inhale the pure piney vapor of Catarrhozone, you send healing medication to the spots that are diseased and sore.

Isn't it rational to apply medicine where the disease exists? Certainly! and that's why Catarrhozone is so successful; it goes where the trouble really is, gets where a spray of ointment can't penetrate. For the relief and complete cure of bronchitis, asthma, catarrh, throat trouble, we guarantee Catarrhozone in every case. You don't take medicine—you don't take drowsy drugs—just breathe the balsamic essences of Catarrhozone; it does the rest safely and surely.

"For three years I was seriously bothered by a bronchial cough. At night I would awaken with a dry, irritable feeling in my throat. I couldn't cough up anything, but very soon coughed my throat into quite an inflamed condition. Once I got Catarrhozone Inhaler I was all right. I took it to bed, and if an attack awakened me a few minutes use of the inhaler gave me relief. Catarrhozone has cured me and I strongly urge everyone with a weak throat to use it regularly.

(Signed) J. B BEAMER,
Reading.

Catarrhozone will not disappoint you. Get the complete $1.00 outfit; it's guaranteed. Small size 50c; trial or sample size 25c, at dealers everywhere.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Presbytery was held here yesterday at Knox church, with Rev. Mr. Brown, of Omemee, presiding over the gathering, which was one of the most successful and satisfactory held in the history of the Presbytery.

Local Market Improvements.

Some important changes will be effected if suggestions, regarding the market, made by Sanitary Inspector Spence to the Board of Health yesterday morning, come into effect after the consideration of the Property Committee to which they were referred.

A Unique Political Apointment

Port Hope Guide: Mr. R. E. Southby has been appointed as Clerk in the Customs Office to succeed the late James F. Honor. The appointment will meet with the approval of both political parties and we are very fortunate in securing such an efficient man for the position.

Monaghan Farmer Gets Coin.

Application for probate in the will of Robert M. Ferguson, who died in Erie, Pa., a few months ago, was entered yesterday at the Surrogate Court by Mr. Joseph Wearing. The deceased left an estate to the extent of $16,000 to a wealthy uncle John Rutherford, a farmer residing in South Monaghan.

To Consult Belleville Tories

Yesterday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Lowry, of Downie street, left for Belleville, where they will be the guests of Mr. Lowry's mother. Whilst in Belleville, Mr. Lowry, who is a life long Conservative, will consult with the leaders of his party in that city.

Local Firm Gets Big Order.

Among the orders recently received by J. J. Turner and Sons was a fairly large one from the Militia Department for 150 big marquee tents. The contract involves $20,000 worth and will add a share of industry to one of the local factories that is always on the hum. These tents are to be used by the Canadian Militia.

Grosbeaks at Lindsay.

Lindsay Warder: "What is supposed to be the Cardinal Gros Beak, an American bird, has made its appearance in Lindsay. There are several species of Gros Beak, this kind being especially noticeable owing to their magnificent plumage." The Grosbeak is a shy bird and loves quiet surroundings.

Local Journalistic Enterprise.

An E. E. C. of last night has discovered that Mr. A. P. Pousette, K.C., formerly of this city, is residing in London, Eng.. This shows that our E. E. Contemporary is waking up. The gentleman referred to has only lived in London for the past 31 months. Still this displays a spirit of progress in displaying this piece of ancient history. It was some thirty months ago that the Times gave this interesting bit of local news.

Cleverest Animal Act Seen Here.

The cleverest animal act ever put on the boards of this cityi is now on at the Princess Theatre. One feature of this show is, with clever dogs surrounding the mimic arena, are that squirrels cross a tight rope. A rat crosses the same wire. Half way across the rope bridge, the rodent meets a Tom cat. Does that Tom cat eat the rat? Not on your life, gentle reader. The cat kisses the rat and steps carefully over it. The whole show is clever.

"Prayer."

There was a large attendance last night at Park street Baptist Church, to hear Evangelist Pugsley, who gave a very interesting discourse on the subject of "Prayer." He compared it to a letter, in order to insure reaching its destination and receiving an answer. Four points of which were: 1st, Pure Thought; 2nd, Properly Addressed; 3rd Right Spirit; 4th, Stamp and Seal of the Holy Spirit. The Park street Male Quartette rendered splendid music, as did Mr. Mulligan.

HUDSON Six Upkeep Less Than a Four

At one time all Sixes were big, powerful, extravagant. Now we build them in smaller sizes, and by a different method. Thus we have secured all the wonderful advantage of six cylinders, yet have not increased the gasoline consumption. A HUDSON Six will cost you less for gasoline, oil, tires and general upkeep than will a Four of equal power. In a score of contests we have proved this under average road conditions.

Until you drive a HUDSON Six you cannot realize its great advantage. Its smoothness and flexibility are an insurance as well as a delight. HUDSON Sixes are preferred because of high quality combined with moderate price. The Six-54 has four forward speeds, 135-inch wheel-base, motor 4½ x 5½, developing 55 horse-power. Made in Phaeton at $2950 and Sedan at $4050. The Six-40 has 123-inch wheel-base, motor 3½ x 5, developing 47 horse-power, gives 13 to 17 miles to the gallon of gasoline, and is, we think, the easiest riding car on the market. The Six-40 in Phaeton and Roadster at $2300, and in Cabriolet at $2575. All cars, of course, are electrically started and lighted, left side drive, center control, gasoline tank in cowled dash. FIXING ESTIMATES THE ROCK ON WHICH COMMITTEES SPLIT

Rather Warm Atmosphere in Council's Committee Rooms Last Night--$29,250 Carried as Board Of Works Appropriation for 1914--The Mayor, Ald Green, Stratton and Johnston Measure Swords---Deadlock for a While

Unfortunately the estimates for City Council requirements are proving a rock upon which the committees split evenly, thus forming a deadlock, only to be broken after somewhat agressive discussion. A repetition of Tuesday evening's meeting of the Fire, Water & Light Committee occurred last night, when the Board of Works took up for the third time their estimates for the department's requirements this year. As on Tuesday night, the divisions on paring down were equal each party held firm for some time and the discussion was of too heated a nature to engender a harmonious decision.

THE ESTIMATES FOR THE BOARD OF WORKS.

The original estimates submitted by City Engineer Parsons upon which to base this years appropriation for the Board of Works were as follows:

ESTIMATES.

Approaches	$50.00
Board of Works	750.00
Board of Works horses	425.00
Bridges—County and repairs	650.00
Concrete walks, maintenance	150.00
Crossings	200.00
Culverts	300.00
Flagging railway crossings	750.00
General street work	2,500.00
Grading and water tabling	1,000.00
Gravel	4,500.00
Office supplies	350.00
Opening water courses	300.00
Protection wall Murray St. creek	500.00
Salaries	7,000.00
Sanding walks	200.00
Sewage pumping station	400.00
Stone	4,500.00
Street cleaning	2,500.00
Surface drains	2,500.00
Trimming trees	200.00
Weeds and grass cutting	200.00
Wooden walks repairs	600.00
	$31,925.00

SUPPLEMENTARY LIST.

Boundar roads	$450.00
Street signs	200.00
Painting bridges and railways	150.00
Water wagon	350.00
Repairs to water waggon	125.00
Smith St. bridge at Jackson Park	120.00
Cement testing apparatus	225.00
Bonaccord St. foot bridge	190.00
	$1810.00

Regular list	$31,925.00
Supplementary list	1,810.00
Total	$33,735.00

His worship Mayor Buller urged the following paring of the above: $1500 off gravel, $1500 off stone, and $2000 off surface drains—a total of $5000, reducing the appropriation $28,735, an increase of but $235 over the appropriation last year of $28,500. The Mayor took the ground that practically the same appropriation as last year would carry the department over 1914. A storm drainage system for west and south city he promised to go into this year, and until the installation of same and construction of some needed sewers on many streets in those wards, it would be a waste of money to take up extensive permanent road work. Hence $3000 might well be eliminated from above estimates for stone and gravel. Then as the storm drainage system would be paid for by debentures that would conveniently permit the elimination of $2000 from the estimate for surface drains.

This last cut was readily allowed on the understanding that the permanent storm drainage scheme be taken up this year as proposed by the Mayor; but Ald. Green and Stratton both agreed that it would be short-sighted policy to make any further cuts in the estimates as the Board must have a reasonable working appropriation in the interests of the city generally.

Ald. Green, while approving of the storm drainage scheme strongly advanced that, permanent improvements or not, some streets in West and South City are in a shameful condition and must be treated at least temporarily this year. Hence, he argued that it would be a great mistake to cut $3000 off the estimates for gravel and stone.

Ald. Johnston sided with his worship and offered that an appropriation of $28,500, same as last year, would answer 1914s requirements. Incidentally, he remarked that were the Board to spend $40,000 there would still be something left undone.

Ald. Johnston and Saunders here moved that the appropriation be $28,500, as last year.

Ald. Green and Stratton moved in amendment that the appropriation for this year be $30,000.

The division on the amendment ment went as follows:

Ayes—Ald. Stratton, Green Anderson and Duncan.

Nays—Ald. Duffus, the Mayor, Saunders and Johnston.

The division on the original motion resulted in the same division only reversed, and Ald. Stratton attempted to break the deadlock by moving, seconded by Ald. Green, that the appropriation be $29,999. (Laughter).

This was not taken seriously, although Ald. Stratton asserted that he meant the resolution for division.

Ald. Anderson thought the Mayor's suggested paring of $5000 would cut a little too deep to leave the Board workable financially; and he moved that the appropriation be $29,500 The seconder was Ald. Green.

This vote was tied in the same division as before, the Chairman naturally casting his vote always in favor of the maximum appropriation before the Board.

The Mayor here suggested retiring, as the committee apparently could not agree, but this Ald. Duncan protested against, urging that the estimates be settled.

His worship—"They will have to go to Council any way, and perhaps a decision can then be reached.

Ald. Anderson wanted the estimates now so as to prepare the rate for Council's action.

Ald. Green—Well, let us split the difference. I'll move that the estimates be $29,250.

At Ald. Green's solicitation Ald. Saunders seconded this.

Ald. Johnston did not like the situation, he said. "The matter has been practically settled several times already, and we are wasting our valuable time. (He referred to the chairman having on each occasion cast his vote with Ald. Green, Stratton and Anderson, to force a tie.)

Ald. Green here jumped to his feet, and exclaimed in some heat, "What do you mean? No resolution has been yet carried."

Ald. Johnston—"What's the matter with you? I am just as much interested in this city and Council as you are and have as much right to my opinion. Youi as a new comer must not think that the rest of us who do not think with you do not know beans." Ald. Johnston here intimated that he did not like Ald. Green's attitude in inveigling Ald. Saunders to second his resolution to force the particular views of he and his caterie upon the remainder of committee.

The Mayor contended that Ald. Johnston was quite correct and considered it not right of Ald. Green to endeavor to force his own opinion upon others, and then fly off the handle if not successful in his purpose. "I have been defeated many times and had to accept defeat cheerfully."

Ald. Stratton here remarked that his worship got considerably rattled when the last deputation waited upon Council.

Ald. Green's last resolution here carried on the following vote:

Yeas—Ald. Green, Saunders, Stratton, Anderson and the Chairman.

Nays—Ald. Duffus Johnston and the Mayor.

The Board will consequently recommend that Council fix their appropriation at $29,250. $750 more than last year.

$4485 was consequently cut off the original estimates as follows:

$2000 from surface drainage and $2485 from stone and gravel.

PARTING SHOT.

On leaving this subject, Ald. Johnston remarked that the experience of the evening is disagreeable and not conducive of harmony. "What he had done and sa,d had been in the best of spirit and he regretted Ald. Green's aggressive attitude. He (Ald. Johnston) had made no move in a resentful way at all. He thought the appropriation might well have been reduced to that of last year in contemplation of permanent work to avoid further repetition of the old mistaken policy of putting surfaces on roads in the spring and scraping them off in the fall.

THE ATTENDANCE.

There were present Chairman Ald. Duncan presiding, Mayor Buller, Aldermen Stratton, Green, Duffus, Johnston, Saunders, Anderson and City Engineer Parsons.

BACK ACCOUNTS.

A bill from the Gas Co. for $63.54 was to hand. This account is for breaking an inch pipe twice and the loss of 35,000 cubic feet of gas during the construction of a new sewer service to Nicholls Hospital, in Dec., 1912. The company claims the gas pipe was broken by laying the sewer in question, which work was done by request of the Hospital Board, who had agreed to defray cost of constructing the sewer. Another phase of the situation is a question arises whether the break was made by the waterworks men, who, it is said, were working there at the time or the corporation's men.

The Gas Co. (Peterborough Light & Power Co.) has another account of $10.40 aga,nst the city for repairing a break in the gas main at the corner of Dalhousie and George streets by the city's men; also $9.31 for repairing another break at corner of George and Hunter streets, caused by steam roller, during pavement work; and, again, another bill of $5 for thawing out work together with $42.23 for removing polls at Babb's Lane when street was being widened.

The paving contractor will have to pay for repairing the Hunter-George street break.

The other accounts went to the Mayor, Chairman and City Engineer to investigate and report at next weekly meeting, with a view to reaching a clean sheet

NO MINIMUM WAGE.

The Trades and Labor Council petitioned that for 1914 corporation laborers be paid 25c an hour for a nine hour day.

Ald. Green's impression is that men should be paid according to their ability, the City Engineer and the workmen to make their own bargain. There are some elderly men whom it s desirable to employ on the streets, in their own interests, who know they cannot earn $2.25 a day and do not expect it. He did not approve of a standard wage and thought a man should be paid as much as he can earn; there may be some on the sidewalk gang, for instance, who are worth more than $2.25 a day, and some worth less.

His worship thought the Trades and Labor Council understood that some corporation men employed on inferior work could not be expected to be affected by a minimum wage of $2.25 a day.

Ald. Johnston concurred in this view, and eulogized the men employed on concrete sidewalk work as a good staff, worth the minimum wage of 25c an hour.

Ald. Duffus moved, seconded by Ald. Saunders, that the communication be acknowledged and the Trades and Labor Council informed of the difficulty in establishing a minimum wage by reason of it being necessary at times to employ old and infirm men on corporation work who cannot earn the wage.

300 GALLON GASOLINE TANK.

The Canadian Oil Co. applied for permission to install a 300 gallon gasoline tank beneath sidewalk and road at 160 Charlotte street. Mr. Gerald Rackham is the local manager.

On motion of Ald. Johnston and Green, this matter went to the City Engineer to report.

RESTRICTION OF TIME FOR SELLING LIQUOR

A bill has been introduced in the Ontario Legislature to amend the Liquor License Act, as follows:

1.—Section 50 of The Liquor Licence Act is amended by striking out the words "from or after the hour of seven of the clock in the afternoon of Saturday" in the fifth and sixth lines, and inserting in lieu thereof the words "from or after the hour of twelve of the clock, noon, on Saturday."

2.—The clause lettered "b" in Section 51 of the said Act is amended by striking out the words "during Christmas Day at the commencement of the clause and inserting in lieu thereof the words "During any legal holiday."

WAS COLLUSION SAYS BURNHAM

Efforts to Probe Trent Canal Scandal Resulted in Warnings From Ottawa

Ottawa, Mar. 11.—What will be done regarding the Trent Valley Canal scandal is in the absence of the minister of railways and canals, mere conjecture. "It is certain of course that there will be a clean out of the gang that have been employed on the canal, for they were all in it," said Mr. Burnham, M.P. for Peterborough, to-night. But whether there will be prosecutions depends on the minister. He is known to feel the matter keenly, and he is in no mood for half measures.

Only the fringe of the huge graft that was going on has been touched. Immense sums have disappeared and have found their way into the campaign and other funds of the Liberal party, it is believed.

Mr. Burnham states that he found collusion at the Ottawa end while he was himself attempting to probe the affair. No sooner had he sought for any information at the department here than McClellan was warned by telephone.

Mr. Burnham cited the interesting case of a young fellow who was employed on the canal. Meeting him one day with his dinner pail and walking with a swinging gait, he said to Mr. Burnham, "Thank God, I am now earning an honest living. We were all in it, but I'm glad I'm out of it. We had all degenerated."

The affair has caused exceptional interest in Ottawa. It is something people can understand better than the millions that were swallowed up needlessly by N.T.R. contractors.

THE WEATHER.

To-day—Fair and a little higher temperature.

MR. BURNHAM ON SMOKING

His Remarks When Cigarette Bill Came Up for Discussion

When Mr. A. Broder's resolution came before the House of Commons in regard to cigarettes, Mr. Burnham spoke as follows:

Does the mover of this resolution include pipe smoking in his resolution? From a word or two which he dropped during the course of his remarks, I fancy that he does. He says it is hard for the mother to chasten the children when the father sits in the corner smoking—not necessarily cigarettes. Whilst, of course, everybody agrees that the excessive use of cigarettes, like the excessive use of anything, may result in grave injury, I do not know that we are prepared to go as far as the words "or any substitute therefor" in the fourth line of the resolution. I have looked up the various authorities on the subject, and I find that the word "substitute" in this case certainly does not mean that what is used in the place and stead of cigarette shall be in the form of a cigarette. It may be a pipe, and if these words refer to the pipe, then this is a very serious resolution. I do not think the people of this country are prepared to abolish the pipe. In speaking about it to the hon. gentleman himself, I asked him, as I did not wish to take him by surprise, what he thought about it. Well, he said, if it means that, let it all go. He does not smoke himself, so he does not care, but I say that a great many people in this country are not injured by smoking; they enjoy their pipe, and would be greatly injured if they did not have it. Whilst it is a well known fact that no athletic trainer will continue to train any one who smokes cigarettes, because of their effect upon the heart, the same thing does not follow in regard to the pipe. You will observe, Mr. Speaker, that the Ten Commandments have gone by the board. The hon. gentleman does not refer to them; he does not think that the ten or even the eleven commandments are enough. For myself, I am inclined to think that the eleven commandments are enough. Whilst the Chinese and the Japanese, who have somewhat similar methods of enforcing their ideas, may proceed to administer five or six thousand blows with a bamboo for every infraction of an edict, are we to say that the whole principle of moral suasion should be abandoned in Canada because the moral ground on which the good seed is sown is so sterile that it is no longer fit and proper soil for the cultivation of good principles? Are we to have no other recourse but to put offenders in prison, hammer them, punish them or confine them? Is it no longer possible to show them the evil of their ways and to beseech them to be men, that they may exert that self-control which alone makes a man? or are they simply going about as trees walking, are they to be clothed in the garments of men, but not clothed in their right minds. We are going to work up in this country, unfortunately, it seems to me, a lot of weak-kneed individuals, people who must be led around by the ear, or else they will not do what is right. I have the utmost contempt for the silly boy or girl who must be fed with a spoon or out of a bottle until probably he or she is twenty-one years of age. That kind of rot ought to be done away with, and if it is necessary to re-introduce the methods of our friend King Solomon, we will introduce them. But it cannot be said that all of the good women who are urging on the hon. gentleman who is the mover of this resolution, have exercised, in the matter of dress, an example of the self-control which we should have wished for: and I have no hesitation in saying that if they would reform themselves in that particular they would do as much good as ever they will do by asking us to give up our pipe and tobacco. These things can be carried too far. Mind you, I must not be construed as speaking in favour of the cigarette. I am well aware that it has done immense damage, and that possibly it may have to be repressed just as opium smoking in China has had to be repressed. At the same time we must not think that the panacea is to be found in universal repression; we must exercise some common sense and some self-control if we are to evolve into the highest type of manhood.

GIVING ULSTER TIME TO THINK MATTER OVER

London, March 11.—To give Ulster and the Unionist Opposition sufficient time to digest Prime Minister Asquith's proposed "local option" compromise on Home Rule for Ireland, the continuation of the debate on the selfgovernment measure to-day was indefinitely postponed in the House of Commons.

The Home Rule bill, which yesterday was called up for second reading and debate, will not again be on the calender until the Unionists indicate their decision on the Government's concessions.

GOOD WORK FOR MISSIONS

Interesting Meeting of the George Street Church Society

The Missionary Auxiliary of George street church met in regular monthly meeting on Tuesday afternoon with the President, Mrs. Kendry, in the chair. After singing "I love to tell the story," Mrs. Campbell led in earnest prayer in which all were lifted heavenward.

Mrs. Moore, the district organizer, from the Charlotte street Auxiliary, read the second chapter of Ephesians. It was ordered that a letter of sympathy be sent to Mrs. Mansell. The President announced that the Auxiliary will have charge of the Wednesday evening prayer meeting on March 11th, when lantern slides on missionary views of the work in China will be explained by Mr. Peever. Arrangements were made for a St. Patrick's Day "At-Home," to be held at the residence of Mrs. Kendry, 754 Water street, on Tuesday, March 17th, from 4 to 6.30, when a collection will be taken in aid for the Memorial Fund for the late Mrs. Platt, who was for years President of the Bay of Quinte Branch. It is expected that $600 will be raised by the Branch, which will go toward a ward in the new Chentu Hospital in China.

Mrs. Peever, with Mrs. Armstrong, as alternate, was chosen delegate to the Branch meeting to be held in Trenton on the second Tuesday in June. After singing the hymn "All Hail the Power of Jesus Name," the President led in Prayer. Mrs. Allison led the reading of Scripture passages on Knowledge. Envelopes for the Easter Thankoffering were distributed.

Mrs. Armstrong, leader of the study class, then took charge of the program on the annual report and told of the beginning of the Woman's Missionary Society, thirty-three years ago and its growth. She urged the members to study mission work in order to build Christian character in its highest sense. She then called on different members of the society who in turn gave very interesting bits of information regarding the work of the society, in China, Japan and Northwest among the Indians, and Quebec, among the French, and the Indians, and especially in the Crosby Home for girls, among the Austrians of Alberta, the Orientals of British Columbia and the Italians of Toronto. This exercise was most interesting and the large number attending felt that they had learned something of the annual report.

After singing the doxology, dainty refreshments were served by the study class and a social half hour was spent

WOMEN FOR THE KLONDYKE

Bishop Stringer Thinks 5,000 Could Exert Fine Influence in the Klondyke.

London, Mar. 11.—"I would like to ship five thousand women directly to Klondyke if they were the right sort," declared Bishop Stringer, of Yukon, at the Mansion House to-day. "A good many years ago I persuaded one woman to go to the most distant Arctic point. That woman happened to be my wife, and I consider her influence was more beneficial in that quarter than that of several men."

TWO MONTREAL POLICEMEN ARE MURDERED BY FOUR BURGLARS

Fatally Wounded as They Climed Into Sleigh in Which the Robbers Were Fleeing After Robbing Store in Suburb of St. Laurent

Montreal, March 11.—All over the city and in the surrounding suburbs the police are to-day hunting for four burglars, who early this morning shot and killed constable Bourdon and fatally wounded constable Guyon who tried to stop them while they were escaping after robb,ng a butcher shop at St. Laurent. The robbers were in a sleigh.

"Constable Bourdon was shot in the throat and abdomen and died shortly after his admission to the Royal Victoria Hospital. Constable Guyon, the other victim of the desperadoes guns was shot just above the heart and no hope is held out for his recovery.

Receiving word from Chief of Police Lecavalier, of St. Laurent, that burglars in a sleigh were hurring to the city, constable Honore Bourdon and Auguste Guyon, of the Cote des Neiges station, an outlying police beat, started a search. They discovered the burglars and headed them off.

Guyon jumped on to the sleigh and was immediately greeted with a fusillade of shots, several hitting him and causing him to fall to the ground. Bourdon also attempted to stop the sleigh and was shot down.

The first indication the main body of the city police received of the tragedy came quite by accident. A patrol had been sent out, as is the custom every day the workmen at the C.N.R. tunnel are paid, and constables returning in this discovered two men lying in the road.

Taking the men into the patrol the constables drove with all haste to the Cote des Neiges station. A doctor called, saw that the policemen could not live, and he summoned Rev. Father Renaud, who administered the last rites of the church to the two dying officers.

Following this ceremony the wounded men were rushed to the Royal Victoria Hospital, where Bourdon died soon after he was admitted.

The last word heard of the murderers came from a tollgate keeper in the Northern outskirts of the city, who says a red carcels with four men in it aroused him in the early hours of his morning.

A number of posses to scour the country were organized by the city police and detective forces and set out in automobiles and sleighs, but at ten this morning it looked as if the gunmen had made good their escape.

Later three men were taken into custody. The police refused to give the names of the subjects, but they stated that one of the men was withkut doubt one of the four wanted for the murder.

AVIATION IS NOT SO SAFE

Government Satisfaction With British Aeroplanes Seems Premature.

London, Mar. 11.—In recording the three fatalities to British army aviators within two days, the London newspapers say they make a tragic sequel to the congratulations expressed to the country last week by the Secretary for War to the fact that no deaths of army aviators had occurred w.thin a year. The Secretary for War attributed this record to the superior safety of British aeroplanes and declared that flying was now as safe as, or safer than, voyages in submarines.

EVANTUREL OF PRESCOT OUT NOW OF ONTARIO HOUSE

His Threat to Expose Fellow-Members Was Not Carried Out

Toronto, Mar. 11.—Exit Gustave Evanturel. His incident is closed, his threat to expose members of the Ontario Legislature has fallen very flat. The former member from Prescott did not put in an appearance at the House yesterday afternoon, and the curious crowd, the largest by far which has pressed for admittance at any Parliament during the present session of Parliament, heard the matter of his resignation disposed of in twenty-four words. The first proceedings of the afternoon was the very brief announcement of Mr. Speaker Hoyle, and was so short that some entirely missed his remarks.

"I have to inform the House that I am in receipt of the resignation of Mr. Evanturel as member for the County of Prescott," was the only reference he made to that member, and all eyes strayed across the House to the vacant seat of the little French-Canadian. For ten minutes or more the large assembly wondered if the matter was to be allowed to drop, but just before the orders of the day were proceeded with, the Hon. W. J. Hanna, Provincial Secretary, made a vigorous and straightforward denial of the insinuations which Evanturel made against him during his speech before his constituents at Vankleek Hill, that he was a retainer of the Standard Oil Company.

LIFE'S ROAD
Smoothed By Change of Food

Worry is a big load to carry and an unnecessary one. When accompanied by indigestion it certainly is cause for the blues.

But the whole trouble may be easily thrown off and life's road made easy and comfortable by proper eating and the cultivation of good cheer. Read what an Eastern woman says:

"Two years ago I made the acquaintance of Grape-Nuts and have used the food once a day and sometimes twice, ever since.

"At the time I began to use it life was a burden. I was for years afflicted with bilious sick headache, caused by indigestion, and nothing seemed to relieve me.

"The trouble became so severe I had to leave my work for days at a time.

"My nerves were in such a state I could not sleep and the doctor said I was on the verge of nervous prostration. I saw an adv. concerning Grape-Nuts and bought a package for trial.

"What Grape-Nuts has done for me is certainly marvellous. I can now sleep like a child, am entirely free from the old trouble, and have not had a headache in over a year. I feel like a new person. I have recommended it to others. One man I know ate principally Grape-Nuts, while working on the ice all winter, and said he never felt better in his life."

Name given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont. Read "The Road to Wellville" in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

GLYCERIN.

In Many Ways It Is a Most Remarkable Substance.

One of the great advantages of glycerin in its chemical employment is the fact that it neither freezes nor evaporates under any ordinary temperature. No perceptible loss by evaporation has been detected at a temperature less than 200 degrees F., but if heated intensely it decomposes with a smell that few persons find themselves able to endure. It burns with a pale flame, similar to that from alcohol, if heated to about 300 degrees and then ignited. Its nonevaporative qualities make the compound of much use as a vehicle for holding pigments and colors, as in stamping and typewriter ribbons, carbon papers and the like.

If the pure glycerin be exposed for a long time to a freezing temperature it crystallizes with the appearance of sugar candy; but, these crystals being once melted, it is almost an impossibility to get them again into the congealed state. If a little water be added to the glycerin no crystallization will take place, though under a sufficient degree of cold the water will separate and form crystals, amid which the glycerin will remain in its natural state of fluidity. If suddenly subjected to intense cold, pure glycerin will form a gummy mass which cannot be entirely hardened or crystallized. Altogether it is quite a peculiar substance.

The Barbarous Suttee.

Suttee, or the practice of immolating widows on their husband's funeral pyres in India, was first attacked by the British government in 1829. It was on Dec. 4 of that year that Lord William Bentinck carried a resolution in council by which all who abetted suttee were declared guilty of "culpable homicide." In the year 1817 700 widows were burned alive in Bengal alone, but since the passing of the act the practice has entirely died out. Suttee was really a primitive rite, a survival from barbarous times, and not sanctioned by Hindooism, the passage in the Vedas supporting it being a willful mistranslation. But no previous governor had the courage to violate the British tradition of religious toleration. Lord William Bentinck also suppressed thuggism, which made strangling a religious rite to the goddess Kali.

Forget Once in Awhile.

The health of the body as well as of the mind depends upon forgetting. To let the memory of a wrong, of angry words, of petty meanness, linger and rankle in your memory will not only dissipate your mental energy, but it will react upon the body. The secretions will be diminished, digestion impaired, sleep disturbed and the general health suffer in consequence. Forgetting is a splendid mental calisthenic and a good medicine for the body.

THE SARGASSO SEA.

If You See It Lying Around Loose Notify the Geographers.

If any one has seen anything of the Sargasso sea he will confer a great favor upon the geographers by reporting his discovery, says a writer in Success Magazine. For some time there has been a suspicion that this prominent feature of the Atlantic ocean maps and of the stories of old sailors is largely mythical.

A recent Norwegian expedition sent out to search for the Sargasso sea reports a great deal of sea, but very little sargasso. It is true that they discovered a place in the north Atlantic where seaweed is rather common, but as for a mass of marine plants so dense that sailing vessels are held fast in it while the mariners die a lingering death of starvation—there is nothing in it. In fact, these meddlesome Scandinavians hint broadly that there has never been any such place.

If any one will kindly return the Sargasso sea to its proper place in the Atlantic ocean all will be forgiven and no questions asked; otherwise nothing can save this well known phenomenon from going the way of the sea serpent, the mermaid and Dr. Cook's great discovery.

A MASTER OF METAPHOR.

It Must Have Relieved Him to Get This Out of His System.

A water consumer in a certain city, whose supply had been turned off because he wouldn't pay, wrote to the department as follows:

"In the matter of shutting off the water on unpaid bills your company is fast becoming a regular crystallized Russian bureaucracy, running in a groove and deaf to the appeals of reform. There is no use of your trying to impugn the verity of this indictment by shaking your official hands in the teeth of your own deeds.

"If you will persist in this kind of thing a widespread conflagration of the populace will be so imminent that it will require only a spark to let loose the dogs of war in our midst. Will you persist in hurling the cornerstone of our personal liberty to your wolfish hounds of collectors thirsting for its blood? If you persist the first thing you know you will have the chariot of a justly indignant revolution rolling along in our midst and gnashing its teeth as it rolls.

"If your rascally collectors are permitted to continue coming to our doors with unblushing footsteps, with cloaks of hypocritical compunction in their mouths, and compel payment from your patrons this policy will result in cutting the wool off the sheep that lays the golden egg until you have pumped it dry, and then farewell, a long farewell, to our vaunted prosperity."—Everybody's.

SOME IMPORTANT FACTS ABOUT THE SILVER BLACK FOX INDUSTRY

The first Island ranch was started with two pairs of Anticosti Silvers, bought from a trapper for experimental purposes solely, and same proved so successful that the fox industry started to be developed.

In the year 1910 a pair of breeders could be bought for $4,000.00; in 1911 the price went up to $6,000 a pair, during 1912 a pair at $10,000 was considered high but not unusual, and at the time of writing (January 20th, 1914), live breeders can bring any price from $15,000 to $35,000, according to fecundity, and options on the unborn of next year are selling for $12,000 a pair.

About $10,000,000 is said to be invested in the fox industry on Prince Edward Island, showing a gain of over $3,000,000 inside a year.

Official returns for the present year show that the 277 fox ranches on the island contain 899 silver breeding foxes, (441 males and 458 females.) The total number of silver offsprings for 1913 was 703, and the average assessed value was $4,892.53 per fox.

The total valuation of the young silver black foxes for the current year is $3,349,449. The total number of silver foxes in the ranches for 1913 is 1602.

Pelts from ranch-bred Prince Edward Island silver black foxes have sold at the London auction sales as high as $2,626.00.

ASSETS OF THE COMPANY

The Company have TEN PAIRS of high-grade PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND Silver Black Foxes, EIGHT PAIRS are now on the ranch and two pairs of breeders under option are all eligible for registration under the select class "A" of the FOX BREEDERS' ASSOCIATION. These Foxes have been selected with special regard to parentage, and consist of the following well known strains:

Gordon, Dalton, Tuplin, Oulton, Raynor, and Champion. These names are conspicuously prominent in the Fox Industry ranches which, in 1913, paid from 45 p.c. to 900 p.c.

FUTURE POLICY

The Company expects to earn large profits from the sale of these rare black and silver foxes for breeding purposes, while each year a per centage of the production will be retained, placing the Company in a position to pay large dividends from the sale of furs alone. The object of this policy is to place the fur farming industry on a substantial commercial basis.

THE COMPANY'S RANCH

The Company owns outright a fine 211 acre farm with complete farm buildings—one of the most up-to-date ranches on the Island. It has an experienced and highly skilled keeper whose services have largely contributed to the present satisfactory condition of the business

ONLY ONE CLASS OF STOCK

There is only one class of stock fully paid and non-assessable. Every shareholder participates pro rata in all dividends paid by the Company, and the latter has no authority to issue either Preferred Stock or Bonds.

DIVIDENDS DECLARED TO DATE AND STOCK BONUS

From the above it will surely be seen that the R. J. McNEILL BLACK AND SILVER FOX COMPANY, LIMITED, are engaged in business at a most opportune time and under most favorable circumstances. Take into serious consideration that our company is established and that we have the FOXES AND RANCH, and not prospective. YOU ARE ENTITLED TO SEPTEMBER, 1914, DIVIDENDS: you don't have to wait for your dividends until 1915. In 1915 another dividend will be awaiting you

REMEMBER the average cash dividend of the above companies is 175 per cent, and there is absolutely no excuse why we cannot repeat the same.

We offered for public subscription the remaining allotment of $70,000. $30,000 has already been subscribed. $40,000 remains to be sold.

NOTICE.—Should the shares of stock not be allotted, the money paid by you will be refunded by return mail.

SOME PRESS COMMENTS

"Widows" Fox Company Declares a 900 Per Cent. Dividend.

Clerks in the employ of Sinclair & Stewart, a big dry goods house at Summerside, formed a silver fox company in 1910. This Company is popularly referred to as the "Widows" Fox Company, as nearly all the stockholders are women, a dividend of 900 per cent. was their reward.

Three sisters of Alberton, P.E.I., who were employed in the States, sent their spare earnings home two years ago to be invested in the fur farming business and their profits have averaged $15,000 yearly since.

A bookkeeper in the employ of Mr. Fred L. Rogers, the Governor's son, of Alberton, invested $600 three years ago, and is now worth $45,000 directly from this source.

The Rosemount Live Stock Co., Limited, of Alberton, P. W. Turner, treasurer, has paid a dividend of 1000 per cent. this year.

Mr. Frank Hall, clerk at Holman's Limited, received $35,000 from an investment of $600 made in this business three years ago.

Seven clerks and managers in Summerside pooled $500 each in 1910 and purchased a pair of silver foxes for $3,500. The seller, feeling that he had driven a splendid bargain, cared for the pair a year. The first litter consisted seven pups. The seven owners have received $35,000 each dividends since and the pair bought for $3,500 could be sold for $35,000 to-day. Mr. Austin Scales, of St. Eleanors, is a member of this Association —Boston Sunday American, August 31, 1913.

Hints for the Cook

The remnants of chicken can be converted into delicious shortcake. Make the biscuit crust the same as for old fashioned shortcake. Spread the chicken between and pour gravy on the whole.

Tomato sandwiches are made with slices of tomato between buttered bread; spread mayonnaise over the tomato and be sure the sandwiches are not made until just before serving or the bread will become soggy.

When making apple pie the flavor is much improved and the apples will keep in good color if a few drops of lemon juice are squeezed over the apples just before the crust is put on.

Graham gems are made with two cups of graham flour, one tablespoonful of lard, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and salt. Mix stiff with milk.

The secret of flaky pie crust is the use of hot water (not boiling) rather than cold in mixing the dough. If this hint is followed the crust will always be flaky, tender and crisp.

The addition of a little soda mixed with a teaspoonful of corn starch to the cream before pouring it into the tomato mixture will prevent curdling in the making of creamed tomato soup.

Often when boiling eggs the white comes through the shell and spoils the taste of the egg through its appearance. This may be prevented if a teaspoonful of salt is put into the water before boiling.

No matter how much dripping is used, fish when being fried is apt to stick to the pan's bottom. If a tablespoonful of dry salt is put into the pan and rubbed over it it will be found satisfactory.

Cottage cheese makes a tasty filling for sandwiches, especially those of brown bread. Mix cheese with minced nut meats, olives and a little salad dressing.

HEALTHOGRAMS

To get fat, eat more than you absolutely need, sleep long hours and regularly. Do not worry. Be regular in habits and get plenty of fresh air. Do not depend on medicines or fat foods to turn the trick.

Sleep is Nature's great restorer. It is one of the best builders and rebuilders of mind and body. When there is insufficient sleep bills are being contracted which must some day, sooner or later, be paid. Don't think that, because there are no immediate signs, an account is not being kept.

The best hair tonic in the world is persistent care. Occupations or environment which disturb the nervous system are likely to show a direct effect upon the hair. If you are doing that kind of work or are in that sort of environment look out for your hair. Take care of it.

People who live much in the open air seldom have colds. Breathing foul, heavy air is one of the chief causes of bronchial troubles. Open the windows and let in the sunshine and the ozone. Few people are suffering from an overdose of fresh air.

Eyes cross because the muscle which turns the eyes in is stronger than the one that turns them out. Sometimes the condition is temporary and is due to tire or illness. Rest and recuperation cure these cases. Usually muscles are out of balance because of difference in strength. Operation cures these cases. No medicine cures.

The best spring tonic consists of proper food, proper exercise and plenty of fresh air. Spring vegetables and fruits are important in making up the spring diet. This plan is much better than relying on medicines.

Rugs are far better from the sanitary standpoint and from the easy house cleaning standpoint than the tack-down carpet, in a house. Dirt collects under the carpet which is only taken up semi-annually and where there is a mass of dust there may be chance of disease breeding. Get the rug habit.

A woman is penny wise and pound foolish who shuts out the sunshine by pulling down the shades in order to prevent her carpets and her furniture from fading. Faded cheeks are more to be feared than faded furniture. Let the sunlight in.

That children with adenoids are frequently backward is a fact. There are two important reasons: The adenoids and enlarged tonsils and enlarged lymph glands. Constant absorption of bacteria from nose, teeth and mouth make them so. The children are chemically poisoned.

Removing Fruit Stains

Fruit stains on tablecloths can usually be removed by stretching the stained part across a basin and pouring boiling water, to which a little borax has been added, directly on it. Then wring it out, reverse the piece, and pour more water on the other side. This plan is most effective.

Never Had a Doctor

At a gathering in Portman street United Free Mission Hall, Glasgow, on the occasion of the celebration of the diamond jubilee of the Rev. Samuel Harding, it was stated by Mr. Harding that he had never been laid aside for a single day with illness, had never had a doctor attend him, had never partaken of medicine of any kind, and never even had the toothache.

WORMS! YES. THAT'S IT WORMS IS THE TROUBLE

Many Suffer From Them and Do Not Know It.

Many go to an early grave on account of them and have been pre-supposed to have had brain fever or some other complaint.

Prof. Mulvaney Comes to the Rescue

His Wonderful Remedies are saving thousands of lives.

Why not try his remedies, they are sure, certain and harmless.

Stomach worms are round like earth worms, and measure from 8 to 16 inches in length, the large one being about the size of a lead pencil in thickness. They are white and sometimes pink in color; they infest the stomach and small intestines and sometimes great numbers are found to exist. One of my customers claim one of his children passed thirty from the use of my remedy. It does not require much thought to come to the conclusion that these worms are very dangerous, as they cause fever, convulsions, fits, etc. Many persons have died from worms and they have been known to crawl out of their mouth and nose after death. Just imagine the suffering and terrible agony a child or adult must experience with these disgusting and loathsome creatures crawling about in the stomach and bowels. There is no doubt that they are constantly taking the nourishment that should go to make a strong, healthy person. Is it any wonder that your child is cross, irritable and sickly? Adults are also restless, melancholy and miserable from the same cause and are sometimes treated for dyspepsia, nervous prostration and other complaints. My remedy is in liquid form and is an excellent remedy to build up the system, and can be taken on for some time after the worms have been expelled to build up the system, which generally requires it as the stomach and bowels are generally in a weak and debilitated condition, caused by the ravages of these undesirable pests. My remedy known as Mother's Friend, is pleasant and agreeable to take and is a life-saver for children, as it not only destroys worms but strengthens and builds up the child, cures wetting of the bed, convulsions and fits; destroys pin worms. The price is $1.00. My remedy known as B'Well is much better for adults, and is the greatest nerve remedy on earth. Cures all nerve troubles, cleanses the system, restores lost energy and is a life saver. B'Well is a microbe killer, also a worm killer; microbes and worms cause all kinds of disease. B'Well kills the cause, also kills blood poison. Sold only by Prof. Mulvaney. Write for further information free.

VALUE OF VEGETABLES

Selection of Food as to Cost and Nutrition Important

The selection of food in regard to nutrition and cost is a big and most important one. The one phase of it which I want to discuss with yout at present, concerns the value of vegetables in the daily diet. The subject was recently brought to my mind when I overheard a woman giving her grocery order. The obliging clerk tried to assist and enumerated a long list of fresh vegetables, "just in from the country." Some of the commoner varieties, like cabbage and turnips, the women rejected half scornfully, while the more expensive things such as lettuce and tomatoes received a wistful glance or two, then she said determinedly, "Oh, they are too high. Really, it seems like throwing money away to buy vegetables, there is so little in them." This woman's opinion is a common one, which when followed too closely, results badly for good health. Some vegetables like beans, peas, corn, potatoes and beets, are classed among the fuel foods, but for the most part this class of foods have a necessary place in the diet because of the mineral matter which they contain. With the exception of beans and peas, all of them contain seventy-five per cent. or more water and there is a quantity of woody fibre, undigestible by humans, in every one of them. Nevertheless this mineral matter is so valuable that vegetables are essential in spite of the large amount of wood and water which they contain. Even the woody fibre has its place in the meal, for it is the substance which gives ballast to the diet and stimulates the action of the intestinal tract. But bear in mind that the common turnip and cabbage are just as good for this purpose as other vegetables that may be much higher in price.

Cauliflowers should be boiled with the stalk uppermost to prevent the scum from discoloring the flower.

When making a boiled pudding be sure to fill the basin full, otherwise the water will get in and the pudding will be heavy.

When making apple pie the flavor is much improved, and the apples will keep in good color, if a few drops of lemon juice are squeezed over the apples just before the crust is put on.

Before frying the bacon for breakfast, cut off the rind, and dip each slice in flour, then fry or grill quickly. This prevents the fat from running, and gives the bacon a better flavor.

Put all your potato peelings into an old tin, and bake them in the oven until they are crisp. When you lay the fire put them amongst the paper with a few sticks, and you will find that the fire will burn up very quickly.

To make cabbage digestible, when half boiled pour off the water and place in fresh boiling water.

If, when doing up lace curtains, sheets of fine white paper be placed between before mangling, they will not stick, and will look equal to new.

A little soot rubbed on to a greasy stove after trying potatoes or fish will make shorter work afterwards of the business of polishing, and will economise the blacklead.

If potatoes are watery, scrub them and score the skin all the way round, but not deep; then boil in salted water, keeping on the skins. The cracked skin lets out the moisture, and the potato is dry and floury.

QUEER OLD MART

The Caledonian Provides Many Strange and Amazing Contrasts

There are many queer markets scattered over the face of the globe, but London, among its many other unique features, is the proud possessor of what is perhaps the strangest and most extraordinary of them all. At the Caledonian market, Islington, whence the great metropolis draws a large proportion of its meat supply, the cobbled pavements, with their countless rows of white-fenced pens, are usually given up to the display of fat stock, but on Fridays "a change comes o'er the spirit of the dream." The cobbled pavements are there, the white pens still break up the wide expanse, but no cattle or sheep are to be seen. On that day, says a writer in The Wide World Magazine, the great market is given over to a throng of miscellaneous traders, whose wares provide the most amazing contrasts imaginable. There is nothing in the whole gamut of human devices and needs which one may not come across displayed in some odd collection set forth on the cobblestones. The traders use few counters or stalls; each of them, whether he has a stock worth three or four hundred pounds or a few rusty old bolts and spindles to purchase for a shilling or two, dumps his wares on the pavement of the market. Moreover, at this remarkable place there are markets within markets, each taking its regular turn and place during the day and then packing up and vanishing. The market was opened by Prince Albert, Queen Victoria's consort, about sixty years ago.

Remarkable School Records

The Flintshire Education Committee reports that eighty-three children have attended school for an unbroken period of not less than six years. Two of them have attended every time the school has been open during the past nine years, six during eight years, and twenty-three during seven years. All these children will receive special prizes of medals.

Gossip and Women's Clubs

Only one thing is fatal to the happy social life of any country community, and that is gossip. If the ladies cannot find in the wide field of housekeeping, chicken-raising, preserving, care of children, public schools, music, art, reading, public improvements, good government, health, sewing, entertaining and all other delightful household tasks, enough material to lift the meetings above petty personalities, then the little club, or whatever it is called, is doomed. Whenever gossip is allowed into any organization people will begin to break up into little cliques or circles or groups, and the whole thing fails.—Farm and Fireside.

SANOL ANTI DIABETES for Deadly Diabetes

SANOL ANTI-DIABETES is the new Cure for this terrible affliction. It is perfectly harmless to the organic system, and contains no poisonous or injurious ingredients whatever. It never fails to effect a Cure in every case in whatever form it may present itself, provided the patient has not reached the very stages of the malady when the vital organs have become irreparably damaged.

SANOL ANTI-DIABETES has cured many people; some of the cases had reached the stage where the patient was suffering from open sores, and in other respects the disease was well advanced. We have letters from just such sufferers as these. We are able to refer inquiries to large numbers of such cases, including people whose names are widely known and who occupy prominent positions. Doctors have tried and have proven the scientific value and worth of this remedy, in fact many of the Medical Profession in Canada have been permanently cured of Diabetes through this wonderful treatment.

A paragraph in the Examiner announces the death of a Chinaman. The autopsy proved that Hen Seng committed suicide by eating gold leaf. The Times would suggest that the deceased died from a sense of inward gilt.

We have no hesitation in saying that we shall welcome the return of the bustle which the women used to wear forty years ago, because in a crowded street car it will serve as a buffer and prevent the tickler plumes on the lady's hat in front from getting in their work.

THE ANTI-CIGARETTE BILL

Mr. Broder, (of Dundas) introduced a sweeping resolution in Parliament to abolish the use of tobacco. Nominally it referred to cigarettes, but Mr. Burnham pointed out that it really included all forms of tobacco, which Mr. Borden agreed was the true purpose of the bill. All the speakers admitted that the cigarette was doing much harm, but that otherwise tobacco contributed much to the comfort of life. Mr. Borden said that governments were not intended to take the place of parents, and that it would be a serious blunder to encourage the habit of making family troubles and personal customs into great public crimes. The resolution was sent on to a committee for modification and report.

Spent Her Money For No Benefit

THEN MISS J. M. GODIN USED DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

And Her Kidney Disease and Female Weakness Disappeared — She Is Now a Strong Healthy Woman.

Mizonette, Gloucester Co., N. B., Mar. 11.—(Special)—"I have been suffering from the kidneys ever since I was a child," says Miss J. M. Godin, of this place. "When I grew to womanhood I was told I was suffering from female weakness, so I tried several kinds of medicines, spending a good many dollars for nothing.

"Last winter I became so weak I was on the point of giving up my work. I could not sleep at night and could hardly get up the stairs without having palpitation of the heart and feeling quite exhausted.

"Reading of symptoms of kidney disease in Dodd's Almanac, I soon found out my case was similar, so I sent at once for four boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills. I began to feel a change at the very beginning, for I slept well the very first night. Those four boxes did me more good than all the medicine I had taken before, and I have remained strong ever since. I am now as well as can be."

All women who suffer should look to the Kidneys. They are the mainspring of health. Keep the kidneys strong by using Dodd's Kidney Pills and they will take care of the rest of the body.

MUNICIPAL EMPLOYMENT BUREAU

The new municipal employment bureau of New York City started out with a rush of business. Thanks to the blizzard it had work for about 8,000 men. Every applicant for work who could stand the task was immediately set to shovelling snow. In New York such work seems more necessary than elsewhere, or else the administration thinks more of the convenience and comfort, as well as the safety of the citizens, for snow does not remain on the sidewalks very long after it has fallen. The consequence is that the interference with business even of so severe a storm does not last very long. However, this bureau will not have so easy a task of it in the future, for in July and August it cannot set people to shovelling snow. But it has nevertheless a good field for labour and it has set about it in the right way. In the first place it has made itself the clearing house for all the private employment agencies of the city. There are about eight hundreds of them, and through the municipal employment agency they can now clear their applicants for jobs and their applicants for help. It is a sensible plan and every applicant for work may know whether the particular work for which he is applying is available in any one of the city's numerous agencies on a given day. This takes for granted that there will be co-operation between the private agencies and the public bureau. It also takes for granted that there will be co-operation between the people and their municipal employment bureau.

This bureau does not in any way clash with the private bureaus, though such competition may develop as it becomes more efficient and more popular. And there is no reason why it should not do so, because the poor down-and-out looking for a job can least afford the fee required of him by the private agencies. But most of the individual agencies have their own clientele and they are likely to retain a large percentage of their patrons. There are thousands of men out of work who would refuse to come to a municipal bureau for work who dog the private employment office from day to day. They feel that in one case they are paying for what they get, while in the other it is a sort of public charity. Of course it is nothing of the kind. It is the best kind of good city business this centering of the necessary information for placing men out of work and supplying needed assistance to families and firms needing it. So the municipal bureau, properly managed, is sure to be a great success, and it will help most of the private bureaus more than it will hurt them.

SEE IF THE CHILD'S TONGUE IS COATED

Mother! Don't hesitate! If cross, feverish, constipated, give "California Syrup of Figs."

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative"; they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a fifty cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine ask to see that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

THEIR SECRET

It Caused the Real Estate Agent to Change His Mind.

When the family who admitted that they were moving because the tenants at the old address made their lives miserable confided to the renting agent that they had one peculiarity which they wished him not to mention to their neighbors in his building the agent got uneasy and executed a mental quickstep trying to devise some way to break the lease. But aloud he said very courteously:

"I shall be glad to oblige you if I can. What is it you wish me to keep a secret?"

"The fact that we pay our rent promptly on the 1st of every month," said the head of the family. "That was something that nobody else in the other house did, and the agent as an incentive to quick action on their part published the news of our promptness. The only action it stirred them into was persecution of us, and they carried that to such extremes that we had to move. If you will kindly refrain from using us as a club to whack your delinquents into obedience we will appreciate it."

The agent resolved not to cancel the lease, but at the same time he relinquished a hastily conceived plan for procuring prompt remittances.—New York Times.

One of Mark Twain's Jokes.

Mark Twain played a practical joke on the first audience he addressed in England. This was in 1872, when his reputation was already high in that country, and the announcement of his lecture filled St George's hall, London, to overflowing. Few if any of those present had ever seen the humorist. He came on the platform in evening dress, with the crestfallen air of a manager announcing a disappointment. "Mr Clemens had landed at Liverpool and had fully hoped to reach London in time, but unfortunately missed his train." The audience started booing, but the boos changed into cheers and laughter when he added that, fortunately, Mark Twain was present and would do his best to fill the place of the defaulting Clemens.

The Electric Steel & Metals Co., of Welland

Rooke, Bickle & Co., 26-28 Adelaide Street West, Toronto, announce an offering of $800,000 seven per cent cumulative preferred shares in The Electric Steel & Metals Co. of Welland at par with a bonus of 50 per cent of common stock. This Company has located in Welland, Ontario, where a modern plant is now being erected for the manufacture of light weight high grade steel castings, manganese and other alloy steel castings and bar steel for rock drills, rifles, etc., as well as ingots for forging shops and tool steel manufacturers. For all of these products there is an urgent market in Canada. The process of manufacture will be by the electric furnace method on the most modern and scientific lines, and the company will be in an ideal position to manufacture economically and profitably by reason of its fixed assessment of $10,000, for 20 years and a contract for 24 hours' continuous power from the Hydro-Electric Commission at $14.00 per horse power. In addition, the names on the directorate are those of men who stand high in the business of steel making so that there is every reason to believe that the President's estimate of $300,000.00 in gross earnings in the first year' output of 3,000 tons of steel castings will be easily reached. Earnings of this extent will be ample for all charges and depreciations in addition to paying the preferred dividend and will leave besides $81,000 surplus for the common stock. In view of the company's bright prospects the offering of preferred stock now announced should appeal strongly to investors who are

HARD TO PLEASE

The Country Visitor Decided After All to Go Elsewhere.

A London clerk, on a holiday tour in the country, called at a farmhouse and asked if he could be taken in as a boarder for a few days. The farmer shook his head.

"I'd be glad to oblige you," he said, "but you London people are too hard to please."

"I am not at all exacting," the tourist replied; "you will find no difficulty in pleasing me."

"That's what the last man who came along said, but it wasn't true. In fact, nothing pleased him. His first complaint was about sleeping in the same bed with a hired man, and we gave him a bed to himself in a room with four of the children, but that didn't satisfy him. Next he grumbled about being awakened at half-past four in the morning by the men getting up to go to work—said he wasn't accustomed to get up before half-past seven. Then he objected to go to the pump, like the rest of us, to wash — actually wanted a wash-basin to himself in his own room! He was upset because the servant girl rubbed his boots with cart-grease, which keeps 'em nice and soft, instead of polishing them with blacking, as he said they did in London. The food didn't suit him. At breakfast he wanted coffee and bacon and eggs, or kippers, or smoked haddocks, as though we could get such things in these parts. Boiled skimmed milk and bread and treacle, same as we had, weren't good enough for him. Dinner came, and he turned his nose up at bacon broth, pilchard pie, boiled bacon and cabbage, with nice apple pie or rhubarb pie to follow. He would like to have had ox-tail soup and boiled fowl, and roast beef and mutton, and potatoes, and milk pudding or roly-poly, and cheese and fruit. Our supper is generally boiled milk and bread or bread and cheese and onions, with a mug of cider to wash them down; but this wouldn't do for my gentleman—fried fish or cold meat and a drop of whisky were his fancy. And, last of all, it upset him to have to go to bed before it was dark; we are never up after eight. Couldn't he have lights, and sit up until eleven or twelve, as he did at home? Did you ever hear of such things? I don't know if you would be so hard to please or not?"

"Well," said the tourist, "perhaps, after all, I'd better not trouble you to try me."

Porto Rico's Pineapples.

Pineapple culture in Porto Rico has given such large returns that many of the insular government officials have bought small plantations, given up their official positions and become independent. Lands have quadrupled in value in some cases. The present acreage on the north shore exceeds 2,000, and it is predicted that it will soon be over 10,000.

LENGTHY VISITS

The Unstinted Hospitality of Old Virginia.

Virginia hospitality is a byword. The old time country house, says Mrs. Roger A. Pryor in "My Day," was built of elastic material, capable of sheltering any number of guests, many of whom remained all summer. Indeed, this was expected of them.

"My dear sir," said the genial master of Westover to a departing guest who had sought shelter from a rainstorm, "my dear sir, do stay and pay us a visit."

The guest pleaded business that forbade his compliance.

"Well, well," said Major Drewry, "if you can't pay us a visit come for two or three weeks at least."

"Week ends" were unknown in Virginia, and equally out of the question an invitation limited by the host to prescribed days and hours. Sometimes a happy guest would ignore time altogether and stay along from season to season. I cannot remember a parallel case to that of Isaac Watts, who, invited by Sir Thomas Abney to spend a night at Stoke Newington, accepted with great cheerfulness and stayed the rest of his life, nearly forty years, but I do remember that an invitation for one night brought to a member of our family a pleasant couple who remained for years.

Hints on Beauty Culture

Right Perfume Adds to Charm of Daintiness

By MAGGIE TEYTE

Prima Donna, Chicago-Philadelphia Opera Company.

MAGGIE TEYTE

THERE is scarcely a woman who has not an innate fondness for perfume. I wish there were more who had this liking in better control, for the deluge of scents which assails our nostrils when we go abroad is often almost overpowering. But the use of a little well chosen perfume is not only right, but adds to the charm of daintiness, which should be a well defined feminine characteristic.

Moreover, there is a good, sensible reason for the use of perfume. The men of medical science say it has certain powers of fumigation which dispel disease germs.

I would not advise the trying out perfume making, as I have the creams and face tonics, but there are many little secrets which are well to know and give luxury without great expense.

Last season saw the old-fashioned rose jar brought back to favor, and there is surely nothing more delightful than to imprison the perfume of the flowers which have given pleasure by their beauty and brought thrills of sentiment into one's life.

If you happen to go to the country this summer, there is no excuse for your not combining beauty culture and pleasure by early rising to pick roses, for the perfume of the exquisite blossoms is most powerful when they are wet with the dew.

Stone is the best for a foundation rose jar. Put the dried petals in with alternate layers of fine salt. Stir the rose leaves gently each day. When the last layer is in place let the mass stand ten days, with the daily stirring. Then, at the end of this period, take the rose leaves out and mix them with spices, an ounce of cloves and allspice ground coarsely and an equal amount of shredded stick cinnamon. Place them back in the clean jar in alternate layers. Set it away in a dark place for 21 days.

Then mix together a fourth of an ounce of mace, allspice and cloves, coarsely ground, half a grated nutmeg, quarter of a pound of dried lavender, an ounce of powdered orris root, and fill the permanent jars, using the rose leaves in layers, alternating with the mixture of spices, and on each layer dropping a little oil of rose and geranium. When the jar is filled pour an ounce of rose extract over the whole. You will find it a constant joy, and the odor, whenever it is opened, will revive the memory of much happiness.

There has recently been a fad for the perfumed beads made of rose petals which have chiefly come from California. From a friend who has made dozens of the beautiful chains, I have the following simple rule:

Dry and powder the rose petals till you have six ounces. Then mix with enough gum tragacanth to mould into spheres, add a drachm of musk, and tint with carmine. Pierce them by inserting a hat pin before they are dry and be careful to have them the same size. If you wish to make them ornate, there is the possibility of rolling them while they are moist over some raised design which will leave an impress which has the effect of something quite Egyptian.

For the woman who has a fondness for heliotrope sachet here is a rule which is delicate and lasting:

Mix a pound of rose petals and one-fourth as much tonka beans, mixed with one pound of ground orris root. For extra strength and lasting qualities add four ounces of vanilla and a little musk. Mix well together and let stand for a month in an air-tight receptacle in order that the blend may be perfect. This quantity should last a year.

PETER'S ADVENTURES IN MATRIMONY

By Leona Dalrymple

Costly Forgetfulness.

XLI.

LEONA DALRYMPLE

MARY'S mother I take it, is ill, chiefly, from wearing thin-soled ties and silk stockings in the dead of winter.

Mary's mother is one of that great horde of women who vastly prefer to look pretty to being comfortable. She rarely dresses in accord with the weather. Newspapers berate the young and callow girl for wearing thin silk stockings and low shoes in midwinter, but I notice there is a generous sprinkling of women old enough to know better who do the same.

Mrs. Penfield's illness has somewhat upset the placid routine of our lives. We've been obliged to pack up and stay at the Penfields, so Mary can be near her mother.

There must certainly be an especial Nemesis that pursues young married people. And if there is, he's after us. Tuesday evening, while we were at dinner, the telephone rang. It was my neighbor.

"Hello, Peter," he said. "Why didn't you tell your milkman to let up on the milk supply while you're away?"

"Why?" I asked, puzzled.

"Well," he said, "your house has been closed for 10 days now, and this morning I wandered over there to see if everything was O. K. There was a string of bottles of milk on the porch—a dozen or so, anyway. Looked like an embryo dairy. Want 'em all?"

"Lord, no!" I exclaimed aghast.

"That milkman," he went on, "must have a peculiar sense of humor to keep right on leaving milk. Shall I choke him off in the morning?"

"Shoot him!" I exclaimed in disgust, and rang off. "Mary," I called, a trifle out of sorts, "did you tell the milkman we were going to stay in here with your mother for a couple of weeks?"

"No," said Mary guiltily. "I forgot."

I don't know what made me suddenly uncomfortable and apprehensive, but I thought of Mary's thoughtless ways and determined to slip out to my deserted little house on a tour of inspection. It was well I did.

Mary had forgotten the tap in the bathroom. It had overflowed and was dripping through the bathroom floor into the kitchen and by devious paths and a melancholy gurgle to the cellar below. A portion of the kitchen ceiling had fallen from the sodden weight of the water. All in all, I have yet to see such a mess as my home was in through the carelessness of Mary.

I remember reading once about a mad fool of an inventor who had made an attachment for the bathroom faucet by which the simple closing of the front door automatically turned off a forgotten tap. I was sorry we hadn't bought one. The disadvantage, as I remember it, was that when you opened the front door again it started the water to running again and that was not quite so desirable.

I called Mary up.

"Mary," I said calmly, "you forgot the bathroom tap, and everything is saturated with water. Moreover, the kitchen ceiling's down by the boiler, and there are 12 quarts of milk on the back porch in various stages of fermentation——"

"Oh, Peter!" wailed Mary. "Isn't it dreadful. It was because I was worried so about mamma, I guess." (Why, incidentally, does the pretty clinging vine say "mamma!" Mother is a sturdier and a finer word.)

"Well," I suggested grimly, "you can worry a little about the house now. Believe me, it's some mess. I'll be hanged if I can see why your mother's passion for low-cut shoes and thin stockings in midwinter should cost me a new ceiling and 12 quarts of milk!"

Mary called me a brute.

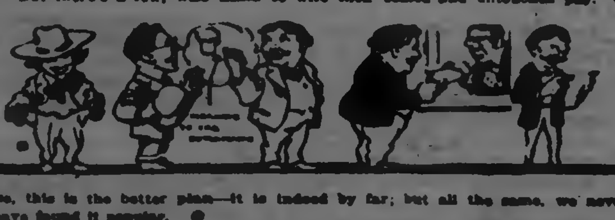
Was I?

That Old Pay Envelope

By Tom Jackson

OH! little old Pay Envelope, it is to you we sing! What solid joy and happiness to mortal man you bring. No millionaire can ever feel that thrill the same as we, when once a week, Pay Envelope, we get our hands on thee.

Oh! happy day, when we with smiles get on the cashier's line, and through his window, say to him: "Say, old man, hand me mine." And then we meet the other boys, and they are smiling, too. Then for the Dutch joint down the street, and maybe one or two—that is, if one is so inclined, and we've met some that way. But there's a few, who hand to wife their sealed and untouched pay. Of course, this is the better plan—it is indeed by far; but all the same, we never yet have found it popular.



Gee whiz, but when your fingers clutch that envelope around, you feel so good, you scarce can keep your feet upon the ground. For car fare you have had to scrap, with others of your bunch, with just one lone banana, on Friday, for your lunch. But with your good old envelope your pocket, safe inside, you walk along on Easy street, upon the sunny side.

You've shaken all your cares and woes, you're gay as gay can be, and wouldn't change your lot, not much, with that of old John D. The idle sons of millionaires, who never earned a sou, for solid joy and happiness are not in it with you. 'Tis best to work for what one gets—that is the proper dope. There is much more than money in the old Pay Envelope.

"SAVE YOUR GOWNS FOR CHARITY"

Katherine Grey, Leader of the "Closet Cleaning Campaign"

Actresses Plead for Practical Giving

By ELEANOR AMES

WHEN Katherine Grey, leading woman in "The Rule of Three," gathered together all her discarded clothes and sent them to be distributed among those who needed them, and then urged all her friends, especially those on the stage, to do likewise, she did not realize that she was throwing a pebble to make ever-widening ripples of helpfulness.

One person told another of the "Katherine Grey Closet Cleaning Campaign," and the idea made instantaneous appeal. Every woman who heard of the plan threw open her closet and threw out her old clothes, and great were the immediate benefits thereof.

"My original thought was to make some use of things still good, but which had done their work for me," explains Miss Grey. "Then, when I saw some of the half-worn frocks made over by the clever fingers of the girls to whom I had given them, it dawned on me what a lot of really valuable stuff is going to waste all over the land. You know we are commanded to 'clothe the naked' with the same emphasis with which we are told to feed the hungry. And when one considers the earning value of the individual I think it as important that the back should be well covered as that the stomach should be well fed.

"Let me be specific. I happened to know a nice little girl who had, by dint of hard work and great privation, taken a course in a business school nights after she had run errands all day in a big dry goods store. She was a bright girl, and as good as gold. And she had the most wonderful courage and common sense and a positive genius for sacrifice.

"They offered her a position at the school which would more than double her earning capacity. 'But,' said the man at the school, 'you will have to get a new dress and hat, for the place is the kind that demands you to be well dressed.'

"There was no chance of the girl spending a cent for clothes. She knew just how shabby her dress was. She just knew that if she attempted to put another patch on the bodice the sleeves wouldn't hold. She told me she lay awake all night thinking how she could twist and turn to make it do. But it was hopeless, and, more than that, she had to meet the life insurance, which meant a decent burial for her father, who was ill and out of work.

"She had to let the place go. It looked pretty dark for her when I happened to meet her. She didn't mean to tell me the story, but we got to talking and it just came out. I asked her if she could make her own clothes. She told me she had done all the sewing for herself and two sisters since she was 11 years old.

"I gave her a blue serge suit which I had discarded. She was so happy she couldn't speak. She just kissed my hand and the tears streamed down her face. A week later she came to see me. I wish you could have seen the suit. Really, it was very smart. The girl had the knack of making clothes which is something inborn.

"She was to take the position she had lost. It seemed the girl who had it failed to make good and she had it offered to her the second time. She has it now, that was two years ago, and she is making $18 a week, which she says is a fortune to her.

"This girl is only one of tens of thousands. The world judges us by our appearance. The woman who is well gowned is the one who gets the most consideration at first glance.

"It seems positively wicked that any woman should let her closets hold clothes which have given her all the good she can expect, and yet might be of infinite good to some one else.

"Good clothes mean jobs oftener than we realize.

"Many girls in the working world are clever in making garments. They have to learn to make their own dresses and coats and hats, and then remake them, and then mend them as long as there is a shred left. It is the way they keep up with the procession. And they have the same pride and the same love of finery we all have.

"Pass on your clothes. Get the habit. Don't hang them up in the closet to feed the moths. It is so easy to think, 'I may find a use for it. I'll save it.' The chances are ten to one the use will never be found. Save your gowns for charity. The endless clothes chain is the most practical of charities. Be a link."

Great Novels in a Nutshell

"Pride and Prejudice"

Condensed from the JANE AUSTEN novel by HELEN S. GRAY

"PRIDE and Prejudice" is regarded as the best book Jane Austen ever wrote. It was written in 1797, at the age of 22, but was not published until 16 years afterward. It is chiefly valuable as a picture of 18th century manners and customs.

The book begins by introducing the Bennet family, consisting of five daughters of marriageable age and all [illegible]. Mrs. Bennet's sole business in life is to get her daughters married to rich husbands; her solace, gossiping with the neighbors. Just now she is in a great flutter; a nearby estate has just been rented by a young unmarried man, Mr. Bingley, who has an income of $4000 or $5000 a year. Mr. Bennet calls forthwith. Mr. Bingley is much attracted by Jane, the eldest Miss Bennet.

Mr. Bingley has a house party from London, which includes his chum, Fitzwilliam Darcy. He has a beautiful estate and ten thousand a year. At a ball where Elizabeth Bennet meets him she sees that he is proud and disagreeable, and dislikes him. Added to this, a Mr. Wickham tells her how shamefully Mr. Darcy has treated him.

Mr. Bennet's estate is entailed away from the daughters to a distant male relative, a clergyman. He now pays them a visit with the object of choosing a wife, and thus making amends for the entail. He is haughty and full of thanks and apologies. Elizabeth finds him an insufferable bore. He proposes, but she refuses him. He tells her that with all her attractions it is by no means certain she will ever get another offer of marriage, that he does not think she is serious in her rejection of him, and that he attributes it to a desire on her part to increase his love by suspense, "according to the usual practice of elegant 'females.'" Within three days he proposes to Charlotte Lucas, a friend of the Bennet girls. She accepts with alacrity.

Elizabeth is invited to visit Charlotte Collins. While she is there Mr. Darcy comes to visit his aunt, who is Mr. Collins's patron. Mr. Darcy asks Elizabeth to marry him. Much to his surprise she declines. She tells him why; he broke off her sister's match; he had committed a breach of trust toward George Wickham; furthermore, he has offended her by what he has said about the inferiority of her family. He hands her a letter the next day in which he explains satisfactorily his relations with Wickham. He admits he broke off Jane's match, and did it because of her family connections, but said he did not know she was in love with Mr. Bingley.

Elizabeth accompanies her aunt and Uncle Gardiner on a trip to her aunt's former home. Mr. Darcy's estate is nearby. The Gardiners want to see it. On being assured that the owner is in London, Elizabeth goes with them. The housekeeper shows them around, and at every mention of his name praises his good nature, his high character. As they are strolling through the park they meet him. He is friendly, asks his sister the next day to call and invites them to dinner. Their stay is suddenly cut short by word that Lydia Bennet has eloped with George Wickham. Mr. Darcy finds Elizabeth in tears, and she tells him what has happened.

Lydia is a loud and boisterous girl of 16. She is found in London. In consideration of a commission being bought for him in the army, his debts amounting to about a thousand pounds being paid, and another thousand settled on Lydia and some slight money concessions from her father, he marries her.

Mr. Bingley comes back to the country, Darcy with him. The former becomes engaged to Jane. Elizabeth learns from her Aunt Gardiner that Mr. Darcy, not her uncle, as she had supposed, had put up the money for Lydia's marriage settlement. When she expresses her gratitude to him, he tells her he did it all for her sake, apologizes for his former rudeness and again asks her to marry him. She accepts.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

"Spring Fever" Covers a Multitude of Winter Ills

By Dr. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

Copyright, 1914, by L. K. Hirshberg.

DR. HIRSHBERG

CAESAR said to the soothsayer: "The Ides of March are come." The soothsayer answered him calmly: "Yes, they are come, but they are not past."

The "spring fever" that overtook the bold Julius of that day kept his fancy forever from turning to thoughts of love. Spring is the season which pricks every gentle heart. It wakes the beasts and birds and flowers from their snow-covered beds, but it lulls many a lazy man into a delusion of "spring fever."

When windy-robed March treads upon the frost-bitten heel of February, there steals into the vitals of mankind a lackadaisical disinclination to do his bounden duty.

The March winds which blow some men good and some men ill bite shrewishly through the nipping air and ruffle the serenity of Patience herself.

These are the Aeolian winds which make little cheer, unlike the zephyrs of May, blithe and debonair. The early spring winds play a trumpet to their purposes. By their hollow whistlings in the pussy-willows and early buds, there is foretold tempests that may chill the blood of bolder hearts than Samson.

Yet, after all is said and done, the alleged "spring fever" that you read about is something rather to conjure with than real. Like the other household gods, those lares and penates, "uric acid," "colds," "rheumatism" and "neurasthenia," spring fever is not a fever and does not occur in the spring.

Spring, as it comes with its ethereal mildness from the bosom of a dropping cloud, waking the welkin with music, is balm in Gilead to the true fevers of February and March.

These terminal winter months bring acute infections, "arthritis" or joint fever, which lasts for six or more weeks. They stir up your weak spots and open your pores to the germs of St. Vitus dance, "streptococcus," sore throat. They allow the tonsillitis and heart disease microbes to invade your oral sugar canes.

In brief, chills and fevers of a definite microbic cause, to be exercised—not exorcised—only by days or weeks in bed and under proper medical supervision, are by no means to be misnamed as "spring fever."

Give a real ailment its correct label. Have a man, who has planned for many years and who has snooped around laboratories and clinics on the trail of the far-from-lonesome parasites, diagnose your March ailment. Then take the treatment that fits the crime.

Answers to Health Questions

C. A. M., Toronto, Can.—I have "catarrh" of the throat. It affects me most when I listen to a sermon in church. Is there any drug to help me?

There are so many maladies which assault the throat and mask under the name of "catarrh" that it is always possible that some of them are amenable to medicines. It will, therefore, be helpful in your case to consult a throat expert and find out exactly which of the many types of "catarrh" you have.

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

MOVING pictures, tangoes, bridge, theatres, moving pictures, tangoes, bridge, theatres—why, little girl, don't you ever want an evening to yourself at all—you and the man you think you are in love with?

How on earth do you know whether you're in love with him or not? How are you going to get acquainted with him—you never keep still long enough to know anything about him?

What do you intend to do when you are married to him: what are you going to talk about or think about?

You can't spend all your time practising the latest tango step, and have dinner ready for him when he comes home at night.

Don't you ever get tired of crowds and lights and music and excitement? Don't you ever realise that you're shutting yourself up in a cage, just like the cage the squirrels, out on the old porch back at your grandfather's, used to live in.

Round and round and round they went, the squirrels in the cage—such foolish, senseless things they were.

I wonder if they weren't dizzy most of the time.

What friends are you making for your middle life?

Do you know anything at all about the girls you see so much of, the other girls who are running round and round in their little cages, too? Do you care anything about them. Have they any hearts or any minds or any souls at all, or are they just kind of mechanical tops wound up to keep going? No matter what happens—love, hate, sorrow, disappointment, ambition—all that goes to make up the value of human life. Are all these things nothing to you and your little squirrel friends—but words?

Don't you ever wish you really knew some one, really, who really knew you, really, and cared honestly for you—not because you're pretty and well dressed and gay and a good dancer—but because you're good and true and loyal and worth loving to the end of time?

How about these acquaintances of yours that you meet at the tangoes and the theatres and the bridge parties and the moving picture shows? Would they stand by you, do you think, if you were ill or in trouble or very poor and sad?

Or would they all run chattering away at the very idea of such a thing, and whirl round and round faster than ever in the queer little cages they have allowed life to make for them?

Moving pictures, tangoes, bridge, theatres—moving pictures, tangoes, bridge, theatres—all of them quite good things in themselves, the very best of good things in their own way—but, little girl, don't you ever want an evening to yourself at all, you and the man you think you love?

I often look at you and wonder.

Annie Laurie

Miss Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. They should be addressed to her care this office.

FREAK APPETITES.

Animal Repasts Have Been Both Queer and Costly.

Cat-owners have written of cats which liked parsnips and jam-tarts, and others which revelled in mushrooms, tomatoes, and cocoanut cake.

But it has remained to Devonport to produce a pussy which feasted on hatpins. The landlord of the Friendship Inn at Devonport has a cat which swallowed a nine-inch hatpin, head first, and the point of which was found sticking out of the poor creature's head. A veterinary surgeon operated, and the victim is convalescent.

A cat belonging to a farmer at Ballina, New South Wales, taught itself to catch fish, and would dive into the sea and bring out mullet, which it ate with delight. Alas! its angling career was ended by a hungry shark.

A bullock butchered at Hadleigh seems to have been training itself to emulate the ostrich. In its stomach were found over ninety pieces of bricks, two nails, and a fair-sized lump of iron. The pieces of brick, some of which were as large as a hen's egg, were worn perfectly smooth, and one of the nails had pierced the coat of the stomach; yet the animal was fat, and in good condition.

About two years ago a dog-owner was summoned by the S.P.C.A. for cruelty to his dog. It was proved that he had given it biscuits soaked in whisky, and that the animal had fallen dead. In the evidence it was stated by a veterinary surgeon that quite a number of animals have a taste for this form of refreshment.

Mons. Baron, a Parisian hatter, whose shop is in the Boulevard de Belleville, was justly proud of the fine array of Panama hats which adorn his premises the summer before last. One afternoon in July, on returning to his shop after a short absence, he found a horse inside, busily devouring the last of a row of ten of his best hats. These hats were worth about $20 apiece. So the hungry horse's meal was worth a good deal more than the animal itself.

Talking of expensive meals, a most extraordinary claim was made against the National Bank of Belgium. An old peasant woman had laid on the grass her jacket, in the pocket of which were banknotes to the value of $200, her life-savings.

While she was at work, her pet goat got at the coat, and ate part of it, including the notes.

The meal was poor nanny's last. She was killed, the chewed remains of the notes were recovered from the stomach, and the bank, after verifying the facts by chemical analysis, paid the claim.

Here is another goat story too good too lose. Mme. Poisson, a widow, dropped a banknote for $20 in the Rue de Vanguard, in Paris. A man leading a goat was pointed out to her as having picked it up.

THE CZAR'S LEAVINGS.

A Doubtful Honor That Was Rejected by a Polish Girl.

In Russia royalty is so revered that to the loyal subject it seems a great honor to follow the czar. The government is eminently patriarchal—in theory, at least—and the emperor must supervise as well as patronize the schools. At the Easter festival the pupils are treated with especial favor. Young girls of the upper classes of the Imperial Girls' school are driven in a long procession through the streets in the imperial carriages. The pleasure for them is only that of being allowed to take a drive in a stylish court carriage, with coachman and footman in the imperial livery. There is nothing special to be seen.

The theory of this is that the czar stands in a sort of higher parental relation to all these children. When he once a year visits one of these schools—to which only the children of the nobility are admitted—it is a custom that as a sign of his favor he drops his pocket handkerchief, and the girls all scramble for it, tearing it in pieces, so that each one can get a fragment.

He takes the most brilliant girl to the table and tastes of the food of the institution. It is valued as the highest distinction when he gives one of the girls his plate with what is left upon it. It is the custom and usage for her to eat it with delight shown in all her features. Great was the astonishment of Alexander II. when a young girl, a Pole, whom the czar had taken to the table as being the most distinguished scholar of the institute and to whom he had passed what was left of his meat and potatoes, nodded to a servant and calmly gave him the czar's plate to take away.

Night Blindness.

Inability to see by day is matched by the commoner night blindness which most of us have known in friend or relative. This defect, which includes an inability to see even by artificial light, is congenital with some people and never overcome. It is often hereditary. It may also be caused, however, by long exposure to an overbright light, coupled with fatigue. A strange story is told concerning a ship's crew two centuries ago which were overcome by night blindness so extreme that their captain was obliged to force a fight with a Spanish privateer during the day, knowing that by night his men would be helpless. In order to obviate this difficulty for future occasions he ordered each sailor to keep one eye bound during the daytime, discovering, to his gratification, that this eye, having rested, was then free of the defect. The sailors were very amusing in their efforts to retain the bandage well over the eye that must be ready for night duty, and so a method of modifying this trouble was discovered.—London Strand Magazine.

Easy Marks.

"Talk erbout yere easy marks," said Uncle Silas Geehaw, who had been passing a week in the city, "us rubes ain't in it with them air toown chaps."

"Did yew sell 'em eny gold bricks, Silas?" queried old Daddy Squashneck.

"Naw, I didn't," answered Uncle Silas, "but I seed a feller peddlin' artificial ice—had th' sign right on his wagon—an' blamed ef th' chumps did not buy it fer th' real thing, by gum!"—Chicago News.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS
THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at the office of any Local Agent of Dominion Lands (not Sub-agent), on certain conditions.
Duties.—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required in every case, except when residence is performed in the vicinity.
In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside of his homestead. Price $3 per acre. Duties.—Six months residence in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and 50 acres extra cultivation. The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land after report by Homestead Inspector on application for patent.
A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price, $3 per acre. Duties.—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

A Moscow card sharp has confessed that he has been winning money at the chief clubs for thirty years past by the following trick. On the pretext that his eyes were weak he invariably wore dark spectacles at night. His favorite game was one called "bank," in which the eights and nines are the most important cards. In his waistcoat pocket he kept a preparation of phosphorus and by touching the backs of cards which he wished to mark he made them slightly luminous. His dark spectacles enabled him to see the small phosphorous marks, which were invisible to the other players. After a few deals with a pack he could play with absolute certainty.

EYE STRAIN ON TRAINS

Antiquated Lighting Makes Reading Very Harmful

Many people believe that it is injurious to the eyes to read on a train, but few seem to know why. The reason is the added strain on the delicate muscles of the eyes, says the Medical Bulletin. The motion of the train shakes the paper or book constantly, thus continually changing its position and its distance from the eyes, keeping the delicate muscles of the eye in constant action to readjust the focus. Extra work is thus thrown on these tiny muscles, as the changing of focus occurs sometimes 100 times a minute. Another case of eye straining on trains is the poor lighting usually encountered. Often people try to read their evening papers on a train or street car when the daylight is fading and before the car lights are turned on. Even with the lights on the situation is not greatly improved. The cars are frequently crowded and the strap-hangers sway back and forth between the paper and the source of light. Usually the light is high up in the centre of the car ceiling, and is badly placed for reading, the light being too far from the paper and the light rays being reflected into the eyes from the book or magazine. Some trains now carry library cars, which have the source of light behind and at the side of the readers.

WOOD FOR ALL INDUSTRIES

Ontario Grows all But Eight of the Thirty-four Woods Used

Practically all industries are more or less dependent on wood. Mr. E. J. Zavitz, Ontario Forestry Commissioner, says: "There is at present in the old settled portion of Ontario an aggregate of about 3,500 square miles of farmers' woodlands. It is safe to say that there is, in addition to the assessed woodland, another area of 3,500 square miles which is suited only for forest growth. This means that southern Ontario could eventually have over ten million acres of private woodland." Ontario was once a land of valuable hardwoods, and will be so again. Another remarkable thing is the variety of uses to which woods, still common in Ontario, may be put. Elm and basswood are used in thirty-one industries, and ash is another valuable hardwood with a wide range of use. Maple, Ontario's most important hardwood, has over one hundred listed uses, while birch and beech are being increasingly used, especially for hardwood flooring. Pine forms 31.7 per cent. of all the wood purchased by these industries, but is being gradually replaced by spruce, as the supply is nearing exhaustion. By observing the uses and then consulting the classified directory of manufacturers, markets may be ascertained for cherry, apple, sumac and other supposedly little-used hardwoods, and also for many forms of wood-waste.

Fire Protection in Canada

The total area controlled by the Western Forestry and Conservation Association is about 20,000,000 acres, containing fully 500,000,000,000 feet of lumber, one-fifth the total timber wealth of the United States and almost as much merchantable timber as there is in all Canada. This association, at an average cost of between two and three cents per acre and an aggregate cost of about $200,000, maintains about 600 regular patrolmen, besides a large reserve force for emergencies, built several hundred miles of trails and telephone lines and installed numerous tool caches and lookout stations. Large sums have been spent on educational work.

Solitary confinement as a punishment for girls in Chapelton Reformatory was strongly objected to at the Glasgow Juvenile Delinquency Board meeting. The discussion arose over a suggestion for a new isolation room

Emigration and Desertion

Mr. James R. Motion, Inspector of Poor, at Glasgow, in his half-yearly report drew attention to the increasing number of desertions of families by emigrants, and expressed the opinion that the time was ripe for reciprocal legislation to deal with this class of offenders.

DISHES FOR "SOFT DIET"

What a Patient May Eat if it is Prescribed For Him

What the physician means when he says "soft diet" is a matter that should be more thoroughly understood by the home nurse than usually seems to be the case. Soft diet is that which is usually prescribed in contradistinction to liquid diet, which is given to the patient who is very ill, and to light diet, which is given to the convalescent.

As uninteresting as the name "soft diet" may sound, there is, nevertheless, a variety of dishes enough to make the patient's tray interesting for many days. Here are a few:

Liquids of all kinds, soups (strained), milk toast, cereals, bread without crusts (not fresh baked), custards, rice, plain puddings, soft boiled eggs, soft poached eggs, raw or stewed oysters, baked potato, baked apple, stewed fruits (no seeds), gelatine, junket, ice cream.

ORIGINAL OF FAMOUS PICTURE

Miss Irene Shannon, variety actress and artist's model who posed for Paul Chabas' famous painting, "September Morn."

MME. POIRET

Wife of the celebrated Parisian dressmaker who gave a lecture on dress in which she insisted that trousers for women were a certainty of the future. Mme. Poiret wore a plaid skirt of yellow and blue, yellow coat and white hat and yellow Russian boots on the street.

Hairdressing is Significant

Yesterday when coming per express train from Tokio, says a traveller in Japan, we sat near a Japanese matron whose beautiful, glossy black hair was done up elaborately with a very peculiar portion of it resembling an eccentric teapot handle at the back. She was a yellow, hard-featured lady, with a big boy in a petticoat by her side—presumably her son. The meaning of her headdress was: "I am a widow, and have determined not to marry again." Every female can fly headdress signals denoting her state, condition and wishes. There are styles for "married," "engaged" and "single." The sweet debutante can be at once recognized, and it must be admitted that inconvenience and loss of time can conceivably be prevented by adopting this Japanese system.

Making Enamel Paint Work Easily

A few drops of glycerine to a pot of enamel paint will make the paint work easier. A small quantity of grain alcohol is sometimes used to effect the same purpose, and benzine is also excellent.

TOLD IN PANTOMIME.

The Worth of a Chinese Royal Gift to Li Hung Chang.

The late empress dowager of China was something of a humorist. The author of "Behind the Scenes In Peking" tells a story of how Li Hung Chang, after concluding the treaty of Shimonoseki, was presented by the empress with a cloth of gold bag containing some heavy article. The treasure turned out to be a large vase, and Li, who was an enthusiastic collector of Chinese ceramics, at once sent for his secretary, Mr. Pethick, to come and examine the new acquisition.

Some time was spent in a careful examination to determine the dynasty during which this treasure was produced, but the date of this especial paste was lost, with its other technical classifications. After a long time Mr. Pethick lifted it gingerly, placed it on a table, put himself in front of it, drawing a wrap round his shoulders, and slowly, very slowly, held his hands up to it, turning them in the attitude of warming at a fire.

Chinese need few words. Li understood and was heartbroken. The pantomime indicated to him that the supposed priceless vase was only a clever reproduction made in Paris, and the secretary, warming his hands before it, meant it was so fresh from the pottery furnace that he could still notice the warmth.

Ancient Egyptian Mortgage.

Of all the numerous Egyptian papyri dating from the Greco-Roman period and preserved in the British museum none can be said to be of greater interest than those throwing light on the social conditions and manners and customs of the period. Many of these documents are mortgages, bills of sale and marriage contracts. Of the first named class a very interesting one is dated in the twentieth year of Cleopatra and Ptolemy. It appears that a shepherd named Menthu and his mother, Tauair, finding themselves in difficulties, mortgaged their field to a woman named Ete for the sum of 600 pieces of silver, which they promised to repay in eight months' time with interest. In case of failure of this condition they were willing to forfeit the field without further trouble or litigation. After giving the measurements of the land and particulars of its boundaries the document is attested by Heru-se-est, scribe of Usir-ur, alias Amenhotep.—London Globe.

A Wandering Lake.

Lake Nor, in the Tabi desert, in southwestern Asia, which has been called the "wandering lake," presents a phenomenon about which contradictory views have been entertained. Perhaps the Swedish explorer Sven Hedin has given the most plausible explanation touching this phenomenon.

It appears, according to that explorer, that the Tarim river, entering the lake from the west, brings down during the period of high water late in summer a great quantity of salt, which has the effect of driving the lake lying on the level floor of the desert toward the southeast. But the summer wind, drifting the surface sand and darkening the heavens with dust, blows generally from the northeast, and it, too, tends to drive the lake before it. The combined effect of the urging by the wind and the river is to force the lake southward. Yet it is thought the migration of the lake is not constant in direction, but it shifts back and forth intermittently, according as the circumstances change.

She Forgot.

At 3 o'clock the absentminded woman left home with an umbrella. At the subway station she concluded it wouldn't rain and left the umbrella with the corner newsdealer. When she came back at 6 o'clock it was raining. Boys with umbrellas to rent darted toward her when she appeared at the head of the subway stairs. She paid one boy 10 cents to escort her home. Then she remembered her own umbrella. Sheltered by a borrowed umbrella, she went back to get it. The newsdealer looked uneasy.

"Just a minute," he said. "Oh, Tom, come here!"

A small boy dodged around the corner of the stand and handed over a dripping umbrella. The absentminded woman looked at the boy; she looked at the umbrella. She recognized both.

"Idiot!" she said. "I paid that boy 10 cents for taking me home with my own umbrella."—New York Press.

Her Father's Child.

The six-year-old daughter of a well-known evangelistic preacher was playing on the sidewalk one day when a shabbily dressed and downcast man approached her father's house.

Halting at the foot of the steps, he looked at her, and in a weary voice—the voice of an unsuccessful book agent—he asked if her father might be found in his study.

"He isn't home," said the little girl, drawing close to him and gazing up into the tired face, "but he'll be home pretty soon. You go into the house, you poor, perishing soul, and mother'll look after you till he comes."

Great Age of Halley's Comet.

While Halley's comet has been identified as a member of our system for over 2,000 years, certain characteristics of its orbit lead us to believe that it has been with us at least ten or perhaps 100 times as long as that. According to all accounts, it was a magnificent object at the time of the Norman conquest in 1066. Its head was equal to the full moon in size, and its tail increased to a wonderful length.—Century.

A Queer Hiding Place.

During a furious storm in Paris a janitor was struck on the shoulder by a small but heavy tin box which had fallen from an upper story of a house in the Rue de l'Ouest. The box was found to contain $6,000 in gold and notes. It was claimed at the police station by an elderly woman, who said that the money constituted her entire savings, which she had hidden by tying the box to the drainpipe outside her window.

Another Theory Demolished.

"It costs nothing to be polite."

"You're wrong. While I was politely picking up a glove for a lady yesterday my new four dollar hat blew off and rolled in front of a passing trolley car."—Chicago Record-Herald.

His Specialty.

"Ezry, you ought to git a good job in a firearms factory," growled the country storekeeper as the chief loafer reached into the barrel for another choice apple.

"What doin'?" lazily asked the pest between bites.

"Riflin' barrels!" snapped the long suffering storekeeper.—Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

During the cold weather when it is necessary to keep on extra fires there is always increasing danger of accidents happening from defective chimneys, defective stovepipes, furnaces, explosion of coal gas, accumulation of dust near heating appliances and numerous other causes.

THE SHORT BOLERO-LIKE COAT ONE OF THE NEWEST WHIMS

All the beauty of the gracefully draped peg-top would be lost if a long coat were worn, therefore we have the short coat. The favored model is cutaway in front and forms a rounded point in back. Some are cut with kimono sleeves; others have the set-in sleeve.

The coat shown in 8137 has a set-in, three-quarter sleeve and is slightly draped in front. The material is matelassé in a dull green; the skirt is of duvetyn in the same shade of green. A narrow edge of fur outlining the collar, cuffs and bottom of the coat give a smart touch.

The skirt is a design that may be made in one or two pieces. The fullness is arranged in soft plaits at the waist.

This coat, 8137, may be copied in size 36 with 3¼ yards of 42 inch material. The skirt, 8164, requires 2⅝ yards of 42 inch material for size 24.

An extremely smart design in serge for a young lady is shown in 7843. While it is comparatively simple it is saved from plainness by the yoke on the skirt and the unusual collar. These draped collars are becoming very popular, and one of the newest materials to make them of is white organdie. Although this material never looks as well after being laundered, it is extremely dainty while fresh, and several chemisettes and collars may be had with each frock.

The long ribbon sash is a pretty touch to a dress of this description. This one is of brocaded velvet ribbon showing several bright colors.

In size 18 this dress may be copied with 4½ yards of 36 inch material with 1½ yards of ribbon for the sash.

No. 8137—sizes 34 to 42.
No. 8164—sizes 22 to 32.

A GENEROUS USE OF FUR MARKS THE MODISH SUIT

It is quite in keeping that the Russian blouse should be trimmed with fur. The popularity of fur for trimming has reached a point where its appropriateness to the season and its comfort are no longer considered, but it is favored for its becomingness alone. We find it outlining the throat and wrists on the flimsiest blouse and edging the tunic of the chiffon dancing frock as well as trimming the suit for out of doors and the evening mantle.

In 7907 dull green velveteen is effectively trimmed with fitch, which is one of the most favored pelts this winter. The fur buttons are novel and extremely chic. A girdle of dull bronze satin is another effective touch.

This model may be copied in size 16 with 4 yards of 42 inch material.

For many seasons we have had nothing more becoming and more practical than the sports coat. These are made of the softest and woolliest of the new coating materials and, as a rule, are very light weight, which is an added virtue, as a heavy coat is a thing to be avoided by the woman or girl who indulges in out of door, winter sports.

In 8130 we note the effectiveness of the raglan sleeve, a smart stitched belt and the large patch pockets. This design was made up in a waffle check in black and white.

The skirt is a three piece model in white serge.

It requires 3⅝ yards of 42 inch coating to make this coat in size 36.

The skirt (7942) may be made in size 18 with 2⅝ yards of 42 inch material.

No. 7907—sizes 14 to 18.
No. 8130—sizes 32 to 44.
No. 7942—sizes 16, 17 and 18.

IF CATARRH KEEPS YOU HAWKING USE "CATARRHOZONE"--THE QUICKEST CURE

NOTHING KNOWN SO SURE FOR THROAT WEAKNESS, BRONIAL TROUBLE, ETC.

No doctor attempts to-day to cure a genuine case of catarrh or bronchitis except by the inhalation method. Stomach dosing has been discarded because useless medicine so taken effects only the stomach—never reaches the seat of catarrh.

The advanced physician recognizes that only air can be sent into the lungs and bronchial tubes. Fill this air with healing medicants and you solve the problem. No combinations of antiseptics is so successful as Catarrhozone. It contains the richest pine-balsams and the greatest healers known.

One breath of Catarrhozone instantly circulates over the area that is afflicted with catarrh. Relief is instant—suffering stops at once—germs are destroyed—every taint of disease is removed. Think it over seriously. Here is a remedy that clears the throat, relieves hoarseness, coughing and bad breath. Irritating phlegm is cleared out, inflamed bronchial tubes are healed; throat and voice are strengthened.

Catarrhozone is pleasant and certain. You breathe Catarrhozone—you don't take it. Large $1 size is guaranteed; smaller size 50c, and trial size, 25c, at all dealers everywhere.

Peterborough Man Appointed.

Mr. J. H. Larmoth, general manager of the Electric Power Company, of Toronto, has been selected as the new superintendent of the Edmonton street railway, to succeed W. T. Woodrofe, resigned. Mr. Larmonth was formerly manager of the Peterborough Radial Railway.

Mr. J. R. Bell to Move Soon.

Mr. J. R. Bell, the Hunter street grocer, expects to move next week into his new premises now under course of alterations, in the former Temperance Hotel. Mr. Bell will have a right up-to-date store. There is a modern lavatory and washroom to the rear as well as a stock room and private office.

A Fatal Lindsay Fire.

A Lindsay despatch of yesterday says that John Madison and his baby daughter were fatally burned and died shortly afterwards, and Mrs. Madison with three children, were also burned more or less when fire last night destroyed the dilapitated hovel in which they lived in that town. Most of the inmates slept upstairs, which was little more than a loft.

Special Services at Mark St. Church

Special services are to be held in the Mark street church each night this week, except Saturday night. Tonight (Thursday) the meeting will be addressed by Rev. Robt. Pogue, of St. Paul's Presbyterian church. Friday night's meeting will be in charge of Adjutant McElheney of the Salvation Army. Everybody welcome. Good music.

Large Crowds at Park St. Church.

There was a large attendance last night at the Park street Baptist church, to hear Evangelist Pugsley, who preached a very impressive sermon on the subject, "What is Sin." Rapt attention was given the speaker, who spoke in strong terms, describing the effects of sin in the lives of men, bring home some practical truths. Great interest is being taken in these meetings, and every night the church is crowded.

Was Known Here.

Dr. Abner McKinnon of Port Huron was found dead in his office Tuesday morning by a policeman. The man had taken a dose of carbolic acid by mistake and had tried to save himself with other antidotes. Deceased was born in Manilla, Ont., in 1871, and was educated at Toronto, where he graduated in Medicine in 1899. His parents and two sisters still reside in Toronto. He lived for a time in Peterborough, where he pursued his medical studies

A Lacrosse Revival.

It would seem that lacrosse, Canada's national game, is not defunct. Our older readers will remember that some 20 years ago, Peterborough had one of the fastest lacrosse teams in Canada. Those were the days when Harry Phelan, W. Rudkins, Jimmy Sheehy (now living in Chicago) Dod Fortye and others took an active part in the game. Last night a meeting of the Peterborough Athletic Club was held in Charlotte street rink. It would appear that the result of this meeting demonstrates that this city will once more take up lacrosse.

Magic "Nerviline" Ends Stiff Neck, Lumbago

Any Curable Muscular or Joint Pain Is Instantly Relieved by Nerviline

GET TRIAL BOTTLE TO-DAY

You don't have to wait all day to get the kink out of a stiff neck if you get the kink out of a stiff neck if you rub on Nerviline. And you don't need to go around complaining about lumbago any more. You can rub such things away very quickly with Nerviline. It's the grandest liniment, the quickest to penetrate, the speediest to ease muscular pain of any kinh.

One twenty-five cent trial bottle of Nerviline will cure any attack of lumbago or lame back. This has been proved a thousand times, just as it was in the case of Mrs. E. J. Grayden of Caledonia, who writes: — "I wouldn't think of going to bed without knowing we had Nerviline in the house. I have used it for twenty odd years and appreciate its value as a family remedy more and more every day. If any of the children gets a stiff neck Nerviline cures quickly. If it is earache, toothache, cold on the chest or sore throat Nerviline is always my standby. My husband once cured himself of a frightful attack of lumbago by Nerviline and for a hundred ailments that turn up in large families Nerviline is by far the best thing to have about you."

WELLAND, CANADA

(INCORPORATED UNDER THE ONTARIO COMPANIES ACT)

7%

CUMULATIVE PREFERENCE STOCK

Preferential as to Capital as well as Dividends

Par value of Shares, $100.00

Subject to redemption at any time after five years from the date of issue, upon three months' notice, and payment of accrued dividends, at $110.00 per share.

Price: Par, with a bonus of 50% Common Stock

Fractional shares of Common Stock will be dealt in at $50 per share

The Electric Steel and Metals Company, Limited, will manufacture the following articles:—Light-weight, high-grade steel castings; manganese and other alloy steel castings; bar steel suitable for rifles; bar steel for rock drills, boring machines, etc.; ingots for forging shops; ingots for tool-steel manufacturers.

After a careful study of the conditions existing in Canada for the last three years, and a report made by Mr. David Carnegie, Consulting Engineer, of London, England, based on a two-months' investigation in the United States and Canada in the early summer of 1913, the following conditions were found to exist:—

That light, high-grade steel castings, which are largely employed in Canada, in the manufacture of almost every class of machinery, were mostly imported from the United States;

That manganese and other alloy steel castings were, almost without exception, imported from the United States and Great Britain;

That bar steel suitable for rifles and for rock drills, boring machines, etc., is not made in Canada, and has to be imported;

That ingots for forgings are nearly all imported from the United States. That ingots for tool-steel manufacturers are not made in Canada, and, there being no duty into the United States on such ingots, they can be exported into that country:

And that all steel castings are subject to a duty of 27½% ad valorem.

CAPITAL EXPENDITURE.

Our plant in Welland will be ready for operation about May 1st, 1914, and will have a capacity of 4,000 tons of steel castings per annum. The total cost of this first plant, including organization, site, foundry equipment, electrical furnace, all buildings, labor and engineer's charges, will be under $130,000 by contracts already made by the company. Seventy thousand dollars will be reserved for working capital, making a total outlay of $200,000 for the production above mentioned.

ESTIMATED EARNINGS.

Hydro-electric power is available at fourteen dollars per horsepower per annum, this price being subject to reduction as the load increases.

Next in importance to the small power cost comes the fact that the Heroult electric furnace can be operated entirely on scrap, and can produce therefrom the very finest quality of steel. We are, therefore, independent of the pig-iron market, which sometimes is oversold.

The Company is also favored with a fixed assessment of $10,000 for a period of twenty years, the taxes on which will not exceed $500 per annum.

The five-ton electric furnace which we are installing will handle five heats per day, and on this basis the plant will produce 4,000 tons of finished castings per annum. In the following estimate of earnings we have based our calculations on a production of three-quarters this capacity, namely, 3,000 tons.

Our earnings are estimated as follows:—

3,000 tons steel castings, selling at $120.00 per ton	$360,000.00
Less cost of production, at $83.00 per ton	249,000.00
	$111,000.00
Less depreciation on plant and machinery	16,000.00
	$ 95,000.00
Less 7% dividend on $200,000 Preferred Stock	14,000.00
Leaving available for Common Stock	$ 81,000.00

The above costs of production and basis of selling prices have all been carefully prepared under the advice of Mr. David Carnegie, and detailed statements may be inspected at the Company's office in Welland.

LIBERAL'S ATTEMPT TO "PLAY POLITICS" IS DISMAL FAILURE

Moose Jaw Man's Motion for Free Implements Deliberately Planned "Coup"

Ottawa, Mar. 12.—A most transparent play at politics was made by the Liberals to-day when on going into supply Mr. W. E. Knowles, of Moose Jaw, made a motion for free agricultural implements. The budget will be brought down within the next two weeks. It is the only time Governments make tariff announcements. Then is the proper time for the Liberals to make such a motion, if the budget announcements are not satisfactory. The Liberals knew the Government could not have made any statement to-day if they had desired. In addition they knew such a resolution, moved in such a manner, was nothing more or less than a vote of want of confidence. It was the most obvious political play Ottawa has seen for some time.

Playing Up to Farmers.

The reason of the motion is very evident. There were rumors that there may be a substantial reduction in the duty on agricultural implements announced when Hon. W. T. White brings down the budget. The Liberals are afraid of losing a little political glory with the Western farmers, so the motion was made by Mr. Knowles If the Government does announce a cut the Opposition can say "We suggested it first."

Premier Borden in a brief speech exposed the Liberal position. To the amusement of the Government benches he remarked that Mr. Knowles has been able to restrain his feelings on this uestion most adequately while the Liberals were in power. Just as an aside it may be remarked that two years in succession Mr. Knowles put on the order paper at the beginning of the session resolutions in regard to agricultural implements so as to prevent Western Conservatives making any motion and then refused to move his own, thus blocking successfully any expression of opinion.

LINDSAY FIRE DEATH LIST FOUR TWO MORE CHILDREN ARE DEAD

Coroner's Jury Inspect Premises of Late Lindsay Hackman and Find Signs of Abject Poverty.

Lindsay, Mar. 12.—Two more victims died to-day as a result of the Madison fire, the two children Willie and Jack having succumbed as the result of burns. The children also inhaled considerable smoke. The jury empanelled yesterday before Coroner Wood, after viewing the body of Madison, inspected the premises and then adjourned to meet again Monday afternoon. They were highly incensed at the condition of affairs at the Madison home where the direst signs of abject poverty were in evidence, while the sanitary conditions were strictly unwholesome. Some person is likely to be censured for this state of affairs. The four Madison fire victims, the father and three children were buried this afternoon

CAPITALISTS NOW GOT ALL THAT IS COMING TO THEM

When Present Contracts Reach the Maximum There Will Remain a Huge Volume for Generation of Power in the Interests of Ontario

Toronto, Mar. 12.—At an estimated total amount of $250,000, the cost to be spread over three years, plans for extensive improvements at Niagara Falls were this afternoon submitted to the Queen Victoria Niagara Falls Park Commission, which met in annual session at the offices of Mr. John W. Langmuir, the chairman.

Before the meeting Mr. Langmuir was asked for an expression of opinion on the question of what should be done with the surplus water when the three companies which now have franchises have reached the maximum to which they are entitled.

Keep It For the People.

"It should undoubtedly be retained only for the use of the people of the Province of Ontario," said the chairman of the commission. "No more water should be let out to capitalists. We have done our duty in that respect by giving the right to create about 400,000 horse power. When the present contracts attain their maximum, there will remain about six to eight million cubic feet of water per second, which ought to be retained for the use of the Province. It is of the utmost importance that every cubic foot of water should now be retained, and that no more should be disposed of. It should all be held for the purposes of the Hydro Electric, which means for the people of the Province."

Matters Under Discussion.

The matters which were considered at this afternoon's meeting of the Board were as follows:

Plans for the construction of modern conservatories, with up-to-date equipment.

Demolition of the old Table Rock House, which obstructs the view of the southerly end of the park, and the construction of a suitable building to take its place that will not interfere with the line of vision.

Completion of the Parapet Wall along the edge of the Cliff.

Improvements of the descent under the Falls.

Enlargement of the park area at Queenston Heights by the purchase of additional land extending from the present main entrance to the Park, to the Gorge on the River, thus affording some of the finest views on the Continent.

THE FARMERS BANK FRAUD

Man Who Procured Certificate Fraudulently Primarily Responsible for Subsequent Frauds.

Ottawa Journal: Legislation will be brought down at an early date by the Minister of Finance having for its purpose the reimbursement of the unfortunate depositors of the defunct Farmers' Bank. This legislation has been pending since the end of last session. The amount, which the depositors are estimated to have lost, is in the neighborhood of a million and a quarter dollars, and it is believed that the Government will reimburse the greater part of that amount. It is not expected that the shareholders will be considered in the matter, since the reimbursement of the depositors will relieve the shareholders to a large extent on the double liability.

The action of the Government will afford no warrant of precedent for reimbursing the depositors of other banks which have become defunct in the Dominion. The case is considered to be of exceptional, and, indeed, of unique character, both with regard to the fraudulent means by which the certificate was procured, and in respect of the results which followed, involving the loss of all moneys placed in the bank by the depositors.

The Government considers that the man who fradulently procured the certificate in the name of the bank was enabled to attract those deposits by the unwarranted assumption of powers in violation of plain statutory conditions. While, it is considered, the direct subsequent cause of the loss was the fraud of the bank's manager in the administration of its affairs, there is, nevertheless, a certain connection between that loss and the power and status with which he became invested upon the granting of the certificate.

Having regard to these considerations the Government believes that the depositors are entitled to a reasonable measure of relief.

Toronto, Mar. 12.—Whatever action the committee of Forty intend to take in regard to the Princess Theatre remains best known to the members of that organization, none of whom appear to desire publicity. Rev. T. T. Shields, one of the committee was asked this afternoon for information on the matter.

"I am a bad man to cross examine" he answered, "and I prefer not to discuss the matter."

HAMILTON MUST PAY TAXES FOR QUARRY

City May Use the Stone Only for Purposes of Municipality.

Toronto, March 12.—The city of Hamilton wants to purchase a quarry site in the Township of Barton at a cost not to exceed $75,000. Representatives appeared before the Private Bills Committee at the Legislature this morning to secure the necessary permission. They wish to be exempt from taxation but representatives of the Township strenuously objected. It was finally decided that the city should be assessed at fixed sum of $25-000 on account of the property. All that is necessary to authorize the purchase now is the three-quarter vote of the Council. The city is retained from selling the stone, and may use it only for purposes of the municipality.

ARM OF WOMAN IS FOUND IN A CELLAR ON BALDWIN STREET

Housewife Made Gruesome Find as She Was Cleaning Up the Debris

Torobto, March 12.—Discovery of a woman's left arm and shoulder blade in the cellar of the residence of Mr. Visner, 189 Baldwin street, this morning may be follwoed by revelations of a hideous crime. A few years ago the house had an evil reputation and the former occupant was forced to leave on account of the activity of the police

Mr Visner has only occupied the house for a couple of weeks and it was while his wife was cleaning up the cellar, which had been in a state of great disorder that she made the gruesome find. She immediately notified the detective department and two men were sent down to the house. So far they have not been able to throw any light on the mystery.

Although there is no flesh on the bones of the arm, the hand is in a fair shape of preservation, the bones being kept together by strands of parched skin. Although the fingers are exceptionally long, the small and delicate nails, which can be plainly discerned, leads one to believe that the hand is that of a woman. It is encrusted with dirt. The bones of the fore and upper arm are detached from the arm at the shoulder blade.

Police Baffled.

The grusome discovery has been the talk of the neighborhood. The limb has been removed from the cellar and now lies wrapped up in a sheet of white paper in a small shed in the rear of the house. Children absolutely refuse to go near the shed at night or even during the daytime.

The occupants of the house can give no clue to the presence of the limb in the cellar.

ALLEGED "SLAVER" CAUGHT BY LOVER

Frank Massey Feeds Lonnie Moore in Order to Have Time to Call the Police

New Orleans, March 12.—Lonnie Moore looked up from the sandwich he was eating in a Rampart street restaurant late Wednesday night to see Corporal Mahen behind him.

"You are under arrest on a charge of white slavery," said the corporal. He let Moore finish the sandwich before taking him to prison.

WITH POLICE OFFICER

Behind the officer was Frank Massey, of Jackson, Miss., who had tracked Moore down and had bought him the sandwich to hold him until he could find a policeman. Love for Ruby Tyrney, alleged to have been brought by Moore from her home in McComb City, Miss., made an emergency detective out of Massey and caused the capture of Moore.

Moore was arraigned before United States Commissioner Browne on a charge of white slavery on Thursday morning. He was held for trial and sent to th the parish prison in default of $5000 bond.

Moore also came from McComb City. Through him, Massey says he met Miss Ruby Tyrney when he came to New Orleans for the Mardi Gras. She was at an immoral house run by two of Moore's sisters. Massey fell blindly in love with the girl and she told him her story.

Urged by sympathy for her Massey went to the home of her parents and secured a note from her father begging her to give up the silken sins of the city to come back to the plain muslin and wholesome duties of the little home in Mississippi. Since Massey met the girl he has devoted almost his entire time to rescuing her and capturing the man who is alleged to be responsihible for bringing her here.

EFFORTS ANGER GIRL.

The girl became angry when Massey told her that he had informed her mother of her whereabouts and flatly refused to leave New Orleans. Instead of being discouraged Massey went straight to the police and later laid the girl's story before Special White Slave Agent Pendleton.

Unknown to Moore, Massey became a secret ally to the slave agent. Last night the two met on the street. Moore said he was hungry. He had not read the papers and did not known that the police were looking for him. Though flat broke by his efforts for the girl, Massey had had some money furnished by the special agent.

He lent some of this to Moore to buy food with. As soon as he saw the alleged slaver safely seated at a table in a restaurant at Rampart and Canal streets, he ran for a policeman

PRESIDENT DID NOT DINE THE STUDENTS WHO PLAYED POKER

The Varsity Made a Mistake in Telling of Convivial Lunch Intended to Give Emphatic Denial

Toronto, Mar. 12.—The playing of poker is not an art recognized with favor at the Toronto University. In fact, it is not recognized at all, and has no place in the curriculum.

There exists a rule which prohibits the playing of games of chance for money in the University residence. By most poker players it would not be necessarily admitted that poker was a game of chance, but all the rest of the public seem to think it is.

For some little time past a number of Varsity men in the north residence have taken up the art of poker playing with considerable but quiet enthusiasm. That is, they studied it together in their leisure moments, but did not make a loud noise about it. Uninterruptedly they progressed the studies until request was made by President Falconer for thirteen men of the north residence to call upon him and explain things. Thirteen always was an unlucky number.

The President investigated matters, and, as a result nine of the men, three being members of the house committee were expelled from residence, and the other four were cautioned.

The Varsity, the Undergraduate newspaper of the University, reported these proceedings in its issue of yesterday, finishing up the report with the following paragraph:—

"The statement has been made publicly that the President took the thirteen over to lunch at his house on Monday and there in a chatty way discussed the case over luncheon table."

Tempering Punishment.

Some of the public who read this could not quite understand it, nor could they appreciate that a University President would be likely to temper his displeasure by expressing his disapprobation to the delinquents at a convivial luncheon table with the said delinquents as guests.

Dawson, Y.T., Mar. 12.—E. S. The letter says that Stefansson has gone back to Herschel Island, off the mouth of the Mackenzie River and intends to start out immediately over the Arctic. Continuing the letter says: "Stefansson thinks that the exploring ship Karluk, which was blown from the vicinity of Point Barrow, Alaska, into the Arctic Ice field during a blizzard last September leaving Stefansson and three other scientists ashore, may forestall Capt. Roald Amundsen in his coming attempt to drift across the Pole. The Karluk is provisioned for five years and Stefansson seems to be of the opinion that she will be carried across the Pole by the ice and come out north of Greenland, if she escapes being crushed.

New York, Mar. 12.—After trailing William Romer the greater part of yesterday, Detectives Ward and Christie of the Poplar street station, at Brooklyn, followed him last night to his home at No. 119 Jay street.

When the detectives broke in upon Romer he was talking with his wife, a handsome young woman. He recognised the intruders and, seizing the woman, began to kiss her most affectionately.

Ward saw something glisten between Romer's lips. Seizing him by the neck the detective forced him to open his mouth and a two carat diamond dropped out. Romer had been trying to transfer the stone to his wife's mouth.

It is alleged this jewel is part of a liquor store robbery.

THE ANGLE OF REPOSE.

Depends Wholly on the Friction of the Materials In Contact.

The angle of repose is a well known term in the science of mechanics, but, besides being used in purely theoretical problems, is taken into account by railroad and other engineers. Suppose that we take a brick and lay it on a board and then gradually raise one end of the board. There will be a certain angle reached in time where the brick will not remain at rest on the board, but will start to slide down.

This is termed the angle of repose of the brick on the board. It is at that point where the component of force due to gravity overcomes the resistance due to friction between the two surfaces. Therefore the angle depends entirely on the friction. Friction varies with the materials in contact. So the angle of repose of a brick on a pine board would be different than its angle of repose on an iron board, say.

Now for the application of this in ordinary life. When a railroad cut has to be made the sides have to be sufficiently slanting to keep the earth or clay from caving in. The same applies when a ditch is dug or when fortifications are built in time of war. The angle necessary for this is of course the angle of repose of the particular kind of material through which the cut is made as measured by itself on itself, as it contains millions of individual particles in contact. The angle in this instance is determined with utmost ease and simplicity. A pile of the material is put into an open cylinder, packed down slightly, and the cylinder is then removed. Of course the pile immediately slumps down into a mound with slanting sides, the angle of which is the one wanted. This angle is somewhat smaller than the one that would be taken by compact earth and therefore allows a good margin of safety.

There are tables got out for the engineer to refer to, but it is always wiser to make a trial for every particular condition of the soil, for there are hardly two cuts made through exactly the same kinds of material in exactly the same condition.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Patronizing.

"That man Pufferton has a very supercilious manner."

"Yes," replied Miss Cayenne. "He can't even say 'it's a pleasant day' without seeming to patronize the climate."—Washington Star.

Just a Bluff.

"How is it that the quail on your bill of fare is always struck off?"

"That's just a fancy touch," explained the beanery waiter. "We never had a quail in the joint."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

THE CAMPHOR LANGUAGE.

Used In Johore Because of a Malay Superstition.

In Johore, on the Malay peninsula, there is employed one of the strangest languages in the world, used for a most curious purpose. This tongue is called Pantang Kapor or "camphor language," and is a medium employed by natives and others engaged in gathering the product of the Malayan camphor tree, but only when they are at work.

It is a superstition of these natives that should they use the language of the district, the Malay or the aboriginal Jakun, they would be unable to obtain their camphor.

The Malay natives firmly believe that each species of tree has a spirit or guardian angel that presides over its affairs, this spirit being known by the name of Bisan. This divinity's resting place is near the trees. Then, too, the spirit of the camphor tree is held to be extremely jealous of the precious gum, so that it becomes necessary to propitiate her. Inasmuch as she would, should she learn that hunters were in quest of it, endeavor to interpose obstacles to their mission. Accordingly the natives speak in a tongue that the tree spirit may not understand. It was for this purpose that the mysterious "camphor language" was invented, and it consists of an odd mixture of Jakun and Malay words that have been curiously altered and reversed.—Harper's Weekly.

Why the Spider Was There.

When Mark Twain in his early days was editor of a Missouri paper a superstitious subscriber wrote to him saying that he had found a spider in his paper and asking him whether that was a sign of good luck or bad. The humorist wrote him this answer and printed it:

"Old subscriber—Finding a spider in your paper was neither good luck nor bad luck for you. The spider was merely looking over our paper to see which merchant is not advertising, so that he can go to that store, spin his web across the door and lead a life of undisturbed peace ever afterward."

Some Maine Names.

If the youngsters of today succeed in mastering the spelling of some of the lakes and rivers of the state they will be fitted for any task. A recent lesson given by the principal of Bar Harbor high school included the following names: Androscoggin, Umbagog, Sagadahoc, Mooselookmeguntic, Mattawamkeag, Passadumkeag, Piscataquis, Katahdin, Chesuncook, Mattamiscontis, Pemadumcook, Sourdnahunk, Sisladobsis, Baskahegan, Molesabunkemunk, Cobosseecontee, Pecomsoonahine, Meddybemps, Norridgewock and Nahmakanta. Anything ought to be possible after that.—Kennebec Journal.

SOME IMPORTANT FACTS ABOUT THE SILVER BLACK FOX INDUSTRY

The first Island ranch was started with two pairs of Anticosti Silvers, bought from a trapper for experimental purposes solely, and same proved so successful that the fox industry started to be developed.

In the year 1910 a pair of breeders could be bought for $4,000.00; in 1911 the price went up to $6,000 a pair, during 1912 a pair at $10,000 was considered high but not unusual, and at the time of writing (January 20th, 1914), live breeders can bring any price from $15,000 to $35,000, according to fecundity, and options on the unborn of next year are selling for $12,000 a pair.

About $10,000,000 is said to be invested in the fox industry on Prince Edward Island, showing a gain of over $3,000,000 inside a year.

Official returns for the present year show that the 277 fox ranches on the island contain 899 silver breeding foxes, (441 males and 458 females.) The total number of silver offsprings for 1913 was 708, and the average assessed value was $4,892.53 per fox.

The total valuation of the young silver black foxes for the current year is $3,349,449. The total number of silver foxes in the ranches for 1913 is 1602.

Pelts from ranch-bred Prince Edward Island silver black foxes have sold at the London auction sales as high as $2,628.00.

ASSETS OF THE COMPANY

The Company have TEN PAIRS of high-grade PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND Silver Black Foxes, EIGHT PAIRS are now on the ranch and two pairs of breeders under option are all eligible for registration under the select class "A" of the FOX BREEDERS' ASSOCIATION. These Foxes have been selected with special regard to parentage, and consist of the following well known strains:

Gordon, Dalton, Tuplin, Oulton, Raynor, and Champion. These names are conspicuously prominent in the Fox Industry ranches which, in 1913, paid from 45 p.c. to 900 p.c.

FUTURE POLICY

The Company expects to earn large profits from the sale of these rare black and silver foxes for breeding purposes, while each year a per centage of the production will be retained, placing the Company in a position to pay large dividends from the sale of furs alone. The object of this policy is to place the fur farming industry on a substantial commercial basis.

THE COMPANY'S RANCH

The Company owns outright a fine 211 acre farm with complete farm buildings—one of the most up-to-date ranches on the Island. It has an experienced and highly skilled keeper whose services have largely contributed to the present satisfactory condition of the business

ONLY ONE CLASS OF STOCK

There is only one class of stock fully paid and non-assessable. Every shareholder participates pro rata in all dividends paid by the Company, and the latter has no authority to issue either Preferred Stock or Bonds.

R. J. McNEILL BLACK AND SILVER FOX COMPANY, LIMITED, are engaged in business at a most opportune time and under most favorable circumstances. Take into serious consideration that our company is established and that we have the FOXES AND RANCH, and not prospective. YOU ARE ENTITLED TO SEPTEMBER, 1914, DIVIDENDS: you don't have to wait for your dividends until 1915. In 1915 another dividend will be awaiting you

REMEMBER the average cash dividend of the above companies is 175 per cent, and there is absolutely no excuse why we cannot repeat the same.

We offered for public subscription the remaining allotment of $70,000. $30,000 has already been subscribed. $40,000 remains to be sold.

NOTICE.—Should the shares of stock not be allotted, the money paid by you will be refunded by return mail.

SOME PRESS COMMENTS

"Widows" Fox Company Declares a 900 Per Cent. Dividend.

Clerks in the employ of Sinclair & Stewart, a big dry goods house at Summerside, formed a silver fox company in 1912. This Company is popularly referred to as the "Widows" Fox Company, as nearly all the stockholders are women, a dividend of 900 per cent. was their reward.

Three sisters of Alberton, P.E.I., who were employed in the States, sent their spare earnings home two years ago to be invested in the fur farming business and their profits have averaged $15,000 yearly since.

A bookkeeper in the employ of Mr. Fred L. Rogers, the Governor's son, of Alberton, invested $800 three years ago, and is now worth $45,000 directly from this source.

The Rosemount Live Stock Co., Limited, of Alberton, P. W. Turner, treasurer, has paid a dividend of 1000 per cent. this year.

Mr. Frank Hall, clerk at Holman's Limited, received $65,000 from an investment of $800 made in this business three years ago.

Seven clerks and managers in Summerside pooled $800 each in 1910 and purchased a pair of silver foxes for $5,600. The seller, feeling that he had driven a splendid bargain, cared for the pair a year. The first litter consisted seven pups. The seven owners have received $36,000 each dividends since and the pair bought for $5,600 could be sold for $35,000 to-day. Mr. Austin Scales, of St. Eleanors, is a member of this Association

MARRIAGE IN AFRICA

Native Women Are Allowed Some Choice in the Matter

Although woman in Africa is regarded as property, she has certain rights which are seldom infringed upon, and of these the most important is her right to marry whom she pleases, or, rather, to refuse the one who does not please her.

There are two reasons for this, explains a writer in The Southern Workman. First, women married against their wills have been known to commit suicide. Second, women married against their wills have murdered their unloved husband, usually strangling them when asleep. And to these reasons may be added the fear of marital unfaithfulness. So, in forcing oneself upon one of these women there is liability to a great loss—the loss of valuable property or of no less highly prized life.

The young girls are well cared for, partly that they may be comely and draw many suitors. Every girl will tell you frankly that she wishes to marry and have a good husband and children. Every father is anxious to have his daughters marry well.

To secure a wife, one must pay a dowry in cattle to the father, or, should the father be dead, to the nearest male relative. If a girl is much sought after, her father naturally asks a larger dowry. When the man has paid part of the dowry the father may give consent to a provisional marriage, and permit the couple to live together. Should the husband be too slow in paying the remainder of the dowry his wife is taken from him.

Trial marriages are common, and can be set aside by either party.

When making roly-poly sprinkle a few bread crumbs over the paste before the jam is spread. This will prevent the jam boiling out.

A cup of moderately strong tea, in which two or three slices of lemon have been infused, will frequently cure a nervous headache.

To Dissolve Sugar

When making lemonade dissolve the sugar in a little hot water. This prevents the sugar from sinking to the bottom of the pitcher, while the small quantity of hot water used will not affect the temperature of the lemonade.

HOUSECRAFT NO DISGRACE

Domestic Service as a Career For Educated Women

At the National Gas Exhibition held in London Mrs. M. A. Cloudesley Brereton read a paper on "Domestic Service as a Career for Educated Women," referring to an idea formerly current among those who were ever a mistress' keenest critics, that a lady was not a "proper lady" if she knew the proper way to do the simplest household service. "We want to get back to the old-fashioned ideas and ideals of the well-bred English gentlewoman from feudal times onwards, and to depart from the snobbish and parochial idea that to understand housecraft is to lose caste," said Mrs. Brereton. "Only those of us who are able to look far enough back can be cheered by the knowledge that this curious state of 'inverse servitude' was not always so, and certainly will not be so in the future. It is just a passing phase—a vulgar phase—and has never seriously affected the well-bred mistress. It is an ideal of the servants' hall, the middle-class 'lady,' and of the half-educated 'nouveaux riches,' generally of those, in short, who never see behind the scenes of the real gentlewoman's life, and who seem to imagine that a Queen eats and sleeps in full Court robes, and that a 'real lady' comes down to breakfast in the type of dress which she wears to open a grand bazaar. It is the ideal, or rather illusion, of the misinformed, of the artificially cultured. But it is not only backward that we should look if we desire to see what is truly a latter day tendency in its true perspective. Surely there are in every rank of society even, and perhaps especially in the highest, women who have never ceased to study and to understand the management of their households down to the smallest detail; women of wealth whose fine needlework would challenge comparison with that of the skilled expert; women of wide culture, whose culinary skill may be described almost as ancestral. This is especially true of the country-bred woman who, whatever her social position, knows not only the theory but the practice of every art which can be applied to kitchen, pantry, stillroom or buttery, sewingroom or nursery. A country-bred lady of the manor house is incapable of considering any household work menial. Nor would she consider it a work of aristocratic breeding, but rather of incompetence, to own that she could not truss a fowl, cook a joint, knit a stocking, or cut out a skirt. Neither wealth nor rank, the claims of society, neither politics nor pleasure, exonerate a woman from the first duty which the headship of a house, large or small, imposes upon her."

Don't forget that the vacuum cleaner will clean the works of the clock, the inside of the piano, beside door mats and hair mattresses. Also the pet dog can be kept clear of fleas by separating the hair and using the nozzle close to his skin.

WORMS! YES. THAT'S IT WORMS IS THE TROUBLE—

Many Suffer From Them and Do Not Know It.

Many go to an early grave on account of them and have been pronounced to have had brain fever or some other complaint.

Prof. Mulveney Comes to the Rescue

His Wonderful Remedies are saving thousands of lives.

Why not try his remedies, they are sure, certain and harmless.

Stomach worms are round like earth worms, and measure from 6 to 16 inches in length, the large ones being about the size of a lead pencil in thickness. They are white and sometimes pink in color; they infest the stomach and small intestines and sometimes great numbers are found to exist. One of my customers claim one of his children passed thirty from the use of my remedy. It does not require much thought to come to the conclusion that these worms are very dangerous, as they cause fever, convulsions, fits, etc. Many persons have died from worms and they have been known to crawl out of their mouth and nose after death. Just imagine the suffering and terrible agony a child or adult must experience with these disgusting and loathsome creatures crawling about in the stomach and bowels. There is no doubt that they are constantly taking the nourishment that should go to make a strong, healthy person. Is it any wonder that your child is cross, irritable and sickly? Adults are also restless, melancholy and miserable from the same cause and are sometimes treated for dyspepsia, nervous prostration and other complaints. My remedy is in liquid form and is an excellent remedy to build up the system, and can be taken for some time after the worms have been expelled to build up the system, which generally requires it as the stomach and bowels are generally in a weak and debilitated condition, caused by the ravages of these undesirable pests. My remedy known as Mother's Friend, is pleasant and agreeable to take and is a life-saver for children, as it not only destroys worms but strengthens and builds up the child, cures wetting the bed, convulsions and fits; destroys pin worms. The price is $1.00. My remedy known as B'Well is much better for adults, and is the greatest nerve remedy on earth. Cures all nerve troubles, cleanses the system, restores lost energy and is a life saver. B'Well is a microbe killer, also a worm killer; microbes and worms cause all kinds of disease. B'Well kills the cause, also kills bloodsuckers. Sold only by Prof. Mulveney. Write for further information free.

"STITCHES IN TIME"

Eleanor Ames Gives Some Useful Hints For the Household

The stitch in time is as applicable to matters of the house as to the wardrobe, yet many a woman who would never think of wearing a ripped glove or unmended stockings will complacently allow table linen and bed linen and curtains go to pieces for want of attention. Glass, china, bric-a-brac and furniture which needs mending should not be neglected any more than the torn gown or the krinkled sash. One frazzled bit of drapery or one crippled piece of furniture will spoil the most artistically planned home.

The plain room and the shabby room are as distinctly different as the palace and the hovel. The former may be most ideal; the latter can never be anything but uninviting.

There are many good preparations on the market for repairing china and glass pieces not hopelessly shattered. It requires care and patience to do the work, but in the case of ornaments and rare bits it repays. There is no china cement that will stand hard use and the constant washing and soaking in hot water, but one can mend china if it is worth while to preserve the broken object.

White lead made a thick paste with linseed oil will mend broken plates and platters and such articles. They should be set in upright position in a box of sand, and when the lead is applied and the pieces joined, the object should be so weighted that it will be kept under even pressure until entirely "set."

For swinging weights to place across mended objects strong cloth with the ends made into pockets and equally filled with buckshot so that balance is preserved, are the best to use. They should be left in place several days. Then the lead that shows can be removed with a file or sandpaper and the break will be hardly noticeable.

Thin china and some glass are better mended with white of egg and quicklime. Spread the stiffly beaten white of an egg on the edges of the china, dust with powdered lime and press together and fasten with rubber bands drawn tightly or string wound firmly. Two points to bear well in mind are first to have the breaks clean, dry and free from dust, and to fasten them securely after they are united.

In using the egg and lime the object should not be disturbed for at least a week. In mending a cup or bowl or any hollow ware, it is a good plan to make a mound of cloth on which it rests and fill in all the space with tissue paper. If there are cavities inside the break they are easily filled with putty, and putty on the inside of a seam will add strength. Also in the case of a broken handle which goes through, the hole should be filled with putty. Gum arabic is used successfully for mending glass.

Broken ivory may be repaired with the fish glue used by shoemakers.

There are simple breaks in furniture that the housewife can repair as well as the average man. Loosened joints should be cleaned of all old glue and pressed into place with a coating of very hot glue. If they seem to need reinforcement, a small metal hinge may be used as a brace. Or you may accomplish the same result with a strong screw. After the glue has been applied fasten the broken edges together in a vise if possible, and if there is a splintered break fill it with putty before applying the glue. When dry stain to match the rest of the wood.—Eleanor Ames.

FOX FARMING IN YUKON

Animals Dying in Captivity—Shipments to Eastern Dealers

The enthusiasm concerning fox catching and farming in Yukon has materially waned. Hundreds of foxes held in captivity have died from some unknown cause. Many of these foxes were black, and, in some cases, as high as $1,500 to $2,000 had been paid for them. One dealer who, it is said, could have sold his stock of foxes for $65,000, delayed and finally sold them for less than $25,000. One young black fox, for which $1,600 had been paid, died five days after being placed in the corral. Fully 150 young foxes, all of the red variety, held in captivity in southern Yukon, were turned out to return to their native haunts in the wilds. Previous to sickness developing among foxes in capitvity, upwards of 200 young ones had been shipped from Whitehorse alone, to fox ranches in New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island, and to dealers near Boston, Mass.

Cheaper Cuts of Meat

In these days of high priced meats, the cost of living can be materially reduced by the use of the cheaper cuts of meat which are really delicious when properly prepared. Chuck roast for instance, is excellent as a "ragout." Pound the meat well, sprinkle with flour and pound again on both sides. This makes the roast particularly tender. Sear it in a hot pot and roast with onions, bacon, bay leaf, cloves and one-quarter cup of vinegar. The sour sauce makes the dish a "piquant" accompaniment for boiled rice or potatoes.

Care of Books

When bookcases are to be closed for some time sprinkle a few drops of oil of lavender on each shelf to prevent the books from moulding.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS

A clam shell placed inside the tea kettle will prevent the formation of lime on the kettle.

After peeling onions, rub your hands with celery or parsley. It will counteract the odor.

Fish to be crisp should not be covered while cooking.

Odd bits of soap when boiled, make an excellent shampoo jelly.

To mend rubber use soft kid from an old glove and paste the patch to the gum with automobile paste. The leather adheres better to the gum than a gum patch.

When packing a hatbox into a trunk for a long journey, sew the hat to the bottom of the box.

A bit of fine mosquito netting placed under the hole in a stocking and used as a foundation for the darn is a great help.

For easy sweeping of carpets or matting, sprinkle them with cornmeal soaked in kerosene oil. There will be no dust.

Hang woollens out on the line dripping wet, without wringing them at all. If dried in this way they will not shrink.

A preserve closet should be cool and dark. If it has a glass door hang a black curtain over it. It is a good plan to wrap jars of cherries, raspberries and strawberries in paper to exclude the light.

Coffee Keeps You Awake

In drawing a comparison between coffee and tea, the results show that while the alkaloid caffeine in coffee is identical with that in tea, yet its associations in coffee are quite different. In tea infusions the alkaloid occurs chiefly as a tannate, which is a compound insoluble in the acid juices of the stomach. In coffee it occurs as an easily soluble compound. Here would appear to be the explanation of the prompt action of coffee as a restorative and stimulant, particularly when employed as an antidote to narcotic poisons. In the same way coffee probably serves to overcome to some extent the narcotic effect of alcohol, and to render a person wakeful owing to its stimulating effect upon the central nervous system.

SANOL ANTI DIABETES
for Deadly Diabetes

SANOL ANTI-DIABETES is the new Cure for this terrible affliction. It is perfectly harmless to the organic system, and contains no poisonous or injurious ingredients whatever. It never fails to effect a Cure in every case in whatever form it may present itself, provided the patient has not reached the very stages of the malady when the vital organs have become irreparably damaged.

SANOL ANTI-DIABETES has cured many people; some of the cases had reached the stage where the patient was suffering from open sores, and in other respects the disease was well advanced. We have letters from just such sufferers as these. We are able to refer inquiries to large numbers of such cases, including people whose names are widely known and who occupy prominent positions. Doctors have tried and have proven the scientific value and worth of this remedy, in fact many of the Medical Profession in Canada have been permanently cured of Diabetes through this wonderful treatment.

A news item in the Toronto Mail and Empire says that fully thirty thousand persons shook hands with Premier Borden in the year 1914, but it appears that the number that "pulled his leg" was very much less.

There is a West Virginia who was operated on by surgeons and they found her appendix on the left side instead of the right, the spleen on the right instead of the left, and the heart on the right side. We fear that if this business of tangoing and looping the loop continues the surgeons will have to make an entirely new map of the interior arrangement of the human body.

THE CANAL REPORT

The evidence laid on the table in connection with the report on the recent T.V.C. investigation shows in most cases. on the final recall of the witnesses that the facts set out in the report were acknowledged by the witnesses. There is not much room for a partisan report. It is a unique case in this respect.

THE BI-LINGUAL QUESTION

La Lumiere, of Levis, smells a plot, senses a conspiracy. After making the general statement that hell wars against the school, it says: "In Ontario a milder term is used: the abolition of the French language. If persecution could succeed in making our brothers there speak only English, in a hundred years there would be very few Catholics. When one speaks, when one speaks, when one reads a language full of Protestant ideas, when by the necessities of daily life one is literally surrounded by a Protestant majority, it will not take long to become Protestant one's self. And if one holds true, his descendants will not resist long. Contagion in the air we breathe cannot long be resisted. The fatal which our brothers wage for their French language is therefore at bottom, the eternal battle of good against evil, of God against Satan."

The News thinks that La Lumiere is about the smokiest and smelliest tallow dip in journalism. If it is really "The Light," then it is assuredly "the light of other days." If it be true that a man's religious notions can be seriously affected by the acquisition of another language, if it be true that his Creed is wholly dependent on the kind of sounds he makes with his mouth, or the kind of marks he makes with a pen, then all Creeds are vanity and vexation of spirit. But Eternal Truth is true no matter what are its symbols. A problem in Geometry may be demonstrated equally well in any language whatsoever. If the infinity of mathematics is absolute and cannot be influenced by language surely the infinity of the Credo is not less variable.

La Lumiere propagates a false hood when it declares that Ontario is endeavoring to abolish the French language. It follows the evil example of Le Temps of Ottawa which refuses to think straight on the Education question, and bows to the knee of Baa Geneat. The Government of Ontario is determined that the children of French parents shall have an opportunity of acquiring a good working knowledge of English, because of the advantage that such a knowledge will give them in earning a living. Under the old Regulations, with the classes in bi-lingual schools conducted almost entirely in French, the pupils were illiterate in both languages. They spoke colloguial French and broken English. The Department realizing the value of the home for the maintenance of French conversation provides for the teaching of good French for one hour a day, one-sixth of the time in school.

If that is persecution La Lumiere is curious in its appreciation of etymology. L'Action Sociale of Quebec is the official organ of the Archbishop of Quebec, and should have some interest in the truth. But it reprints this article of La Lumiere with the headigg: "The war against the Catholic Chorch." Uneducated absurdity is pitiable, but educated absurdity is merely tiresome.

FALLING HAIR MEANS DANDRUFF IS ACTIVE

Save your Hair! Get a 25 cent bottle of Danderine right now—also stops itching scalp.

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp: of dandruff—that awful scurf.

There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die — then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine to-night—now—any time—will surely save your hair.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance; an incomparable gloss and softness, but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A JAGUAR HUNT

British Guiana Man Tells of Struggle That Cost Him Two Dogs.

The following account of a jaguar hunt in British Guiana is contained in a letter to a friend written by Mr. C. J. B. Monypenny, of Endeavor, Demarara River, British Guiana, and appearing in The Field:

"You will, I am sure, be very sorry to hear that I have lost poor Ronald, the half-bred hound. He got killed by a large tiger (jaguar) on Saturday while I was out hunting, accompanied by an Indian and four dogs. I started from Christianburg at 6.30 a.m. to hunt maipouri (tapir), which are said to be fairly plentiful in the back country. We went further than we generally do, as I was determined to try over new ground, having had a lot of black days lately. After walking till 10 a.m. without finding fresh tracks we came out on the railway line about five miles back, where we met some coolies who are employed cutting wallaba wood. These men informed us that they were very much troubled by a large tiger which prowled around their camp at nights, and pointed out the fresh tracks where the brute had crossed the line about five o'clock that morning.

We at once took up the track, the dogs paying great attention to it. It led us up an abandoned timber path and across a creek, and then on to some high land, where the Indian could make nothing of it and the dogs seemed to lose the scene. While casting about we came across fresh signs of maipouri, and, from the excited way in which the dogs took up the trail, was sure of finding the animal. Suddenly the dogs dashed off full cry, and we, being sure they had started the maipouri, followed as fast as we could run. After running for some distance we heard the dogs giving tongue as if they had something at bay, and getting up to them we found they had stopped the tiger in a deep gully with fallen trees lying about, under one of which the brute had lain hidden and attacked the dogs.

A charge of buckshot through the shoulder at ten paces bowled him over but not before he had killed two of the dogs, poor Ronald and the brindled bitch Trial. Both were bitten through the brain. The tiger, a full-grown male, measured just under seven feet, and weighed between 160 and 170 pounds, the largest I have seen up this way. As it was a fine specimen, the Indian and I carried him as far as we could on the way home, but as it was getting late, and we were still over four miles back, we left the beast and came on to get men to assist in bringing him in. When about three miles from Christianburg, the remaining two dogs, Arawak and Comet, started hog, one of which we blocked up in a sand hole (where the dogs had brought him to bay) till we could send for him next morning.

I am convinced that the tiger had been following us, keeping out of sight, with the hope of picking up one of the dogs, and had just crossed the trail of the maipouri which the dogs were working. But for the fact of the brute bolting down into the gully I believe he would not have killed the two dogs. The hound when he took the descent must have run right on to him."

HEALTH AND FOOD

A Doctor's Idea of a Perfectly Balanced All Year Round Diet.

That every one is more or less susceptible to tubercular trouble is a matter on which all old fashioned medical authorities are agreed. They tell us that we may pass through a phase and out again without knowing it. According to Dr. T. Y. Hull in the Dietetic Gazette, there is only one thing very certain, and that is that if we keep in good health or adapt ourselves to a perfectly balanced diet the danger is slight.

He advocates a reduction of vegetable food, relying more upon butter, meat and nuts. Here of course, one has to face the increased danger of tubercular meat, itself probably a large contributory cause of consumption.

This is Dr. Hull's idea of a perfectly balanced diet, calculated to keep the average individual in perfect health all the year round. The basis for the diet is found in meat, eggs, milk, butter, bread, potatoes and fruit. It consists daily of two quarts of milk, five eggs, four ounces of beef, one and one-half ounces of butter, two ounces of nuts (pecan), four ounces of bread, three and one-half ounces of rice, three ounces each of potatoes, peas and oatmeal, one ounce sugar, one ounce raisins, one apple and one orange.

An Unfair Attack.

Pietro was working with a gang at railroad construction. He had been told to beware of rattlesnakes, but assured that they would always give the warning rattle before striking.

One hot day he was eating his noon luncheon on a pine log when he saw a big rattler coiled a few feet in front of him. He eyed the serpent and began to lift his legs over the log. He had barely got them out of the way when the snake's fangs hit the bark beneath him.

"Son of a guna!" yelled Pietro. "Why you no ringa da bell?"—Everybody's.

BALANCING SEXES

Singular, Isn't It, the Way Nature Preserves the Equilibrium?

One of the most subtle and interesting problems of life, according to the eminent statistician and student of heredity, Professor R. J. Ewart, is the numerical relationship of sex and its influence upon the body politic. The woman's rights movement is in essence a mathematical and statistical problem, according to him. There is not a general advance of woman, as some sociologists assert. There is a sudden manifestation of her power, a period of supremacy and then a decline of her status.

The explanation is statistical mainly. True, it has always been something of a puzzle why the proportion of each kind, apparently with little or no underlying reason, is produced in the right numbers. The argument that if such were not the case the particular species would not survive does not reveal to us the methods by which this object has been achieved. That some mechanism must exist by means of which within certain limits the number of males and females born is regulated is proved by the facts of history, where we have numerous examples of wars and other social upheavals where males have largely suffered, and yet within an apparently short period of time, as measured by such events, a balance has again been established.

The sex equilibrium may be compared to that of a gyroscope, where the greater the disturbance of position the greater is the force tending to reestablish its natural stand while in motion.—Current Literature.

She Had Noticed.

He was talking to the pessimistic, sharp tongued damsel.

"Have you noticed," he asked, "that, as a rule, bachelors are wealthier than married men?"

"I have," she replied.

"How do you account for it?" he inquired.

"The poor man marries and the rich one doesn't," she answered. "A man is much more disposed to divide nothing with a woman than he is to divide something, you know."

She Knew!

A Bird's Curiosity.

Professor Guy A. Bailey, a member of the faculty of the Geneseo State Normal school, relates a little incident which might be doubted were it not for the fact that he has the proof to show for the story. Mr. Bailey was on Temple hill with his camera attempting to get a picture of a horned lark. The lark evidently thought that Mr. Bailey was providing it with a bird house, as it hopped on to the camera, back into the trees and then back on the camera again. The bird repeated this performance several times, refusing to remain in the trees long enough to be snapped. Finally Mr. Bailey left the camera where he had located it, went and got another camera, and when he returned he secured a splendid picture of the bird perched on camera No. 1. Curiosity got the best of the bird, and the result was a novel picture.

8 CENTS A DAY

Workers' Pay in England When Board Was a Shilling a Week.

There was a time when a workman in England received 8 cents a day as an ordinary wage, when skilled artisans commanded 12 cents a day and when women worked in the field at such tasks as reaping straw, hoeing, planting beans and washing sheep for 2 cents a day, and a wise student of the subject has expressed the opinion that the British workman of that day was better off than he has ever been since then.

That sounds paradoxical. But the explanation is this: The workman who sold his services for 8 cents a day could buy good beef or mutton for 1½ cents a pound. Wheat cost him on the average only 18 cents a bushel. He could get board for 12 to 16 cents a week. The pay he would receive for fifteen weeks' services would suffice to purchase a supply of suitable foodstuffs, according to the standard of his time (consisting of wheat, malt and oatmeal), to maintain his family for an entire year.

Under these circumstances 8 cents a day—increased to 12 cents in harvest time—was a fair wage, and "times were good" for the average workman.—McClure's Magazine.

Character More Vital Than Eugenic Tests

By WINIFRED BLACK

Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service.

Winifred Black

AND the first eugenic bride turns out to be a bigamist.

I wonder whether they found out about that—eugenically.

I don't know how the eugenic brides and eugenic husbands feel about it, but I'd rather be married to some one with four generations of consumption for a family history than to be married to a bigamist.

That's the trouble with all this eugenic theory. How in the world is it going to do anything important for the race when the only thing that is of much real importance—character—is left completely out of the reckoning?

The healthiest and most physically perfect man I ever knew has about as much will power as an angle worm.

He doesn't like to drink, he hates the taste of whiskey, and he says champagne makes his head ache—but he drinks, just the same, to please people who ask him to drink.

He's in love with his wife, or would like to be, and he has a little boy he's fond of, and a baby daughter that he adores. But any woman who will make eyes at him owns him completely for the time being.

This man is naturally clean, naturally decent, naturally wholesome—the very sort of person you'd pick out, eugenically, to marry your dearest daughter. And he's the worst husband I know, for reasons which have absolutely nothing to do with eugenics whatsoever.

I know a girl who was the leader of the basket ball team at college. She can swim and row and ride and run.

She can dance 20 miles a night and be up at 8 o'clock in the morning looking as if she hadn't done a thing but sleep all night long on a perfectly good sleeping porch with a sweet breeze from the ocean whispering pretty dreams every minute of every hour.

Two Striking Examples

This woman is pretty and fresh colored, and she has good manners and is very intelligent, and she's driving her husband to drink and making her children wish they lived in a nice, cosey, quiet orphan asylum.

Eugenically, she's perfect.

Really, she's a born nagger, a shrew, a scold, a woman with a genius for seeing every little fault her husband has through a double-lensed telescope, and telling him about it with a megaphone.

I'd rather have a boy of mine marry a girl with a hereditary tendency to inflammatory rheumatism, or anything else on the doctor's calendar, than to be married to that girl.

The inherited disease sometimes slips a link in the chain; the bad disposition never misses a trick.

And there is such a thing as sufficient strength of character to throw off the mere tendency to almost any disease in the world.

I know two sisters born of a consumptive mother.

One of them is going into a decline this very day and hour, and the other is the picture of health.

The one who's going into the decline is a die-away-sentimental-rhapsodiser sort of person, who thinks it is interesting to be "delicate."

She won't exercise; she won't eat anything that she ought to eat, and she will eat all the things she ought not to eat; she hates fresh air, and says that a sleeping porch gives her the shivers; she reads novels and curls up over silly books of silly poetry when she ought to be out in the garden planting petunias.

Her sister is a bright, good-humored, sensible girl. She started in with a cough a couple of years ago, and she saved every dollar she could get hold of and had a sleeping porch built out of her room.

She called in a good doctor and obeyed his orders to the letter.

She ate what she ought to eat, and she let what she ought not to eat alone.

She liked to read, too, but she threw her books away and cultivated a bed of violets.

Real Eugenic Elements

Today that sister is perfectly well, and the other sister is anything but well.

It doesn't take much of a prophet or much of a student of eugenics to tell which of these girls is going to marry and be the mother of healthy, wholesome children.

Good health, a fine constitution, a liver that knows its business and does it, a heart that keeps union hours and a stomach that attends strictly to its own affairs—these are all magnificent assets in the business of life.

Splendid tools to help build what we call success out of even the sorriest material.

But I'd rather have an ounce of courage than a pound of health, and, if I had to choose between a good constitution and what the old-fashioned people called "sand," I'd choose the "sand" every day in the week.

Pluck, courage, strength of mind, determination, the will to do and not to be done—they are the sort of eugenics that count.

Now, when the examining board of physicians can tell by looking at you whether you are a man or just a mealy-mouthed mush of concessions, it will be of a good deal more practical use than it is today.

The first eugenic bride a bigamist—

What a way nature has of evening things up when we get to thinking that we know so much that it's really terrifying.

CLASSIC DANCE SYMBOLIZES LIFE

Violet Dudley

Fashion and Prudery Foes of Art, Says Dancer

By VIOLET DUDLEY

EVERY art is a gateway to the world of imagination. When we look upon a work of art we do not see the material thing, the picture or statue, but the vision in the soul of the artist, his beautiful imagining, which, from his soul entering into ours, is the work of art. So the body of the dancer is but the medium to bring to one the fulness of her vision.

One should regard the body of a dancer as but an instrument by which she endeavors to show to all her vision. Those whose imaginations are in tune or in harmony with the dancer will see the vision. Others will see only meaningless movement of the head, arms and legs.

The beauty of the human body is a myth; but like every myth it is a truth to those who understand. I mean that while it is a cant phrase among us that there is nothing more beautiful than this house we live in, we have actually proceeded so far, so long, so relentlessly—urged by those twin vices, at whose feigned opposition the demons laugh, Fashion and Prudery—in the abuse and suppression of the body, the elimination of it, artistically speaking, from our daily lives and thoughts, that its beauty to us is merely a tradition, a rumor of hearsay, not confirmed by our actual experience.

The vision of the classic dancer is the renaissance of reverence for the body, when, as the medium of a universal and varied art, it shall at once bear witness to a new imaginative era and be the symbol of a pervading joy. It is this hint that a joy once ours may yet again stir the limbs and fill the hearts of the race that gives the classic dance its strange and compelling fascination.

The term "dance" has a very different and very much more serious significance than it has when standing for even the most talented and delightful of ordinary stage dancing. The classic dance is not merely something pretty and happy, something to beguile and amuse. It is an expression of the impulse which is a dream of all beauty; it is a questioning, an aspiration, a thrill with hopes and fears, desires, joys, melancholies, the conflict of the passions of love and hate and the strange shadows of sorrow.

It will be seen at once that to run the entire gamut of human emotion no series of more or less arbitrary steps resulting from mechanical combinations could be used. Arbitrary steps or combinations may be all very well as exercises, but they never could be considered art.

Careering about on the tips of the toes or lifting the leg above the head are ugly and wrong movements. Such manoeuvering belongs to the gymnast, never to the dancer. One should remember that nature is never jumpy, and always exacts continuity between one movement and another—the ideal is that of the wave-like movement everywhere discernible in nature.

The classic dance means harking back to the days of ancient Greece when dancing vied with music and poetry. It is the perfection of grace and beauty in harmony with music. It is the interpretation of life in symbols.

Peter's Adventures in Matrimony

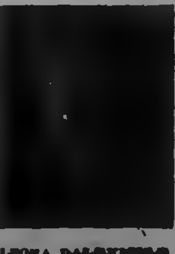
By LEONA DALRYMPLE

Author of the new novel, "Diane of the Green Van," awarded a prize of $10,000 by Ida M. Tarbell and S. S. McClure as judges.

The truth about "the girl in the case" distinguishes this new series by Miss Dalrymple. Her character studies will not appear unfamiliar to the majority of readers, who will follow the fortunes of "Peter" with growing interest.

The Tango Fever

XLII.



LEONA DALRYMPLE

THE Waverley Club looked very pretty that night. We were having an Easter dance, and the decorations were picturesque and effective. There were a lot of college boys home, too, and, in the fashion of college boys, they were having a mighty good time.

Mary, looking very pretty in her bridal gown, held herself graciously aloof from the general merriment with a becoming air of indulgent patronage.

It is very amusing to me—the pretty air of matronly dignity which a girl assumes the instant she is married. Mary, no whit older than the college boys she was patronizing, was delicious in her dowager-like primness. Already Mary different the girls are now to what they were before she was married. This, by the way, is scarcely 10 months back.

Why is it that every generation of girls, if one is to credit the sage-like utterances of married women, is just a little worse than the preceding generation? Why does the world toboggan on to inferiority, and even the food is not quite so good as it was "when I was a girl"?

"Peter," said Mary, "I honestly think it is dreadful the way the young girls of today dance those new dances. Dear me, before I was married, I almost disapproved of a waltz and a two-step, but certainly the tango and the one-step and all these dreadful dances the college boys are teaching tonight are perfectly terrible!"

"I can't for the life of me see anything very dreadful in them, Mary," I hinted mildly. "The waltz and the two-step were once considered decidedly 'not nice.' And there was a time when a girl who danced a so-called 'round dance' had a flaw in her reputation immediately, though neither you nor I remember it. I think the new dances are less [illegible], and, incidentally, much prettier."

"Peter!" she exclaimed, pouting. "I don't think I quite understand you at times. Your tastes are very [illegible]."

A little later we were presented to the mayor of our town, who had conferred the honor of his presence upon the club dance. Mary and he talked some of the new dances.

"There!" exclaimed Mary, in tones tremulous with [illegible] "just watch that long-legged boy over there—isn't it shocking? Honestly, I do think that Castle walk is dreadful—just dreadful. Who is he, anyway? I don't seem to recall his face. Must be one of the younger college boys."

"That, madam," said the mayor urbanely, as he stroked his chin, "is, I fear, my son."

Mary flushed scarlet, stammered one or two futile remarks, and I came promptly to her rescue.

The mayor laughed good-humoredly.

"Well," he said leniently, "there is a general feeling about the boys dancing those dances. Perhaps they'd better stop. My son says we're a little provincial and behind the times here. As a matter of fact, they're dancing them all over the world."

The dances were stopped.

A month later the tango fever struck our town so hard that even the youngsters on the street were executing complicated tango steps to the tunes of a hurdy-gurdy.

Mary met my eyes one night with a slight suggestion of guilt.

"Peter," she said, "there's going to be a tango class, and I—I think we'd better join. You've simply got to know the new dances if you're going to be in the swim at all."

"I think," said I maliciously, "they're dreadful—most dreadful. The mayor's son—"

"Peter," rebuked Mary, "how unreasonable you are!"

A month later at the Waverly Club the mayor's son was teaching Mary the newer steps of the tango. The older I grow the less I understand [illegible] and women.

SINGERS Must Learn Power of INTERPRETATION

By Mme. Margarete Matzenauer

Prima Donna, Chicago-Philadelphia Opera Company.

I HAVE met hundreds of young singers who have been taking lessons for [illegible]. They seem able to sing well enough in a [illegible] kind of way, but they lack what [illegible] people would call the "punch" to get their songs over.

It might be better to say they have no idea of interpretation. And when a singer lacks interpretation that singer is an absolute failure. Interpretation, if it means anything, means just this—the art of revealing perfectly the story set to music.

One may [illegible] portraying a [illegible] heroic [illegible] character [illegible] of laughter and playful badinage [illegible] opportunities for [illegible] and delicate [illegible].

Intelligent interpretation sometimes exists where no technic is found except the most rudimentary natural mode of expression. But, on the whole, interpretation is the finishing touch—the real [illegible] and stamp upon a document otherwise [illegible].

After all, it is here that personality [illegible]. You may teach a person to DARE, but you cannot make that person FEEL. You can make people SEE and THINK, but you cannot make them WINGS OF FANCY and IMAGINATION as their own. You may awaken people, but you cannot put a SOUL into a stone.

Do you want to know the secret of success in singing? It is just one word—INTERPRETATION.

"Arterial Filter" May Solve Pneumonia Problem

By Dr. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

Copyright, 1914, by L. K. Hirshberg.

DR HIRSHBERG

TRUE pneumonia is a dreadful malady. If Prof. J. J. Abel's new discovery of life-laundering the blood does not help us, pneumonia may exterminate the human race.

The race of life is not always to the strong. The big hulks of humanity are often the first to fall before the little wiry "coccus" of pneumonia.

Prof. Abel has hit upon a way to wash poisons from the living blood as it races from point to point in the living body. By connecting the jugular vein with one end of a coil of "celloidin," or mica tubes, which contain salt water, the other end empties into an artery, and all the poisons can be filtered out of the blood stream without disturbing the living individual.

Perhaps some day the poisons of the pneumonia germs may be thus laundered by the Abel method. But, meantime, if you fall ill of pneumonia, you have with the best doctors and the most skilled treatment only one chance in three of surviving to tell of your experience.

Moreover, once you have thus been infected you may have pneumonia two, three or more times. Unlike yellow fever and smallpox, pneumonia does not leave you immune.

None is Immune.

Every one is liable to "take" pneumonia. No matter who you are, how well you may be, or how hard it is for you to realise yourself falling sick, you are apt to be infected with the pneumonia microbe or "coccus."

Everybody harbors the pneumonia germs in his spittle. Your saliva injected into a white mouse or a canary bird kills it within 24 hours of a pneumonia infection.

Two-thirds of you who carry the "coccus" will be the sources of some old man's, some infant's or some other person's pneumonia.

Chickens do not contract anthrax or pneumonia ordinarily. Yet Louis Pasteur and other experimenters since have been able to give fowl these fatal affections by standing their feet in cold water and then administering the bacteria. Then they soon die of the ailments.

Once I was bitterly denounced for performing this experiment in order to discover an anti-serum, or vaccine, to reduce the pneumonia disasters. These same anti-vivisectionists had aigrettes on their hats, and they wore whale bone vests and watch-fobs made from madly tortured and harpooned whales.

Pains in the thorax or chest do not spell pneumonia. Usually a pain in the torso makes you eat hasty pudding and whine a "pneumonia" through the doctor's telephone.

Fresh Air Necessary.

Pneumonia really comes with a rush. A shaking chill, which vibrates your body like a Culebra landslide, or a South American earthquake, makes you feel like the air waves over a heat radiator. This is no chilly feeling; it is a quivering shake of a half-hour's length.

Then comes a raging fever, a King Solomon headache, a cough like a foghorn and a reddish-brown sputum like the juice of stewed prunes.

Anti-serums are now used in the Rockefeller Institute with some hope of future success. There are other "antitoxins" of pneumonia and other "pneumococcus vaccines," but only those of Dr. Rufus I. Cole are tested and vouched for at the Rockefeller Institute.

Almost any sort of a sore throat, a bronchitis or influenza can become pneumonia. Furthermore those who drink even a comfortable glass of liquor are very susceptible to its grip.

To the doctor and the nurse falls the worry over pneumonia. The non-medical folk never seem to arouse themselves to its depredation.

While fresh air is absolutely necessary to the treatment of the choked and blocked lungs in this terrible distemper, fresh icy air below 50 deg. makes the pneumonia spread to the sound section of the lungs.

Answers to Health Questions

C. F. R., Indianapolis, Ind.—Thank you heartily for your wholesome, friendly encouragement.

Very soon I shall write a few more articles for you along the same lines with all of the latest facts. Please send me any suggestions to this effect you may have.

MRS. J. G., Toronto, Can.—My finger nails break off and are very brittle. What shall I do?

Wear woollen mitts at night into which goose grease and animal oils are put. During the day massage your nails with fish oils and cocoa butter every two or three hours. Keep this up for a long while.

Rhymes with a Reason

The Pullman Porter

THE Pullman Porter is a pest.
For in the morning, when you've dressed,
And filled with cramps and blues
You get down on your knees and try
Beneath your berth to stick an eye,
You find he's copped your shoes.

✦ ✦ ✦

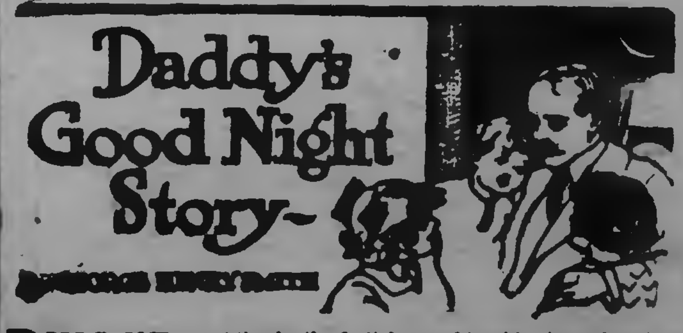
He brings them with a manner grand
Then waits until you see his hand
And do what you had oughter;
Oh! if upon a battlefield
You meet him do not let him yield,
Please, give that guy no quarter!

The Taxicabby

THE Taxicabby is polite,
He looks as if he'd treat you right
Yet, be it understood,
The fresh air of the street is fine—
But his fresh air is superfine,
And both will do you good.

✦ ✦ ✦

For when you're ready to alight
His grin is gone; he's there to fight,
And, if you call him "Cheater!"
Because you think it's meet for you,
Look out! he's only meat for two;
So pay up to the meter!



Daddy's Good Night Story—

BRER RABBIT was sitting by the firelight smoking his pipe and reading the "Woodland News," when he suddenly jumped out of his chair and exclaimed: "Mother! Mother! look here what that rascal Billy has done!"

Mrs. Rabbit dropped a plate in her excitement as she ran to Brer Rabbit's side.

"What on earth is the matter?" she asked.

"That boy Billy has been writing to the Editor of the Woodland News," said Brer Rabbit. "Here is his letter."

Then Brer Rabbit read:

"Dear Editor: I am a Little Rabbit and my brother and I are writing stories. We want to know if you will put in your paper what we write.

"(Signed) BILLY RABBIT."

"Now, what do you think of that for nerve?" continued Brer Rabbit.

"I think I'll spank them both when they come home," said Brer Rabbit.

Just then Jack and Billy Rabbit came into the room.

"Come here, you scamps," shouted Brer Rabbit. "What do you mean by writing to an Editor about your stories, Billy?"

"How did you know I wrote a letter to an Editor?" asked Billy.

"Here it is in the paper," said Brer Rabbit.

"Let's see it!" exclaimed the Rabbit boys at once.

"You just wanted me to spank you both before you go to bed," said Brer Rabbit.

"The Editor wrote that he would be glad to get letters from good boys like us," said Billy. "Here is the letter."

Brer Rabbit took the letter, and when he read it he smiled.

"Well, of all things! The Editor says you are the children of one of the most prominent citizens in Woodland. Ahem! Ahem!

"I guess I won't spank you t'night. Here are a couple of kisses instead."

Mrs. Rabbit looked on and then kissed both her boys.

THE GHOST OF THE PAST.

It Rose Up to Taunt and Haunt the Poor Human Derelict.

The small crowd of grimy loafers lounged weakly in the little circle of light from the fitfully flickering lamp above the door. Two or three of them were leaning against a many colored poster, almost unreadable in the gloom. The door swung open—it was never shut—and a dapper figure in a red jersey and peaked cap of the Salvation Army appeared with a cheery greeting:

"Come in, men; come in. Fine treat tonight; splendid gramophone; all the latest from the music halls. Come on in."

One by one they went. Comic songs and Sousa marches rang nasally through the hall. Then the cheery voice was heard again:

"Now for some grand opera, gentlemen."

One living derelict who had subsided silently after his arrival from the public house roused himself at the words.

"Opera—grand opera," he muttered hazily.

The familiar whir of the gramophone began again, and then a voice from the aluminium horn announced, "Song from 'I Pagliacci,' by Pompey Carlyle, the famous tenor of grand opera." As the name of the singer was announced the ragged waif stiffened upright where he sat. Then as the first notes rang out his face held all the agony of a lost soul. Straight to his feet he bounded; then, with a cry, "Stop it, for heaven's sake stop it!" and with grimy hands pressed over his face he rushed from the hall, followed by a storm of abuse.

"What's the matter?" queried the commissioner.

"Queer bloke," answered another waif, still gasping from an attack of coughing which had torn his frail body. "Sings outside pubs. Used to be in hopera 'imself. Booze done it."

"What do you call him?"

"Pompey Carlyle."

"Heavens, it was his own song he heard!"—London Tit-Bits.

Maine's First Hotel.

Maine's first public hotel was built in 1654. Waddock's Ordinary, erected near Old Orchard, according to a Saco historian, is entitled to the distinction. The old tavern was erected by Henry Waddock and stood almost within sight of the large summer hostelries which fringe the crescent shaped beach at Old Orchard.—Kennebec Journal.

The Doctor's Boy.

"Mamma, the doctor's boy next door made faces at me."

"And what did you do?"

"I stuck out my tongue at him."

"Dear, dear! And what did the bad boy do then?"

"He just said it was badly coated."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.
